MR. EDWARD MILLS (Baritone)

(E. M. Chesham).

For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., 24, Morval Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR M. SHORE, R.C.M. (Baritone)

(Pupil of Signori Alberto Visetti and Franco Novara).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Has vacancies for pupils for Singing and Violin. 13, Hammersmith Road, Kensington, W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone).

For terms and open dates, address, Oakenshaw, Bradford.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. The Poplars, Dartford.

MR. FERGUS ASQUITH (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral, Wells.

"Mr. Asquith's voice was not sufficiently powerful for the hall, but his delivery of 'Honour and Arms' was a conscientious effort, marked by cultivated vocalisation, and in this and other difficult passages assigned to him he showed sound musical training."—Bristol Mercury.

MR. S. J. BISHOP (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, the Cathedral, Southwell.

MR. J. BROWNING (Principal Bass),

Parish Church, Leeds. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

MR. W. H. BURGON (Bass).

Permanent address, 8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, W.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Bass),

Teacher of Singing, 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. A. FOWLES (Bass).

(Pupil of M. Duvernoy, Paris Conservatoire.)

For Oratorios, Operatic Selections, and Ballad Concerts, address, London and Provincial Musical Agency, 447, West Strand, W.C. Engaged: "Golden Legend," "Mors et Vita," and "Ruth."

MR. R. HILCOTT (Solo Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 13, Marchmont Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass),

Cheapside, Workshop, Notts, or H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent Street, W.

MR. FRANK MAY (Bass)

And the London Oratorio and Ballad Union, under his direction.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 14, Hanover Street, W. Telegraphic address, "Iolas, London."

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass),

20, Bishop's Road, W.; or Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street, W.

MR. F. G. RICHARDSON (Bass).

For press opinions, &c., 12, Forest Grove, Southey St., Nottingham.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass),

51, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano). Engaged: September 29 and 30, Lincoln; October 2, Lees, Miscellaneous; 4, Lincoln, "Woman of Samaria"; November 1, Alexandria, Miscellaneous; 7, Retford, Miscellaneous; 8, Glasgow Exhibition; 28, Bury, "Hereward"; December 22, Uppermill, "Messiah." Address, Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire; or Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano) is now booking Engagements for Concerts, &c., for the ensuing season. Address, Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire, and Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MADAME CLARA GARDINER (Soprano), pupil of the late J. B. Welch, Esq., desires all communications to be addressed to 16, Burns Street, Nottingham.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano) is now booking engagements for the coming season. Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS ALMA HALLOWELL (Soprano), Medalist R.A.M., pupil of Signor Manuel Garcia, and Miss FLORENCE HALLOWELL (Contralto), can accept Engagements, Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Miscellaneous Concerts. Address, Barkisland, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Address, Nottingham.

MISS JULIA JONES (Soprano) begs that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., will be addressed to 4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS EDITH MARRIOTT (Soprano) begs to notify her change of address to OAKLANDS, PARSON'S GREEN S.W., where she desires letters respecting Concert Engagements or Pupils to be addressed, or to Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.

MISS NORTON (Soprano), for Operatic, Classical, or Oratorio Concerts. Reference kindly permitted to Signor A. Randegger. For terms, &c., address, Whitby House, Eccleshill, Bradford, Yorks.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed 44, Alexandra Road, London, N.W., or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MASTER CHARLES STEWARD, for Church Festivals, Concerts, &c. For terms and vacant dates, apply to Mr. Clement Colman, Dunster House, Mincing Lane, London, E.C.

MADAME WORRELL (Soprano), Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, begs to announce that all communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., should be addressed to 69, Wiltshire Road, Brixton, S.W. Madame Worrell's Annual Evening Concert will take place in November; date and full particulars will be duly announced.

MISS CHADWICK, R.A.M. (Contralto), begs to announce her REMOVAL to 2, Coppice Street, Werneth, Oldham, late 58, Henshaw Street.

MADAME NORA LEIGH (Contralto), Pupil of Signor Caravoglia, requests that all communications respecting Engagements be addressed, care of C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT (Tenor) late principal Carl Rosa Opera, Crystal Palace (Handel Festival Orchestra), St. James's Hall, &c., &c. Engaged: September 3 to 8, Southsea (Miscellaneous); 10 and 11, Buxton; 12, Matlock; 14 and 15, Scarborough; 17 and 18, Harrogate; 19, York (Garden Scene, "Faust," &c.); 24, Southsea (Ballads); 25 and 29, Dublin (specially engaged by Mr. Mapleson for his Italian Company); October 3, Walsall (Garden Scene, "Faust," &c.); 4, Delph; 5, Scarborough (Opera); 9, Liverpool (Ballads); 24, Clonmel; 25, Birr; 26, Banagher; November 1, Aberdeen (Ballads); 3, Glasgow (Ballads); 15, Halifax Choral ("Elijah"); 17, Bury (Ballads); 22, Cheltenham ("Messiah"); 24, Cheltenham (Ballads); December 11, St. Leonard's-on-Sea ("Judith"); 12, St. Leonard's-on-Sea (Ballads); January 26, Belfast (Miscellaneous); 27, Dublin (Ballads). For Oratorio, Grand Opera, &c., &c., address, 47, Ladbroke Road, W.

MR. ARTHUR CASTINGS (Principal Tenor), Hereford Cathedral is now booking dates for the forthcoming Concert Season. A number of dates already booked. For terms, vacant dates, press criticisms, &c., address, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. EDWARD DALZELL (Tenor), Westminster Abbey requests that communications respecting Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., be addressed to C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners St., W.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Tenor), Member of the National Society of Professional Musicians. Engaged: Brigg, September 19; Market Rasen, October 3; Uttroxteter, December 13. Other engagements pending. Address, Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Scottish Tenor). "Mr. Dunn's rendering of 'Thou shalt break them' was the most finely sung piece of the whole evening." Address, 62, Berners St., W.

MR. JAMES GAWTHROP (Tenor), Gentleman of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's, begs that all communications be addressed to 34, Priory Park Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. HOLBERRY HAGYARD, of the London, Crystal Palace, Glasgow Choral Union, Birmingham Philharmonic Concerts, Norwich and Cheltenham Festivals, is open to accept ENGAGEMENTS during the coming season for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge.

MR. T. W. HANSON (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral, will sing at Bury, Bolton, Heywood, Ramsbottom, and Nottingham during October. Address, 14, Belvoir Road, Lordship Lane, Dulwich, S.E.

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor), having taken up his residence in London, is at liberty for Concerts and Oratorios. Address, Eaton Lodge, Commercial Road, Peckham, S.E.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor of St. Paul's Cathedral) begs to announce that he has returned to town from the Continent, and that he is booking engagements for the coming season for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. For vacant dates, address, Grovedale, Parson's Green, S.W.; or to St. Paul's Cathedral, London, E.C.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., be sent to his new address, 481, Manchester Road, Bradford.

MR. PERCY PALMER (Tenor) desires that all COMMUNICATIONS for ENGAGEMENTS be addressed to his residence, 7, Peterboro' Villas, Fulham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. S. THORNBOROUGH (Tenor). Répertoire: "Andromeda," "Redemption," "Elijah," "Creation," "Messiah," "Judas Maccabæus," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," "Acis and Galatea," Masses, &c. Address, 125, Montague Street, Blackburn.

MR. ROBERT GRICE (Baritone, St. Paul's Cathedral Choir) begs to announce that he is at liberty to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad and Miscellaneous Concerts, and has already booked Engagements at following places: Birmingham ("Redemption"); Kentish Town (Ballads); Twickenham (Ballads); Leicester ("Stabat Mater," &c.); Huddersfield ("Elijah"); Birmingham (Subscription Concerts); Ilkeston ("Creation"); Bradford ("Light of the World"); Bury, Lancashire ("Hereward," &c.); City ("Last Judgment"); Northampton ("Elijah"); Glasgow ("Messiah"); Brockley ("Fall of Babylon"); Highbury (Berlioz's "Faust"); Cheltenham ("Stabat Mater" and "Saul"); Birmingham (Ballads); Portsmouth (Ballads); Oxford ("Daniel"); Leicester (Ballads); &c. For references and terms, address, 8, Ringcroft Street, Holloway, N., or care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MR. LAWFORD HUXTABLE (Baritone), Pupil of Signor Alberto Randegger, is open to accept Concert and Oratorio Engagements. Address, Clarence House, 47, Haverstock Hill; or, N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. F. W. PARTRIDGE (Baritone), Associate of the Royal College of Music, can accept engagements for Oratorios and Concerts as Vocalist or Accompanist. Address, 2, St. George's Villa, Beckenham.

MR. WILLIAM RILEY (Baritone), Huddersfield, is now booking Engagements for coming season. Address as above.

MR. CHARLES ACKERMAN (Bass), of Westminster Abbey, requests that all communications respecting Engagements be addressed to 168, Warwick Street, Belgravia; or, C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH, of the Manchester and Provincial Concerts, and Solo Bass, Parish Church, Burnley, is open for Oratorios, &c. Press notices, &c., on application, 56, Curzon Street, Burnley.

MR. WALTER WELLS (Bass) is now booking dates for Engagements in Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c. Address, Sunnyside, Bush Hill Park, N.; or, 124, Gower Street, W.C.

MISS NELLIE LEVEY (Vocalist and Guitarist), having returned from the Continent, has resumed her teachings and engagements. Address, by letter, 12, Red Lion Square, Holborn.

MASTER ANDREW BEVAN (Violinist). For Concerts, Soirées, Lessons, &c., 28, Blandford Street, Sunderland. "Master Bevan surprised the audience with his brilliant performances."—Bishop Auckland Times.

HARPIST at liberty for Concerts, Oratorios, &c. H. Brooke, Theatre Royal, Manchester.

MADAME DUNBAR PERKINS (Solo Violinist), having returned to town, desires all communications to be addressed to her residence, 15, Stonor Road, West Kensington.

VIOLIN and ORGAN RECITALS of SACRED MUSIC.—MADAME DUNBAR PERKINS and Mr. FREDERICK JEWSON are filling up vacant dates for these most interesting Recitals. Address as above.

MR. FREDERICK KING at liberty for Concerts and Oratorios. Address, St. Fillans, 19, Canfield Gardens, South Hampstead, N.W.

MR. JOHN C. WARD (Organist and Conductor) has returned to town for the season. Address, The Retreat, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MR. HARPER KEARTON requests that letters respecting engagements be addressed care of C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.

MR. CHARLES FRY'S RECITALS: MER-CHANT OF VENICE (with Sullivan's Music), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS, PRECIOSA, &c. Elocution Lessons: Croydon Conservatoire (Mondays); Hampstead Conservatoire (Wednesdays). Private Lessons. Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

WALTER THOMAS BARKER, A.R.A. Music, Harpist, 49, Ebury Street, Belgravia, S.W. Open for engagements, At Homes, Receptions, Orchestral, &c.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—MR. H. MALLAM WILLIAMS is prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS as CLARINETTIST. For terms, address letters A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY begs to notify that his address is now 4, HENRY ROAD, FINSBURY PARK, N.; or, Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MR. FRANK MAY begs to announce that he is now booking engagements for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, and will be glad to receive early application from Conductors and Secretaries of Choral Societies, &c., for the same during the ensuing season. Address, Mr. Frank May, 14, Hanover Street, London, W. Telegraphic address, "Iolas, London."

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS.—MUS. DOC., OXON., MUS. D., DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and London; Cambridge Preliminary Mus. B. (including the 1st in the 1st Class two years); Oxford 1st Mus. Bac., 1888; L.R.A.M. (London), 1888; Local R.A.M., "With Honours," 1888; N.S.P.M. 1888, F.G.O. 1888, F.C.O., A.C.O., Toronto (one Doc. and 21 in 1st, 2nd, and Final Bac., several 1st Class, 1888). More than 280 Certificates, Degrees, &c., have been gained by DR. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won the GOLD MEDALS for excellence in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Plan or Design at Manchester in 1885, 1886, and 1887. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Musical Compositions by Post to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory, &c., given at own or pupil's residence, or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Organ lessons. For terms, address, Willersley House, Wellington Road, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. W. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac., Trin. Coll., Tor. Candidates successfully prepared by Post for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. 23, Gillespie Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. EDWARD BROMELL (Professor, London Academy of Music) gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally and by correspondence. Classes' Compositions revised. 16, Meynell Road, South Hackney, E.

MR. ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, &c., by Post. 9, Avington Grove, Penge, S.E.

DR. CROW, of Ripon Cathedral, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c., by Correspondence.

MR. JOHN GREIG, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (passed Exam. for Mus. Doc., Oxon., 1887), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FUGUE by CORRESPONDENCE. Coached successfully for final Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1886. Address, 7, Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

MR. ARTHUR C. HADEN (Violinist). CLASSES and PRIVATE LESSONS. Accompanying Lessons. 429, Fulham Road, S.W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations by Post. Address, Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: L.Mus. and A.Mus., T.C.L., July, 1888; F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1888; F.G.O., 1888; Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887, First, Second, and Final Examinations, with First on List in Final; and 1888; A.R.C.M., 1887; Senior Local R.A.M. and T.C.L. in Honours. Terms very moderate. Address, Cobham, Surrey.

MR. A. KENNEDY, A.R.A.M., gives PIANO-FORTE and HARMONY LESSONS at Pupils' houses. 79, King Henry's Road, N.W.

MR. HERBERT T. LEWIS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives POSTAL LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. MSS. revised. Address, Byars Road, Glasgow.

DR. M. J. MONK (Oxon), F.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, INSTRUMENTATION, &c., by post, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. 20, Marlborough Road, Banbury.

MR. HENRY PIGGOTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and other branches of the THEORY of MUSIC. Candidates prepared for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. Alton, Hants.

SIGHT-SINGING, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c.—MR. JOHN PURCELL is open to additional ENGAGEMENTS to CONDUCT CLASSES in the above. Alverstoke, Thenley Road, Camberwell.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., taught personally or by Post. Terms moderate. 6, East Chapel Street, Mayfair, W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.C.O., L.Mus., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, L.Mus., T.C.L., Organist, Parish Church, Girvan, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence, on most reasonable terms. References to past successful pupils (first-class honours) in various examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES Harmony, Counterpoint, Acoustics, &c., by Correspondence. Latest Successes: Mus. Bac., Final, Cantab., 1886; A.C.O., L.R.A.M., and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887 and 1888, First, Second, and Final, all in First Class, &c.—Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, INSTRUMENTATION, CANON, and FUGUE by Correspondence, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. Address, Dr. Wareing, 76, Bristol Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

PIANOFORTE and HARMONY LESSONS by a LADY (L.Mus. T.C.L.); also a small Class for the practice of Chamber Music. Licentiate, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANO, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT LESSONS, Personally or by Correspondence. Address, Miss Champion, A.Mus., T.C.L., 7, Weymouth Street, Portland Place, London.

ELEMENTARY HARMONY (STAINER'S Primer, BANISTER'S "Music," &c.), also COUNTERPOINT. Systematic Tuition, by Post, 1s. per Lesson. Exam. preparation. References to past and present Pupils. Address, Canto, Cobden Club, Blackburn.

UNIVERSITY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.

(THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND UNIVERSITY OF UPPER CANADA.)

The next ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS for the Degree of BACHELOR of MUSIC will be held simultaneously in TORONTO and LONDON in Easter week, 1889. Women are admissible to these Examinations.

For particulars apply to REV. E. K. KENDALL, D.C.L., Registrar for England, Southsea.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

President: E. J. HOPKINS, Mus. Doc.

Principal: EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.

LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATION, November 29, 1888.

Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.

HEDLEY CARUS, Esq., Hon. Sec., 270, Cornwall Road, W.

Telegraphic address, "Outnumber, London."

MUSIC SCHOOL.—CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL for GIRLS (Limited), 6, Upper Baker Street, Regent's Park.—Head Music Mistress, Miss Macirone, late Professor of Royal Academy of Music. Fee, three guineas per term. Children from 8 to 13 allowed to begin and continue for two guineas per term. Pupils not in the School pay an entrance fee of one guinea. The fees payable in advance. Pupils wishing to join Violin Class under Mdlle. Gabrielle Vaillant to send in their names to Miss Macirone. Classes re-open Wednesday, October 3. Pupils entering to attend for examination on Monday between 2 and 4 o'clock.

F. J. HOLLAND, Chairman.

COLLEGIATE SCHOOL, St. John's Place, Broughton Lane, Manchester.—Daughters of Organists and Choirmasters received at reduced terms, special attention being devoted to Music, Singing, and Harmony.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included), and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by MR. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C.; or at the City School of Music, 26, Knight-riding Street. During the present year pupils of Mr. Frost have obtained choir appointments at Chichester Cathedral and four London churches.

SOUTH LONDON INSTITUTE OF MUSIC,

CAMBERWELL NEW ROAD.

PRINCIPAL: MR. LEONARD C. VENABLES.

TWENTY-FIRST SEASON, 1888-89.

PRIVATE TUITION is given in all branches of MUSIC.

CLASSES are held for the following subjects:—

Singing (Tonic Sol-fa, four Grades).

" (Ordinary Notation, two Grades).

School Teachers' Music Certificate.

Voice Production and Solo Singing.

Harmony and Composition.

Violin (seven Grades).

Violoncello (three Grades).

Flute, Clarinet, Cornet, Tenor, Horn, and Euphonium.

Read and Brass Band for concerted practice of Selections, Overtures, &c.

For full particulars, see Prospectus, Post-free on application to the Secretary, Institute of Music, Camberwell New Road.

LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC (inst. 1876), Porchester Road, W.—The largest and most splendidly appointed College for Resident and Out Students in this country, standing in extensive grounds. Scholarships (resident and otherwise) are awarded at the Institution, the City or Birmingham branches, to Students competent to qualify for the various engagements undertaken for the ensuing season. Forms of appointment by addressed envelope, the Secretary. LANSDOWNE COTTELL, Director.

BIRMINGHAM BRANCH LONDON CONSERVATOIRE: Messrs. HARRISONS', 92, Colmore Row. The Director attends every Monday, 12 to 5, to receive Candidates.

MUSIC CLASSES, conducted by MR. JOHN HENKEN, meet as under at the Birkbeck Institution, Bream's Buildings, Chancery Lane. Elementary on Mondays; Advanced on Tuesdays; Choral Society on Thursdays. Introductory Lecture on October 1, at 8.30. Admission free. Classes are also held in the Theory of Music, Harmony, and Counterpoint on Fridays, and for Violin, Violoncello, Piano, Harp, Harmonium, &c. Prospectus gratis on application.

PRIVATE ORGAN PRACTICE. West-End. One minute from a District Station; five minutes from Olympia. Large Three-manual. Z. Z., Messrs. Novello, 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE, tubular pneumatic; three manuals; independent pedals; terms and specification on application. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

ORGAN PRACTICE (in the City). One shilling per hour, upon a complete instrument. Three manuals and independent pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis, 29, Minories. ORGAN and PIANO Lessons by Mrs. ELIZABETH STIRLING.

ORGAN PRACTICE and LESSONS.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depot, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

MUSIC COPIED and Drawn from the Full Score, with proper Cues for Engraving; also Songs or other Pieces Transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC neatly and accurately COPIED or TRANPOSED at sixpence per page. See testimonials. Breve, 12, Duke Street, London Bridge, S.E.

SOPRANO (Lady) and ALTO, for City Church. £5 each. B. A., 8, Brownlow Street, Holborn.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for St. Jude's, South Kensington. Liberal salary. Address, H. W. Hunt, 146, Finborough Road, S.W.

CHOIR BOYS.—A good SOPRANO BOY is REQUIRED for the surpliced choir of Christ Church, Chilton Street, Euston Road. Knowledge of music necessary. In return for services a Free Scholarship will be given at the North London Collegiate School. Apply, stating full particulars as to age, &c. (enclosing stamped directed envelope for reply), to Mr. G. S. Smith, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

TO VOCALISTS.—WANTED, a good Reader to act as NURSE. Must be able to take a leading part in anthems, glees, &c. Salary, £30 a year, paid monthly, with board, lodging, washing, and two dresses annually. Apply to the Superintendent, Durham County Asylum, Sedgfield, Ferryhill.

ALTO WANTED, for Church near West Kensington Station. Salary, £12 to £15. Address, S. O. M., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ALTO.—WANTED, a good ALTO, for St. Peter's, Great Windmill Street, Haymarket. Salary, £10. Also Tenor and Bass Volunteers. Letter only, Alfred J. Caldicott, Mus. Bac., 63, St. James's Street, S.W.

ST. PANCRAS CHURCH CHOIR.—There are VACANCIES in the above Choir for One ALTO and Two BASS VOICES. Salary from £15 to £20 per annum. Application to be made at the Church, Euston Square, on Wednesday evening, October 17, at 7.30. Testimonials to be sent previously to H. R. Rose, Esq., 3, Gordon Place, Gordon Square. Six Competitive Scholarships (free Education at the North London Collegiate School) are also open for Treble Voices between the ages of 9 and 11 years. Applications to be made at the Church on Wednesday evening, October 10, at seven o'clock.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, Vicarage Gardens, Kensington (to be opened in November).—ALTO and TENOR Voices REQUIRED. Stipend, £8 to £10. Also Volunteers. Apply to J. Maude Crament, Mus. B., Oxon., 10A, Kensington Sq., W.

TENOR and BASS (Good Readers) WANTED, for well-known West-End Church. First-rate professional training in vocal production and solo singing offered in return for services. Apply, with particulars, Conductor, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MALE VOICE WANTED, for Choir of St. Stephen's, Wandsworth. TENOR or BASS (former preferred). Would be required to play the Organ fairly well in the occasional absence of Organist and give the boys a special practice on Wednesday evenings. Apply, by letter, giving experience and remuneration required, to Doctor Murray, Meadowside, Putney.

CITY CHURCH.—TENOR WANTED. Good Reader. Salary, £10. Address, Organo, 199, Isledon Road, Holloway, N.

CANTERBURY CATHEDRAL—DEPUTY LAY-CLERK.—WANTED, a BASS for the Choir of Canterbury Cathedral. A competent and otherwise suitable singer would be appointed to a permanent Lay-Clerkship on the first occurrence of a vacancy. Salary (for the present) about £75. Candidates must be communicants, under 30. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to the Rev. The Precentor, Green Court, Canterbury, on or before October 6.

TENOR (powerful).—ENGAGEMENT in a Choir (London). Old Church preferred. H. C., 274, Waterloo Road.

ORGANIST-CHOIRMASTER WANTED, St. Saviour's, Denmark Park, Champion Hill, S.E. Anglicans. Fine new Organ. Address, Vicar, stating salary, references, &c.

WANTED, ORGANIST for St. Peter's Church, Ashtabula, Ohio, U.S. Must be a good Choirmaster, communicant, and unmarried. Salary, £55. Address, Rector.

MR. W. H. TREFFRY would be glad to hear of a Gentleman who would DEPUTISE for him on Sunday afternoons on reciprocal terms. A slight knowledge of French essential. Vacancy for a Pupil on moderate terms.

VOLUNTARY ORGANIST WANTED (competent). Church one mile north of City. Fine organ, recently erected. Surplised choir; Anglican chants; congregational singing. One who would conscientiously take up the work out of love to Christ and His Church greatly desired. Apply, by letter, to the Vicar, St. Peter's, Hoxton Square, N.

WANTED, for St. John's, Downshire Hill, Hampstead, an efficient ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Services—two Sunday and one week-day. Salary, not exceeding £50. Resident preferred. Address, stating terms, &c., J. M. Gavin, Esq., 65, South Hill Park, Hampstead, N.W.

THE Organist of a Church near West Kensington Station requires a Gentleman who would act as ASSISTANT ORGANIST in return for Practice on a Three-manual Organ. One living in the neighbourhood preferred. S. O. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST, &c. (disengaged), desires immediate ENGAGEMENT near Station. W. or S.W. (Protestant church or chapel). Would deputise. Anglican service. Moderate salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGANISTSHIP WANTED (London, S.W. preferred). Address, A. C. H., 429, Fulham Road, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—APPOINTMENT, within 20 miles of London, desired by Gentleman of six years' experience. Age 25. Married. Also open to accept position of CONDUCTOR of good Choral Society. Particulars, by letter, to X., care of Mr. Horsman, 88, Burghley Road, Highgate Road, N.W.

MR. W. H. TREFFRY, Organist and Choirmaster, French Protestant Church, Bloomsbury Street, where there is no Evening Service, desires an additional ENGAGEMENT as CHOIRMASTER or as CONDUCTOR of a Musical Society. Address as above.

LADY ORGANIST.—Post as above in London or suburbs WANTED. Experienced and accustomed to full choral services. Extemporising. W. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST (voluntary if use of Organ for pupils, otherwise small salary) desires APPOINTMENT within half-an-hour north of City. Four years' experience. Could give Recitals. H., 11, Cophall Court, E.C.

AS DEPUTY ORGANIST, during October. A Gentleman with highest testimonials will act as above. South of London preferred, but not indispensable. Replies to W. H. W., Novello, Ewer & Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AS ORGANIST or ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—A RE-ENGAGEMENT WANTED, in the City or S.E. district. Six years' first-class testimonial. Please address, H. Y., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

MUS.D., Good Organist. Shortly disengaged. Highly recommended. R. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST (voluntary) REQUIRED for St. Thomas's, Portman Square. A few voluntary BASSES and TENORS are also wanted. Apply to E. R. Newton, 29, Upper Gloucester Place, N.W.

BOURNEMOUTH PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY. President, Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.—WANTED, for the performance of "The Rose of Sharon" (November 21), first OBOE, BASOON, and PRINCIPAL CELLO. Send terms to Signor La Camera, Bournemouth. N.B.—Musicians must be really good players, if not they will be discharged the evening of rehearsal.

REQUIRED, a MUSICAL LEVER DE RIDEAU (not performed before in public), of from 30 to 35 minutes' duration, and not more than four Performers. Apply to Carl Rosa, 17, Westbourne Street, Hyde Park, W.

DR. C. J. FROST is desirous of finding some CHURCH WORK for several of his ORGAN PUPILS, who have had considerable experience in the conduct of Church Music. S.E. district preferred. 88, Tyrwhitt Road, St. John's, S.E.

ORGANIST seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT in London or vicinity. Experienced. Excellent references. At present open to Deputise, also as Accompanist to Choral Society. X., 14, Medora Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

ORGANISTSHIP WANTED. Simple service. London, S.W. preferred. Address, A. C. H., 429, Fulham Road, S.W.

NO SALARY.—An Organ Student desires APPOINTMENT as ASSISTANT, any part of London, City preferred. Would assist in choir. Address, Orgel, 39, Lombard Street, City.

PIANIST, experienced, desires ENGAGEMENT for Concerts, Dances, &c. Season engagements taken. Terms moderate. C. W., 1, Great Queen Street, Westminster.

PIANIST.—A Lady desires further ENGAGEMENTS. Good Reader and Accompanist. Experienced in Tuition. E., 1, Cromwell Avenue, Highgate.

WANTED, by a Young Lady, aged 22, SITUATION as MUSIC TEACHER in a School. Good References. Address, Miss Scruton, care of Mr. J. Dossoc, Down Street, Great Driffield, Yorkshire.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—The Organist of Sevenoaks Parish Church has a VACANCY for above. Full Choral Service; three-manual organ; and every facility for a thorough musical education. Moderate terms. Address, Arthur W. Marchant, Mus. B., Oxon., F.C.O., Sandrock, Sevenoaks.

PUPIL, able to take a simple service, WANTED, by the Organist of a large West-end church. Four-manual organ. Terms to be arranged. Address, B. W. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—Mr. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, can receive a Youth as above, who would have the best advantages. Apply by letter to the Vestry, St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W.

ASSISTANT PUPIL.—Mr. F. C. GRIZELLE, Organist of Fulham Parish Church, has a VACANCY for a YOUTH as above. Crescent Villa, Fulham Park Gardens, S.W.

WANTED, in a good Private School, a thoroughly efficient MUSIC GOVERNESS. Must hold certificates from some Musical Institution of repute, and be able to prepare pupils for Examinations. Apply, stating salary required, to L. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer & Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, for First-class ANNUAL (16th) CONCERT, to be held in November or December, a party, consisting of not less than two Ladies and two Gentlemen, to provide entire (two hours) entertainment, consisting of Glees, Trios, Duets, and Solos. Terms must be reasonable. First-class Accompanist provided. This is a good opportunity for companies travelling North. For further particulars, apply to T. Waite, Lawson Street, Maryport.

WANTED, Young Lady for MUSIC WAREHOUSE, to live indoors. State age and enclose photo to Rondo, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE REPAIRER and REGULATOR.—WANTED, a skilled REPAIRER who understands both English and Foreign actions. Permanent place and good wage to a first-class hand. Apply to Paterson and Sons, 27, George Street, Edinburgh.

TO PIANOFORTE REPAIRERS, &c.—WANTED, for a provincial Town, a respectable sober MAN, accustomed to Repairs of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums. One who has had factory and provincial experience preferred; he must be a really good Mechanical Repairer in all branches of the Pianoforte and be able to tune fairly well and try over an instrument, and undertake the Management of House in the absence of Principal. Any man seeking a quiet comfortable situation, and who is willing to make himself generally useful, will find the one offered permanent and comfortable. To prevent unnecessary correspondence, the salary given is 30s. a week, with other perquisites. Address, Fabricant, Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Man (not under 21), as ASSISTANT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Able to try Pianos and Organs efficiently, and assist with sheet music and book-keeping. Address, Bruton and Co., 38, Stokes Croft, Bristol.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER. One just out of his time, who could play the Pianoforte with Quadrille Band, preferred. Address, F. J. Cheek, Music Warehouse, Taunton.

TO PIANOFORTE MAKERS.—Good PIANO WANTED. In exchange, a little girl received in good School. Great educational advantages; loving care. Mater, Messrs. Novello's.

WANTED, a thoroughly competent PIANOFORTE REPAIRER and REGULATOR. Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

WANTED, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR. Send photo and full particulars to Duck, Son & Pinker, Bath.

TUNER REQUIRED, for Manchester. A First-class steady and reliable Man, 30 to 35 years of age. Must be able to Repair and Regulate. Wages, £2 per week. State whether married or single. Apply, by letter, enclosing photo, which will be returned, Bogg and Sons, Manchester.

WANTED, an experienced TUNER and REGULATOR, for Country work. Only those who can furnish first-class testimonials as to character and ability need apply. R. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.—Respectable YOUNG MAN WANTED, to Learn PIANOFORTE TUNING and REPAIRING under personal care of practical man. Premium, £20. Address, Action, 2, Ilbert Street, W.

WANTED, a smart SHEET-MUSIC SALES-MAN, for a large and old-established MUSIC BUSINESS in the West of England. Must play Piano and Harmonium. Address, Assistant, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, ASSISTANT in MUSIC DEPARTMENT. Must have good address, thorough knowledge of catalogues, and able to take management of department. Send photo. M. U. S., Novello & Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC SALESMAN.—WANTED, a GENTLE-MAN, for large city in Lancashire, with thorough knowledge of the Sheet Music Trade, and able to try over nicely. Good references and thorough business habits indispensable. Liberal salary. Send photo and full particulars to Quaver, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—Young Man requires SITUATION as above. Can show off pianos and repair well. Address, H. S., 25, Foxberry Road, Brockley, S.E.

TUNER REQUIRES SITUATION as good all-round hand. Small work, &c. Address, Mr. W., 1, Union Terrace, Plymouth.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—Steady Young Man desires Engagement. Town and Country experience (good Tuner). Satisfactory testimonials. Address, Tuner, 211, Seymour Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

AN experienced PIANOFORTE TUNER desires a PERMANENT ENGAGEMENT. Thoroughly understands Harmoniums and American Organs. Address, F., 374, Gloucester Road, Horfield, Bristol.

WANTED, a SITUATION as Out-door TUNER, by one with factory experience and good out-door experience. For particulars, apply T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (fine) DISENGAGED. Whole or part time; 15 years' experience, steady and reliable, good address, gentlemanly appearance. First class testimonials. Tuner, 10, Filmer Road, Fulham.

WANTED, by a Young Man, SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER. Thoroughly understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Good Provincial Experience. Address, S. Bartlett, South Pole Hotel, Bath.

YOUNG LADY (27) REQUIRES SITUATION in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good Sight-reader and Pianist. Energetic. Good references. B., Fernleigh, Devonshire Place, Exeter.

A RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, by a Young Lady, in a Music Warehouse. Eighteen years' experience. Address, Nita, 131, Walton Street, Oxford.

TO MUSICAL INSTRUMENT HOUSES.—ENGAGEMENT WANTED, by a Youth (18), in a London house where musical knowledge will be of value. Can play Piano, French Horn, and other brass instruments. Knowledge of Harmony, Counterpoint, &c. References from Dulwich College. H. W. R., care of T. D. Russell, 78, Newgate Street, E.C.

SITUATION WANTED, by a Young Man (21), as SALESMAN or ASSISTANT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Five years' experience. Good knowledge of catalogues. Good Pianist, Organist, Reader of Music at Sight, fair Tuner, and will make himself generally useful. Highest references. Address, M. H. L., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC TRADE or PIANOFORTE BUSINESS.—Advertiser (aged 26) seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Five years' first-class reference in City house. Good Pianist and Reader, fair knowledge of Harmony, and used to MS. Well up in catalogues, &c. E. A., 12, Islington Green, N.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, &c., Post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing-Class Tutor, 14th edition, 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 18, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned instrument, built by FORSTER and ANDREWS, Hull. 8 stops on great; 8 on swell. Open diapason, 16 ft. on pedal organ. Full particulars of W. White, Music Warehouse, Grantham.

TWO-MANUAL ORGANS, suitable for Drawing-room, &c., similar to shown in the recent Exhibition, Manchester. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Builders to Her Majesty, Central Organ Works, Manchester, S.W.

CHURCH ORGANS.—Fine-toned, well-built, Modern Two-manual ORGANS, 15 stops, £145; 14 stops, £85. Ingram, Burnard Place, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

POWERFUL Two-manual ORGAN for SALE (CC). Condition as good as when new. Over-hanging keys, two CC reeds; 30 notes; pedals; lower notes of open diapason form. Three handsome towers in front. Further particulars, Edmund Whomes, Organist, Bexley Heath, Kent.

TO MINISTERS and Others Requiring an ORGAN.—An Organist, of 20 years' experience, would be glad to provide an Organ and take the duty of Organist. Well used to services and solo playing of all kinds. P., 2 and 4, New Inn Yard, E.C.

FOR SALE.—A first-class stock of good New Music. Cost price, over £300. Will be sold a bargain to an immediate cash purchaser. Apply to Mrs. Fitzgerald, 119, Donegall Street, Belfast.

ON SALE.—Two very good Second-hand ORGANS. 1. Two manuals, 13 stops. Price, £40. 2. One manual, 5 stops. Price, £25. Apply, Messrs. P. Conacher and Co., Springwood Works, Huddersfield.

ORGAN (new).—3 Manuals, 20 stops. Spotted metal. Exceedingly well finished. Worth £350. Reasonable offer accepted. 196, High Street, Pendleton, Manchester.

CC ORGAN for SALE or HIRE, or both. 3 Manuals, 31 stops and pedals, &c., at a very reasonable price; 3 reeds, 2 stops on pedals. Apply, G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Pooler, E.

TWO-MANUAL CHAMBER ORGAN for SALE. A great bargain. 5 stops and couplers; full compass concave pedals. Organist, 4, Fulham Park Gardens, S.W.

A BARGAIN.—PIANO, with Organ Pedal Attachment, by W. Chinnock Dyer, to be SOLD. The above, with Radiating Pedals and Organ Stool, and all complete, for £6, in Liverpool. Address, 38, Sandown Lane, Wavertree, Liverpool.

TEN GUINEAS.—The Full-compass, 7-octave PIANOFORTE has light elastic touch. Suitable for Yachts, &c.

THE NEW £10 10s. PIANOFORTE for Schools, Students, &c., will stand hard wear.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING and GENERAL AGENCY COMPANY (Limited), originators of the £10 10s. Pianofortes, 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MANDOLES and MANDOLINES, by VINACCIA and other Neapolitan makers. Pens and Strings. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W.

FOR SALE.—Full size, Four-string, Concert DOUBLE BASS. Copy STRAD. Viola shape. Dresden Exhibition. Of the finest quality—by WOLF. Apply, C. Müller, 7, Graham Road, Worthing, Sussex.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION, &c., AND FOR THE GRANTING OF CERTIFICATES AND DIPLOMAS IN MUSIC.—INST. 1872.

PRESIDENT: THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

The Inaugural Address of the Session will be delivered by the Warden (the Rev. H. G. Bonavia Hunt, Mus. D., F.R.S.E.), on Tuesday evening, October 9, at 7 p.m. Subject—"Music of the Victorian Era" (first Queen Victoria lecture). Card of invitation on application to the Secretary.

MICHAELMAS TERM COMMENCED SEPTEMBER 24.

The following is a list of Subjects and Professors: Harmony, Counterpoint, Form and Orchestration, Composition, Musical Acoustics, Pianoforte, Organ, Figured Bass Playing, Transposition, Solo Singing, the Art of Pianoforte Accompaniment, Violin, Violoncello, Double Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Harp, Horn, Orchestral Class, Musical History, Sight Singing, Choral Class, Vocal and Aural Physiology, Voice Production, Elocution, French, German, and Italian.

Professors Higgs, Hunt, Saunders, Turner, and Turpin, MM. Bambridge, Barrett, Beuthin, Bolton, Carrodus, B. Carrodus, Cole, Corder, Dornbusch, Dubrucq, Dunn, Farinelli, Charles Fry, Gibson, Goodworth, Hovelacque, Lazarus, Lockwood, Malsch, Mann, Mount, Nappi, Ogbourne, Pearce, Pinney, Radcliff, Reynolds, Semple, Stone, Szczepanowski, J. Turpin, Tyler, Visetti, Wells, Willing, Woolhouse.

There are Evening as well as Day Classes.

Prospectus and all particulars can be obtained from the Secretary.

By order of the Academical Board.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

SEASON 1888-89.

THE

BLACKBURN PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

Will give THREE CONCERTS during the coming Season.

THE GOLDEN LEGEND

By ARTHUR SULLIVAN, will be rendered

On WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 7,

With a magnificent Band of 50 Instrumentalists and a Chorus of 200 Voices.

SOLOISTS:

Madame GEORGINA BURNS,

Miss HILDA WILSON,

Mr. HENRY PIERCY,

AND

Mr. LESLIE CROTTY.

LEADER—Signor RISEGARI.

CONDUCTOR—Mr. TATTERSALL, Professor of Music (Member of Conservatoire at Cologne), Organist at St. Peter's, Blackburn.

Subscribers of One Guinea will be entitled to two Reserved Seat Tickets for each Concert, which will be forwarded by the Secretary. Non-Subscribers' Tickets: Reserved Seats, 6s.

Plan of Reserved Seats will be open to Subscribers on Wednesday morning, October 24, at 10 o'clock, at Mrs. Walmsley's, Sudell Cross Post Office, and to Non-Subscribers on Monday, November 5. Doors open at 6.30; Concert to commence at 7.30. Carriages may be ordered for 10.15.

Subscriptions may now be paid to Messrs. Cunliffes, Brooks and Co., The Old Bank; Mr. Tattersall, Professor of Music; or Mr. F. Sherwood, Hon. Sec., 20, Palmer Street, Blackburn.

BRISTOL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

MADAME ROBERT-GOODWIN

(SOPRANO).

Sings in ELIJAH, October 16, 1888.

Oratorio, Cantata, or Ballad Concerts. Arundel House, Woodfield Road, Redland, Bristol, or 44, Tressilian Road, St. John's, London, S.E.

GRESHAM HALL, Brixton.—Messrs. HANN'S CHAMBER CONCERTS (Third Series), October 31, November 21, and December 12, 1888. First Concert, October 31, programme: Quartet in A minor, Schumann; Quartet, Satz (posthumous), Schubert; Trio in D minor, Mendelssohn; piano solos.

THE MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

PRESIDENT—THE REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART.

The Musical Association was founded in 1874 for the investigation and discussion of subjects connected with the art, science, and history of Music. It is similar in its organisation to the various learned societies. The members consist of practical and theoretical musicians (professional or amateur), as well as those whose researches have been directed to the science of acoustics, the history of the art, the construction of instruments, or other kindred subjects. The meetings are held at 27, Harley Street, W., on the first Monday in each month from November to June inclusive, when papers are read and a discussion follows. At the close of each session a report is sent to the members giving a transcript of the papers and discussions.

A prospectus of the Association will be sent on application to the Assistant Secretary.

F. W. DAVENPORT, Hon. Sec.

J. PERCY BAKER, Assist. Sec.

Willersley House, Wellington Road, Old Charlton, S.E.

HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

Eleventh Season.

Conductor: Mr. G. H. BETJEMANN.

FIVE CONCERTS will be given at the Highbury Athenæum, N.

November 26, 1888.—Rossini's MOSES IN EGYPT.

December 17.—Mendelssohn's LORELEY and a Miscellaneous Programme, including Sterndale Bennett's Fourth Concerto (Pianoforte Solo, Mrs. C. J. Birch).

February 11, 1889.—Mendelssohn's SCOTCH SYMPHONY, Macfarren's MAY DAY, and a Selection from Wagner's Operas.

March 25.—Berlioz's FAUST, and

May 6.—Dudley Buck's LIGHT OF ASIA and new works by Mancinelli and Gilbert R. Betjemann.

Subscription for a numbered seat during the series, 12s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., or 5s., according to position. Subscription for executant members of the Band and Chorus, One Guinea.

Rehearsals on Monday Evenings, at the Highbury Athenæum, commencing October 1.

The Prospectus, and all other information, may be obtained of the Hon. Secretaries,

WILLIAM THORNTHWAITHE,

Highbury Hill House, N.

HENRY SCRUTON,

48, Highbury Hill, N.

FINSBURY CHORAL ASSOCIATION,

HOLLOWAY HALL.

CONDUCTOR: Mr. C. J. DALE.

PROSPECTUS FOR TENTH SEASON, 1888-89.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22.—Dr. Bridge's Cantata CALLIRHOË, composed for the recent Birmingham Festival. First time in London. Conductor, Dr. J. F. BRIDGE. Sterndale Bennett's WOMAN OF SAMARIA.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1889.—Costa's Oratorio ELI.

THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1889.—Sir John Stainer's Cantata ST. MARY MAGDALEN, under the personal direction of the Composer, and Smart's BRIDE OF DUNKERRON.

GOOD FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1889.—Handel's Oratorio THE MESSIAH. Full Professional Orchestra and Chorus of Three Hundred Performers. Leader, Mr. CARRODUS.

For Prospectus, with list of artists engaged, terms of subscription, &c., apply, by letter, to the Hon. Secretary,

MR. GILBERT HANKEY.

68, Ashley Road, Crouch Hill, N.

Just published.

SIX PIECES

FOR VIOLIN

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 37.)

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

No. 1. Gavotte.

2. Berceuse.

3. Benedictus.

No. 4. Zingaresca.

5. Saltarello.

6. Tema con Variazioni.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

OCTOBER 1, 1888.

THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE ORGAN.

By J. F. ROWBOTHAM.

To trace the organ back to the bagpipe would seem to be the very ultimate point which investigation could reach, and having carried the great instrument to so simple and homely a progenitor, further prosecution of its ancestry would be needless, since it had by then passed into another form and was merged in a humbler and minor member of the musical family. This is the method of treatment which has been employed in the principal works on the organ and its history, and would be unassailable in point of judgment and rationality were it not for the fact that the organ did not begin as a pure wind instrument at all, but had its source in quite a different quarter and from other suggestions entirely.

Up till even a late time in the Middle Ages we find two rival races of organs contending for public favour, in much the same way that steam power and manual labour contend to-day, without any obvious preference for one form over the other—these were wind-organs and water-organs. And water-organs were by so far the more ancient and long-standing of the two that half their life and growth was over before wind-organs had emerged into a separate existence from the bag-pipe's reeds and blow-bag.

Water-organs, therefore, were the form in which the instrument first saw the light; and the original idea of the water-organ was due to the ingenuity of a Greek barber, some two or three centuries before Christ. His name was Ctesibius, and he lived at Alexandria, at that time a Greek town as essentially and completely as Athens itself. He had invented the clepsydra or water-clock, which was a clock to tell the time of day, that went by water. The water was made to drop upon little wheels, and so turned them round. The motion of these wheels was communicated to a statue, which gradually rose as they went round, and pointed with a stick that it held in its hand to the hours marked on a pillar. But this clock, which answered admirably in the daytime, was plainly of no use at night, when it was dark and the hours marked on the pillar could no longer be seen. To obviate this deficiency, Ctesibius after a time invented a most successful remedy. Instead of a stick in the hands of the little statue, he placed a mimic flute to its lips; and so directed the dripping water that it should force air through the flute at the necessary times, whereby the hours were now sounded on the flute and could be heard at night-time, and the time thus known as distinctly as if the statue were pointing with its stick to the dial-plate by day.

This invention gave Ctesibius the first idea of the organ. Observing how melodious was the sound which the one flute made, he conceived the notion of multiplying the flutes and constructing thereby a strange and new musical instrument, bidding adieu to the clock and its requirements in consequence. Accordingly he devised an extraordinary novelty known as the Hydraulis or Water-flute, which consisted of a box containing numerous flutes and a large vase of water beneath it. The ends of the flutes were turned downwards towards the water, descending to within half-an-inch from the surface; and the water being set in oscillation by a wheel or paddle forced volumes of air through the flutes, and produced a wild and dulcet melody.

This invention, the hydraulis, became the rage of Alexandria and of Greece. No supper party was considered complete without it; no social gathering was deemed sufficiently provided with amusement unless the hydraulis was there to delight the ears of those present with its sweet warbling. Slaves received special lessons so as to wave the water steadily, and large sums were paid to experts who were supposed to possess the secret of the perfect motion of the fluid. Yet at the best this hydraulis or water-flute can have produced nothing more definite or distinct in the way of musical melody than an Æolian harp does when agitated by the wind. Indeed, the sound of both instruments must have been analogous. Unordered, unregulated, though no doubt sweet and dulcet euphony, must have been the characteristic of the Greek instrument as of its modern counterpart. Yet it became the fashion of the day; but was still far off from being that staid and methodical work of mechanism known as an organ.

Royal patronage was necessary to foster the idea of the solitary inventor; and it is a matter of unbounded surprise to find that the tyrant of the world was the chief patron and improver of the organ. Nero, despite his fiendish cruelty and appalling vices, was an excellent musician. He was one of the finest singers of his day; he was a profound theorist; he was a skilful player on almost every known instrument. And the water-flute or hydraulis, having lasted till his time in the chaotic condition we have described, was indebted for its first great step towards becoming an organ to his ingenuity and musical sensibility. Nero suggested the addition of slides at the bottom of the flutes, to be opened and shut at pleasure, whereby any flute could be made to speak and any compelled to silence; and by this means the sound of the instrument passed at one great bound from vague and chaotic murmur to regulated and disciplined notes—with unknown possibilities underlying the change.

To the slides were attached strings or levers, for the purpose of opening and closing them. And these latter were ultimately attached to iron keys, which the fingers might press, and by means of the mechanism open and shut the slides at pleasure.

Nero's main reason for his interest in the organ was that he might add a new instrument to the orchestras of the pantomimes, which answered in ancient Rome very much to what operas or melodramas do with us. To enhance the musical effect of these was his constant and unwearied object; and besides his improvements in the organ he is credited with the introduction of several new instruments to the theatre bands, such as the foot-castanets, the great lyres, and the silver gongs, which were made in the shape of vinegar jars. After much busy attention to the mechanism of the organ, he came to the conclusion that in its present state the tone was too soft and weak to be of any use beyond that of accompanying the voice; and, indeed, he sang to it most sweetly himself, and professed himself much pleased with the way in which it blended with the inflexions and intonations of his utterance. The problem, therefore, which he set his artificers was to strengthen the tone of the organ by whatever means their ingenuity could suggest, so that it might take its place in a full band along with the other instruments, without the risk of being overpowered as heretofore.

Nero's zeal and assiduity for the improvement of the organ was unfortunately cut short prematurely. The very next morning after his last day of careful and indefatigable attention to the requirements of the instrument, and the issuing of his orders for the desired amelioration of its construction, Rome was entered by his enemies, and he himself, within a few hours afterwards, had fallen victim to a cruel and untimely death by his own hand. It is not a little curious that the last recorded act of this tyrant on earth, before his death and overthrow, should neither be a political measure, nor a monstrous crime, nor an unheard-of vice, but a simple and single-minded effort for the advancement of music. We learn that he spent the day before his death "walking about among scores of organs, all made agreeably to his directions, testing, trying, and amending them, and by all means endeavouring to secure their perfection."

The improvements promised so rapidly in the construction of the organ by the patronage of Nero were unfortunately and necessarily postponed by the political events which followed. His artificers, however, and those who interested themselves subsequently in the same undertaking, carried out successfully the project of strengthening the sound by the introduction of a species of pumps, playing through the water, whereby a strong and steady current of air was supplied to the pipes. And when we next hear of the water-organ, after it had received the benefit of these and further improvements, the form it had taken, and in which indeed it remained under the later emperors, was as follows: There was first a large vase half full of water, which had an inverted funnel in it that was connected by a pipe with a flat box or wind-chest above. On each side of this vase were cylinders with pistons inside them, which were worked with levers from below, like pumps. These cylinders had pipes running from them into the central vase down through the water into the bell of the funnel. And there were valves at the top, hanging by movable chains. When, therefore, it was necessary to fill these cylinders with air, the lever was raised, the valve immediately descended, and through the hole the air rushed into the cylinder. But directly the lever was pumped downwards, and the air sent rushing up the cylinder by the piston, at the first puff the valve closed at the top, and the air therefore rushed through the pipe into the central vase, and down it into the bell of the funnel, for the pipe reached there. From thence, with redoubled force, owing to the weight of the funnel and the pressure of the water, it was driven up the funnel's pipe and into the wind-chest. In this the pipes were set, and their bottoms covered with slides, as we before described, which were connected with iron keys by strings or trackers. The touching of the keys caused the sound to come, "and, according as it was played, there was a varied and beautiful melody."

This was the form which the organ retained during the whole remaining centuries of the Roman Empire. So popular did the instrument gradually become, after these various improvements had developed it into a harmonious and musical utterer of sound, that among the Roman nobility in the reign of Honorius, and, indeed, long before his time, the organ became as popular and as common an inmate of every house as the pianoforte to-day is with us. The vases which held the water were made of the most precious alabaster or marble. The cylinders where the pistons worked were wrought in gold and silver, and studded with glittering gems. The water itself was scented and perfumed with rare odours, and the fragrance of sweet smells was added to the melodious euphony which passed through the pipes. The slaves who elevated and depressed the pistons were dressed in elegant and appropriate attire, and the organist himself in robes of ceremony which rivalled in their gay magnificence the costumes of the princes who attended the performance of the music.

For the purpose of being transported from house to house, as we carry harps and violoncellos, the organs were sometimes made portable. And then the vase was constructed of lighter materials, of light plaster, for instance, or even of gilded tin, and gangs of slaves were employed in carrying the delicate and fragile mechanism through the streets.

At Constantinople, the seat of the Eastern Roman Empire, the instrument was held in no less honour than in the West. The great water-organ was a constant figure in the pageants of the circus, and in all state ceremonies was an indispensable addition, as at those ceremonies in the Golden Hippodrome, when to the full and sonorous pealing of the organ the emperor rose from his throne to bless the assembled people.

The barbarism and ignorance which overspread Italy and Europe on the irruption of the Gothic invaders were plainly no atmosphere for the progress of the mechanical arts; and for some centuries to come, after the reign of Honorius, we hear nothing whatever about the organ. Its very existence is a matter of doubt, and the knowledge of its construction was probably lost along with the other arts which perished in multitudes amid the darkness which covered the face of the land. At any rate, when next we obtain tidings of it, about four hundred years later on, it appears as an unknown thing, a strange mysterious marvel for men to wonder at; and has to be re-introduced into benighted Europe from abroad, from the home of civilisation where the light of art still lingered on, undimmed by barbarian darkness—Constantinople.

It was in the reign of Charlemagne, when Europe was beginning to recover from the effects of the long night of barbarism, that ambassadors came from the Emperor of Constantinople to Aix-la-Chapelle to treat of some political alliance between Charlemagne and their master. They had not been long there when stories began to spread about the court of a mysterious musical instrument they had brought with them, made of brazen cylinders, and bull's hide bellows, and pipes which could roar as loud as thunder and yet could babble as soft as a lyre or tinkling bell. This plainly is an organ; and what is more it is an organ with stops. In order to gain the knowledge of the construction of the magical wonder, Charlemagne sent artisans into the ambassadors' apartments, bidding them pretend to employ themselves on some other labour, but all the time to examine the structure of the instrument, so as to be able to make another like it. The workmen were successful in their observations, and constructed an organ on precisely similar principles, which was placed in the Cathedral of Aix-la-Chapelle, and was, according to an old and reliable tradition, the first organ ever made in France.

Comparing this organ with the water-organ of Nero and his successors, we shall find that two great and striking improvements have been introduced during the life of the instrument at Constantinople, and in the interim of its exile from Europe for four hundred years among the Byzantine Greeks of the Eastern Empire. First, stops have been invented; and, secondly, bellows have been added to the water mechanism. From the existence of stops we must argue that one or other of the following changes have come about in the construction of the instrument:—In our account of Nero's organ, if we were right in assuming that the keys acted by means of cross-slides—that is to say, by the same mechanism which we employ for our stops to-day—then we must argue that the mechanism of pull-downs, pallets, and grooves, or an equivalent for these, had meantime been invented for the keys, and the slides appropriated for stops, as we use them at present. Or if, on the other hand, we prefer to credit Nero's organ with a similar key-action to our own, then we must admit that the slides had been the new invention. In any case, we must grant that stops had been added to the organ. And this is the first great difference between the organ of Charlemagne and the organ of ancient Rome.

The second is the addition of "bellows made of bull's hide" to the mechanism, and, at first sight, this statement would seem to imply that the days of the wind-organ had already begun, and that Charlemagne's organ was simply an instrument of that nature. But a further inspection will at once silence this conjecture. For among the other things which the workmen were told specially to observe were "two brazen cylinders," that formed an essential part in the structure of the organ. Now what purpose could two brazen cylinders answer in a wind-organ? None at all. But in a water-organ they forced the air by means of pipes through the water into the air-condenser, from which it was conveyed into the wind-chest, and are indeed the identical barrels or vases of Nero's instrument. The new invention was the substitution of bellows for the pistons and levers, which pumped the wind up the vases. In the primitive water-organ, if we remember, the wind was pumped up the vases by means of pistons, which fitted into them, and were worked by levers underneath. But in this later and improved form bellows were used in place of the pistons and levers, and blew the wind into the cylinders. Thereby, of course, the necessity of a valve at the top of the cylinders was done away with.

Whence, then, came the knowledge of bellows, and their application to organ-blowing? This application, which seems so natural a one, was curiously late in being thought of. Three hundred years had passed away since the time of Nero, and the water-organ, with its steady service of levers and pistons, was in the full tide of its popularity, when we hear of an experiment made by a stray inventor to blow an organ by means of bellows. The idea was thought so odd that it excited general ridicule. Conundrums were made about it; jokes were cracked on it. One solitary engraving of the curiosity has come down to us; and then it passed into the limbo of other oddities, and can scarcely be said to have suffered neglect—because it never commanded attention. Indeed, there is little wonder that the musical Romans should have put aside the bellows-organ as a worthless and impracticable idea; for in thinking of the bellows employed we must imagine the identical bellows, and no other, which are used at our own firesides to-day, so that we can well conceive the terrible insufficiency of power in such bellows compared with that of hydraulic pressure—and the unswerving allegiance to the latter becomes plain enough. Also let us reflect on the irritating unsteadiness of blowing, which bellows of so primitive a form can never be free of, and which was so admirably obviated by the contrivance of pistons and levers passing a continuous current of air through water. No wonder, then, that the bellows-organ was tacitly set aside as a useless oddity, and that the water-organ continued to rise in popularity as the only representative of the organ known. Yet in the quiet interim of four centuries at Constantinople the idea of the bellows must have again attracted attention, and this time more than a passing one. And in the course of this long period, doubtless after many experiments and failures, a compromise had been effected between the two forms whereby the bellows were added in a subordinate capacity to the water-organ, to blow the wind into the cylinders instead of the pistons and levers heretofore employed.

Next as to the number of pipes which these ancient organs contained, and the number of keys on the keyboard. The accounts of the Latin and Greek writers, from which we have gathered much of the above narrative, though sufficiently full and satisfactory on the other points that we have discussed, are provokingly reticent on this final question which enables us to complete our conception of the ancient organ. Yet we are not entirely devoid of information on the subject, and the intelligence has come to us by one of those freaks of history which occasionally throw light on strange matters from unexpected quarters, where other and sedater informants have made an oversight. When deliberate indoctrination fails, accident steps in to supply the deficiency. The organs of Constantinople have their exact number of pipes revealed to us by one of these bizareries, and in the following way: Optatian, a court poet of the time, wrote a poem on the organ to please the then emperor of Constantinople, who was a great lover of the instrument. Without saying a word in his poem beyond the merest platitudes about harmony, heavenly symphony, and so on, Optatian has yet contrived, by an absurd conceit, to furnish more valuable information in a short compass than all the theorists and musical writers of his day convey. He has so arranged his verse that it shall represent the actual appearance of an organ itself. His poem bears an analogy to those bright masterpieces of wit, better known to last century than to this, which arranged drinking-songs in the form of wine-glasses, and love sonnets with the type so disposed as to imitate a heart, and so on. Similarly the poem of Optatian is written in the form of an organ. The first verse is of so many letters, the second of one letter more than the first, the third of one letter more than the second, and so on, increasing by one letter each verse, so that the appearance of the lines exactly imitates the gradual rise of the front pipes of an organ, pipe after pipe. And to these he has appended shorter verses, all of the same length, which stand for keys; and one is at the bottom of each pipe. Now there are twenty-six verses in all, and twenty-six keys to match. In this way we know infallibly the compass of the ordinary organs at Constantinople in the time of Optatian.

After this prime information everything is easy. Taking a step from Constantinople to the court of Charlemagne at Aix-la-Chapelle, we can easily and reasonably assert that his organ, built after the model of that of the ambassadors, had twenty-six keys, perhaps more, but certainly not less. As to the number of its pipes—since it could "roar as loud as thunder, and yet be reduced to the softness of a lyre or tinkling bell"—if we only credit it with one stop to perform the change from loud to soft, there must have been twice twenty-six, fifty-two pipes in the organ; if with two stops, thrice twenty-six, seventy-eight; and so on.

Built, then, in this form, and after the pattern of the famous instrument at Aix-la-Chapelle, organs began to be multiplied throughout France, and from thence through Europe at large. In the shape we have described them they were a compromise between the water-organ and the wind-organ; and the latter seemed now to have effected a permanent lodgment in organ-building, and to have begun the career of triumph over the rival form, which it was eventually to oust from any partnership in the instrument at all. Yet, so conservative are men, and particularly organ-builders—if we may judge from the present instance—that the water-organ, pure and simple, was again and again returned to in the future, as if the utility of bellows was entirely out of the question. In the reign of Louis the Pious—Charlemagne's successor—we hear that the combined wind and water-organ had quite dropped out of fashion again, and nothing but water-organs were being built all over the land. The leading organ-builder of the time was named George the Venetian, and of all the numerous organs which he supplied to the churches and chapels of France, by the command of the King, not one was there which was not a water-organ of the most approved and indisputable type. This epoch was plainly one of retrogression for the art of organ-building, and similar epochs of retrogression followed at intervals afterwards. But these, like the former, were merely temporary. Little by little the water-organ dropped completely out of use. The compromise between the wind and the water-organ of Charlemagne's day supplanted it everywhere, and finally this form began to give way before the genuine wind-organ, as we understand it to-day.

It was towards the commencement of the tenth century that bellows began to appear universally as the feeder of the organ, instead of the hydraulic mechanism which had held its own so long. The unsteadiness and weakness of the bellows—the main objection in time past, and a terrible drawback even in the present case when the bellows were still the same simple household bellows which are employed to light fires to-day—this unsteadiness and weakness, then, of the blowing was counteracted by using a multitude of bellows at the same time to feed the organ, so that while one was filling another could be exhausting, and thus a constant current of air could be kept up. Or rather there were two ways to counteract the deficiencies of bellows:—The first was to use many bellows, as we have said, the second was to make the organ so small that one pair of bellows was sufficient to feed it. And both these plans were adopted. And the first tended to produce enormous organs, far larger than any water-organ ever constructed; while the second produced organs supremely diminutive. For in the first case it is plain that since the supply of wind was unlimited, now that the idea had occurred of multiplying bellows indefinitely, there was no limit also to the size of the organ. And a remarkable spirit that was passing over the architecture of this period was loudly calling large organs into requisition. For at the early part of the tenth century, the time we write of, the great Romanesque churches were beginning to cover France, England, Germany, and indeed the whole of Europe. And what could a puny organ do in the illimitable vaults of their roofs or the deserts of their aisles! Organs therefore began to grow with the churches, and immense organs were the consequence. In place of one rank of pipes to every stop, ten were now employed, so as to ring out the sound into the huge empty space of the church. Even the compass of the organs was extended far beyond the limits hitherto observed; and two players were employed to double one another in their accompaniments to the voices. And the organ itself grew in this accession to its strength, not only in its case, which it plainly must, if only to contain the multitude of additional pipes; but the very keys were made larger and broader. The compass of eight notes, which at first could be easily spanned with the thumb and little finger, could now scarcely be included by the out-stretched arms. With their fists, even, were the players compelled to strike the broad flat keys, while round the organ rows of bellows stood like casks, sometimes thirty in number, and two or more bellows-blowers to each.

But we have next to speak of the second development of the organ at this time, whereby it became dwarfed and stunted to a little thing, so small and so diminutive that it could be held in the palm of the hand. These tiny organs were plainly of no account for church purposes, and were principally in use among the wandering minstrels, who could carry them easily about with them, since they were so light and delicate in their make. And the idea of these little organs had arisen naturally in the gradual development of the instrument, out of the question of the adaptation of the bellows to the organ, which might be done, as we said, in two ways, either by multiplying and increasing the bellows to the necessity of the organ or by diminishing the organ to the capabilities of the bellows. The latter plan gave these dwarf organs as its consequence. They had but six notes, these tiny organs, and were so light, as we have mentioned, that they could be held in the palm of the hand. They had a pair of bellows at the back, which the player could work with his left arm, holding them in the fold of his elbow, while he played the keys with his right hand, supporting the instrument on the palm of his left. And they puled and piped so melodiously that every one was glad to hear them—dainty little mechanisms, artful toys, that yet would make rare harmony. They are the triflings of the Middle Ages, and many more such musical follies of mechanic might we set down here; for philosophers in their studies were not above coquetting with invention, and devising quaint oddities of music like these little Regals, for so were the tiny organs called, because they “regaled” and refreshed the ear of all who heard them, they sang so merrily.

But the mean between these dainty toys of minstrelsy and the enormous unwieldy organs of the churches was attained and preserved in the organs of the monasteries, where there was no leviathan building to call great organs into existence, and none of the gaiety and frivolity of life which charmed itself with the frolicking of the regals. The organ had, therefore, held on its normal life there, had maintained due proportions, and had, at the same time, profited by all the improvements which had been introduced from every side into its construction. It is to the monasteries of this age that we owe the perfection and early maturity of the great instrument, and in the cloisters of the eleventh century organs were already being built which, in tone and structure, differed extremely little from our own. The aim which the monks set before themselves was “to cultivate beautiful sound first and before all things.” “Let all else be sacrificed to that,” says one. “We prefer it beyond all other objects,” says another. Another monkish writer complains of the rawness and coarseness of the great organs in the churches, “but in our chapels,” he says, “everything must be melodious and sweet.” Another taxes the little regals with “vain piping and honey-sweet fooling; but with us,” he asserts, “there must be that divine solemnity of tone which befits the services of those whose lives are devoted to God.”

With such conscientious aims and high motives in their organ-building, can we wonder that the monks brought the instrument to the highest state of perfection, and in their zeal for its improvement spared no pains either by the inquisitiveness of travel or by the ingenuity of their own invention to cure the instrument of its many deficiencies, and make it worthy the service they aspired to celebrate?

It was about the beginning of the eleventh century that the monks took diligently to organ-building. Sigo, Abbot of the monastery of St. Florentius at Ligeris, began the movement, and his example soon found many imitators in the various monasteries of Europe. To show how much was effected by them and at this early period, we cannot do better than give an account of the interior of an organ-building monastery of the time, and of the organs which were built there. The complete furnishings of the organ parts were manufactured in the monastery, as was universally the custom, even down to the smelting of the metals of which the pipes were made. The metals employed for making the pipes were either lead or copper, but generally copper. The building-frame of the organ and all the interior woodwork was made of plane wood; and the structure of the instrument, as made by the monks, we have scarcely contrived in the space of nine hundred years to improve upon. There was first a frame which contained the bellows, and the wind passed from thence into the wind-chest, not, indeed, by a wind-trunk, as with us, but by a number of holes communicating with the bellows, which answered the same purpose. Above the wind-chest there was another frame containing the grooves, the upper-board, and, fitted on to this, the pipes. This was all closed in with a bottom made of plane wood, which was furnished with contrivances similar to our pallets, by which the wind might pass from the wind-chest into the grooves. Above the grooves came the upper-board, as we have said, in which the pipes were set. But instead of being made of continuous pieces, as with us, the upper-board was made of several separate pieces of wood, each groove having its separate piece above it, and in this its pipe or pipes were set. The keys acted much as in our organs—that is to say, with pull-downs passing through the wind-chest, and drawing down pallets, which allowed the wind to pass at once into the grooves. But in other respects their action was simpler, for there were no stickers or back-falls, but the key communicated direct with the pull-down, and for the purpose of working it was made to move a little outwards each time it was pressed, by which contrivance the pull-down, which was fastened to it, and ran slanting through the wind-chest up to the pallet, was drawn down a little, and so opened the pallet, which admitted the wind to the groove. Now to prevent the keys coming out too far each time they were pressed, pins were placed in them where we place our pins, so that the key came forward to such a point, and then, when the finger was lifted, it flew back again to its original position. And in this way was the mechanism of the key-action contrived. But as to how the stops acted, on this point we receive no information, though probably it was by the same cross-slides as with us. We have previously made the assumption that slides were the original action by which the keys worked in the ancient organs, and that this action was afterwards transferred to the stops, on the discovery of a new and neater key-action. The elaborate account of the key-action given above leaves no doubt that the change had been effected long ere this, and very likely, as we have surmised, in the earliest times. The keys had their names written on them by letters of the alphabet, in black on white, or sometimes, though not so often, in white on black. The bellows were still apparently of the primitive shape, though larger, and worked with long handles, much in the manner of our own. Several might be used, as we have said before, and the case was increased or diminished in size according to their requirements. Above the organ, when finished and placed in the chapel, was suspended a canopy of drapery to keep the dust out of the pipes, which might be drawn up to the roof and let down. It was always drawn up during the playing.

Such were the organs made in the monasteries during the eleventh century. And there were two sizes of them made for the purposes of the choir. There were the Positives and the Portatives. The Positive, or stationary organ, was the large organ stationed and fixed in the chapel. The Portative organ was considerably smaller, and could be easily lifted from place to place. During the practice of the choir it was the custom to place the latter in front of the Positive organ, and for the organist to sit between, playing now on one, now on the other, as he was rehearsing the singers in their parts or showing them on the Positive how the piece would sound in the service.

At this point the early history of the organ naturally ends. Later improvements seem to have contributed but little by comparison to the perfection of the instrument, and nine hundred years have scarcely been able to add one single invention of any consummate value to the arts of workmanship and design which were already known and practised in the eleventh century.

THE "LOBGESANG."

A COMPARISON OF THE ORIGINAL AND REVISED SCORES.

(Concluded from page 532.)

No. 10. Final chorus. The opening section of this number (Allegro non troppo, formerly Allegro moderato) stands now as first written, with regard to the voice and string parts. In the original score the wind instruments are very sparingly used, and for the most part double the voices, while there, as in the revised score, the strings play a succession of detached chords. Mendelssohn could have had no difficulty in discerning the "lean" effect produced, especially as the different sections of the choral voices are treated in a fragmentary manner. He saw this so clearly, indeed, that he took extraordinary measures to obviate it, not only giving sustained harmonies to the whole of the wood-wind, but also writing an organ part, and thus securing for the opening of the chorus its peculiar elevation and sublimity.

The second section (Più vivace, formerly Allegro vivace), like other movements in the work, was rewritten in notes of half the original value. Moreover, the opening choral phrases underwent important alterations in revision, as a glance at the subjoined serves to show:—

No. 1. Original.

Revised.

The orchestral interludes were also changed, but not so materially as to require particular attention. Mendelssohn was so dissatisfied with the original fugue, "Sing ye the Lord," that he re-wrote it entirely, retaining, however, a portion of both the subjects employed. As regards musical effect, there is no comparison between the old and the new in this instance; the second fugue, besides having more flowing and appropriate themes, and being wrought out in a more grandiose manner, benefiting by a larger measure of free and independent orchestration. Nevertheless, great interest attaches to the earlier effort, the vocal parts of which are transcribed below, and now, for the first time, made public—

Sing to the Lord, and ev - er praise . . His ho - ly

Sing to the Lord,

Name,

Sing to the Lord,

Sing to the Lord,

Bassi.

Cello.

The original here returns, like the revised, to the Maestoso, come prima, but with a difference. Whereas, in the printed score, the trombones give out the theme of "All that hath life and breath," and the unaccompanied male voices echo it, the MS. proceeds as follows—

Our task has now ended, for the spirit in which Mendelssohn carried out his revision of the "Lobgesang" needs no comment. We may all in his own way, take example by the stern self-criticism that alone sustained him, and to which is due the marvellous improvement effected.

JOSEPH BENNETT.

THE THREE CHOIRS.

ALL those who are interested in the annual celebration of the Three Choirs Festival know that the history of the meetings was recorded by the Rev. D. Lysons in 1812, and was continued by J. Amott, Organist of Gloucester, in 1865. A few facts have recently been emphasised which would imply that, apart from the events which have occurred subsequently to Mr. Amott's continuation, the whole history has not yet been written. The origin of the anniversary meeting of the three Choirs—Gloucester, Worcester, and Hereford—is admittedly involved in obscurity. At the recent Hereford Festival it was announced as the 165th meeting. This would give it an existence dating from 1724 inclusive. It is generally supposed that the first sermon preached in aid of the Charity for assisting the poorer clergy of the three dioceses was that delivered by Dr. Thomas Bisse, Chancellor of Hereford, in his own Cathedral, on September 7, 1726. The first collection at the Cathedral doors after the service was made at Gloucester in 1724, when Dr. Bisse was also the preacher, and from this it has been assumed that the Festival took its rise from that date. Perhaps as far as the present constitution is concerned this was the case. It is convenient to date from that time, as no appreciable records exist of previous meetings. They were not associated with the object for which they are now given, it is true, but the members of the three Choirs met alternately at the three Cathedrals, and united in the performance of the music at the services held on two successive days. This was, it is stated, for the purpose "of enjoying the pleasures of harmony." The exercise of these pleasures was continued in the evening, at some favoured tavern, where the members of the united choirs sang catches—glees were not then invented—songs, and duets of the pattern in favour at the time, under the presidency of the Organist of the Cathedral. It is not at all unlikely that one of the most earnest promoters of these meetings was Stephen Jeffries, Organist of Gloucester, 1680—1712. He was born in 1660, and was a pupil of Michael Wise. Hawkins says he was appointed in 1680 and died in 1712, but as he also gives the length of his connection with Gloucester as organist for thirty-four years, there must be "a fallacy somewhere." As William Hine succeeded to the post of organist in 1712, Jeffries could only have been connected with the Cathedral for thirty-two years. Jeffries, who composed the tune for the chimes at Gloucester, a quaint and pleasant melody, which has cheered many hearts, was an eccentric man, or what would now be called a man of character. He was in the habit of taking his ease in his inn oftentimes to a late hour of the night. "His wife drest up a fellow in a winding-sheet, with directions to meet him with a lanthorn and candle in the cloisters through which he was to pass on his way home; but that, on his attempting to terrify him, Jeffries expressed his wonder only by saying: 'I thought all you spirits had been abed before this time.'" This is the man who is traditionally said to be the promoter of the "Musick meetings." It is certain that the convivial part of the Festival would be greatly enhanced by his presence. His successor, William Hine, saw the recognised beginning of these meetings, for he was organist until 1730. The intimate association of two of the choirs out of the three, Gloucester and Hereford, may be inferred from the existence of the well-known Service of Hall and Hine, the united production of the two organists of those days. During their existence the character of the annual assemblies was changed, and outside help was obtained. It was probably to justify this innovation that Dr. Bisse selected a text for his sermon in 1726 which, at the time, was considered as an extraordinary one. It was taken from Ecclesiastes, Chap. ii. v. 8: "I gat me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts." This text, and a portion of the note in the printed copy of the sermon relative to the object of the charity, are very frequently referred to, because they are copied by Lysons in his "History of the origin and progress of the meeting of the three Choirs" Gloucester, 1812, and appear in the continuation by John Amott, in 1865. Dr. Bisse's whole note is as follows: "The purport of it (the meeting) is for the placing out the children of the poorer clergy belonging to the dioceses of Gloucester, Worcester, and Hereford, or of the members belonging to the three respective choirs. To be equally divided and disposed of by six Stewards, two for each diocese, a Clergyman and gentleman, members of the Society, and the account to be entered at the annual meeting."

"Having first proposed this Charity with success at Gloucester, 1724, and recommended it at Worcester, 1725, I thought myself obliged to promote it in this way, in the church and diocese to which I belong."

"The first collection amounted to £32, the two last to £50, a sum sufficient to place out three children annually, which has been accordingly done."

"The time of meeting is the first Tuesday in September, on Wednesday is a sermon, on Thursday, Purcell's Te Deum, performed with instruments, as are the anthems on both days. The two evenings there are public Consorts for the gentry."

This note, by itself, shows that the original purpose of the meeting was to benefit the children of the poorer clergy, as well as those of the members of the three respective Choirs.

This purpose was diverted later. The meetings had been held for many years before 1724, as is proved not only by a household book which once belonged to the family of Lysons, and which contains entries from 1718 to 1728, quoted by Dr. Rimbault in Amott's continuation of Lysons; but there is a sermon extant which was preached by Dr. Bisse, in 1720, at Hereford, which must have been known to the supporters of these meetings, as it passed through two editions. This sermon is entitled "A Rationale on Cathedral Worship or Choir Service," and it was "Preach'd in the Cathedral Church of Hereford, at the anniversary meeting of the Choirs of Worcester, Gloucester, and Hereford, September 7, 1720." It may be that Dr. Bisse, who preached sermons at successive times—namely, in 1720, 1724, 1725, 1726, and 1729, preferred to take no notice of the perversion of the original design. He may have conscientiously ignored all that may have been done to recommend the continuance of these Festivals, as tending to the great improvement in worship, and chose to think of the Festivals as having their rise when they were undertaken on behalf of the objects of charity. Certain it is, that all that could be said of previous Festivals, their object and character, is not said. There may have been anticipations of the benevolent operations of the Choir Benevolent Fund, intended for the benefit of the always underpaid members of the several Cathedral choirs. Dr. Bisse is silent concerning them. Other historians have followed his example. He, however, preached at one of the early meetings of the Choirs in 1720, and thereby showed his interest in the object of the meeting, whatever was its design. This was assumed to be for the furtherance of the practice of church singing and the promotion of harmony. Doubtless Dr. Bisse was a musician himself and took part in the evening festivities connected with the Festival. When the meetings changed their character, he still made his best endeavour to promote their interests by preaching on their behalf. His sermon already alluded to was long cherished as the initial effort on behalf of the Festival, and its statements as to dates were no doubt regarded as authoritative. Its popularity was unquestionable, for there are very few sermons—not political—even of the period, which were sufficiently sought after to justify a further issue to succeed the first. The second edition here alluded to was "Publish'd at the request of the audience. London: Printed for W. and J. Innys, at the Prince's Arms, at the West-End of St. Paul's, 1721." The text was taken from the 1 Chron. xvi. 4, 5, 6: "And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the Lord, and to record, and to thank and praise the Lord God of Israel: Asaph, the chief; and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel with psalteries and with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals; Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God."

In the course of his sermon Dr. Bisse said: "In discoursing upon this subject and present occasion I shall endeavour—i. To show the excellency of this work of praise and thanksgiving, in comparison of, tho' not exclusion of the other necessary offices of prayer, supplication, and intercession, and, therefore, that 'tis meet and right that they should make up, as they generally have, the greatest proportion of public worship. ii. I shall show the lawfulness and usefulness of musick in churches, in promoting this most blessed work of praise and thanksgiving. iii. I shall endeavour to explain and justify the particular usages of our Cathedral worship, or Choir-service, not only of singing the hymns and psalms with the organ and instruments of musick, but also of singing (according to the manner which is term'd Chaunting) the Prayers, Litany, Commandments, and the other parts of the Liturgy. Lastly, I shall beg leave to make some reflexions and exhortations suitable to the subject and present Auditory."

The whole discourse was an explanation of the meaning of the service and a justification of the use of music in its various offices. There is no mention of any charitable object associated with the meetings, but there is an allusion which shows they were no new institution, and there is a reference to the encouragement of music which they were designed to promote—"A joyful and pleasant thing it is for brethren, much more for bodies of brethren, to dwell together in unity. This anniversary testimony of your paternal concord, which shall meet with the approbation of all good men, doubt ye not but is accepted also in the sight of God, being designed to so good an end as the advancement and propagation of musick for the service of His Holy Temple, tho' the abundance of it may overflow to the contentment and solace of the Christian life. Our endowed Choirs are the acknowledged fountains of our musick, by means whereof the injunctions (2 Eliz. 49) declare that—"the said science, as well as the laudable service of it in churches hath been had in estimation and preserved in knowledge." And they will continue so, notwithstanding the great encouragement given to our theatres for that end; which chose, as it were, in opposition or contempt, to borrow from foreign theatres, not considering that those theatres borrow from their temples. But as these endowments are made for a higher end than the entertainment of men—to wit, the glory of God—so will the recompence of those among you who seriously promote be beyond what men or princes can give. God grant to us and you, that having always that end in view, we may so behave ourselves in these worldly sanctuaries, that after a short attendance in them we may be admitted into the heavenly choir, there to sing before Him that sitteth on the Throne, and the Lamb, for ever and ever." Dr. Rimbault in his notes to Amott's Continuation of Lysons, states that Dr. Bisse was not alone in his design as founder and promoter of the meetings of the three Choirs. In 1728 the Rev. Peter Stenhouse preached a sermon on the Use of Music at Gloucester, which was printed in the same year with a dedication to Mrs. Pope, and an acknowledgment "how much is owing, in respect to the meeting of the three Choirs, to the wisdom and goodness of your late excellent friend, and our kind and memorable patroness, Mrs. Bovey, who laid the foundation of the good work and during her life liberally contributed to the support of it." It was chiefly at her "cost and charges" that the members of the choirs were brought together annually, and under the rule of Jeffries that the conviviality was doubtless maintained. Through the instrumentality of Dr. Bisse the meetings assumed their present character, and have been the means of achieving a vast amount of good. Concerning the early history of the meetings much that is curious and interesting might be discovered were it worth while to pursue the subject further. Lysons did much to show what was done in the past so far as he had access to plain evidence. He did not, however, pursue the theme with all the success he might have done, or make proper deductions even from documents which were in the possession of himself or his family. Amott simply continued the story where Lysons left it, and fortunately called in the aid of Dr. Rimbault, who furnished the "copy" of both with the most valuable notes, so that his name deserves honourable place among the historians of the Festival. But neither show very conclusively the origin of the Festival, or the exact nature and purpose of the original meetings. A great many curious facts may still be gathered together by the patient antiquarian and historian, such as those which are here intimated, when the time comes to continue the record of the meetings of the three Choirs down to date and back to their beginning.

A NATIONAL MUSICAL ASSOCIATION FOR WALES.

A FEW months ago Mr. Joseph Bennett read a paper before the Cymrodorian Society on "The Possibilities of Welsh Music," and, in the course of remarks upon the better development of the musical gifts of the people across the Marches, sketched a plan for organising the resources of the entire country. We cannot do better than give his exact words:—

Let me imagine that I am appointed musical dictator of Wales—a wild supposition, involving, by the way, a very novel form of English dominion. My first act would be to call into existence a National Musical Association of Wales—a body working with the Eisteddfod, but occupying a sphere which that institution does not fill.

The National Musical Association should be composed of delegates from the twelve counties, so elected as to represent the musical public of their respective localities, and meeting annually, at the same time and place as the Eisteddfod, for the discharge of deliberative and executive functions. To that body I would entrust the fostering of musical culture throughout the country. It should collect and distribute funds in aid of local effort; make arrangements for efficient teaching, where such are necessary; and generally, without hampering the action of localities, exercise a wide supervision by means of the local representatives. It may be objected at once that this would not work. Musicians, I shall be told, are very touchy people, and the first attempt at control, or even authoritative influence, by the National Association would kindle the flame of revolt. Well, musicians are touchy, there can be no doubt about that. Sensitiveness is the badge of all their tribe, and if they were not sensitive they would not be musicians. But it does not follow that they are exactly fools, blind to their own interests, and heedless about the welfare of their art. Many an Association, such as I have hinted at, exists among classes quite as jealous of individual and local liberty, and receives loyal support in return for the benefits of union and co-operation. I put aside therefore, as a mere bug-bear, the idea of inability to carry on such an institution in music. It need hardly be pointed out that the National Musical Association of Wales would occupy a commanding position, and that its responsible, representative character would afford a guarantee of good results to those of the more wealthy classes who might be interested in, and inclined to promote, its object. Moreover, its mission would be first and chiefly to the districts which now are least able to make their position and wants known. There would, perhaps, be little need for its agency in great and thriving towns like Cardiff and Swansea, and the attention which might otherwise be absorbed there could be bestowed upon the country districts, where, often, the flame of devotion to music burns most brightly. In fancy I see it thus at work, buttressing the weak points in the edifice of Welsh music, coming as a vivifying stream into arid lands, and cheering the hearts of thousands of amateurs, who had wished for, and despaired of, a day of better things. I can, of course, only indicate in the roughest manner the constitution and functions of the Association, but among its duties should be the establishment and government of a national Academy of Music for the education, as far as possible by Welsh teachers, of gifted youth. My objection to sending the musical students of one nationality and country to be trained by the professors of another is very strong, and, I hope, founded on reasonable considerations. I object because, if there be anything in national temperament, associations, and modes of thought, you are not likely to develop it among your prospective musicians by placing them where every influence is foreign and in a certain sense destructive. Depend upon it that the music of a country must be run on the lines of its nationality in order to prosper. The French and Germans know this well; so do the Italians, the Bohemians, and the Russians whose school of music is now so rapidly coming to the front. At present Welsh students bring their national fervours and enthusiasms, their peculiarities of musical thought and expression to London, where, in many cases, I fear, the fervours and enthusiasms are stifled, and the national forms of thought and expression are replaced by certain cosmopolitan respectabilities of a conventional type. Hence they go back with a veneer over them that makes them almost unrecognisable by their proud and reverencing, but unsophisticated friends. In my capacity as musical dictator, I would certainly keep Welsh musical students at home, in close touch with the genius of their own country, breathing the atmosphere in which that genius lives; surrounded by national traditions, and pulsating with every feeling that moves their fellows. The young plant would then grow in its native soil, under its native sky, and amid conditions wholly harmonious with its life. Only when the stamp of national culture has been indelibly impressed would I encourage cosmopolitan culture, which then could do little harm.

With such an Academy established in Wales, and supported by the best native teachers, we might reasonably look for the rise of the Welsh school of composition to a higher plane than it has yet attained—or perhaps I should say, for its spread over a larger surface. There are Welsh composers, able and energetic, who remain in their own country, but work in an area restricted by the condition of things around them and the exigencies of life. The students of the future would, I trust, enter upon a richer inheritance, and be qualified by their ampler training to make of it the best use.

I have said that one duty of the National Musical Association of Wales should be the organisation of teaching power for localities where it can hardly exist without aid, and here I touch what is, perhaps, the most important question of all. The possibilities of Welsh music will scarcely begin to be realised till you can bring out of the people all there is in them, and direct it in the best way. Allow me to remind you of what has already been said with regard to the well-nigh exclusive devotion of the Welsh to vocal music, and the erroneous conclusions sometimes deduced therefrom. Unquestionably, those conclusions, however mistaken, point to a serious weakness in Welsh art—one of so grave a character that attention should anxiously be given to it at the outset of any proposed reform. I am not sufficiently acquainted, I fear, with the Welsh people to be able to say whether their neglect of instrumental music is in any measure due to indifference. Perhaps, if a better informed speaker follows me this evening we shall have an authoritative opinion on the point; but I cannot see any reason why we should expect to find indifference to a legitimate form of music on the part of a musical people. The fact, however, remains that the condition of orchestral music in Wales is very low. When the National Eisteddfod was held at Cardiff some years ago, a competent orchestra had to be brought from London at great expense. At the Merionethshire Eisteddfod in January last, even the small number of instruments required for the evening Concert was imported from Liverpool at a cost which the local fund could ill afford. Again, when the London Eisteddfod of last year offered a handsome prize for orchestral competition only one band appeared, and that was sent by the cosmopolitan town of Cardiff. Now I say that these facts indicate a very serious state of things, because no country can claim to have advanced beyond the elementary stage of musical culture so long as the whole vast field of instrumental music is neglected. Contention on this point is barely possible, and if it were offered I should be tempted to go farther and say that the measure of a nation's knowledge of, and skill in, instrumental music is the measure of its status in the art. There are special reasons why this should be, but I refrain from troubling you with them now, not anticipating that any objection will be raised to the general principle. Seeing then that instrumental music in Wales remains at a low ebb, the first question is as to the reason, the second as to the remedy.

As to the reason, I am not, as already stated, qualified to pronounce with authority, but I can offer an opinion. In my view, the cause may lie with inability to make the necessary outlay for instruments, and the difficulty of obtaining teachers as well as of paying for their instruction when found. The cost of orchestral instruments, it is true, has gone down of late, and they can now be obtained, sufficiently good in quality, for a sum which by comparison is small. Still, the figure they command is often prohibitive in the case of working men; besides, what is the good of buying an instrument with nobody at hand to show how it should be used? A man cannot teach himself the fiddle with any success for orchestral purposes, and an attempt at self-instruction on the trombone or French horn would probably lead to emphatic hints from the neighbours that exercises of such a kind are better suited for some solitary spot among the ancient mountains. If the obstacle in the way of Welsh instrumental music be want of money and organisation, rather than want of will, there is no need to despair. At any rate, the height and depth of the impediment can be measured, and no question arises of accomplishing that most difficult of all tasks—persuading a man to part with his prejudices. Well, what is to be done? Hand the matter over to my National Musical Association of Wales, which I assume to have some funds, however small, wherewith to make a beginning. And how would the Association begin? That I cannot say, because one man, with only one man's brain, is unable to anticipate the reasoning and conclusions of many brains, each perhaps wiser in the premises than his own. We are all at liberty, however, to form some sort of idea for ourselves, and I can imagine that the National Association, taking the most helpless of the districts which express a desire to be assisted, would encourage the purchase of instruments by advancing a certain proportion of their cost, to be repaid by easy instalments as the local members of the Association may deem best. The next step would be to provide teachers, one for each of the two divisions of the orchestra—strings and wind—there are plenty of men qualified to instruct amateurs on this comprehensive scale. These should be itinerant, as schoolmasters were in times of yore, and proceed from local centre to local centre throughout the district, meeting their pupils, and carrying on the good work. "Oh!" some men without faith may exclaim, "this is perfectly Utopian." Well, what if it is? Many ideas to which that term was once applied have long been ranked among the common-places of practical life. Besides, those who cry "Utopian" cannot know much about the musical enthusiasm of the Welsh people. With enthusiasm you can do anything. It is the power that moves mountains more readily than simple faith. Indeed, it has the might of fanaticism, and, before now, fanaticism has wrought miracles of achievement!

Coincident with the inception of the scheme above set forth was the proposal of a somewhat similar plan by Dr. Joseph Parry, of Swansea, though there is reason to believe that this originally contemplated action in South Wales only. Dr. Parry had taken some practical steps towards the carrying out of his idea, when the publication of Mr. Bennett's suggestion in the Welsh newspapers, and the attention it attracted, made the question a national one. So important did the matter appear that, in view of the National Eisteddfod at Wrexham, the Cymrodorian Society determined upon devoting one of its morning meetings to a discussion of the subject, which Mr. Bennett was requested to introduce. As, meanwhile, the lecture on "The Possibilities of Welsh Music" had been printed and largely circulated, Mr. Bennett's Wrexham paper (read, in his absence, by Mr. L. Davies) confined itself to a brief re-statement of the suggestions already made. These were discussed, under the presidency of Mr. D. Emlyn Evans, by a thoroughly representative gathering of Welsh musicians and others, with the result that the Cymrodorian Society was requested to appoint a committee for further consideration of the question how best the musical resources of Wales can be organised. So the matter stands at present, and there seems little reason to doubt, looking at the enthusiasm with which the subject has been taken up, that Wales will soon have a National Musical Association. The experiment cannot fail to excite curious interest, and will be closely watched by English eyes.

THE COMING SEASON.

In accordance with our usual autumnal practice, we now ask attention to the promise of the approaching winter season, as far as its extent and nature can be ascertained at the present moment. Generally speaking there is no ground for belief that the work done will be less extensive and interesting than in previous years. All the old organisations for music-making (with one exception) retain their vitality, and we have not heard of a single case in which it is proposed materially to narrow the scope of operations. So saying we, of course, take no account of opera, Italian or English. Although it is known that Mr. Carl Rosa does not come to town for a winter season, and that no Italian performances will be given by the regular impresarii, one can never tell what may happen in connection with that branch of art. Mr. Mapleson may turn up (with the blushing honours of literary authorship thick upon him) or one or more of the adventurers who try to "exploit" a living out of the lyric stage may put in an appearance. But of this we may be certain—nothing that chance managers may do in opera this winter will have much interest or value

Indeed, interest and value are qualities almost divorced from opera in England at the present time, and we are not sure that the "Mapleson Memoirs" will do much to stimulate respect on its behalf. A more lamentable and humiliating story has never been told in connection with art, and the impulse of the reader on closing the book is to exclaim: "Talk of reforming the lyric stage! the best thing is to reform it away altogether."

Both on the principle of seniores priores, and because they come first into the field, we may start with the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, which begin their thirty-third series on the 13th inst. A prospectus has been issued containing the usual sketch of the managers' intentions, and giving, also, the programmes of the first half (ten Concerts) of the season. These reveal no change of policy. Eclecticism is still the motto of the enterprise, and a good band and chorus, with competent soloists, remain the means trusted to for executive success. The following works will be presented in the course of the season:—The "Hymn of Praise," Schubert's Psalm 23, Sullivan's "Golden Legend," Dr. Parry's Birmingham Oratorio "Judith," Hamish MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter," and the "Faust" of Berlioz. There is no absolute novelty in the foregoing list; but a goodly supply appears in the catalogue of orchestral works. A "Festal" Symphony by Henry Gadsby will be heard for the first time on November 3, and a new "Benedictus" for violins, with "wind" accompaniment, by Dr. Mackenzie, on the 27th inst. J. F. Barnett supplies an Offertoire for the organ; and the posthumous works of Schubert furnish five German Dances for strings which have never been played in public. Among the compositions marked "First time in England" are a Spanish Rhapsody, by Chabrier; a Symphony in E flat, by Goldmark; a Fantasia for violin and orchestra, by Ondricek; a "Cortège-Fantastique," by Moszkowski, and two violin solos, by Wormser. In addition to the above, certain other works will be added to the Crystal Palace repertory. These include a Concerto for Violin (Godard), an Overture, "In Autumn" (Grieg); an Overture to "Twelfth Night" (Mackenzie), and an Overture, "The dowie Dens o' Yarrow" (MacCunn). The Overtures have all been recently heard; Grieg's at the Birmingham Festival, Mackenzie's at the Richter Concerts, and MacCunn's at a Concert given in Mr. John Pettie's studio. Even this is not all, since the prospectus, referring to the second half of the season, promises new works by H. MacCunn, E. Prout, J. F. Bridge, "and other composers." We are entitled, therefore, to anticipate some very interesting doings at the Crystal Palace. It is almost unnecessary to add that the best available solo performers are engaged, or that the band and chorus will be at least as efficient as in former years. Mr. August Manns resumes the post he knows so well, and him we may with confidence thank beforehand for excellent performances of the chosen works. Amateurs will rejoice with us in the continued life and enterprise of the famous Saturday Concerts. Music in England can ill afford to lose them, but their existence, of course, depends upon the public, whose liberal patronage, we trust, will not be withheld.

As the director of the Popular Concerts never issues a prospectus with reference to the works he intends performing, there is nothing now to be said on that subject. Presumably the new season will differ little from its many predecessors. Mr. Chappell will draw the vast mass of material for his programmes from the extraordinary repertory compiled in the course of more than thirty years. He could not easily do otherwise, since the catalogue of the Popular Concerts includes almost everything of classical pretensions, and nearly all the more representative works of modern composers. Moreover, the director's policy appears to satisfy his public. It should not be forgotten that Mr. Chappell has, during more than one season, plied his patrons with compositions of the modern school. They do not seem to have thanked him for it, and we must look upon his present trust in the classical masters as indicating a prevailing taste among amateurs of chamber music. With regard to artists, the director is fortunate in the continued life and activity of his principal executants. Madame Schumann, Madame Norman-Néruda, Miss Zimmermann, Miss Fanny Davies, Messrs. Joachim, Piatti, Straus, Ries, Hollander, Gibson, Howell, and the rest to whose presence we are accustomed, are all available. Doubtless we shall hear them all again, and have further reason to be satisfied with Mr. Chappell's management in this respect.

The Bach Choir intend giving two Concerts in the course of its next season. Practice resumes on November 6, and on March 5 a very interesting Concert will take place, the programme being made up exclusively of works by the Leipzig Cantor. This is as it should be. A Bach Choir which does not devote the major part of its labours to Bach's music has no special right to the name it bears. At the Concert just referred to will be performed the Motett "Singet dem Herrn," together with the Cantatas "Halt im Gedächtniss" and "Wachet auf." These, we believe, have not been heard in London, but the second was once given by the Cambridge University Musical Society, under the direction of Professor Stanford. At the same Concert Mr. Joachim will play Bach's Violin Concerto in A minor and one of the master's Violin Sonatas. The second performance is fixed to take place on May 4, when Beethoven's Mass in D is to constitute the programme. On this occasion the French diapason normal will be used. It is intended to give both Concerts in St. James's Hall.

Although at the moment of writing the matter is not quite settled, there is good reason to believe that the second Sacred Harmonic Society has practically gone the way of the first, after a much shorter and less glorious existence. It is no part of our present purpose to investigate the reasons why the public have not supported this Society in a measure sufficient to ensure its continued life. We may say, however, that few amateurs will feel surprise when the managers make a formal announcement of their dissolution, and the disappearance of a name which has become historic.

The extinction of the Sacred Harmonic Society, assuming that event to be imminent, must necessarily affect another organisation of the same class—Novello's Oratorio Concerts. That young enterprise will have thrown upon it the responsibility of alone representing oratorio in Central London, just as the Royal Choral Society alone represents it in the West. Hitherto Novello's Oratorio Concerts, taking note of the mission of the Sacred Harmonic Society to perform standard works, have limited themselves very largely to comparative novelties. Their new position renders a continuance of this policy inexpedient, and imposes the duty of occupying the entire field, with a due regard to public requirements. The prospectus of the forthcoming season has been drawn up in full view of the circumstances just stated. It contains a promise of "The Messiah" (December 18) and "Elijah" (January 23), and of a second Handelian Oratorio, probably "Saul" (April 9). But with these familiar and, under the circumstances, indispensable works is associated a liberal allowance of novelty. The opening Concert, for example, will introduce to London amateurs Dr. Hubert Parry's successful Birmingham Oratorio "Judith," with the soloists who appeared at its first performance. It is hardly too much to assume that St. James's Hall will be crowded on December 6, for the purpose of welcoming a most interesting and, especially having regard to the promise it holds out, most important Oratorio. In addition to "Judith" will be performed (February 26) a new work composed by Dr. Mackenzie for the Jubilee Concert of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society. This is entitled "The Dream of Jubal." The author of the poem, Mr. Joseph Bennett, has designed it for soli, chorus, and orchestra, with a reciter, who, to an orchestral accompaniment, declaims the narrative by which the musical numbers are linked together. In the same programme with Dr. Mackenzie's piece will be a Psalm by M. Saint-Saëns, and Weber's Hymn, "In constant order." Yet another novelty is set down for performance on March 19. We refer to "The Light of Asia," a Cantata founded on Edwin Arnold's poem, music by the American composer, Mr. Dudley Buck. The introduction of an important composition from the other side of the Atlantic, written by a pure American, is an event which cannot fail to be regarded with much interest. Mr. Hamish MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter" will appear in the same programme with "The Light of Asia." With a prospectus judiciously made up of standard works and new or unfamiliar compositions, Novello's Oratorio Concerts make a good bid for public support during their fourth season. That the band and chorus will be efficient, under Dr. Mackenzie's direction, and that the best available artists will be engaged, every reader will assume.

The Royal Choral Society (formerly known as the Albert Hall Choral Society) has made arrangements of more than usual interest for the season beginning on November 7. Standard works, it is true, retain their predominance, and "The Messiah," "Elijah," "The Redemption," Mozart's "Requiem," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," the "Golden Legend," and Berlioz's "Faust" appear in the prospectus. But the Society goes a little out of its beaten track in announcing three works, the best known of which is not yet familiar. On January 16 will be produced an absolute novelty in England—an Oratorio entitled "Lucifer," written twenty-two years ago by the Flemish musician, Peter Benoît. We cannot speak from knowledge of this work, but M. Benoît is a composer of the stormy school, and he probably found "Lucifer" a congenial subject—more so than the "Hymn to Beauty" to which he set tempestuous music for the Brussels Festival of 1882. Mr. Mancinelli's Norwich Oratorio, "Isaías," is promised for February 20, when that interesting work will be heard in London for the first time, and on November 20 the Royal Choral Society will add Mr. Cowen's "Ruth" to its repertory. From the above it appears that the Western prospectus has been drawn up much upon the lines followed by that of Novello's Oratorio Concerts, and is a happy recognition of the old and the new in fair proportions. Mr. Barnby, of course, resumes his post as Conductor.

The full prospectus of the London Symphony Concerts has not yet come to hand, but we know enough for proof that Mr. Henschel is engaged upon trimming his sails to catch the breath of popular favour, hitherto not obtained in a remunerative measure. To this end he has very wisely lowered the tariff of prices, which was from the first unreasonably high. The new arrangements will be found much more in harmony with the condition of the average amateur pocket, and we may look to see a considerable extension of patronage. Other changes are mainly of an economic nature. The analyses are dropped to save expense, but programmes and copies of the words (if any) will be distributed gratis. It is understood, moreover, that Mr. Henschel will, as a rule, avoid the cost of vocal and instrumental soloists, and rely almost entirely upon his orchestra. By these means the two ends, so reluctant to meet, may be persuaded to come together. In any case, it is understood that the forthcoming campaign will decide the fate of the enterprise, one way or another. The scheme includes twelve Concerts, beginning November 20 and ending February 27.

Turning from the West to the East, we find the Borough of Hackney Choral Society promising good work in Shoreditch Town Hall, under the direction of Mr. Ebenezer Prout. Four Concerts will be given and four works performed—Handel's "Joshua," Haydn's "Seasons," Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," and Brahms's "German Requiem," with which is bracketed a selection from Schubert's "Rosamunde." The band and chorus number 250 performers.

More directly east than Shoreditch, we find activity at the Bow and Bromley Institute. The scheme for the approaching winter includes a performance of the "Creation," several miscellaneous Concerts, and Organ Recitals, with vocal music, every Saturday. From other suburban Societies, such as the Highbury Philharmonic, to which we drew attention in our last, and the Finsbury Choral Association, the note of preparation is heard, and every prospect of a busy season appears all round the outer zone of London.

With regard to individual enterprises, as distinct from organised societies, we may refer to the Richter Concerts, which enter upon a new season next May, giving nine performances. The Sarasate Concerts will be resumed in the same month, and continue till six have been given. At the present moment Mr. Santley is engaged upon an artistic tour in the provinces, arranged to terminate on November 26. The eminent baritone is supported by an efficient company. Mr. and Mrs. Henschel take their Vocal Recitals into the country during October and November, and the Heckmann Quartet will be on tour in November and December. Madame Essipoff and Mr. Stavenhagen have also arranged a visit to the provinces, the one in November, the other in March; and Otto Hegner will spend the first three months of next year in this country. All these enterprises are under the competent management of Mr. N. Vert.

Provincial musical societies are legion, and a survey of their proposed doings would take up all our space. We may, however, refer to the Blackburn Philharmonic, which promises three Concerts, beginning with the "Golden Legend," under the direction of Mr. Tattersall. The Glasgow Choral Union, in a more eminent degree, deserves attention. That body has arranged to give eleven Concerts—three choral, seven orchestral, and one of chamber music. Among the works to be performed are Hamish MacCunn's new Cantata (specially written) "The Lay of the last Minstrel," the "Golden Legend," the "Walpurgis Night," and "The Messiah." The list of artists engaged includes a host of eminent names, and betokens a resolution to set the very best of musical fare before the subscribers. Mr. Manns will again act as Conductor of the orchestral Concerts. As indicating continued activity in another form, we may mention that the fortnightly performances of sacred music in Gloucester Cathedral will be resumed early in November. The last series was attended by 30,000 people.

Here our list, which is very far from an exhaustive one, must come to an end. After perusing it the reader will probably agree with us that it is not bad for an "unmusical country."

MUCH has recently been said respecting the appropriateness of the "surroundings" during the performance of high-class sacred music in buildings devoted to divine worship; yet we cannot but think that the incongruity of the "surroundings" where concerts often including the masterpieces of secular music are given has not been sufficiently dwelt upon. We have purposely abstained from persistently commenting upon this subject in connection with the annual series of Promenade Concerts, at Covent Garden Theatre—where, to say nothing of other distracting influences, the popping of corks during the slow movement of a classical Symphony is of frequent occurrence—because, at least, a chance of hearing good works, well rendered, is offered to the public at a reasonable charge. The small amount of sympathy which we have felt for such performances during the dull time of the year has, however, been completely dispelled by the following advertisement, quoted verbatim from a morning contemporary: "Ally Sloper and his distinguished family, including Mrs. Sloper, Master Alexandry Sloper, Iky Moses, the Elder McNab, Mr. McGooseley, The Twins, Boulanger, Shakebacon, and Ginetta Margarine, Lord Bob, and Miss Tootsie Sloper, will visit Freeman Thomas's Promenade Concerts, Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, to-night (Friday), September 14. Tootsie Sloper's Polka, composed by A. Gwyllym Crowe, will be performed by the special desire of The Eminent." Whether this event actually took place we cannot inform our readers, for the duty of reporting such proceedings would not, of course, fall within the province of a musical critic; but in the interest of art and artists, it should be placed upon record that at the same Concerts where our great vocalists have sung, and where an orchestra of 150 picked instrumentalists are constantly playing the classical works of past and present composers, such a degrading show has been deliberately organised. It is, of course, not customary for orchestral performers to make stipulations concerning the class of music to be played; but when accredited artists sign an agreement to perform nightly at the Promenade Concerts, it should at least be tacitly understood that they will not be called upon to exercise their talents upon "Tootsie Sloper's Polka," or to be judged by an audience in which "The Eminent" and his "distinguished family" are prominent personages.

"WHEN, oh when," says the Boston Musical Herald, "will a congress such as the other sciences often have, be held by the leading musicians, that we at last may attain some firm ground in the paradoxes of musical instruction and notation?" We are glad to find that our American contemporary so earnestly presses upon all who have the progress of music at heart a question which we have so often asked in the pages of this journal. It is scarcely too much to say that the many debatable points in a language which we pride ourselves upon being universal cause a division amongst students which often leads them to uphold certain professors, not as high-class teachers, but as staunch exponents of a "system" which allows of no dispute. Not to dwell upon the contentions respecting the fixed and movable "Do," the English and foreign fingering, the method of writing a chromatic scale, or the names of the notes expressing relative value, even the very theory of the art is taught in different ways in different places, so that the correct answer as to the root of a chord often depends upon the institution or the individual propounding the question. Some short time ago we received a communication from an earnest student informing us that she was learning Harmony "on the only true and natural method." Considering that, however much theoretical works may differ, the preface of each usually announces that it is based upon an equally sure foundation, we were by no means astonished when, in reply to our expressed desire to become acquainted with this system, we received a book already well known to us. In our remarks upon this important matter we have no desire even to cursorily review the varied opinions advanced upon the subjects above enumerated. All we wish is that, by an organised and intelligent consultation, some uniformity may be arrived at. Much has lately been done to test the competence of those who come before the public as "professors of music"; but, in justice to all who aspire to occupy the position of teachers, there must first be some unanimity in determining what they are to teach.

THE correspondents of the various papers whose minds are ill at ease if upon the periodical recurrence of the provincial festivals they find that the inhabitants of the several towns or cities do not display a sufficient amount of "bunting" and other "outward symbols of rejoicing," must have been highly gratified with the street shows in Hereford during the recent Festival. Every lamp post was decorated with bannerets. Triumphal arches of evergreens, flags, heraldic shields, and so forth, spanned the entrance to each principal street. On some of these arches, besides the usual "Welcome to our Festival," were quotations in music without words. Portions of the "Hallelujah Chorus," "O rest in the Lord," "Blest are the departed," &c., formed a novel and not inappropriate form of decoration. These were set up by a committee of the townspeople. With the extra details, perhaps, there was less cause for congratulation. Upon the lamp posts were suspended notices, emphasised by the addition of woodcuts of large hands pointing, warning the visitors to "beware of pickpockets" all along the route up to the very doors of the Cathedral. The same good taste which designed this form of festal ornament was carried into the interior of the Cathedral, where the majority of the notices relative to the position of places were stuck upon the pillars, the walls, and certain monumental slabs "to the great common scandal" of those who would have been better pleased to see a more reverent treatment of the house of God. There were a few directions mounted upon boards, probably because the matters referred to were too far away from the walls. The committee had taken full advantage of the kindness and complacency of the Dean and Chapter who yielded to them their control and guardianship of the fabric for a short period. The soiled spaces on the walls when the bills are removed will be witness against them for some time to come, and stand as an evidence that bad taste may arise even in the efforts to promote a good cause.

THE imperfect acquaintance of even well-informed musicians with the works of Handel has been curiously illustrated by a notice in one of the leading daily papers of the recent performance of "Saul" at the Birmingham Festival. Speaking of the version prepared by Mr. Ebenezer Prout, whose additional accompaniments were used on this occasion, the writer, one of the ablest and most eminent of our musical critics, says:—"Mr. Prout fails to explain one or two points which will be extensively queried. He does not tell us, for example, whence he obtains the passage immediately following the 'Dead March.' It is not found in older editions, as far as I am able to ascertain, yet I dare not suppose that Mr. Prout has interpolated it 'out of his own head.' Mr. Prout will no doubt be glad to be acquitted of even the suspicion of interpolating passages "out of his own head" in Handel's oratorios; but it is somewhat surprising that the distinguished writer of the paragraph should be unacquainted with the German Handel Society's edition of "Saul," published as long since as 1862. On page 210 of that edition he will find the passage in question immediately following the "Dead March," and as an introduction to the chorus "Mourn, Israel, mourn," exactly as it appears in the new edition of the vocal score. As the German Handel Society's edition is generally accessible, and is accepted as the standard text, it probably never occurred to Mr. Prout that there was the least necessity to indicate the source whence the passage is derived. But the writer is still further in error in saying that it is not to be found in the older editions. It will be found both in Arnold's score and in Novello's earlier Octavo edition, in each case at the end of the Appendix, and with the curious title "Elegy." Dr. Chrysander has pointed this out in his article on "Handel's Organ Part to 'Saul,'" in the first volume of the "Jahrbücher für Musikalische Wissenschaft," page 426.

If an amusing volume could be made up of curiosities of musical criticism, another, scarcely less entertaining, might be compiled on the foundation furnished by statements of fact in recognised journalistic authorities. For example, in the accounts of the remarkable festivities accompanying the recent marriage of the Duke d'Aosta at Turin, it was gravely stated in more than one London daily paper that several military bands played a wedding march "founded on that of Mendelssohn." Is it possible that some Italian bandmaster, more than usually wanting in reverence for the great masters of other lands, has dared to mix up the worthless product of his own brain with the divine strains of Mendelssohn? Probably the march was merely a transcription, following the original closely, save as to a transposition of key to E flat—a tonality more convenient to military bands than C. But if in the above instance a plausible explanation can be given of an astounding assertion passed without query by unmusical sub-editors, what are we to think of the following, culled from a highly respectable Lancashire print? A prima donna of the highest eminence was passing through with her concert party, and among the statements furnished to an interviewer from the paper in question to the artist's husband was one to the effect that the version of "Softly sighs," sung by his wife, was that composed expressly for the Queen! Now the air usually known by this English title was undoubtedly composed by Weber, who died in 1826, when Her Most Gracious Majesty was seven years old. We cannot hazard a conjecture as to what was meant, and can only pray fervently for the time when an elementary knowledge of musical history shall be considered an essential part of a polite education.

OUR daily contemporary of the "largest circulation in the world" has been waxing learned and eloquent over that musical abortion, the banjo. Declaring that there is "nothing coarse or low" about the thing, the paper gravely describes it as "essentially an instrument for the home circle," which, "suspended by a blue ribbon round the neck, may be made to look quite picturesque and graceful." Society is congratulated "on having taken up the banjo from a high-toned stand-point," whatever that may mean, and "those who think nigger minstrelsy incompatible with intellectual culture" are comforted by the assurance that "the banjo, after all, is not an instrument of negro origin." A little cheap and vague learning concerning the theorbo, arch-lute, mandolin, &c., is flashed before our dazzled minds, and we are left awe-struck at the writer's information, which is quite on a par with his taste. We confess to numbering ourselves amongst those who consider negro minstrelsy—or, rather, music-hall vulgarity—incompatible with intellectual culture, and we consider it one of the worst signs—perhaps the worst—of the times that, after seeking proficiency in the flute, harp, and guitar, then rising to the pianoforte, and thence to the violin, the English aristocracy should relapse into an infatuation for the banjo and—shade of Apollo!—the human whistle. We need not trouble to correct our contemporary, who assigns a European origin to the banjo; the subject is not worth discussion. We only deplore that a so-called musical instrument, unscientific in construction, puerile in scope, unapproachably, hopelessly, irredeemably vulgar in its tone as well as in its associations, should find a champion in a leading London newspaper.

A SCIENTIFIC friend of ours, dwelling in the suburbs of London, and finding existence rendered a burden by reason of the street music, has hit upon a really ingenious invention, which, if adopted, might lead to his partial relief. He suggests to the street-organ makers an automatic arrangement consisting simply of an endless band connecting the machinery of the organ with the wheels of the truck on which it is carried. The effect of this is that while the instrument is drawn through the streets it plays—just like a child's musical cart; but the moment it halts the music stops too. Thus the torturer of our peace would be condemned to the fate of the Wandering Jew on a small scale, and our moments of anguish, however frequent, would at least be brief. There would be no possibility of the present misery caused by our heartless neighbour, who keeps each demon before his door until his entire programme has been gone through three or four times. But the only way to obtain this boon would be to agitate for the relief of the poor over-worked creatures who grind the merciless handle, and then, the interests of the lower classes being now paramount, we might get the automatic scheme adopted and made law. What a chance for some philanthropic M.P.!

"TRAVELLERS often tell strange tales," is a proverb which is, as Shakespeare says, "somewhat musty." Not the least interesting of their stories frequently are those in which the relators, with sturdy British independence, boast of the small number of foreign words they found necessary to employ when upon a foreign tour. A story is told of an eminent professor of music who visited Germany recently, and during a journey of some four or five weeks got on very comfortably with the help of one word only. This was "Dachshund," which he understood to mean "Thank you."

CERTAIN paragraphs going the round of the papers announce a proposed contest for £500 between two lady siffleuses whose singular musical performances have been charming English and American Society during the past season. In no case can either be a great gainer, for the loser will get nothing and the winner will have to whistle for her money.

BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

For the Festival solemnised in the Town Hall, Birmingham, on August 28 and three following days, preparations were made of a kind and degree commensurate with so important an occasion. In the result the full success aimed at was not reached, but it is hard, because unjust, to blame the managers therefor. Probably, however, it is needful to insist upon this fact, so ready is human nature to look out for a scapegoat whereupon to lay the sin of uncontrollable circumstances. It was not the Committee's fault if the programme lacked the novelties expected. There is no law by which a composer can be forced to carry out a promise against which he pleads lack of opportunity or health; otherwise we should have seen the names of Dvorák, Mackenzie, and Goring Thomas in the list. I contend that, with a three-fold disappointment to fight against, as much was done in making up the scheme of the Festival as with any show of reason could be expected. Otherwise the preparations were fully adequate. The chorus-master, Mr. Stockley, presented the best choir that ever a Birmingham Festival had within my experience—a choir with magnificent basses, tenors only a degree less perfect, good altos, and sopranos which, if not equal to the other divisions in strength, had the advantage of pure tone and admirable training. Criticism, of course, made these distinctions. Such is its business. But, substantially, there was no fault to find with Mr. Stockley's well-drilled host. The composition of Dr. Richter's orchestra of, with extras, 142 performers underwent considerable scrutiny at the time, and was objected to on the score of its foreign element—the cause, as some held, of a certain weakness of tone in the violins. Possibly some of the men might have been exchanged for others with advantage in this respect, but let us, nevertheless, be just. My own opinion is that an orchestra able to play Beethoven's Fifth Symphony in the well-nigh absolutely perfect manner of its performance on August 31 is good enough for anything. That splendid effort put all cavillers to silence on the score of efficiency. The solo vocalists' names speak for themselves: Mesdames Albani, Ambler, Anna Williams, Patey, and Trebelli; Messrs. Lloyd, Piercy, Banks, Santley, Brereton, and Foli. Again it may be said that better than some of these were available, but the remark cannot possibly include the principals, who are our absolute best. Then there was Miss Fanny Davies as solo pianist, Mr. C. W. Perkins as organist, and, finally, Dr. Richter as Conductor. Whatever of weakness may be in the equipment of the Festival as above, it seems to exist only in the degree inevitably connected with human arrangements, and the vindication of the managers is, to my mind, practically complete. But, for some reason or other, which should be carefully sought out, the public were unusually irresponsive. There was none of the crowding to the ballot box for the chance of a good place that on former occasions has given a guarantee of success. True, a run on the "Golden Legend" set in, and "Elijah" of course commanded a large sale, with "The Messiah" well up, but the remaining programmes received comparatively little attention. This was disheartening at the outset, and when the Committee withheld the usual statistics the friends of the Festival were still more depressed. To the eye the attendances were good, but if the secrets of the "paper" bureau were revealed they would tell a startling tale.

The four days' proceedings began on Tuesday morning, August 28, after long and elaborate rehearsals, with Mendelssohn's "Elijah," which had a good paying audience, headed by the Duke of Norfolk, President of the Festival, at whose side sat the venerable Cardinal Newman. By the way, his Grace of Norfolk became a very popular President and took the surest means thereto, opening a well-filled purse and being not afraid to see the bottom of it. Moreover, he attended every Concert with his friends, and finished up by stating his readiness to act on another occasion if called upon—as he certainly will be. I need not dwell upon the performance of Mendelssohn's work, which Dr. Richter knows intimately and conducts with evident sympathy. All the principal soloists engaged at the Festival took part therein, obtaining their usual allotment of the music and doing it customary justice. The ensemble was very fine, the chorus, being on sure ground and feeling enthusiastic, making a great impression. At the evening Concert Dvorák's "Stabat Mater" occupied the whole of the first part, with Madame Albani, Madame Trebelli, Mr. Piercy, and Mr. Brereton as its leading exponents. A work so beautiful and so often eulogised should have excited interest among the public, but expectation was somehow disappointed in this, the demand for tickets being curiously small. However, the Committee took care that there should not be many empty seats, and the Bohemian master's music had a numerous audience. The "Stabat Mater" was heard with attention, but the performance elicited few signs of the enthusiastic admiration which is justly its due. I do not pretend to account for this; I only regret it, and hope that on further acquaintance the Midland public will recognise a masterpiece of extraordinary power. Readers of these observations will not expect me to discuss a work with which they must be more or less familiar. I will merely say that, although the Birmingham rendering was not free from blemish, the impressiveness of the music had an unusually complete revelation. Heard in a Cathedral, instead of what may be called an alien concert-room, the effect would have been overwhelming. Madame Albani sang the soprano solo with characteristic fervour and customary correctness; but Madame Trebelli was not quite so happy in her task. The two gentlemen were, to say the least, adequate. A short miscellaneous selection followed, the "Stabat," and began with Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony. In the execution of this masterpiece the Conductor and his orchestra were perfectly at home. A better performance could not have been desired, and the audience were liberal of applause. An interesting Scene and Aria, composed by Mr. Goring Thomas for an Italian version of his "Esmeralda," had the advantage of Madame Albani's singing, and Mr. Foli introduced "Qui sdegno"; but the honours of the rest of the evening were to the band, by whom Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 3, and the Overture to "Oberon" were magnificently played, to the great delight of the audience, who had, by that time, "warmed through."

The programme of Wednesday morning opened with Dr. Hubert Parry's new Oratorio "Judith, or the Regeneration of Manasseh," concerning which, by the way, the Birmingham public seemed to feel no more than a mild curiosity. They know the composer better now, and on the next occasion, probably, will experience a quickened interest. Dr. Parry was present, but preferred to leave his work in the hands of Dr. Richter, who loyally did his best to secure an adequate representation, and most certainly succeeded. Inasmuch as THE MUSICAL TIMES of last month contained a long description of "Judith," I may assume that the reader knows all there is to tell in that respect. My present business is to do what could not fairly be attempted before the performance, and estimate, as best I can, the merits and defects of the work. Let it promptly be stated that the excellencies largely outnumber and outweigh the blemishes, which, indeed, can be dismissed in little space. The set airs, perhaps, are open to the general criticism of lacking in some measure a striking distinctiveness of melody, and there is a question, with regard to a few of them, whether abbreviation would not be an improvement. I refer more particularly to the intermezzo expressive of Manasseh's repentance, and the solo numbers for contralto and tenor in the beginning of the second part. This leads me to say that the portion of the work coming between the close of Part I. and the scene upon the walls of Jerusalem is generally less successful than the rest, and it is here that the revising hand of the composer should operate—with the scissors in it. No one will deny that the incriminated section contains fine music, but in performance a sense of dulness was decidedly felt, partly arising, it may be, from want of sympathy with the sudden and exaggerated pietism of the words put into the doubtful mouths of the King and his people; in other part from contrast with the extremely vigorous, dramatic, and exciting scenes preceding. No doubt the construction of the book is somewhat to blame here. The author would have done better in bringing Manasseh back to Jerusalem immediately after the intermezzo, and so have sustained the dramatic interest, while continuing to work along the line in which lies his greatest strength as a composer. For my own part, I trust that Dr. Parry will give this matter consideration before the first London performance takes place. It is hard, I know, for a musician to sacrifice any part of that which he has thought out with labour and pains, but there is the example of Mendelssohn to sustain and encourage. Besides, "Judith" is so fine a work that nothing should be refused which promises to its advantage. All care bestowed upon it must, in the nature of the case, meet with ample reward. Concerning the qualities that enable me to speak thus a good deal might be said. With regard to the first part, embracing the "Moloch" worship and the touching scene in the palace for the Queen and her children, justice demands an almost unqualified verdict of approval, and the critical eye sees evidence of rare descriptive and dramatic power, capable, it may be, of eminent service in another place. Noticeable, too, is it that Dr. Parry obtains his effects in the orderly and elevated manner proper to oratorio, the resemblance, so far, between "Judith" and "Elijah" being quite marked. I regard this as important in connection with the fact that throughout the part of the Oratorio more immediately under review, the music, structurally, pictorially, and emotionally is equal to the demand of each and every scene. It is broad and highly coloured where necessary, strongly and truthfully suggestive always, and at times instinct with a touching tenderness. On the one hand, the music of the priests and worshippers of Moloch; on the other, that of the Queen and her boys are examples that fix themselves in the memory. The last-named, coming in the midst of the grim Moloch worship, is made doubly welcome by its gentleness and naïveté. Charming, too, is the chorus "Lead them with gentle steps and slow," with which the destined victims of the sanguinary god are received. Hearing it one thinks of the Greek beauty in Mendelssohn's "O be gracious, ye Immortals," though, apart from captivating elegance, the two things have little in common. It may be, however, that the listeners to "Judith" receive their strongest impression from the Moloch scenes, to which the composer has succeeded in giving a highly picturesque character and an expression of terrible earnestness that reaches its highest in the final chorus of Part I., where the people see the destruction of the city in the very presence of their impotent deity. Equal merit to that of the Moloch scenes is found in the concluding section entitled the "Exploit of Judith." The chorus of the Watchmen, the trustful solos of Manasseh, and Judith's cry, "Ho, ye upon the walls, open unto me," as she comes in the grey morning light, bearing the head of Holofernes—all this is conceived in a truly dramatic spirit and worked out with a bold hand. The Oratorio worthily ends amid triumphant songs of thanksgiving; the final chorus showing that Dr. Parry has the power to make a sustained flight without wearying himself or those who accompany him. Notwithstanding the points to which attention has been directed with a view to revision, I hail "Judith" as a distinct success, won in the grand old fashion, and as a promise of further good from the same source. Too much importance should not be attached to the enthusiasm of a Festival gathering on the occasion of a first performance. It is the custom to applaud everything and cheer every composer. At the same time, the demonstrations made in honour of Dr. Parry at the close of his work had a real significance. They were the expression of intelligent judgment as well as, possibly, of unreasoning sympathy, and they will be repeated when the Oratorio is next heard. The performance was creditable to all concerned; a large share of congratulation being due to the solo vocalists—Miss Anna Williams, Master Percy Fry (of Westminster Abbey), Madame Patey (who was heard to great advantage in the Queen's music), Mr. Lloyd (an admirable Manasseh), and Mr. Santley. Chorus and orchestra emulated the soloists in their desire for justice to the new work. The Concert continued with Haydn's Symphony in D (Salomon set) and Franz's Psalm 117, "Praise ye the Lord." Haydn's pleasing composition was wonderfully well played, nor had that of Franz any reason for dissatisfaction with its executants. The music, written for double choir, is of a solid and dignified kind, relying mainly for effect upon the disposition of masses of harmony, and needing some such large resources as were available at Birmingham. Although Franz, as a writer of church music, has not the unflinching charm of Mendelssohn, this particular example will be of great use on festive occasions and where a considerable body of voices is at command.

Wednesday evening was in great part devoted to Sullivan's "Golden Legend," that most popular of modern works attracting a crowded and brilliant audience—the largest and most distinguished of the week. As far as concerns the performance, there is reason to regret that Sir Arthur Sullivan was absent from the Conductor's seat. Dr. Richter did his best—he is too conscientious a man to come short of that—but he knew little of the composer's intentions, and, as far as I am aware, had not heard the music performed under his direction. The result was that the Birmingham audience listened to a reading which was certainly not Sir Arthur Sullivan's and wanted some features that, on previous occasions, had attracted admiring notice. Apart from the Conductor's "reading," there were points not quite satisfactory. Mr. Foli, for example, sang the music of Lucifer most indifferently, and I have known the contralto solos, as well as some of the concerted pieces, notably "O pure in heart," brought nearer to executive perfection. On the other hand, Madame Albani and Mr. Lloyd sustained the high repute of their doings in this Cantata, and gave all possible satisfaction. Generally speaking, the performance of the "Golden Legend" was not up to the mark which most amateurs present expected it to reach, and assuredly fell below that given at Leeds when the work was first heard. None the less, however, did the audience appear to enjoy it. There are some compositions that really seem indifferent to their rendering, and the "Golden Legend" is of them. The charm of the music, aided by the beauty of the words and the deep interest of the story, would not be denied. In the second part of the programme was an Overture, "Autumn," by the Norwegian composer, Grieg, who conducted it in person with marked success, as well as to the unconcealed amusement of an audience accustomed to Dr. Richter's undemonstrative style. The themes of the Overture are taken from an "Autumn Song" by the author, and a Norwegian Harvest Song. These are worked out with considerable ingenuity and very pleasing results. In all likelihood the Overture, though in no sense a great work, will become a favourite in concert-rooms. Miss Anna Williams having sung the "Invocation to Hope," from "Fidelio," the Concert ended with a masterly performance of the Overture to Wagner's "Meistersinger." In this Dr. Richter and his followers were on the firmest of firm ground, and they marched with confidence to an assured executive triumph.

Handel's "Messiah" was given on Thursday morning, with Franz's additional accompaniments, and according to that authority's arrangement. This was the case at the Festival of 1885, when some strong protests were made against the German innovations, to which, however, Dr. Richter adheres with characteristic firmness, and the Committee apparently make no objection. It is scarcely worth while to protest a second time. Dr. Richter would not be moved; Franz's "Messiah" is not likely to be used in this country by any other Conductor, and it will probably disappear from Birmingham when the influence of Franz's friend ceases to act on its behalf. The performance of the "sacred oratorio" calls for no particular remark, except that Mr. Banks took the whole of the tenor solos and made a favourable impression. His colleagues were Madame Albani, Madame Patey, and Mr. Foli. There was a large audience.

The evening of Thursday witnessed the production of Dr. Bridge's specially written Cantata "Callirhoë"—the second and only remaining novelty of the Festival. I refer the reader to last month's MUSICAL TIMES for a description of the story and details of the manner in which it is treated, my present task being, as in the case of "Judith," an estimate of its claims. There can be no disputing that "Callirhoë" justifies the action of the Committee in selecting Dr. Bridge to write for the Festival; nor will the assertion be gravely disputed that the Westminster organist has surprised his friends. It may even be that he has astonished himself. That the music of "Callirhoë" is free from any suggestion of the organ-loft goes without saying, since the composer has proved once and again that he can come out from his ecclesiastical surroundings into the freer air and larger space of secular art. But it was not as a matter of course that Dr. Bridge showed himself at Birmingham to have a lively fancy and a picturesque pen. Yet these are the qualities that appear on almost every page of the Cantata, and constitute the chief bases of its merit and the main reasons for its frank acceptance. At the same time, no one must suppose that criticism finds nothing to fasten upon in the work. It takes exception, on behalf of purity of style, to the singular freedom of Dr. Bridge's progressions; doing this not so much because they are free as because, in certain cases, they seem unwarranted by results. Composers should not be fettered, but enjoy absolute liberty, while necessarily accepting the responsibility of its exercise. In cases where the exercise of liberty approaches the frontier of license, criticism, as the guardian of art, should look very closely into the reasons, and see whether the end has justified the method, the more because there may be involved a violation of the cardinal rule in art which prescribes the simplest means to a given purpose, and condemns as inartistic all elaboration that is not absolutely requisite. I confess that, in looking through "Callirhoë," I come now and then upon superfluity of the kind just indicated, and meet with complications in harmony and structure, the necessity for which is not obvious. An extreme restlessness of tonality forms one of the characteristics in this work; and not only does the key change with rapidity but it passes from point to point with very little reference to connecting links. This is, no doubt, important as regards "Callirhoë," but we should not exaggerate its prospective significance. Dr. Bridge revels in the artistic freedom he finds outside the church, but he will get used to that in time, and his style, as it ripens and mellows, will become less efflorescent. This is a common process, and through it nearly every composer who is "worth his salt" has passed. I hasten to add that Dr. Bridge carries out his present method with noteworthy skill. He moves easily through complications, and always comes smilingly out of a maze. Some of the positive merits of the work, as revealed in performance, next demand notice. One is a pleasing and expressive vein of melody, running through the entire Cantata, but, naturally, richer in some places than in others. In the opening chorus, so full of graceful effects, we find it strongly illustrated, again in the prayer of Coresos "Oh, Dionysos, hearken," in the beautiful lament of Callirhoë, "The sun stands high," and in the whole of the final scene, which is instinct with genuine and appropriate tune. I need not enlarge upon the strength derived by the Cantata from so valuable a feature. But this is not all. Dr. Bridge scores for the orchestra with much fancy and taste, having, as is obvious, a true feeling for tone-colour and the knack of laying it on with proper regard to combination, contrast, and relief. The figuration of his leading orchestral parts is also very happy, as witness the light and dainty gruppetto which forms an elegant feature in the opening chorus. I am not sure that the composer has done the right thing with the gongs designed to imitate the effect of the clashing vessels of brass in the groves of Dodona. These are tuned and employed as orchestral instruments, instead of being altogether outside the orchestra, sounding un rhythmically and to no particular pitch. With regard to the character of the music as distinct from individual traits, it must be said that Dr. Bridge is more happy in the lyrical numbers than in the scenes which approach the life and passion of drama. This was, perhaps, to be expected under the circumstances, as, also, a somewhat deficient individuality in the various rôles; but on both these points the composer will improve as he comes to write with more confidence in himself. By way of authority for assurance in this regard, I need only point to the chorus in which the afflicted citizens call upon Dionysos to remove the plague that has fallen upon them. The power there shown may be a little rough, and the colouring laid on heavily, but the number distinctly indicates Dr. Bridge as a possible eminent writer of dramatic and descriptive music. To sum up, "Callirhoë" is an achievement of distinction, and a still more valuable promise as to the future. It says in the plainest terms that Dr. Bridge has only to exercise more self-restraint in certain respects and to acquire greater experience in order to take high rank. The means are his, and need but be used with judgment and the skill acquired by practice. The performance, conducted by the composer in person, was very successful. Both the band and chorus found their sympathies excited by the music, and as much may be said, with even greater emphasis, of the soloists, Madame Albani, Madame Trebelli, and Mr. Lloyd. The first and last of these could not have been improved upon, justice being done by them alike to the music and to the character represented. I should add that the Processional March proved to be by no means the least acceptable number in the work. Such a thing is difficult to write without falling into conventionality, but Dr. Bridge achieved it. At the close of the performance audience and executants joined in lusty applause of the composer-conductor, who right well deserved the tribute. I may pass lightly over the remainder of Thursday evening's programme. Miss Fanny Davies gave her usual brilliantly effective reading of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, and obtained as much honour in her "own country" as heart could desire. Madame Albani sang "Softly sighs," and Mr. Lloyd the "Preislied," of which he seems never to tire. The rest was purely orchestral, and consisted of Grieg's "Suite in Old Style" (conducted by the composer), the Prelude to Act III. of "Die Meistersinger," and Brahms's "Academische" Overture. For these Dr. Richter and his men were well able to answer.

The last morning Concert had a somewhat remarkable programme; Beethoven's Symphony in C minor being sandwiched between a typical piece by Bach and one not less representative by Berlioz. As it turned out, the work set to keep these very pronounced opposites apart admirably fulfilled its purpose, because performed in such a manner that the audience found their impressions of Bach obliterated by a new and lively feeling. I have already characterised the playing of the "C minor" as quite exceptional. In truth it was extraordinarily perfect. Conductor and orchestra were on their mettle in face of a splendid opportunity; they knew their theme and were conscious of its power, they had confidence in each other, and in the candour of the audience. All things, therefore, conspired to a good result, and the performance of the Symphony will long be remembered as an effort wholly out of the common order. It was heard with profound attention and applauded vehemently. Bach's Magnificat opened the Concert—perhaps I should say that this was done by the Magnificat of Sebastian Bach and Mr. Franz, since the last-named gentleman has been good enough to fill up the orchestral score. The work is too familiar for discussion here, and those who know it are prepared to be told that, while the choruses made a deep impression, the solos (sung by Miss Anna Williams, Madame Trebelli, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Foli) failed to interest the audience, if, indeed, the effect of them was not weariness. I am bound to add that the artists rather helped to this result than otherwise. They felt no sympathy with their task—what wonder!—and allowed the fact to appear. It was different with the choral numbers, which, as everybody knows, are among the noblest of their kind. Though not performed in a manner absolutely beyond reproach, these woke the audience up, and excited a lively feeling of admiration. The remark applies more especially to the magnificent "Omnes generationes" and the "Gloria Patri." Opening in the severe school of Bach, the Concert closed in the licentious companionship of Berlioz, whose "Mass for the Dead" was the "sensation" of the week. The public had anticipated this with some interest. They had heard of the extra brass bands, the formidable array of drums, with all the rest of it, and they were naturally curious about the result. Some, on experience, found the result too much for them. As the brass bands blew their loudest and the drums thundered like the artillery of heaven, a physical disturbance became inevitable among sensitive organisations. A few persons, I am told, had to seek safety in flight, and I know that on every hand signs of great nervous commotion were visible. Is this to be set down as a triumph of music, or only as of noise? The reader will answer the question as he pleases. It is but justice to remember that Berlioz composed his "Requiem" for a purely ceremonial occasion, having little connection with real feeling, and inviting mere display. He would have written very differently, we may assume, had the work been designed for use under the conditions of those who weep over their dead. But it is very much open to question whether an artist is ever justified in being inartistic, and I contend that Berlioz's accumulation of noise-producing machines in certain parts of this Mass is essentially inartistic. In the "Tuba mirum," for example, there is a barefaced attempt, not to suggest, but absolutely to anticipate, as far as is possible to musical instruments, the blast of the trumpet of doom and the thunders of the Last Day. This is something more than impudent—it is puerile. How splendidly in contrast the short phrase for trombone in the "Requiem" of Mozart, which, with its solitary, desolate sound, more powerfully suggests the situation than does the Frenchman's vulgar uproar? So far as all this goes, Berlioz's "Requiem" is an offence against good taste, while, apart from this, the work contains much that a refined mind regards with doubt as to its propriety. We must not, however, overlook many passages of peculiar beauty. The calmer numbers of the work often move the soul with genuine music, and make us regret that the singularly gifted but erratic composer had not larger powers of self-restraint. With regard to the impression left by the "Requiem" upon the Birmingham audience, it is impossible to speak generally. Some, who judge music by the nervous excitement it sets up, were enthusiastic over the noisy numbers; but it may be that the common feeling was the wonder experienced in making acquaintance with a curious and highly flavoured plat, which no one would, for reasons of health, dream of including in the daily menu. Having regard to the difficulties presented by the "Requiem," the performance must be pronounced excellent. Dr. Richter had his complicated machinery well under control, and all its parts worked zealously to the common end. The tenor solo was sung by Mr. Lloyd.

On Friday evening the last Concert of the Festival took place, and was largely attended, the name of Handel—his "Saul" formed the programme—exercising its usual power with the general public, who know that the old master is at once great and intelligible. The Oratorio was presented mainly according to what may be termed an "acting edition," prepared, with additional accompaniments, by Mr. E. Prout, and published by Messrs. Novello. Dr. Richter, however, did not strictly adhere to this, as was expected, but introduced several numbers which Mr. Prout, exercising his discretion, had omitted. There is no need to dwell upon the character of "Saul," and I am concerned only with a performance that appeared to give satisfaction. The solos were entrusted to Miss Anna Williams, Miss Ambler, Madame Patey, Mr. Banks, Mr. Piercy, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Santley, in whose hands they were reasonably safe, while the choruses, so characteristically Handelian, derived every advantage from the singing of the choir. English amateur chorists are never so happy as when on the firm and familiar ground of Handel's music. The elaborate orchestral prelude, I should add, gave an opportunity to Mr. Perkins, the newly appointed organist at the Town Hall, of which he cleverly availed himself. At the close of the Oratorio the National Anthem was performed, and the Festival came to an end amid cheers by everybody for everybody else. Whether the Committee, when they met the next day, felt inclined to indulge in "Hurrahs" is more than doubtful. They found a diminution of receipts, as compared with 1885, of some six or seven hundred pounds. Again, therefore, the need has arisen to review the policy of the present managers, and investigate all attendant circumstances. Something is wrong somewhere, that is clear, since the Festival, apart from an advance in 1882, has long been steadily going back. I pray that the Committee may succeed in finding out what the something is.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(By our SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Choirs of Hereford, Gloucester, and Worcester Cathedrals held their 165th meeting in the first-named city on September 11, 12, 13, and 14, when performances were given, according to ancient usage, for the benefit of the widows and orphans of clergy once connected with the three dioceses. I speak of the Three Choirs, but few readers need telling that what was once no more than a religious service, in which some extra music was performed by those united bodies, has developed into a full-blown Musical Festival drawing its executants from London and various counties. Still, however, the Cathedral singers are represented, and as much of the primitive machinery is retained as can be adapted to the altered condition of things. The arrangements made for the Festival at Hereford were on the usual scale and showed customary regard for efficiency. Here is a list of the vocal soloists: Madame Albani, Miss Ambler, Miss Anna Williams, Madame Enriquez, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Banks, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Santley. All these, with two exceptions, appeared at Birmingham, and all, with no exception whatever, were competent to the occasion at Hereford. A good chorus of nearly 300 voices contained a numerous contingent from the famous Festival Choir at Leeds, under Mr. Broughton, while the orchestra, "led" by Mr. Carrodus, was made up of English performers whose names are synonymous with efficiency. Mr. Done, of Worcester, presided, in person or by deputy, at the organ; Mr. C. Lee Williams, of Gloucester, did good service in the same capacity and at the pianoforte, and Dr. Langdon Colborne, in right of his office as Hereford Organist, conducted the performances. The Festival yielded to none of its predecessors in importance as a local event. Although the city was less elaborately decorated than before, it presented a gay appearance. Crowds thronged the streets, and the scene each day in the open space at High Town, where a good military band discoursed excellent music, showed that the occasion had a really popular aspect. In this matter, by the way, Hereford is in advance of the sister cities—a position to which it has not been unaccustomed.

My task, as a reporter of the Festival doings, is not a heavy one, for the main reason that the programme proper contained no work which has not been discussed before, while, with regard to the performances, there are considerations that should temper criticism in the interest of charity. An artistic success the Festival certainly cannot be called, but I am not about to insist strongly upon a fact which readers of THE MUSICAL TIMES can understand and explain for themselves.

The proceedings may be said to have begun on Sunday, the 9th ult., when Evensong in the Cathedral was made special by the performance of a Church Cantata, "Samuel," written by Dr. Colborne, and executed by a large choir, with organ and string band accompaniment, under the composer's direction. Dr. Colborne's work must be judged in view of the limitations he imposed upon himself by keeping always before him the capacity of an average parish choir. It may, of course, be urged that music intended for parish choirs is out of place in connection with a Festival, but that raises another issue altogether. The point now is that if Dr. Colborne has not given us anything particularly fresh or striking in "Samuel" he is not logically to be censured as incapable. His Cantata avowedly keeps on a modest level, and is on a par with a book written for children, beyond whose limited comprehension it would defeat the purpose to go. I have no doubt that parish choirs will find much that suits them in "Samuel." The story, limited to the birth, dedication, and call of the Prophet, is simply told, with interspersed reflections, and the music taxes nobody's powers of comprehension. That little effect was made by it in Hereford Cathedral may have been foreseen, because the work was manifestly out of place. The performance, in which Miss Hilda Wilson took a small part, cannot be described by any stronger word than fair.

At the morning service on Tuesday, when the united choirs efficiently sang a Service by Dr. Hopkins and S. S. Wesley's noble Anthem "Ascribe unto the Lord," the Festival sermon was preached by the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Canon in Residence and Oxford Professor of Music. The preacher somewhat disappointed many among his congregation, who naturally expected that the discourse would be an important vindication of sacred music in its widest sense. But Sir Frederick Ouseley said not a word regarding the art, limiting himself exclusively to the virtue of charity, and the opportunity then afforded for its particular exercise. I do not know whether this had anything to do with the smallness of the "collection." The congregation had not long dispersed before the audience of "Elijah," with which the Festival performance opened, began to assemble. Religious observances were connected with the Oratorio, as is now the decent and edifying custom, prayers being offered both before and after, the whole concluding with the Blessing by the Bishop, who was present throughout the week. Mendelssohn's Oratorio attracted its customary large gathering of admirers, and was, on the whole, fairly well performed, with Miss Anna Williams, Madame Enriquez, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley as principal soloists, assisted by Miss Ambler, Mr. Banks, Mr. Brereton, and others. The chorus and orchestra were not less competent than the individual artists to the now light and easy claims of a well understood work.

Sullivan's "Golden Legend" filled the programme of the first secular Concert in the Shire Hall, on the evening of the same day. It had an immense advantage in the composer's personal direction, and, although no rehearsal took place, the performance went smoothly and well from beginning to end. I do not see much to wonder at in this. The principal singers, Madame Albani, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Brereton, were, with the exception of the last-named, perfectly familiar with their task; the orchestra ditto, while the chorus, exclusively made up of the Leeds people, not only knew the work but Sir Arthur Sullivan's wishes with regard to it. Hence the exceptional success of an effort made without direct preparation. The only drawback to the performance was its disregard of the acoustics of a small and resonant room. Both the orchestra and some of the soloists made this mistake, to their own disadvantage as well as the discomfort of the audience. It is needless to insist upon the fact that Sir Arthur Sullivan, his leading exponents, and his Cantata were cordially applauded by a crowded and distinguished audience. Mr. Brereton may be warmly commended for his singing as Lucifer.

Wednesday morning's programme contained a selection from "Samson" (with Mr. Prout's additional accompaniments) and Sterndale Bennett's "Woman of Samaria"—two good things only needing an adequate performance in order to give satisfaction all round. With regard to the "Samson" selection I shall be content to point out that it was a double failure. The choice of pieces omitted some of the best numbers, and included a lot of recitative in the vain hope of sustaining the continuity and interest of the story, while in the performance all was confusion, even the Conductor seeming not to know, at times, what should come next. This state of things reached a climax when Dr. Colborne and the orchestra went on to the second part of an air which it was agreed with the singer should be omitted. The singer declined to follow, and a collapse ensued. It is enough to mention these facts, because the reader will know how to construe them. Miss Anna Williams, Madame Enriquez, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Santley did their best to make the performance tolerable, each and all singing well. No fault could be found with these artists. Indeed, Mr. Lloyd, in "Total eclipse," and Mr. Santley, in "Honour and arms," were exceptionally good; nor was Madame Enriquez far behind with "Return, O God of Hosts." But no individual efforts could atone for shortcomings which, with ordinary care, would not have been within the range of possibility. The "Samson" selection is an unpleasant memory of the Festival. Not so the "Woman of Samaria." Here all was plain, straightforward work, and as the music is unexacting, Bennett's beautiful Cantata was heard from beginning to end with satisfaction. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Wilson, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Brereton undertook the solos, which, as everybody knows, specially favour the contralto and tenor, the one having "O Lord, Thou hast searched me out," the other "His salvation is nigh them that fear Him"—two gems "of purest ray serene." All the soloists joined their voices in the quartet "God is a spirit," that touching example of true devotional music, once heard, as never before or since, over the composer's open grave. The lovely choruses made a deep impression, and the general idea, widely and freely expressed at the close of the performance, was that the "Woman of Samaria" ranks as a masterpiece of its kind, deserving far more notice than it receives on Festival occasions. Some of us may ask, à propos, why it is not repeated at Birmingham—where, by the way, it has never been heard in its present completed form—under Festival auspices. Yet we need not feel anxious concerning Bennett's Cantata. So much beauty cannot die, but will develop a stronger and yet stronger life as public taste becomes educated up to its delicate and refined loveliness. On the evening of Wednesday the largest gathering of the week took place in the Cathedral, where the first two parts of Haydn's "Creation" and Spohr's "God, Thou art great" were performed, the soloists in the first being Madame Albani, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Santley; in the second, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Wilson, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Brereton. There is very little to say about this performance. The "Creation" music was, of course, a popular success; the airs more especially, as well rendered by the artists above-named, from among whom the rising tenor, Mr. Banks, should be selected for special mention. Spohr's favourite Cantata greatly pleased the audience, who were charmed, as are all audiences, by the prettiness of the duet, "Children, pray this love to cherish." The performance ended with Schubert's "Song of Miriam," the solo part in which was taken by Miss Anna Williams. I make no reflection on this work when saying that it made the Concert by so much too long. At the end of "God, Thou art great," the attention of the people present was exhausted; but Festival Committees are loth to recognise the possibility of such a thing. They seem to think that English amateurs first measure the length of the programme, and take the result as the figure of its merit. Surely this must be a mistake!

A fairly large audience assembled in the Cathedral on Thursday morning to hear Cherubini's Mass in D minor, F. H. Cowen's "Song of Thanksgiving," Dr. Hubert Parry's "Blest pair of Sirens," and Sir Frederick Ouseley's "Martyrdom of St. Polycarp"—truly a Garagantuan feast of sound! which, however, a considerable number of people sat out with admirable fortitude. The Mass was a genuine treat for the amateurs present, and not least for those who, having heard it twice previously at Worcester, had become somewhat familiar with its beauties. Why do caterers of music in London and elsewhere permit the Three Choir Festivals to have a monopoly of this exquisite work? There is nothing more beautiful of its kind in music, yet amateurs must travel to the West to hear it, or lose one of the greatest of artistic pleasures. But, because the Mass is generally neglected, the Cathedral Festivals may take additional credit for giving it the honour due to supreme excellence. The Mass has already been twice discussed in these pages, and I am spared the necessity of pointing out its weighty claims upon admiration. Enough that there is not a dull page in the score, nor one that lacks points of keenest interest to the cultured amateur, nor one that falls short of the sublimity that should be a constant element in a work designed for religious worship. At Hereford the strength and charm of the music were deeply felt. Supported by the influence of the sacred place, Cherubini's strains subdued the audience till tears came unbidden to many eyes, and even the executants, though concerned with technical difficulties, were wrought up to enthusiastic sympathy. It is not surprising, therefore, that the work was performed with more success than had attended some others, and, indeed, had no reason to complain of deficient interpreters. The solos were, without exception, admirably, sometimes exquisitely, sung by Madame Albani, Miss Ambler, Madame Enriquez, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Santley; nor were the choruses far behind in point of excellence. Those who know the Mass need not be told that the exquisite "Benedictus" carried off the palm of beauty; but it is invidious thus to discriminate among the numbers of a work which may be described as not less perfect in its entirety than the most perfect of its parts. On this occasion Mr. F. H. Cowen's "Song of Thanksgiving," written for the opening of the Centennial Exhibition at Melbourne, was heard for the first time in England. Notice has already been taken of it in THE MUSICAL TIMES, but the "Song" can now be spoken about on the strength of better acquaintance. It is a work that should not share the fate of most pièces d'occasion, but live on for use as a festal piece admirable in its Scriptural text and musical character, and convenient as to dimensions. Mr. Cowen, in the first and third numbers—there are only three, and all are choral—strongly reproves those who, à propos to "Ruth,"

The Musical Times,

The Treasures of the Deep.

October 1, 1888.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORAL SONG FOR UNACCOMPANIED SINGING.

Words by Mrs. HEMANS.

Music by ALFRED R. GAUL.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Tempo moderato. mf

SOPRANO. mf Thou hol - low-sounding

ALTO. mf Thou hol - low-sounding

TENOR. mf What hi - dest thou in thy trea - sure - caves and cells, Thou hol - low-sounding BASS. mf What hi - dest thou in thy trea - sure - caves and cells, ...

PIANO. mf ♩ = 66. mf

Slower. ♩ = 50. p

and mys - te - rious main? Pale glist'ning pearls and rain - bow - co - lour'd shells, and mys - te - rious main? Pale glist'ning pearls and rain - bow - co - lour'd shells, and mys - te - rious main? Pale glist'ning pearls and rain - bow - co - lour'd shells,

. Pale glist'ning pearls and rain - bow - co - lour'd shells,

Slower. ♩ = 50. p

f dim. f p f

Bright things which gleam unreck'd of, and in vain. Keep, keep thy riches, Me-lan-cho-ly sea! We

f dim. f p f

Bright things which gleam unreck'd of, and in vain. Keep, keep thy riches, Me-lan-cho-ly sea! We

f dim. f p f

Bright things which gleam unreck'd of, and in vain. Keep, keep thy riches, Me-lan-cho-ly sea! We

f dim. f p f

Bright things which gleam unreck'd of, and in vain. Keep, keep thy riches, Me-lan-cho-ly sea! We

f ask not such from thee, we ask not such from thee. What wealth un - told,

f ask not such from thee, we ask not such from thee. What wealth un - told,

f ask not such from thee, we ask not such from thee. What wealth un - told,

f

ask not such from thee, we ask not such from thee. Yet more, the depths have more ! . . .

mf dim. rall. a tempo. p mf

Far down, and shining thro' their still-ness lies ! Thou hast the star-ry gems, Thou hast the burning gold,

mf dim. rall. a tempo. p mf

Far down, and shining thro' their still-ness lies ! Thou hast the star-ry gems, Thou hast the burning gold,

mf dim. rall. a tempo. p mf

Far down, and shining thro' their still-ness lies ! Thou hast the star-ry gems, Thou hast the burning gold,

mf dim. rall. a tempo. p mf

Far down, and shining thro' their still-ness lies ! Thou hast the star-ry gems, Thou hast the burning gold,

Won from ten thousand roy - al ar - gosies. f Thy waves have roll'd above the

Won from ten thousand roy - al ar - gosies. f Thy waves have roll'd above the

Won from ten thousand roy - al ar - gosies. f Thy waves have roll'd above the Won from ten thousand roy - al ar - gosies. Yet more, the depths have more! f the rall. mf a tempo.

ci - ties, the ci - ties of a world gone by: Sand hath fill'd up the pa - la - ces of old,

rall. p a tempo.
ci - ties, the ci - ties of a world gone by:  a tempo.*

rall. p a tempo.
ci - ties, the ci - ties of a world gone by:  a tempo.*

rall. p a tempo.
ci - ties, the ci - ties of a world gone by:  a tempo.*

rall. p a tempo.
ci - ties, the ci - ties of a world gone by:  a tempo.*

Sea - weed o'er grown, o'er grown the halls of rev - el - ry, Sand hath fill'd up the pa - la - ces of old mf Sand fill'd up, fill'd up of old

Sand hath fill'd up the pa - la - ces of old

* In the six bars following the asterisk, the Alto, Tenor and Bass will merely sing a musical sound with open lips, but no words.

ff mf rall.

Dash o'er them, o-sea! in thy scorn-ful play: Man yields them to de-cay, yields them to de-cay.

ff mf rall.

Dash o'er them, o-sea! in thy scorn-ful play: Man yields them to de-cay, yields them to de-cay.

ff mf rall.

Dash o'er them, o-sea! in thy scorn-ful play: Man yields them to de-cay, yields them to de-cay.

ff mf rall.

Dash o'er them, o-sea! in thy scorn-ful play: Man yields them to de-cay, yields them to de-cay.

Tempo 1mo. $\text{♩} = 66.$

f

Yet more, the billows and the depths have more! High hearts and brave are ga-ther'd to thy

f

Yet more, the billows and the depths have more! High hearts and brave are ga-ther'd to thy

f

Yet more, the billows and the depths have more! High hearts and brave are ga-ther'd to thy

f

Yet more, the billows and the depths have more! High hearts and brave are ga-ther'd to thy

Tempo 1mo. $\text{♩} = 66.$

dim. p ff

breast: They hear not now the booming wa-ters roar, The bat-tle thunders will not break their rest—

dim. p ff

breast: They hear not now the booming wa-ters roar, The bat-tle thunders will not break their rest—

dim. p ff

breast: They hear not now the booming wa-ters roar, The bat-tle thunders will not break their rest—

dim. p ff

breast: The bat-tle thunders will not break their rest—

Tempo ad lib. cres. f rall. p

Keep thy red gold and gems, thy gold, thou storm-y grave ! Give back the true and brave !

mf cres. f p rall.

Keep thy red gold and gems, thy gold, thou storm-y grave ! Give back the true and brave !

mf cres. f p rall.

Keep thy red gold and gems, thy gold, thou storm-y grave ! Give back the true and brave !

mf cres. f p rall.

Keep thy red gold and gems, thy gold, thou storm-y grave ! Give back the true and brave !

Tempo ad lib. mf cres. f p rall.

Andantino. ♩ = 56. p mf p

Give back the lost and love-ly ! those for whom The place was kept at board and hearth so long, The

p mf p

Give back the lost and love-ly ! those for whom The place was kept at board and hearth so long, The

p mf p

Give back the lost and love-ly ! those for whom The place was kept at board and hearth so long, The

p mf p

Give back the lost and love-ly ! those for whom The place was kept at board and hearth so long, The

Andantino. ♩ = 56. p mf p

mf f mf f

prayer went up thro' midnight's breathless gloom, And the vain yearning woke midst fes-tal song, midst fes-tal

mf f mf f

prayer went up thro' midnight's breathless gloom, And the vain yearning woke midst fes-tal song, midst fes-tal

mf f mf f

prayer went up thro' midnight's breathless gloom, And the vain yearning woke midst fes-tal song, midst fes-tal

mf f mf f

prayer went up thro' midnight's breathless gloom, And the vain yearning woke midst fes-tal song, midst fes-tal song ! Hold fast thy buried isles, hold fast thy tow'rs o'erthrown, But song ! Hold fast thy buried isles, hold fast thy tow'rs o'erthrown, But song, midst song ! Hold fast thy buried isles, thy isles, hold fast thy tow'rs o'erthrown, o'erthrown, But song ! Hold fast thy buried isles, hold fast thy tow'rs o'erthrown, But ff p

all is not thine own. To thee the love of all is not thine own, but all is not thine own. To thee the love of all is not thine own, but all is not thine own. To thee the love of all is not thine own, not thine own. To thee the love of rall. a tempo. p rall. a tempo. p rall. a tempo. p rall. a tempo. p mf rall. a tempo.

woman hath gone down, Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's no - ble head, O'er youth's bright locks, and woman hath gone down, Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's no - ble head, O'er youth's bright locks, and woman hath gone down, Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's no - ble head, O'er youth's bright locks, and woman hath gone down, Dark flow thy tides o'er manhood's no - ble head, O'er youth's bright locks, and p cres. mf p cres. mf p cres. mf p cres. mf

tempo ad lib. mf
 beauty's flow'ry crown; Yet must thou hear a voice— Restore the dead, re-store the dead!
tempo ad lib. mf
 beauty's flow'ry crown; Yet must thou hear a voice— Restore the dead, re-store the dead!
tempo ad lib. ff
 beauty's flow'ry crown; Yet must thou hear a voice— Restore the dead!
ff tempo ad lib. mf
 beauty's flow'ry crown; Yet must thou hear a voice— Restore the dead, re-store the dead!
ff tempo ad lib. mf
 Earth shall re-claim her precious things from thee. thou Sea, a tempo. mf mf
 Earth shall re-claim her precious things from thee. Restore the dead, restore the a tempo. p
 Earth shall re-claim her precious things from thee. thou Sea
a tempo. p
 Earth shall re-claim her precious things from thee. thou Sea
f a tempo. mf p mf
p tempo ad lib. dim.
 thou Sea, re-store the dead, thou Sea.
tempo ad lib. mf dim.
 dead, re-store the dead, thou Sea.
tempo ad lib. mf dim.
 thou Sea, re-store the dead, thou Sea.
tempo ad lib. mf dim.
 thou Sea, re-store the dead, thou Sea.
p mf tempo ad lib. p dim.
 Ped. *

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

JUDITH

OR,

THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH

AN ORATORIO

BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 5s.; Paper Boards, 6s.; Cloth, 7s. 6d.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. 6d.

	s. d.
First Violin	7 0	Bass Clarinet	In the Press.	Trombones, A. and T. ...	In the Press.
Second Violin	6 6	Bassoons	"	Bass	"
Viola	6 6	Double Bassoons	"	Tuba	"
V'cello and Double Bass	9 6	Horns, 1 and 2	"	Drums	"
Flutes	In the Press.	" 3 and 4	"	Harp	"
Oboes	"	Trumpets, 1 and 2	"	Organ	"
Clarinets	"	" 3 and 4	"	Full Score	"

THE TIMES.

The Finale of the first act, in which the two hostile nations are brought into conflict, is masterly in design and full of impetus. . . . The Finale of the second act is again splendidly developed, but the gem of that act is its third scene, introduced by the orchestral Nocturne. This is followed by alternate choral and solo passages, which are couched in the form of the classic strophe and antistrophe, and in which Manasseh and the Jewish watchmen express their anxiety for the fate of Judith. The scene finds its climax in the return of the heroine, who carries her ghastly trophy and announces her success with a shriek of triumph on a high B flat. Here the composer has fully grasped the situation, and has succeeded accordingly.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Turning from Dr. Parry's book to his music, I am disposed to cry, "Welcome home!" as Handel is said to have done at the close of a particularly long and discursive cadenza. There was a time, not so far distant, when the composer of "Judith" appeared to me as a wanderer in the wilderness, roaming aimlessly over a pathless waste. He was, however, only sowing his wild oats, and it is said of those who perform that feat with energy and determination that they often come back to the pursuit of more legitimate husbandry, and therein achieve special distinction. Dr. Parry has been coming back for some time past. We can trace his progress stage by stage. Out of darkness into light he has steadily advanced, till now, on the evidence of "Judith," he stands in the full blaze of orthodoxy, and has "found salvation." . . . The success of "Judith" with the audience was never in doubt, Dr. Parry being recalled and vociferously applauded not only at the close of the performance, but at the end of the first part.

THE STANDARD.

Without any preamble, let me say at once that Dr. Hubert Parry's oratorio "Judith" was produced this morning under the most favourable conditions and with emphatic success. The performance, under Herr Richter's guidance, was all that the most critical taste could have desired; and the composer (who is his own librettist) was called to the orchestra amidst prolonged acclamations, both at the end of the first act and the termination of the work.

MORNING POST.

Dr. Parry was most enthusiastically received after each part, and was honoured by a most hearty burst of applause at the end, so that the verdict of the audience was distinctly and deservedly in his favour. He has shown in "Judith" considerable powers of invention and scholarship, and a large sympathy with dramatic needs. . . . The musician who could produce such a work as "Judith," so full of power, character, and expression, has surely not said his last word.

DAILY NEWS.

That Dr. Parry is a consummate master of all the resources of the orchestra lovers of music need not be reminded, while particularly in the "Moloch" scenes he has treated the chorus in a manner which not infrequently shows a touch of true genius. His reception at the end of each part was most enthusiastic.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"Judith" may be warmly praised for the general excellence of writing, which in more than one situation is really masterly, for its wealth and variety of thematic material, for its dramatic spirit, and, above all, for its clearness. Both in its martial and more reposeful elements it is one of the most taking compositions in its peculiar line produced for some time. That it will be heard again, and speedily, can scarcely be doubted.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

Provincial audiences appreciate a work in which there is plenty of go, and "Judith" was an unquestionable popular success this morning.

THE ATHENÆUM.

In speaking of a performance of "Prometheus Unbound" three years ago, we referred to the great skill evinced in some of the choral writing, and ventured to anticipate that it would eventually yield good fruit. This prediction has been exactly fulfilled in the Oratorio entitled "Judith," produced on Wednesday morning with every evidence of a triumphant success. . . . No finer oratorio music than this has been written for many years.

GUARDIAN.

The success of Dr. Hubert Parry's new oratorio was of the most unequivocal kind, the audience finding it impossible to obey the printed injunctions concerning applause at the morning performances, and cheering the composer heartily after both parts of a work which will not be long in being recognised as among the highest achievements of English music.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

assumed that he could not write a powerful chorus. Here are the breadth and dignity appropriate to ascriptions of praise, in combination with feats of musicianship which secure high technical merit and guard against commonplace. The middle chorus, "Except the Lord keep the city," presents an effective contrast not only as being for voices alone, but also on account of refinement and delicacy of style. It is easy to see that into the whole work the composer put his full strength and his reward should be public approbation. The "Song of Thanksgiving" was well performed, as was, in yet a higher degree, Dr. Parry's noble setting of Milton's Ode "Blest pair of Sirens." The composer himself conducted in this case, and had the satisfaction of securing all possible advantage of interpretation, the result being that those who had admired the music before thought even better of it, and were confirmed in an impression that modern art has produced few compositions entitled to rank before it.

Sir Frederick Ouseley's "Martyrdom of St. Polycarp" appears to have disappointed the expectations of some who, discovering that it was written for a degree exercise more than thirty years ago, were prepared to make a butt of "musty-fusty" counterpoint. Instead of something to laugh at these found a good deal to respect. The music, truly, is not the most modern, and belongs to the time when the influence of Mendelssohn was paramount; but it is good music all the same, not without a certain dramatic force and picturesqueness of effect. Two choruses only are fugal, and only the final one seems to have been written exclusively for the examiner's eye. These, as may be supposed, are masterly of their kind, but the real value of the Oratorio lies in its expressive airs and dramatic concerted pieces, most of which are happy in their conception and working out. I see no reason why "St. Polycarp" should be relegated to the shelf. It is a very useful work for provincial Choral Societies—or any other be it said—it is such music as an average audience enjoys, and its influence can work no otherwise than to the improvement of a taste for dignified religious art. On this account the choice of "St. Polycarp" at Hereford may frankly be commended as an act of justice, tending, moreover, to edification. The performance, in which Miss Anna Williams, Miss Ambler, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley took part, was one of the best of the week. This is but partly explained by the comparative easiness of the music; and it is clear that Dr. Colborne's natural desire to do the most possible for his old friend and patron met with sympathy on the part of the performers.

"The Messiah" was given on Friday morning in presence of a large audience, most of the artists so often named above taking part in it; the only important exception being Mr. Lloyd. Regarding the performance I cannot speak from personal observation; but the "sacred oratorio" may be left to take care of itself with some confidence.

There remains to notice only a miscellaneous Concert given in the Shire Hall on Thursday evening, and the final chamber Concert in the same place on the following day. These may be dismissed very briefly, because, though welcome features in the general scheme, they had no Festival importance whatever. The first programme contained the Overtures to "Euryanthe," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "The Merry Wives of Windsor," as well as a pretty Minuet and Gavotte for strings, by Mr. C. L. Williams, and a number of songs, relieved by madrigals, &c., contributed by the Leeds contingent of the choir. All went smoothly and greatly pleased a numerous audience. At the chamber Concert were performed, by Messrs. Carrodus, B. M. Carrodus, Blagrove, and C. Ould, Beethoven's Quartet in F (Op. 18) and the No. 1 of Mendelssohn's (Op. 44). A crowded audience heard these works with an appreciation delightful to note. So with Bach's Chaconne in D minor, for violin alone, wonderfully played by Mr. Carrodus, and vociferously applauded. Songs by Misses Ambler and Wilson, and part-songs by the Leeds choir made up the balance of the programme, and rounded off a most interesting Concert.

It is to be feared that the Stewards of the Festival will have a deficit to make up, but that is their raison d'être, and they will not complain. The collections for the charity amounted to a little over £800, which will doubtless be increased to the average amount of £1,000.

THE NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD AT WREXHAM.

THE National gathering was held on the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th ult. The pavilion at Wrexham this year was erected for the purposes of the meeting, at a cost of about £700, and contained sitting accommodation for about 6,000 persons, and standing-room for 1,500 more. Mr. W. M. Roberts discharged the general secretarial duties. Mr. Marchant Williams (Barrister) delivered the inaugural address at the Cymmrodorion, and dwelt upon the advantages arising from a study of Welsh literature. Clwydfardd, the venerable Archdruid, whose name is so well-known throughout Wales in connection with the ancient institution, conducted the ceremony of the Gorsedd, assisted by other bards, and in the processional demonstration the band of the 2nd Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers took a prominent part. Sir Edward Watkin presided at the first meeting, and, naturally enough, perhaps, laid stress on commercial matters affecting the Principality. The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, about whose visit to Wrexham some controversy arose, also addressed the great audience. It will not be necessary to follow all the events of the Eisteddfod in detail. On each evening of the Eisteddfod musical performances were given. On the first night there was a miscellaneous Concert. On the second night the Oratorio "Elijah" was rendered by the Wrexham Choral Union (250 voices: Mr. J. T. Prichard, Conductor), aided by an orchestral band, led by Mr. T. Shaw. The chief vocalists were Mrs. Mary Davies, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. James Sauvage. At the Concert on the third evening the principal vocalists were Madame Antoinette Sterling, Miss Annie Roberts, Eos Morlais, Mrs. Glanffirwyd Thomas, Mr. J. T. Prichard, and Mr. James Sauvage. The last night was devoted to an impressive performance of "The Messiah" by the Wrexham Philharmonic Society (350 voices: Rev. Hylton Stewart, M.A., Conductor). The soloists were Miss Anna Williams, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Charles Banks, and Mr. J. Bridson. The president, Mr. Evan Morris, mentioned that in the aggregate 50,000 persons had visited the Eisteddfod.

Results of the Musical Competitions. First day:—The adjudicators in the several departments were—Mr. Ebenezer Prout, B.A., Mr. A. J. Caldicott, M.B., Mr. John Thomas, Queen's Harpist, Mr. D. Jenkins, M.B., Aberystwith, Mr. D. E. Evans, Mr. F. Gregory (Bandmaster, 2nd Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers), Mr. C. F. Lloyd, M.B. Prizes for the best setting of Bishop Heber's hymn "From Greenland's icy mountains," for soprano solos, for pianoforte solos (for competitors under 15 years of age), for tenor and bass duet, for quartet singing, for string quartet singing, &c., were awarded. In the chief choral competition open to all comers, for choirs of not less than 150 and not more than 200 voices, the first prize was given to the Carnarvon choir.

On the second day:—Prizes for violin solos, for Welsh lyrics suitable for setting to music, for sight-singing quartet, for pedal harp playing, for sight-playing reading at the pianoforte, for solo compositions for soprano or contralto voice, and for a choral competition for children (in English or Welsh).

On the third day prizes were given for Penillion singing, for soprano and contralto duet singing, for a triple harp solo, for a tenor solo, for solo compositions for male voices, for a pianoforte competition, and for a musical setting of Psalm 97 (Welsh words or Welsh and English words only) for soli and chorus, with accompaniment for pianoforte and stringed instruments (not to occupy longer than thirty minutes in performance), eight compositions were sent in, but none of them were deemed worthy of the prize.

The choral competition between choirs of male voices—not less than thirty nor more than fifty in number—excited a remarkable amount of interest. The test pieces were "Greek War Song" (Dr. J. C. Bridge) and "The long day closes" (Sir A. Sullivan). On behalf of the adjudicators, Mr. Caldicott awarded first prize to the Clwydian, Ruthin (Mr. R. H. Jones), and the second to the Arvonian.

On the fourth and last day prizes were offered for the performance of an orchestral brass wind instrument solo, for Welsh quartet singing, for pastoral song, after the style of Richards, Ystradmeurig; for a brass band competition, for a bass recitative and solo, for glees (English or Welsh) for male voices, for a choral competition, confined to Welsh choirs. In connection with this, a bâton of Welsh gold was offered by Mr. W. Pritchard-Morgan, Dolgelly, to the Welsh choir who shall be adjudged the best in two successive years at a National Eisteddfod. The bâton, it may be observed, was of beautiful workmanship, ornamented emblematically with enamelled inscriptions and figures, and enriched with circles of pearls and garnets. It was exhibited at Merthyr by request. The first prize was awarded to Newtown Choir and the gold bâton to Mr. W. Jenkins. The Eisteddfod next year will be held at Brecon.

The discussion on the proposed National Musical Association for Wales, at the meeting of the Cymmrodorion Society, convened by Mr. Vincent Evans, the Secretary, on the 6th ult., was anticipated with special interest, the proposal being an important one emanating from Mr. Joseph Bennett. Particulars of the proposition will be found in another column.

The National Eisteddfod Association received applications from Bangor and Rhyl to be chosen as the place of the 1890 meetings. At the meeting of the Association, on the 6th ult., the Chief Bard presiding, a vote was taken, when it was decided by twenty-seven to nineteen to go to Bangor.

OBITUARY.

MADAME BLANCHE COLE (Mrs. Sidney Naylor), for many years a leading operatic artist, died, on August 31, in London. To the younger generation of opera-goers Madame Blanche Cole was little more than a name and a tradition; but older lovers of opera must preserve clear memories of her appearances. Fifteen years ago, probably, she was at the zenith of her fame as an accomplished artist, endowed with a remarkably good voice which she displayed to great advantage in serious or heroic opera. Madame Cole began her stage career at an early age, and from the first the delightful silvery quality of her voice brought her prominently to the front. She could scarcely be more than 37 years of age when she died, although her name has been amongst the first of English operatic singers for many years. When Balfe's opera "The Puritan's Daughter" was performed some years ago by the Carl Rosa Company, Madame Blanche Cole sang the music of Mary Wolf with marked success. She was everywhere known for her graceful acting, which, apart even from the careful manipulation of her pure and beautiful voice, had always made her a favourite with opera-goers. Her death occurred from dropsy, from which she had suffered for some time.

MRS. SEGUIN, who recently died in New York at the age of 74, will hardly be recollected in this her native country. Her maiden name was Ann Child. She was one of the earliest students at the Royal Academy of Music, and after singing at the Philharmonic Concerts, she made her début at the King's Theatre (now Her Majesty's) in 1836. She married Mr. Seguin, the basso, who was also a Royal Academy student, and who, it is said, sang at Her Majesty's Coronation. In 1839 she went with him to the United States, where she resided, first as an operatic prima donna, and afterwards as a teacher.

SIGNOR TITO RICORDI.—The Gazzetta Musicale di Milano announces the death of Signor Tito Ricordi, in his seventy-seventh year, the head of the famous house of that name, which took place at Milan on Friday, the 7th ult. The deceased gentleman was a Commendatore of the orders of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, and also a member of the Academy. He was intimately connected with Verdi, whose operas were all originally published by the house of Ricordi. The firm of which he was the head published many operas also by Rossini, Mayer, Carafa, Balfe, Bellini, Donizetti, &c., the original MSS. of which were preserved in the archives of the house. Tito Ricordi succeeded his father Giovanni, who founded the world-renowned publishing firm at Milan about a century since. Like his father, he was a man of commanding ability and indomitable zeal. The business will be carried on by his son, Giulio.

The death of J. ORLANDO CHRISTIAN, late of the Choir of Eton College, is also announced as having occurred on the 14th ult., in the 57th year of his age. Mr. Christian was an excellent bass singer, formerly attached to Lincoln Cathedral and afterwards to St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London. He was a member, and one of the most earnest helpers, of the Choir Benevolent Fund. At the time of his death he was in receipt of a pension from Eton College, from the choir of which he had recently retired.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BIRMINGHAM has scarcely recovered from the Musical Festival of last August, and though there is no dearth here of musical attractions, current and prospective, it cannot be said that the public response is very keen or cordial yet. Even the Russian Opera Company, which proved such a popular success on the occasion of its first visit a couple of months ago, has failed to "draw" this time, in spite of an enlarged repertory; but this may be due in some measure to the absence of M. Tartakow, the former representative of Rubinstein's amorous Demon, whose charm of voice and passionate intensity of manner had excited something of a furore among local opera-goers. Besides "The Demon," the company gave this time Verdi's "Rigoletto" and Tschaikowski's "Mazeppa," both in Russian, and the last-named work for the first time in Birmingham. As these works, and their performance by the Russian Company, have already been described at Liverpool and elsewhere, it will suffice here to testify to the generally excellent rendering which they received at the hands of the same company in Birmingham, and the keen interest excited by the Russian operas among local musicians and amateurs. "Mazeppa," in particular, was very warmly appreciated, and in spite of the terrible and gloomy nature of the libretto, which is derived from a poem of Puschkin, the dramatic character of the work and the piquant originality and picturesqueness of a great deal of the music, won for it a liberal measure of applause. The acting and singing of M. Michael Winogradow, in the character of Kotschoubey, more particularly in the prison scene, was even finer, if possible, than the same artist's performance as the love-stricken fiend in Rubinstein's work. M. Lubimow was very effective in the part of Rigoletto in Verdi's work, and M. Bogatirow raised the part of Andrei in Tschaikowski's opera into real artistic importance.

The only other musical events of the month have been a short season of "Dorothy" at the Theatre Royal, and the opening of the Midland Musical Society's season on the evening of the 22nd ult., when the programme comprised Mr. A. R. Gaul's "Holy City" and Mr. T. Anderton's "John Gilpin," both works being capitally given with full band and chorus, and Miss Howle and Madame Oscar Pollack, Mr. H. Britton and Mr. Nicholls as vocal principals.

In another week or two the local musical season will be in full swing. First come Messrs. Harrison with a scheme of four Subscription Concerts at monthly intervals, commencing on the 15th inst., for which they announce an imposing list of artistic engagements. Among the vocalists who have been secured for these Concerts are Madame Albani, Madame Valleria, Madame Nordica, Miss Alice Whitacre, Madame and Mdlle. Trebelli, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mdlle. de Lido, Miss Alice Gomes, Miss Hope Glenn, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. O. Harley, Mr. C. Banks, Mr. H. Piercy, Mr. H. Guy, Mr. Barrington Foote, Mr. Santley, and Signor Foli. The Heckmann String Quartet will make their first appearance in Birmingham at these Concerts, and the instrumental department will in other respects be strong in the co-operation of Sir Charles Hallé, M. de Pachmann, Miss Fanny Davies, Master Otto Hegner, Madame Néruda (Lady Hallé), Miss Geraldine Morgan, Miss Nettie Carpenter, Miss Marianne Eissler, M. de Munck, and the celebrated Hallé band, with Messrs Sidney Naylor Bisaccia, and Alois Volkmer as accompanists.

Nothing daunted by the unsatisfactory financial results of their last two seasons, the Festival Choral Society announce an attractive series of four Concerts for their twenty-ninth season, which opens on the 18th inst. with a performance of Gounod's "Redemption." At the second Concert, on December 13, the selection will be Dr. Parry's new and successful Oratorio "Judith." The third Concert, on February 21, will be of a miscellaneous character, including a selection of madrigals and part-songs; and the fourth and final Concert, on March 28, will be devoted to Mendelssohn's "Elijah." The principal vocalists engaged include Madame Nordica, Madame Dotti, Madame Georgina Burns, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Morley, Miss Damian; Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. H. Piercy, Mr. Charles Banks, Mr. Brereton, Mr. Grice, Mr. H. Pope, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. Leslie Crotty. The organist is Mr. C. W. Perkins, and the band and chorus will number 450 performers. Mr. Stockley as usual will conduct.

Mr. Stockley will also give on his own account four Orchestral Concerts, commencing on November 15. His band of eighty performers, drawn from Metropolitan as well as local sources, is now generally acknowledged to be one of the best provincial organisations in the country, and the Conductor spares no pains to increase its efficiency and find worthy employment for it. In the course of the forthcoming series we are promised Dr. Hubert Parry's Orchestral Suite, conducted by the composer in person, and the subscribers are led to hope that Herr Grieg and Mr. Goring Thomas will also conduct some of their own works for Mr. Stockley. The engagements include Madame Nordica, Mdlle. Antoinette Trebelli, Miss Fanny Moody, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Banks, Mr. Grice, and Mr. Charles Manners, vocalists, and Mr. Carrodus as solo violinist.

An interesting Service of Song took place at Solihull Parish Church on the evening of the 21st and the afternoon of the 22nd ult., in celebration of the re-opening of the restored edifice and the enlargement of the organ, which has been rebuilt with extensive additions by Messrs. Hill and Son, at a cost of over £500. At the first service the Anthem was Smart's "Sing to the Lord," with bass solo by Mr. Frank May. On the following afternoon Mr. Gaul's "Holy City" was given with a choir of 100 voices, and Miss Lilian Mills as principal soprano. The composer himself presided at the organ, and the Conductor was Mr. Courtenay Woods.

MUSIC IN DRESDEN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE centre of musical interest recently in Saxony has been the Wagner cyclus, which commenced at Dresden on Saturday, the 22nd ult., with "Rheingold," followed by "Walküre," on Sunday, and "Siegfried," on Monday, and concluding with "Götterdämmerung," on Thursday, the 27th ult.

The visitors' appetite was duly whetted on the 19th ult. by a performance of "Tannhäuser," which is now as familiar to the orchestra and chorus in Dresden as the "Elijah" to London executants, and in theatrical language plays as "close" as may be. The unerring precision of execution which this familiarity produces is somewhat counterbalanced in the hands of Herr Schuch (a conductor transplanted from Vienna) by the breathless rapidity with which more than one number (notably the march) was given. The metronome time (so carefully indicated by Wagner) was substantially exceeded; not, it is true, at the expense of accuracy, but so as to alter the character of the movement. Fräulein Malten and Herr Gudehus showed powers unimpaired by another year of Wagner and his imitators. The lady soars in high latitudes with an ease and grace which cause the listener to doubt his power of recognising pitch. Her variety of pose and gesture would seem inexhaustible, but for one little characteristic deprecatory movement of the hand, which borders on mannerism. But the frequent performances of this opera have left their mark by inducing a somewhat perfunctory rendering of by-scenes—i.e., those where she is not the most prominent figure. Still, however, the feeling which pervades the whole representation is miles above the egotistical and conventional bearing of the typical Italian diva, and the former enviable quality finds in Dresden its counterpart in the breathless interest of the closely packed audience. A feature in Saxon theatricals worth noting is the admirable and reassuring construction of the building with a view to rapid exit. If broad passages between the rows, unobstructed by extemporised seats; large double doors on the swing; and simplicity of staircase arrangement cannot ensure safety in this respect, which has yet to be shown, at all events a useful moral effect is produced, and the tendency to panic lessened.

Amateurs of chamber music will be glad to learn that the meetings of the Ton-Künstler-Verein commence with a series of Beethoven Quartets on November 2.

Herr Trenkler's admirable military orchestra, with an admixture of strings, takes possession of the Belvedere on the Brühl Terrace, so dear to English passers-by, early in October; and about the same time Herr Stahl commences a series of highly interesting programmes; the latter entertainment includes the performance by a first-class orchestra of classical Symphonies, relieved by modern works (including occasional renderings of the Scandinavian Symphony of our gifted compatriot, F. Cowen), and relieved also by a substantial bill of fare in the literal sense. Amateurs whose musical experience is bounded by St. James's Hall on the north and the Crystal Palace on the south must come to the Gewerbe-Haus to understand how Beethoven and beer, Mozart and mutton cutlets, can be simultaneously swallowed without an indigestion.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE principal feature of general interest during September and the preceding month has been the annual visit of the Carl Rosa Opera Company. During former years we were also favoured with their presence in spring as well as autumn, but only one visit is now vouchsafed to us. The company is but little changed since last here, with the exception of the absence of Madame Marie Roze. The chief attraction set forth has been the production of Meyerbeer's "Robert the Devil" in an English version, and, as it has not been played for some considerable time in this city, having been last performed in Italian many years ago, it may almost rank as a complete novelty. The cast comprised Mr. Barton McGuckin as Robert, Madame Burns as Princess Isabella, Miss Moody as Alice, and Mr. Manners as Bertram, and, receiving a good rendering as well as being well mounted, drew crowded houses for each performance. The other works given were "Trovatore" (with Miss Amelia Groll as Leonora), "Faust" (Miss Fabris as Margaret and Mr. McGuckin as Faust), "Lucia di Lammermoor," "Carmen" (with Madame Burns in the title-rôle and Mr. McGuckin as José), "Mignon," "Don Giovanni," "Marriage of Figaro," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," and "Puritan's Daughter," by Balfe. The engagement, which has lasted four weeks, has been altogether a very successful one. The band and chorus, under the able direction of Mr. Goossens, have been up to the old high standard, although the former, as usual, would bear reinforcement in the "string" department. Several Concerts were also given by this company in the Leinster Hall. At the last and most successful of these Rossini's "Stabat Mater" was performed, the principal vocalists being Miss Seidle, Miss Dickerson, Mr. McGuckin, Mr. Leslie Crotty, and Mr. Aynsley Cook. The second part of the Concert included the orchestral Introduction to Wagner's "Lohengrin," Act 3; the "Grail Song" from the same work, beautifully sung by Mr. Barton McGuckin, and a selection of ballads from the "Puritan's Daughter."

On the 22nd ult. a Concert was given, also in the Leinster Hall, by a concert party comprising Madame Enriquez, Madame Zagury, Mdlle. Doria, and Signori Morini, D'Anna, Rudersdorf, and Irwing. The programme was chiefly composed of excerpts from well-known operas.

Early in November supporters of music in one of its most attractive forms are promised a visit from Mr. Augustus Harris's Italian Opera Company, and as the names announced so far include those of Miss Ella Russell, Messrs. Ravelli, Miranda, Runcio, D'Andrade, D'Anna, Mdles. Rolla and McIntyre, Madame Trebelli, and others of high standing, performances of a very high quality may be expected. It is understood that amongst other great works the "Huguenots," which was such an attraction during Mr. Harris's season at Covent Garden both this and last year, will be produced.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE announcements of Concerts for the coming season are very promising. Messrs. Paterson and Sons advertise six Orchestral Concerts under the conductorship of Mr. August Manns, one of which is to be a choral performance (Mr. Kirkhope's Choir) for the production of Mr. Hamish MacCunn's new Cantata. Among the artists engaged are Madame Nordica, Madame Belle Cole, Mdles. Larkcom and Gambogi, and Messrs. Bantock Pierpoint and Iver McKay, vocalists; Madame Hopekirk, pianoforte; and Messrs. Marsick and Wolff, violin.

During October Mr. Frederick Lamond will give a Pianoforte Recital and the Fraser Quintet will give two performances. For November, a grand evening Concert is announced, with M. Pachmann, Madame Sterling, and Miss Geraldine Morgan (violin); Madame Essipoff will give a Pianoforte Recital; and Sir Charles and Lady Hallé bring us their customary treat.

The Edinburgh Choral Union have chosen the following for this season's performance: Parry's "Judith," "The Messiah," Bach's Magnificat, and Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride." Besides these, there will be the usual number of Chamber Concerts and Recitals by local artists.

Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, of the Lyceum Theatre, announce that they have arranged with Mr. Augustus Harris for six performances of Italian Opera, commencing October 15, as follows:—"Don Giovanni," "Faust," "Le Nozze di Figaro," "Les Huguenots," "Carmen," "Il Flauto Magico," and "Il Trovatore." Among the artists we shall welcome old friends—Madame Trebelli, Mdle. Bauermeister, and Messrs. Runcio, Foli, De Vascchetti, and Ciampi, besides a number of artists whose names are new to us.

The Carl Rosa Company also promise us a visit.

During the week commencing the 17th ult. Messrs. D'Oyley Carte's company performed, at the Lyceum Theatre, "The Mikado." The performance was enjoyable, but the orchestra left a good deal to be desired. This same company will give two performances of "The Pirates of Penzance." Later on we are to have Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Glasgow Choral Union have now completed their arrangements for the usual winter Concerts in St. Andrew's Hall. The series will consist of eleven Subscription Concerts—three choral, seven orchestral, and one of chamber music. The dates are as follows:—Choral Concerts, December 18, January 1 and 31; Orchestral Concerts, December 13 and 27, January 3, 8, 15, 22, and 29, the Chamber Concert taking place on April 4. The choral works to be performed are, as previously mentioned, Mr. Hamish MacCunn's new Cantata "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" (commissioned by and specially composed for the Glasgow Choral Union), Handel's "Messiah," Sir A. Sullivan's Cantata "The Golden Legend," and Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night." No details are yet published of the Orchestral Concerts, but it is promised that the programmes will contain several interesting novelties, and also many well-known and favourite compositions. The orchestra will consist of about seventy-five performers, Mr. M. Maurice Sons, who was chef d'attaque two years ago, being again leading violin. Mr. August Manns will conduct the Orchestral Concerts as hitherto, and Mr. J. Bradley the Choral Concerts.

The usual popular Concerts will be given on the Saturdays during the season. No further particulars are given regarding this part of the scheme, but there is every reason to expect that what has proved of such financial value during past years will continue to receive the special attention of the management. The list of artists, vocal and instrumental, engaged for the series is lengthy and important. The names are these: Mesdames Nordica, Clara Samuell, Agnes Larkcom, Marian Mackenzie, Belle Cole, Misses Marriott, Damian, and Gambogi, soprano and contralto; Messrs. Barton McGuckin, Iver McKay, Probert, Andrew Black, Grice, and Henschel, tenors and basses. There are also, of solo violinists, Dr. Joachim and Messrs. M. Sons, Johannes Wolff, and H. Marsick; solo violoncellists, Messrs. Piatti and Gillet; the solo pianists being Misses Janotha and Davies and Madame Hopekirk. Other engagements are pending. The prospectus, with full particulars, both of the artists and the music to be performed, will be issued this month.

With regard to the Chamber Concert, which is a new and welcome feature of the scheme, it may be stated that the committee, being anxious to include the name of Dr. Joachim in connection with it, and the official duties of the eminent violinist precluding his being present during the usual currency of the season, the date was postponed to suit Dr. Joachim, who has been little heard in Glasgow. It is hoped that this may be the beginning of a yearly series of performances of chamber music, such as has long been enjoyed in Edinburgh; with Dr. Joachim as principal violin, but has been denied, for some unaccountable reason, to Glasgow.

The International Exhibition is still pursuing its prosperous course, though there is not much to report of what is new regarding it in a musical respect. An excellent appearance was made by the Queen's Park Free Church Musical Association (seventy voices) on August 30. Selections were sung from Mendelssohn's "Athalie" and from Mozart's Twelfth Mass. Mr. Cunningham conducted. The Glasgow Choral Union took their place on the Exhibition platform for the third time on the 20th ult. Dr. Mackenzie's Inaugural Ode "The new Covenant" was again performed, and with very marked success. The music is very much admired, and is of the genuine kind that grows on the ear with further hearing. On all sides one hears the most complimentary remarks regarding its success as a musical interpretation of the poem. Mr. Joseph Bradley's "Song of Praise," first performed, slightly curtailed, on the occasion of the Queen's visit, was also included in this programme, and met with a cordial reception. The Exhibition Band lent their services in the accompaniment of the works above-named and in other selections, and Mr. J. Bradley conducted. Mr. Thomas Berry officiated at the organ.

Among the organists taking part in the daily Recitals since my last letter, have to be mentioned Mr. W. Schofield, Glasgow; Mr. W. Blakeley, Edinburgh; Mr. H. Graves, Glasgow; Mr. J. Barratt, Paisley; Mr. C. H. Fogg, Manchester; Mr. D. R. Munro, Glasgow; Mr. H. C. Tonking, London; and Mr. A. Gurney, Glasgow.

The Greenock Choral Union, conducted by Mr. W. T. Hoek, have begun the study of Sullivan's Cantata "The Golden Legend" and of Mr. H. MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter" for their first Concert at the end of December, and of Haydn's "Creation" for performance at the end of January. Mendelssohn's "Elijah" is to be studied immediately after the January Concert.

The Ayr Choral Union, under the musical direction of Mr. H. McNabb, have arranged to take up Spohr's "Last Judgment" and Macfarren's Cantata "The Lady of the Lake" for performance in the course of the season. A Concert of Scotch music will be given also, at which the Union may sing some choral arrangements of national melodies.

The prospectus of the seventh year of the Barbour Scheme for the promotion of popular musical education in Paisley has been issued. Among the inducements to study are the refunding of the examination fees to all students in connection with the scheme who may pass subjects one and two of the Royal Academy of Music Local Examination, and a Scholarship of £10 to the Paisley student who, in the judgment of the Committee, is best prepared to enter the Tonic Sol-fa College or the Royal Academy of Music, London. Prizes are offered to students of the violin and violoncello.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

RUMOURS of the prospects of the coming season are beginning to float about, and some few signs of renewed musical life are peeping up. Sir Charles Hallé will meet his subscribers as usual on the last Thursday of the month, and it is understood that during the winter some works new to Manchester will be given. In addition to the customary performances of "The Messiah," "Elijah," and "Faust," we may be treated to Rubinstein's "Paradise Lost," possibly to Handel's "Hercules," and, at last, Mackenzie's "Rose of Sharon" (which Sir Charles will have to superintend or to hear at the Bristol Festival) will be heard here. The tidings, so far as they go, are good, and will cause a satisfaction which recent seasons have not altogether afforded. Herr Beyschlag will resume the choir rehearsals shortly, and Mr. C. H. Fogg will again occupy the organ seat.

Mr. de Jong will open his campaign on the 13th inst., and, as usual, call his friends together on alternate Saturdays. For his first Concert he has secured Mlle. de Lido, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Messrs. Henry Guy and Barrington Foote. At the pianoforte we shall have Vladimir de Pachmann, and M. Munck will give some violoncello solos, so that an interesting programme ought to be compounded.

Dr. Bridge's Cantata "Callirhoë" will be given by the Athenæum Musical Society under Dr. Hiles's direction at the first Concert, and will be followed by several new and unfamiliar works, including Cowen's "Song of Thanksgiving" and Bottesini's "Garden of Olivet," which pleased so greatly last winter. "Callirhoë" is also being rehearsed by the Higher Broughton Musical Society under the care of Mr. R. H. Wilson, Mus. Bac.

The Manchester Vocal Society was re-born when Dr. Henry Watson took it in hand, and was last season placed in a more flourishing condition than ever before. The very long list of the music undertaken by the Society, which has now attained its majority, shows decided energy and perseverance, and the promise of Meyerbeer's 91st Psalm, Wesley's "In Exitu," Tallis's Motett for Forty Voices, and other difficult works during the coming winter proves the courage and confidence of the Conductor.

The Pendleton Choral Union, under Mr. F. W. Blacow, proposes during this, its eighteenth, season, to give four Concerts, with a choir of 150 and an amateur band of about thirty local performers. The multiplication and encouragement of such societies is very desirable, especially at a time when too much choral music is not given here. Doubtless Mr. Lane's Philharmonic Society and Mr. Cross's Sol-fa Choir will be heard in due time, but, so far, no announcement has been made.

The work of the National Society of Professional Musicians during the last season was reviewed in the Manchester Town Hall on the 28th ult., and in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, on the 29th, by Mr. Cummings (Conductor of the Sacred Harmonic Society), with addresses to the students and selections of music by the more advanced graduates. The Society is doing a large work in Lancashire, its birthplace; and has, at its annual festivals, elicited some most interesting addresses from such eminent musicians as the Rev. Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Mr. F. H. Cowen, and Dr. Mackenzie, who has again undertaken to show his sympathy with the Association by visiting the Bristol members as he, two years ago, favoured the north-western section. For the third time the Manchester gathering was presided over by the Mayor, Sir John J. Harwood.

MUSIC IN MONMOUTHSHIRE AND SOUTH WALES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A GREGORIAN Choral Festival was held in connection with the Llandaff Diocesan Choral Association, on the 6th ult., at Christchurch, near Newport. Eight choirs, numbering about 150 voices, attended. Mr. R. Seaton, Margam, conducted as usual, and Mr. H. Prothero, Malpas Court, presided at the organ, the new swell of which was now used for the first time. The chief vocalists were Miss Joseph, Miss Prothero, Mr. Rees (Malpas), and Mr. Seaton.

The absence from the Trades Exhibition, which was opened on the 12th ult. at Cardiff, of the Grenadier Guards Band was a source of considerable disappointment to many. It was the first time we had felt the effect of the new regulation which prohibits bands from playing out of their districts. Lieutenant Dan Godfrey, the bandmaster, not knowing that the regulation would be applied to him, was engaged by the Committee upon terms which were accepted. The manager advertised the band and the programme of music. Only a week before the opening of the Exhibition a telegram was sent to the manager to the effect that the Duke of Cambridge had refused his consent.

After some further communications, from which it appears that Colonel the Hon. W. Hume, Commander of the Grenadier Guards, had interceded in support of the arrangement being carried out, a telegram was despatched by Lieutenant Dan Godfrey on the day of opening:—"Last appeal absolutely refused." It may be added that the services of the Cyfarthfa band were, however, secured for the opening of the Exhibition.

The musical Festival at the new Market Hall, Llanelly, on the 17th ult., in aid of the local hospital funds, was very largely attended. The adjudicators were Mr. J. North, Huddersfield, and Dr. Joseph Parry, University College, Cardiff; Mr. Lucas Williams acting as preliminary test adjudicator. In the bass solo competition, thirty-one competitors, the prize was ultimately awarded to Mr. T. Conwil Evans, Carmarthen. Violin solo, Haydn's Serenade in C, seven entries, Mr. W. Evans, Swansea, received the prize. Miss Adela Bond, Carmarthen, was awarded a prize for her rendering of two contralto solos. Another prize, offered to tenor vocalists—twenty-eight of whom entered—was divided between Mr. H. Prothero, Garnent, and Edward Evans, Brynamman. The prize for pianoforte was divided between Mary E. Rees, Carmarthen, and J. E. Jones, Morriston; and Major Bythway presented Isaac Williams, Swansea, a blind lad, with a supplementary prize. In the male voice competition, "The Martyrs of the Arena," a prize of £15 was offered by the workmen of Messrs. Morewood and Co.'s South Wales Works, and a gold medal by Mr. R. C. Jenkins. The money was divided between the Excelsior (Mr. Isaac Edwards) and the Morriston and Neath United (Mr. Lewis Evans) parties. An additional medal was offered, so that the honours were equally divided. Lord Ashburnham presided over the afternoon meeting. Three choirs competed for a prize for the best rendering of "Yr Arglwydd yw fy Mugail." The Capel Alo, Llanelly, choir (Mr. Seth Jones, Conductor) was successful. Mrs. Lloyd, Llanguennech, took the prize for the best rendering of Pinsuti's "Heaven and earth." "O come everyone" was the test in the quartet competition, but the singing of it was not up to the required standard. The first prize was divided between Garnent and Morriston parties. The test piece in the chief choral competition was "Great and Wonderful," from Spohr's "Last Judgment." The prize was £70, and the choirs consisted of 150 voices and upwards. Six choirs, mostly from a local radius, competed, the honours being awarded to the Carmarthen United Choir, of which Mr. Harding was the Conductor. The amount offered for competition between brass bands was divided between the Llanelly Town Band and the Glamorgan Naval Volunteer Band. At the Concert in the evening the "Stabat Mater" and some miscellaneous pieces were given.

In connection with the Art Exhibition at Queen Street, Cardiff, several Concerts have been organised. On the 10th ult. the programme was sustained by Dr. Treasure, Miss Bella Atkinson, Messrs. W. P. Woolridge, Barth, De Boer, Hulme, and Edwards.

Mr. Lewis Morris (author of "Epic of Hades" and other poetical works) presided at the Assembly Rooms, Carmarthen, on the 18th ult., on the occasion of a Lecture by Mr. W. R. Owen, West Hartlepool, on "Music and Song."

MUSIC IN THE WEST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE forthcoming Triennial Festival at present occupies the musical horizon at Bristol, and Mr. Rootham and his choir are busily preparing for their arduous task. There will be four morning and three evening Concerts, given on the 16th, 17th, 18th, and 19th inst., and the works to be performed are as follows: "Elijah," Cherubini's 4th Mass, "The Rose of Sharon," "The Golden Legend," Gluck's "Iphigenia," Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," "The Walpurgis Night," and "The Messiah," besides vocal and instrumental selections. The soloists will be Mesdames Albani, Anna Williams, Trebelli, Patey, Belle Cole, and Messrs. Edward Lloyd, C. Banks, Watkin Mills, M. Worlock, and Santley. With such an imposing array of first-class vocalists we may safely anticipate good attendances, and the Committee are to be congratulated upon their choice in this respect. The chorus-master is Mr. D. Rootham, the Organist Mr. G. Riseley, and the Conductor Sir Charles Hallé, whose band is engaged as usual.

We are glad to see that the series of Four Classical Chamber Concerts, given by Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy for the last eleven seasons, are again announced to take place during the winter, and we trust that they will be heartily supported.

The Choral Festival of Church Choirs is to be held in Bristol Cathedral on the 11th inst., for which rehearsals are now being held.

Miss Mary Lock announces Four Popular Chamber Concerts for the present season, with the same executants as in former years.

The Ladies' Nights of the Madrigal and of the Orpheus Glee Societies are fixed for the second Thursday in January and for the Thursday before Lent respectively.

Organ Recitals will be given by Mr. G. Riseley at the Colston Hall during the winter months, and we hear that there is a hope of the Monday Popular Concerts being revived. There has been a great deal of correspondence in the local papers on the subject, but it has not, so far, had any practical result, and as time slips by, and we hear of no meeting being convened for the purpose of discussing the possibility of their re-establishment, we begin to fear that we have nothing to look forward to, at any rate this season, and we cannot but deeply regret it, for the disbanding of our local orchestra is a sadly retrograde step, which we have hoped in vain that Bristol would not suffer.

The Bristol Musical Association, under the new presidency of the Rev. Canon Ainger, in place of the Rev. Canon Percival, now removed to Rugby, intends to do some good work during the winter, and promises us several Concerts, to be given, as usual, in Colston Hall, with both popular programmes and prices. At the same time, Mr. G. Gordon, the hardworking Conductor, means to find place for some standard works of note, such as Haydn's First Mass, to be performed at the second Concert, and Mozart's First Mass, advertised for the fourth. At the first Concert, which is to take place on the 6th inst., the programme will be miscellaneous.

The numerous parish Choral Societies are all about to begin work again, and in most cases some composition of solid worth is selected for study. We are pleased to notice the enterprise shown by those in charge of St. Mary Redcliff Church, in the announcement that Roedel's "The Christian's Armour," Spohr's "Last Judgment," Stainer's "Crucifixion," Bridge's "Mount Moriah," and Barnby's "The Lord is King" will probably all be given in the church at special services to be held from time to time during the winter. At the churches of St. Stephen, City; Christ Church, City; St. Nicholas, City; St. Thomas, City; and All Saints', Clifton, special musical services will have place.

Mr. Eade Montefiore, in the course of his tour in Dorset and Devon, visited Bridport, Charmouth, Lyme Regis, Honiton, Sidmouth, and Exmouth, when on each occasion large audiences assembled and gave every evidence of their appreciation. The performers were Miss Jeanie Mills, Miss Maude Hayter, Mr. Eade Montefiore, Mr. Adolph Ziegler, Mr. Charles Ackerman, Mr. A. G. Pritchard, Mr. Alexander Stone, Mr. Albert Stone, and Dr. Harding.

The Exeter Oratorio Society will perform Handel's "Joshua" at their December Concert. The Madrigal Society is still in a state of suspended animation, but there is a rumour that an attempt will be made after Christmas to recommence practice.

The Western Counties Musical Association intends giving Concerts consisting entirely of English music, and the programmes will include Sir Sterndale Bennett's "Woman of Samaria" and "May Queen," Dr. Bridge's new Cantata "Callirhoë," and a miscellaneous selection.

Mr. Farley Sinkins's Subscription Concerts, and the usual Organ Recitals at the Victoria Hall by Mr. D. J. Wood, Mus. Bac., Oxon., complete the list of musical events so far announced for the coming season.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

YORKSHIRE musicians are beginning to buckle on the harness for a fresh spell of hard work, and there are indications of an interesting season in the announcements which have already been made. In four of the principal towns—Leeds, Bradford, Huddersfield, and Halifax—the provision to be made will lack neither variety, abundance, nor matter of novelty. Mr. Alfred Broughton, Mr. Edgar Haddock, the Subscription Concerts Committee, and others will provide for Leeds; and in Bradford, besides the Subscription Concerts, amateurs will have the advantage of listening to chamber music provided by Mr. Midgley and Mr. Misdale, who will have the assistance of many of the best instrumentalists. At Huddersfield the Subscription Concerts will be resumed and the Choral Society will contribute largely to the gratification of the enthusiastic musicians of that town; while in Halifax Mr. Sykes has in hand an extended series of Concerts of the best class.

The excellent Concerts which for several years Mr. Rawlinson Ford has conducted at Leeds, under the name of the Leeds Popular Concerts, will henceforth be known as the Leeds Subscription Concerts. The burden, though taken up with enthusiasm, was too heavy for one man's shoulders, and the work which Mr. Ford formerly carried on unaided has now been transferred to a committee, of which the former promoter is chairman. A glance at the prospectus issued for the ensuing season is sufficient to show that the reputation of the Concerts will not be allowed to suffer in the hands of the new management. Six Concerts are to be given, two of which will be miscellaneous, two chamber, and two orchestral. Sir Charles Hallé will be responsible for the Orchestral Concerts. Among the works promised for the season are Beethoven's Septet for strings and wind, Schumann's Symphony (No. 1) in B flat, Liszt's "Poème Symphonique," Schubert's Quintet in C, for strings, and his great Symphony in C, Mendelssohn's G minor Concerto, and several more or less well-known Overtures and Sonatas of importance. Dr. Joachim is to appear at the final Concert in March in company with Miss Soldat, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Hausmann, Miss Fanny Davies, and Miss Sicca; and among other artists who will be eagerly looked forward to are Madame Minnie Hauk, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Carrodus, and Mr. Santley. The guarantee fund amounts to nearly £1,000.

The Philharmonic Society have not quite completed their arrangements for the winter, but among other works intended to be produced in addition to the regular "annuals"—the "Elijah" and "The Messiah"—are Dvorák's "Stabat Mater," Mr. Hamish MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter," and Dr. Parry's "Blest pair of Sirens." The Dewsbury Choral Society, with a chorus of 200 voices, which also has Mr. Broughton for Conductor, will give the same programme. The Rotherham Choral Union, another battalion of Mr. Broughton's large army, is to give "Athalie," and a miscellaneous selection. All the performances will have a full orchestral accompaniment. The Ilkley Vocal Society contemplates the production of Mackenzie's "Bride," MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter," Lloyd's "Song of Balder," and Sullivan's "Prodigal Son."

Mr. Edgar Haddock has announced a fifth series of musical evenings to take place on ten alternate Mondays commencing in October. At these Concerts Miss Shirmacher, Miss Krause, Miss Zimmermann, the Chevalier Bach, Mr. Max Pauer, Herr Stavenhagen, and M. de Pachmann will appear. The season will see the production of Sonatas by Grieg in C minor, Reinecke in E minor, Rubinstein in A minor, Gade in B flat, Brahms in A, Dvorák in F, and a Sonata specially written by F. Kilvington Hattersley. In addition several new violin works by Mackenzie, Wieniawski, Moszkowski, and others are promised, and at the final Concert Beethoven's Septet will be given.

The Bradford Subscription Concerts Committee are reducing the number of their Concerts from seven to six. Two of these are set apart for "The Messiah" and the "Elijah," the choruses of which will be rendered by the Bradford Festival Choral Society. Sir Charles Hallé will again take the general direction, and will himself give a pianoforte solo. Mdlle. Marie Soldat will appear at one of these Concerts. Madame Norman-Néruda and Signor Piatti will take part in the Chamber Concert. Of works which have not been heard before at Bradford the most remarkable of those which may be expected is Berlioz's "Symphonie Fantastique." Brahms's famous double Concerto for violin and violoncello is down for the second orchestral Concert. Mr. and Mrs. Henschel will give a ballad Concert, assisted by Miss Lena Little and Mr. Orlando Harley, and Mdlle. Janotha as pianist. Madame Valleria, Miss McIntyre, and Miss Alice Whitacre are to be the vocalists at the Chamber Concerts.

The Bradford Festival Choral Society is rehearsing "The Light of the World," which it will revive under the conductorship of Dr. J. C. Bridge in November.

Mr. S. Midgley promises two attractive Concerts, at the first of which, on the 16th inst., the Shinner Quartet will be heard in works by Beethoven and Schubert. With the assistance of Mr. Midgley, Stanford's Quintet will be heard for the first time in Bradford. Among others, Mr. F. Lamond, the young Scotch pianist, is also to appear if his Continental engagements will permit. Mr. Midgley will also be responsible for an attractive series of Concerts at Ilkley.

At Halifax Mr. James H. Sykes is making a departure in the scope of his Concerts with the object of adapting them more closely to the popular level. Two out of the four meetings will be Ballad Concerts.

IN a few days Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. will issue a revised and enlarged edition of their Words of Anthems. It is both comprehensive and extensive, and as it contains the words of the whole of the anthems in general use in the majority of the Cathedrals, Collegiate Choirs, and Churches where choral service is usually celebrated, amounting in number to about 2,000, will be most valuable for use and reference alike in the house of worship as in the home circle. It is printed in bold and readable type, and is so arranged that additions can be made from time to time without disturbing the character of the plan, which is to show, as far as possible, a chronological sequence. The words include many Latin anthems and so forth, which are in constant use in the College Chapels in the Universities.

WE have received the catalogue of a small but very choice collection of autographs, which lie in the hands of Messrs. W. E. Hill and Sons, 38, New Bond Street, for sale. The autographs are all those of composers representing the Italian, the French, the German, and the English schools, and consist chiefly, but not entirely, of musical MSS. Conspicuous among these are a complete Trio for organ, by J. Sebastian Bach; unpublished songs by Schubert, and by our own Henry Purcell; a Scena (unpublished) by Boccherini, and sheets of Studies by Beethoven for three of his most capital works, the Pianoforte Concerto, Op. 73; the Pianoforte Fantasia, Op. 77; and the Choral Fantasia, Op. 80, all written in 1810. There are also two complete works from the pen of Mozart, a complete composition from that of Haydn, for voices and orchestra; a page of Gluck's handwriting and an Air de Danse from his "Admetus," a chapter of Grétry's autobiography, a short Marche Funèbre, improvised by Liszt on the death of his father at Boulogne, August 30, 1827, and interesting MSS. of Auber, Bellini, Donizetti, Rossini, Gounod, Dalayrac, Piccini, Romberg, Spohr, Wagner, Verdi, Weber, and many more well known to fame. The whole collection should not be parted, but should be kept together and lodged permanently in one of our public libraries, where it may be of use to musical students.

THE Finsbury Choral Association will commence its tenth season at the Holloway Hall, under the direction of Mr. C. J. Dale, on St. Cecilia's day (November 22), with Dr. Bridge's "Callirhoë," conducted by the composer, followed by Bennett's "Woman of Samaria." At the subsequent Concerts, which are to take place in February and April, 1889, Costa's Oratorio "Eli," Stainer's "St. Mary Magdalen," Smart's "Bride of Dunkerron," and "The Messiah" are to be performed. The Society is assisted by a full professional band led by Mr. Carrodus, and the excellence of the choral singing which has hitherto been a distinguishing feature of performances of the Association will doubtless secure a series of representations showing artistic advance.

THE MESSRS. Hann announce their third series of Chamber Concerts at the Gresham Hall, Brixton, on the 31st inst., November 21, and December 12. Among the works to be given may be mentioned the String Quartets in A minor, Schumann; Beethoven's in F, No. 7; and Haydn's Op. 80; Brahms's Sestet in B flat; Dr. Mackenzie's fine Quartet for pianoforte and strings; Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor, and solos for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello. There will be a vocalist at each Concert, and one of the most interesting features of the series will be the performance of Brahms's Sestet by the father and his five sons, an event perhaps unprecedented in the annals of music.

MADAME JOSEPHINE CRAVINO gave her annual Concert at the Surrey Masonic Hall on the 25th ult. Madame Cravino, who was well received, sang very effectively in the duets "When the wind bloweth" (Smart) and "Quis est homo" (Rossini). In the former she was associated with Mr. Frederic King, and in the latter with Miss Marianne Fenna. She was also favoured with a special recall after an admirable rendering of "Quando a te lieta" (Gounod). In addition to the artists named, the Concert-giver was assisted by Madame Agnes Larkcom, Mr. Bridson, Miss Amy Hickling (violin), Mrs. Turvey (pianoforte), and Mr. Charles Fry, whose recitations were received with considerable favour.

THE Grosvenor Choral Society gave their 199th consecutive monthly Concert on the 21st ult. The solo vocalists were Miss Louise Bond, Miss Alice Kelly, Mr. John Bartlett, Mr. H. Davis, and Mr. H. Nye. The programme contained pianoforte solos by Miss Linstead and Miss Madge Potter, and part-songs and glees by Cherubini, E. Ford, Hatton, Sir H. R. Bishop, J. Bennett, Waelrent, and R. J. S. Stevens. Mr. David Woodhouse conducted.

ON the 18th ult. a Concert was given at the Clapton Park Schoolroom. Miss Ada Loaring sang "My Lady's Bower" (Hope Temple) and "I'm a merry Zingara" (Balfé), and gained a double recall. The other vocalists were Miss Lily Dafforne, Miss Robinson, Messrs. Duncan-Finlay, Hodgson, and Bernard Fountain. Mr. W. M. Wait, Organist of St. Andrew Undershaft, conducted.

MR. GEO. SHINN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gave an Organ Recital, on Tuesday, the 11th ult., at St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, when the programme included compositions by Bach, Batiste, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Rossini, and Wély. Miss Leah Marchant was the vocalist.

A FESTIVAL will be held on Tuesday, the 9th inst., at SS. Augustine and Faith, Watling Street. Divine Service will commence at 7.30, and Stainer's Cantata "The Daughter of Jairus" will be sung at the conclusion of Evensong.

REVIEWS.

The Mapleson Memoirs, 1848-1888. In two volumes. [Remington and Co.]

IN an anecdotal form Mr. Mapleson, some time director of Her Majesty's Theatre, has given a record of such of his operatic experiences as he deemed would be interesting to the general public. The few particulars of his varied and chequered career undesignedly form an epitome of the history of opera in England and America during the last thirty years or more, the time in which the author has been actually a manager of what has quaintly been called a musical menagerie, or rather happy family. He has been the patient showman to whom was entrusted the task of bringing together, and keeping on good terms with themselves and with each other, the various antagonistic elements which compose an opera company. His book shows the details of his experience from his own point of view, and abounds with stories of his adventures in various parts of the world as a manager. These are told with a certain air of truthfulness and a bonhomie which is perfectly refreshing. Some of the statements made concerning certain of the artists whom the world has been taught to consider great, do not exhibit them surrounded by the like poetical halo which was the characteristic quality of his operatic prospectuses in recommending them to the public. But, as he says: "Some of my plain statements of facts will not, I fear, be fully appreciated by the personages to whom they refer, and in case they should feel offended by my frankness, I ask their pardon beforehand, convinced that they will readily accord it," he appears to be indifferent as to the effect his words may produce. It would be curious and, perhaps, instructive reading were it possible to have the stories told or commented upon from the other side. They might possibly augment the humour and intensify the quiet sarcasm of the original relation.

Mapleson qualified himself in the ten years preceding his début as an impresario by his studies at the Royal Academy, and his experiences as a violinist at Her Majesty's Theatre, as a critic on the Atlas newspaper, as a tenor singer, as a composer, a libretto writer (he adapted the "Bohemian Girl" to Italian words), a Concert director, and musical agent. When acting subordinate to Mr. E. T. Smith, of whom he relates many amusing anecdotes, he learned much that was valuable in after life, including the art of making the most of bad bargains. In all his relations concerning the vicissitudes of his career as a manager he commands the sympathies of his readers by the cheery spirit he evinces in misfortune, and he gains their admiration for ingenuity in evading failure by promptitude and energy. But the "memorials" valuable for their incidental help to the musical historian, are more so to those who can enjoy the underlying depth of knowledge of human nature, especially musical human nature, and the quiet unobtrusive sly humour with which he tells his adventures. His insight into the character of others is great, but that he knows himself also, and has thereby learned one of the greatest of all philosophical lessons, is implied when he says "I resolved to carry on the opera again in a larger locale next year in order that I might get straight; vowing, as the Monte Carlo gambler constantly does, that as soon as I got quite straight I would stop, and never play again. I have been endeavouring during the last thirty years to get straight, and still hope to do so."

There are many stories of the peculiarities of various singers and others connected with the theatre which will be read with interest by those who remembered the artists as well as by those who make acquaintance with them through the book. The story of Giuglini's passion for kite flying in the Brompton Road, and the kindly omnibus drivers going out of their way so as not to spoil his sport, is most amusing; the anecdote of Santley's eloquence, which saved a panic during an alarm of fire, "Don't act like a lot of fools. It's nothing"; of Mario's devotion to his cigar, of Madame di Murska's passion for animals, of Mongini and the tailor, of Nilsson appearing before the Shah in the rags of Mignon, of Del Puente who declined the part of Escamillo in "Carmen," because he affirmed it was intended for one of the chorus, of Minnie Hauk, Marie Roze and the dressing room, of Gerster in "The Talisman," the fight between the Weber and the Steinway men, of Masini and his retinue, the many stories of Patti and her salaries, and of the other members of the company, abroad and at home, are excellent reading.

The stories of the burning of Her Majesty's Theatre, of the amalgamation of the opera companies, of the elder Gye's intrigues and "annual onslaughts," of the difficulties with Sir Michael Costa, of the Chicago and Cincinnati strikes, of the many ups and downs of the American campaign, of his return to London, of the Patti fiasco at Her Majesty's Theatre, and several other matters, are all well told, and did time and space permit of their transfer to these pages, might serve to swell this notice of a very entertaining book.

He does not underrate his own services to art when he proudly takes credit for having introduced many of the famous singers of his time to the public, or of being the first to give Wagnerian opera in England. He produced "Faust," "Carmen," and a number of other works now familiar and of which the rights were wrested from him by "pirates and smugglers." He avoids self-glorification, however, concerning these things, and only indulges in it when he speaks of his military connection. A number of letters—evidently inserted for the benefit of American readers—form the padding of the book. The musical reader may skip these, and the military reader may derive amusement from them.

The peculiar naïveté with which he relates certain stories about demonstrations, torch-light processions, presentations, and bouquet-throwing will raise a smile to the lips of those who know how these things are managed. His remarks about the formation of a School for Opera, on behalf of which he spent so much labour and money, are just, and may, in course of time, be acted upon with modifications. The memoirs are instructive as well as entertaining, and, admitting his desire to be frank in recording "the few partial defeats, and the many brilliant victories incident to his life," may be accepted as an earnest intention to be faithful, if not impartial. There are a few errors besides those of partiality which may be revised in the later editions of the work. For example, the Bolton he refers to is Walter, not George, and the artist who extinguished the burning Well in the performance of "Il Rinnegato," was Runcio, not Galassi. He tells the story of Minnie Hauk's first appearance in this country as Amina, but he says nothing of the Controversy on Pitch, which arose out of that performance. He relates the circumstance of his first engagement of Ravelli and of that singer's subsequent treatment of him. He does not say that he was eagerly accepted because he agreed to sing in "Lucia" without a rehearsal, it having grown into the custom of the theatre to place many of the older operas on the stage without much preliminary preparation. For this cause he lost the services of Joseph Maas and acquired those of Ravelli, who, by inference, we learn did not gain the love of the impresario, though he is frequently referred to in the memoirs.

There is no need to criticise the style in which the book is written, even though the author states it to be his first appearance in that capacity. However, one can admire his courage and enterprise and commend him for having applied his military philosophy to his operatic trials. Like a soldier he rejoices to the utmost in his triumphs, and calmly accepts his defeats with soldierly resignation.

Sims Reeves: his Life and Recollections. Written by himself.

[Simpkin, Marshall and Co.; London Music Publishing Co.]

THROUGH the courtesy of the publishers we are able to give our readers some idea of the autobiography of the great English tenor. It is interesting to read the facts of his career as told by himself, even though they do not practically differ from the tentative histories of Sutherland Edwards, Lady Pollock, or the anonymous author of the admirable biography in Cassell's National Portrait Gallery. The literary powers of Mr. Sims Reeves, though not equal to his transcendental merit as a vocalist, are displayed in the stories "The dark record," with a thrilling murder to begin with, or "The incidents of Wellington Manning, M.A.," "The bishop's daughter," "A railway tragedy," "A political Vivien," "Willard O'Neill," "Norah Leslie," "A Star of Bethlehem," "The ring," "The shipwreck," &c., in the perusal of all of which the reader will be as much entranced as though they were real. The book contains some 280 pages, of which nearly a hundred are devoted by Mr. Reeves to his musical career. The public, perhaps, would have preferred to have had the whole of the pages set apart for his artistic reminiscences, but these are promised in full next year, and the present work, which will be given to the world on the 8th inst., may serve to astonish, if it does not delight, the thousands of admirers of the great tenor vocalist.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE mortal remains of Franz Schubert were removed on the 23rd ult. from the suburban Friedhof at Währing to the central cemetery of Vienna, where, it is to be hoped, they will now be allowed to rest in peace by the side of the ashes of Beethoven. The ceremonies in connection with the re-interment of the great musician amounted to an imposing demonstration, in which it may be said that half Vienna participated, the entire route, some six miles in length, along which the funeral procession passed, having been crowded with thousands of spectators, whose attitude bore eloquent testimony to the love and veneration with which the Viennese regard their great countryman. "The glass-covered funeral car, drawn by eight horses," says a correspondent, "was preceded by mounted standard-bearers and mutes, clad in old German costumes. A number of carriages, laden with magnificent wreaths followed, and another company of mutes, carrying a golden crown and a golden lyre on crimson velvet cushions, brought up the rear. In the procession were nearly a hundred Musical Societies and Choirs from Vienna, the Austrian provinces, Hungary, and Germany. At the Schiller Platz, in the Ring Strasse, a halt was made, when a choir of some two thousand voices performed, in front of the hearse and coffin, Schubert's beautiful chorale 'Die Nacht,' with new words, the effect being most impressive. Other Schubert compositions had been sung on the procession leaving the Währing Cemetery, and were likewise performed on the destination, the Central Cemetery, being reached. There also Herr Gabillon, of the Burg Theater, recited a touching poem, and several speeches were made. The religious service was performed by Schubert's brother, the Rev. Hermann Schubert, other members of the family being also present."

On the second day of last month thirty years had elapsed since the first performance, at Vienna, of Wagner's "Tannhäuser." There was no lack of adverse criticism at the time in the Viennese press, the opera, according to one authority, being "quite unsuitable to the taste of a Viennese public." Wagner's early chef-d'œuvre has, however, been produced two hundred and ten times since the above date, giving an average of seven representations during each season, from which it may be inferred that the taste of the frequenters of the Vienna Hof-Theater has undergone some change in the meantime.

Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig, have just commenced the issue, in parts, of a popular edition of the complete works by Beethoven, which will be a reproduction in cheap form of the splendid standard edition of that master's works hitherto published by the eminent firm in question.

It is stated in German papers that Johannes Brahms has made good use of his summer vacation, spent as usual at Thun, and that the result will shortly become the property of the musical world in the shape of a series of Lieder, including some gipsy songs for mixed choir, with pianoforte accompaniment.

Dr. Hans von Bülow, according to a statement contained in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, is just now engaged upon writing a pamphlet to be entitled "Die Neu-Wagnerianer, illustriert von einem Alt-Wagnerianer," wherein the eminent pianist-conductor will, it is said, defend himself against the insinuations, made in some German papers, relative to his supposed antagonism against the Bayreuth undertaking. The pamphlet will be eagerly read by the musical world, if only for the sake of obtaining the doctor's definition of the Old Wagnerians and the New.

Heinrich Zöllner's opera "Faust," the first performance of which, at the Landestheater of Prague took place on the 2nd ult., has been exceedingly well received, the new work being generally looked upon as an important addition to the already considerably extended musical "Faust" literature.

Herr August Bungert has, it is stated, just completed his very ambitious series of music-dramas—viz., a Tetralogy entitled "Homeric World," the third part whereof, "Nausica," is to be produced during the coming winter at New York, under the direction of Herr Anton Seidl.

The journal known as the Revue Wagnérienne, published at Paris since 1885, has suspended its further publication for the present.

The Paris Grand Opéra is actively preparing the re-mounting of M. Camille Saint-Saëns's revised version of his opera "Henri VIII." The work has been reduced from four to three acts, the composer himself conducts the rehearsals, and the public performances will most likely commence early in the present month.

The Marquis d'Ivry, the composer of an opera "Les Amants de Vérone," produced in the French capital some years since and repeated at Covent Garden, has just completed a new operatic work in four acts, entitled "Perseverance d'amour."

A new comic opera, "I Nipoti del Borgomastro," by the Maestro Achille Graffigna, was well received on its recent first performance at the Teatro Balbo of Turin. Amongst other operatic novelties recently produced on Italian soil may be instanced "Ivanhoe," by the Maestro Ciardi di Prato; a comic opera, "La Gatta bigia," by Agostino Sauvage; and a Ballet, "La Recluta," by M. Herbin, the latter having been successfully produced at the Circo Universale of Palermo.

The Fenice Theatre of Venice is preparing the revival on its boards of an interesting, though long neglected, opera-buffa, the "La Scuffiara," by Paisiello.

A project is being entertained in Italian musical circles concerning the removal of the remains of the celebrated composer, Niccolò Piccini, from Passy, near Paris, to his native town of Bari. It appears, however, from a statement made by Le Ménestrel, that it will be no easy matter to determine the exact spot where the former rival of Gluck was interred in the year 1800, the cemetery in question having been long since in disuse and partially built over, although the marble slab placed over the grave by a pupil of the master still remains, with others, in the small remaining portion of the original cemetery.

M. Gevaert, the director of the Brussels Conservatoire, has written some recitatives, embodying the spoken dialogue in Beethoven's "Fidelio," in which form the immortal work is to be henceforth produced at the Théâtre de la Monnaie.

Joseph Michel, of the Academy of Music, Ostend, died on the 8th ult., at Ostend, at the early age of forty. The deceased musician stood in the foremost rank of Belgian composers, both as a writer of high-class pianoforte music and as the successful composer of two operas entitled respectively "Aux Avantpostes" and "Le Chevalier de Tolède." He leaves behind him, in a finished state, a third operatic work, entitled "Chicot," which will doubtless be produced before long by the enterprising and patriotic managers of the Brussels Opera.

An early opera by M. Ernest Reyer, the composer of "Sigurd," is to be shortly revived at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, of Brussels. The work, which is entitled "Erostratus," was produced some years ago at Paris, and withdrawn from the répertoire after the first performance.

Anton Rubinstein's "Biblical drama" "Sulamith," one of the most charmingly picturesque works of the pianist-composer (first produced in 1883 at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater under the composer's direction), is to be shortly performed at Amsterdam under the auspices of the Maatschappij tot Bevordering der Toonkunst.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

C. R.—The practice is one which has little or no interest beyond the place where it is observed. It may interest "C. R." to know that upon inquiry duly made, the custom is not discontinued.

LUCY S. (NORTH ADELAIDE).—Our statement is founded upon greater authority than that of the authoress you mention.

PHILLACARDLE.—Wash it with methylated spirit. There is a special preparation which can be obtained from any violin maker.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ABINGDON.—On Tuesday, the 11th ult., an Organ Recital was given at St. Michael's Church, by Mr. Fred. Gostelow, Sub-Professor of the Royal Academy of Music. His programme included Mendelssohn's Second Sonata and selections from the works of Bach, Bache, Batiste, and Wely. The Church choir, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Munday, the Organist and Choirmaster, sang the first number of Mendelssohn's setting of the 95th Psalm, "O come, let us worship," Mr. E. Ivey taking the solo.

AUDENSHAW.—On Sunday, the 23rd ult., the Harvest Festival Services were held at Red Hall Chapel, and included some special music at the evening service, when the choir were assisted by Miss Marjorie Eaton, of Ashton. Mr. C. H. Waterhouse presided at the organ. The service concluded with the "Gloria in Excelsis" from Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

BATH.—Mr. Minton Pyne, Organist of St. Mark's Cathedral, Philadelphia, U.S., and son of the Organist, gave a Recital on the organ, on the 12th ult., at Bath Abbey. The programme consisted of six pieces—Mendelssohn's Sonata (No. 6) in D minor, Handel's Andante in B flat, Bach's Prelude and Fugue in D major, Beethoven's Adagio in A flat, Wesley's "Holsworthy Church Bells" with Variations, finishing with Mendelssohn's Cornelius March. The compositions of the great musicians were played with artistic feeling and just appreciation of their intentions.

CALCUTTA.—An Organ Recital was given by the Organist, Mr. Ernest Slater, F.C.O., R.A.M., at St. Paul's Cathedral, on Thursday, August 30, interspersed with vocal pieces given by the choir assisted by Miss Alice Gomes and Mr. Sanderson. The programme included an Aria by Bach (Cathedral Choir); Anthems, Solos, and an Organ Sonata by Mendelssohn; Andante in G for organ, by Batiste; "The Song of Ruth," by Gounod, and Handel's "Angels ever bright and fair," by Miss Alice Gomes, who also sang, with Mr. Sanderson, Spohr's Duet "Children pray this love to cherish"; a Solemn March by Smart; an Elevation and a Grand Offertoire by Batiste; and Fugue, "St. Anne's" (after the service), by Bach.

DENVER, COLORADO.—Mr. John H. Gower, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Precentor of Denver Cathedral, gave one of his fortnightly Recitals of Music on August 10, of which the following is the programme:—Sonata in F minor (Mendelssohn), Allegro serioso, Adagio, Andante Recitativo, Allegro assai, Concerto in G, arranged for organ and pianoforte (Handel); Fugue in G minor (J. S. Bach), Song, "My heart ever faithful," with accompaniment for violoncello and organ (Bach); Overture (Rossini), Adagio from Sorata for violoncello and organ (J. H. Gower), Offertoire in D major (Batiste), Song, "The better land" (Cowen); Largo in G, for violoncello and organ (Handel); Turkish March, Ruins of Athens (Beethoven). Mr. Gower was assisted by Mr. Houseley (pianoforte), Mr. Smith Winkler (violoncello), and Mrs. Levering (vocalist). The notice of the Concert in the local paper was of that form of criticism which has formed the theme for many an occasional note in these columns. It is a gem of which no facet should be hidden.

LEATHERHEAD.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. Ferdinand Lawson, A.C.O., in the Parish Church, on the 9th ult. The programme included Wely's Offertoire in G, Andante in D (Archer), Prelude and Fugue in C minor (Bach), Serenata (Braga), and Lemmens's Storm Fantasia.

LYME REGIS AND CHARMOUTH.—Morning and evening Concerts were given here on the 11th ult. by Mr. J. A. Pitman, late of Salisbury Cathedral. The vocalists were Miss Madge Bode (Bournemouth), Mr. J. A. Pitman (Salisbury), and Mr. Philip Hope (Bournemouth), all being most successful in their songs. Mr. F. L. Bartlett and Mr. Augustus Alyward, of Salisbury, contributed violin and violoncello solos, which were highly appreciated.

NORWICH.—On Thursday evening, the 20th ult., an Organ Recital was given in the Unthanks Road Baptist Church by the Organist, Mr. W. L. Palmer. The various items in the programme, including selections from the works of Handel, Bach, Mendelssohn, Spohr, Gounod, Wely, and Scotson Clark were much appreciated.

PEEL, ISLE OF MAN.—A Festival Service and Organ Recital were given in the New Church, on the 12th ult., under the direction of Miss M. L. Wood, A.C.O., the Organist and Choirtrainer. The Recital was given by Miss McKnight, F.C.O., of Alfreton Parish Church, Derbyshire. The vocal items were contributed by Miss Dews and members of the choir.

SALTBURN.—Mr. G. F. Huntley, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gave an Organ Recital on Sunday, the 2nd ult., in the Parish Church. Mr. Huntley played Mendelssohn's Sonata in D minor, "Marche Pontificale," and "Fanfare" (Lemmens), "Romanza" (Rheinberger), and "Canzona" (Guilmant). In addition to the instrumental pieces, several vocal items were given. Mrs. Whatford made a favourable impression by her rendering of "I know that my Redeemer liveth" and "With verdure clad." Mr. Morley gave "Lord God of Abraham," from Mendelssohn's Elijah, very effectively. The choir sang two anthems in excellent style, and at the close of the service the hymn "The Church's one foundation" was sung, in which the whole congregation joined.

STRATHPEFFER, N.B.—The most successful Concert of the season was given here on Wednesday evening, the 5th ult., in the Pavilion. Provost Koss, of Dingwall, occupied the chair, and Miss Ross accompanied throughout. Mrs. Munro (nee Watt), Miss Duffus, Mr. Fraser, and Mr. Young were the performers. The vocal duet, "I would that my love" (Mendelssohn), by Miss Wilson and Miss Wardrop, was greatly appreciated. The audience was fairly roused to enthusiasm by the violin playing of Mr. Paterson, accompanied by Miss Paterson and Miss Ross, and a repetition of the various Scotch melodies he performed was insisted upon.

TORQUAY.—On Wednesday, the 12th ult., in the British Schools, Abbey Road, a sacred Concert was given by the Furrough Cross choir and friends, who were under the conductorship of Mr. Thomas, of Babbacombe. The programme included a hymn, "Bringing in the sheaves"; three anthems, "O Lord, how manifold are Thy works," "Lord of all power and might," and "Like as the hart"; two instrumental duets from Mozart's Kyrie and Gloria; a duet-chorus, "Be glad in the Lord"; a solo and quartet, "Sowing the seed," and a solo, "By-and-bye." The principal parts were taken by Mrs. W. Sutton and Miss Skinner, Miss Hawkins, Mr. Hugo, and Mr. W. J. Thomas. Miss Shackleton acted as accompanist. The instrumental duets were given by Messrs. Pigott and Oakshott.

WELLS, NORFOLK.—The second of a series of Organ Recitals (in connection with the opening of the new organ) was given at the Parish Church on Wednesday, the 5th ult., the large church being filled with a most attentive congregation. The selections were from the works of Handel, Gounod, Flotow, Mendelssohn, Tours, &c., and were played by Mr. J. Marsh, Organist of Walsingham Parish Church.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—The Committee of the Festival Choral Society, who are anxious, both for the sake of the Art and for the public interest, to continue the work in which the Society has been engaged for twenty years past, ask for support from the lovers of music in the locality. They trust that the public of Wolverhampton will not willingly allow such an Institution to languish, and the town to be deprived of representations of the highest forms of music which the Society has set itself to perform. The Committee suggest a series of three Concerts:—1. A Concert in November to consist of one or more of the following works:—Macfarren's Lady of the Lake, Corder's Bridal of Triermann, Gounod's Messe Solennelle, Mackenzie's Jason, Gade's Crusaders, and Handel's Saul. 2. At Christmas: Handel's Messiah or Mendelssohn's Elijah. 3. A Miscellaneous Concert in February.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Ferdinand Lawson, A.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster to St. Luke's, Charlton.—Mr. Warren Tear to St. Mark's, Notting Hill.—Mr. W. H. Sampson, B.A., Organist and Choirmaster to St. George's, Worthing.—Mr. J. Welsh Leith, Organist and Choirmaster to the Tron Parish Church, Glasgow.—Mr. W. T. Stuart, to St. Jude's, East Brixton.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Dean Trotter (Tenor), as Lay Vicar to Exeter Cathedral.—Mr. Alfred Greenwood (Tenor), Gloucester Cathedral.—Mr. Vernon Taylor (Bass), to St. Paul's Cathedral.—Mr. Herbert E. Budge (Baritone), Choirmaster to St. Jude's, East Brixton.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Early History of the Organ. J. F. Rowbotham	585
The "Lobgesang": a comparison of the Original and Revised Scores. J. Bennett	585
The Three Choirs	592
A National Musical Association for Wales	594
The Coming Season	595
Occasional Notes	598
Birmingham Festival	600
Hereford Festival	603
National Eisteddfod at Wrexham	613
Obituary	614
Music in Birmingham	614
Dresden	615
Dublin	615
Edinburgh	616
Glasgow and West of Scotland	616
Manchester	617
Monmouthshire and South Wales	617
The West	617
Yorkshire	618
General News (London)	619
Reviews	619
Foreign Notes	621
Answers to Correspondents	621
General News (Country)	622
List of Music Published during the last Month	623

THE MUSICAL TIMES

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office not later than the 24th of each month.

SOUTH LONDON MUSICAL CLUB.—The Prize of TEN GUINEAS, advertised in The Musical Times of May last, has, with the approval of Dr. J. F. Bridge, been AWARDED to Mr. JOHN ACTON, Mus. Bac., of 9, Albert Square, Manchester, whose composition, "For Home and Liberty," bore the motto "Meum et Tuum." Gresham Hall, Brixton, London, S.W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Judith"; or, the Regeneration of Manasseh. An Oratorio. Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.BRIDGE, J. FREDK., Mus. Doc.—"Callirhoë." A Legend of Calydon. A Dramatic Cantata. Vocal Parts, 1s. each.SCHUMANN, ROBERT.—Twelve Songs. Op. 35. For Voice and Pianoforte. The words written by JUSTINUS KERNER. Edited and translated by Lady MACFARREN. 1s.GARTH, R. MACHILL.—"Ezekiel." A Dramatic Oratorio. The words selected and arranged by the Rev. C. R. LINTON, M.A., Cantab. 4s.WAIT, W. M.—"St. Andrew." A Missionary Cantata for Choir and Congregation, with Organ or Pianoforte Accompaniment. 2s.STANFORD, C. VILLIERS, Mus. Doc.—Prelude to the "Edipus Rex" of Sophocles. Full score, 6s.; orchestral parts, complete, 12s.; string parts, 1s. each.BLACOW, F. W.—Te Deum laudamus. Easy and Congregational Chant Service. 2d.LITTLE, H. WALMSLEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon.—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 6d.STRIBLING, J.—(in A flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.RAYNER, FRED.—"Who is this?" Hymn. For Contralto Solo and Chorus. The words written by the Bishop of Wakefield. 2d.WEBSTER, JOHN HERBERT.—"Beati Omnes" (Psalm cxviii). Set to music in Chant form for the Marriage Service. 2d.WHARMBY, LUTHER T.—"Come, ye thankful people, come." Harvest Hymn. 2d.HARWOOD, BASIL.—Two Christmas Carols. The words written by G. H. F. NORRIS. 3d. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.CUTHBERT, R. A.—"Cast thy burden upon the Lord." Anthem. 2d.HURST, W.—"I will lay me down in peace." Anthem. For Alto Solo and Chorus. 3d.BANKS, COLLINGWOOD.—Singing Quadrilles (set 3). 6d.MEE, JOHN H.—"Chloris Singing." A Madrigal. Words by WALTER. 6d.BARNETT, JOHN FRANCIS.—"What loud uproar." Quartet and Chorus. From "The Ancient Mariner." (No. 756 "Novello's Octavo Choruses.") 6d.CALKIN, GEORGE.—Soft Voluntaries for the Organ. Book XI. 2s. 6d.SPARK, DR. W.—"The Organist's Quarterly Journal." Part lxxx. 5s. Andante con moto, R. STEGGALL. Festival March, G. B. ALLEN. Postlude, PERCY JACKMAN. Bourrée, SAMUEL MOSS. Larghetto, CLAUDE DUPRÉ.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN.

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
| No. 104. Scherzo Symphonique | ALBERT RENAUD 1s. |
| 105. Marche Solennelle (from Leavy) ... | ALBERT RENAUD 1s. |
| 106. Meditation (from Nicou-Choron) ... | ALBERT RENAUD 1s. |
| 107. Andante Religioso (from Nicou-Choron) | ALBERT RENAUD 1s. |

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS IN THE TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT.

- | | |
|--|--------------------------|
| No. 588. Row gently here | E. DUNCAN 1d. |
| 589. What loud uproar | JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT 3d. |
| 590. The fisherman's "Good night" ... | |
| 591. I saw lovely Phillis | Sir HENRY R. BISHOP 1d. |
| 592. In the lonely vale | R. L. DE PEARSALL 1d. |
| 593. The rainy day | Dr. CALLCOTT 1d. |
| 594. How bright in the May-time ... | ARTHUR SULLIVAN 1d. |
| 595. Shoot, false love, I care not ... | R. L. DE PEARSALL 1d. |
| 596. Sing we and chaunt it | R. L. DE PEARSALL 1d. |
| 597. Nymphs are sporting | R. L. DE PEARSALL 1d. |
| 598. The Vesper Hymn | BEETHOVEN 1d. |
| 599. O come, let us sing | BERTHOLD TOURS 1d. |

MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day." 9d.
PROUT, EBENEZER.—"The Red Cross Knight." 2s.MR. CHARLTON T. SPEER (Associate of and Professor of the Pianoforte at the Royal Academy of Music) has Vacancies for one or two Private Pupils. 24, Belsize Road, South Hampstead, N.W.

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. Edition I, in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s. Edition II, in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s. Edition III, in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.

- I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.
- II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.
- III. In 32mo. Words only. 1d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for "REVISED EDITION."

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the "Psalter," and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MUSICAL AGENCY,

AND AT PARIS AND NEW YORK.

Principal, W. SEXTON, Vicar-Choral, Westminster Abbey, and Principal of the English and Italian College of Music.

447, WEST STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station).

MR. SEXTON desires to inform his friends that his Agency is established for every requirement in the Musical Profession. For the sale or purchase of any Musical Business and Teaching connection, providing Vocal and Instrumental Masters in Colleges and Schools, and Musical Governesses; also Assistants and Tuners in Music Warehouses. He is personally acquainted with nearly all the Musical Profession in London, and is able to supply Artists at most moderate charges.MR. SEXTON arranges CONCERTS of every description: Glee Parties; Miscellaneous, Ballad, Operatic, and Smoking Concerts; Music for Banquets; Garden Parties; Masonic Business. Tours arranged. Dramatic Agency, &c.MR. SEXTON has an experienced BAND for Oratorios, Operas, Balls, and Dances; and supplies principal Vocalists for Oratorios, and Leaders in Chorus. Oratorios and Cantatas conducted. Choirs trained. Ladies' Choir of 12 voices.MR. SEXTON provides CHOIRBOYS and CHOIRMEN for Chorus, as Soloists, Assistants at Church Services and Festivals, or Appointments. A Choir of 12 boys for Concerts. Clergy and Organists invited to apply for all requirements.MR. SEXTON arranges a good CONCERT for Five Guineas in London on the shortest notice (twenty items). This is a special cheap Concert, and gives great satisfaction.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

MR. SEXTON'S MUSIC-LENDING LIBRARY. Oratorios, Cantatas, Choruses, Part-songs, and all description of Vocal Music and Band Parts lent on hire. Send for Catalogue.MR. SEXTON teaches LADIES and BOYS SINGING and the PIANOFORTE. Class for Choir Boys, Solo Singing, and Rudiments, on Saturdays. Several Choristers appointed to Westminster Abbey last term. Boys wanted for several Cathedral Appointments.MR. SEXTON gives FINISHING LESSONS to Young ARTISTS with good voices, and good Engagements when efficient. Letters and telegrams, as above.MISS FRASER BRUNNER (Soprano).

For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts, address, 40, George Street, West Birmingham; or, H. Tuddenham, Esq., 304, Regent Street, Oxford Circus, W.

MISS MARION HOLMES (Soprano)

(Of the Crystal Palace).

For Concerts, Oratorio, Organ Recitals, At Homes, &c., address, 10, Linden Grove, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MISS KATE NORMAN (Soprano)

("Parepa-Rosa" & "Llewellyn Thomas" Gold Medalist, R.A.M., 1888), 27, Belsize Park Gardens, Swiss Cottage, London, N.W.

THE LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

FOR EXAMINATIONS IN PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL MUSIC.

PATRONS.

Sir GEORGE J. ELVEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc., Oxon. and Cantab.

Sir HERBERT S. OAKELEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Dublin, St. Andrew's, LL.D., Professor of Music, Edinburgh University.

HONORARY PRESIDENT.

WM. H. CUMMINGS, Esq., Professor, R.A.M.; Hon. Treasurer, Royal Society of Musicians; Conductor of Sacred Harmonic Society.The above College holds periodical Examinations in Pianoforte Playing, Singing, and Theory of Music, and grants Certificates to all successful Candidates, irrespective of age.The next Examination will take place in December, when Silver and Bronze Medals will be awarded. Forms of Entry of Secretary.Local Representatives are required for Vacancies in Towns near London; also in various parts of the country. Apply to the Secretary.

MISS MARION BURKE (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, At Homes, &c. 39, Scylla Road, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MISS MARY HUTTON (Contralto).

(Pupil of Mr. T. A. Wallworth.)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 28, King's Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. W. G. FORINGTON (Principal Bass, Temple Church) begs to announce that his address is now Cecil Lodge,
11, Canonbury Park North, N.; or, Mr. C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass) begs to announce his REMOVAL to 67, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N., where all communications respecting Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, Church Festivals, &c., should be addressed. Also for Concert Party and Pupils.NOTICE of REMOVAL.—Miss KATHERINE JAMES (Soprano or Mezzo) begs to request that all communications concerning engagements be addressed in future to 13, Horsford Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.ALTO WANTED, for Church near Dalston.
Good reader indispensable. £15 per annum. Address, Arthur
Kelly, 15, Somerfield Road, Finsbury Park.TENOR REQUIRED, at once, for City Church
(two minutes from Mansion House); must be good Reader;
£10. Also two good BOYS, not over 12; liberal remuneration, according to ability. Apply, by letter, J. Harraway Slape, 20, Camden Road, N.W.BASS WANTED, at St. Luke's, Chelsea. Stipend, £16. Apply at the Church Vestry after Sunday Evening Service, or on Friday at 9 p.m.A BASS, with a powerful voice, REQUIRED, for a Church in the West Central District. Stipend, £10. Address, Precentor, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.SOLO BASSO-BARITONE requires Church AP-POINTMENT. Best of references as to voice and ability.
Good press notices. Address, M. R. E., Box 632, Willing's Advertising Offices, 125, Strand, W.C.MR. C. E. MILLER will be happy to receive PUPILS for ORGAN, HARMONY, &c., at St. Augustine and St. Faith's Church, Watling Street, E.C. Terms on application. The highest references if desired.ORGANIST WANTED, St. Augustine's, Clapham Rise, S.W. Must be experienced. Salary, £30. Apply by letter, to A. F. L. Dorin, Esq., 344, Clapham Road, S.W.CHOIRMASTER, or Choirmaster and Organist, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Excellent testimonials and references. Mus. Bac., 12, Chapel Road, Notting Hill, W.CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for a Church in East London. Voluntary Surpliced Choir. Apply to Vicar, 128, King Edward Road, South Hackney.TO COMPOSERS, CONDUCTORS, VOCALISTS, and INSTRUMENTALISTS. An experienced Orchestral writer wishes to SCORE OPERAS, CANTATAS, SONGS, PIECES, or DANCE MUSIC, for Full Orchestra or Septet. Terms on application. William L. Frost, 26, Hatfield Road, Hatcham Park, London, S.E.TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.—WANTED, to HIRE, for three months or longer, FIFTY or more Copies of GOUNOD'S REDEMPTION. Address, N., Surrenden, Woodlands Road, Red-hill, Surrey.

New Humorous Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

BY

W. W. PEARSON.

THE CARRION CROW
BEN BOWLEGS

Words by EDWARD OXFENFORD.

Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn 3d.	*Sweet to live (26th thou.)... 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)... 3d.	Welcome, young Spring!... 2d.
The River 3d.	*The Anglers... .. 2d.
Over the mountain side ... 3d.	The Dream of Home ... 2d.
Soul of living music ... 3d.	Summer and Winter ... 2d.
The Jäger Chorus 3d.	Departed Joys 2d.
The Stormy Petrel... .. 3d.	There's beauty in the deep 1s. 6d.
The Coral Grove 3d.	Soldier, rest! 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ... 3d.	Woods in Winter 1d.
The Oyster Dredgers 2d.	Autumn 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (30th thousand) 3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand) 3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste... .. 4d.
The Snow-white Doe 4d.
Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXFENFORD) 3d.
The Carrion Crow 3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse 3d.	The Ocean 3d.
Off to Sea 4d.	*The Ironfounders (24th thou.) 3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked.*

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

STAFF NOTATION, 36th THOUSAND.

THE HOLY CITY

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work is an honour to English Art, and has elevated its composer into a place of distinction amongst native musicians."—Queen."Is there going to be another phenomenal run upon 'The Holy City' this season? It does not seem to have lost any of its popularity so far, for the local musical season can hardly be said to have fairly commenced, yet on Saturday two performances of the enormously successful sacred cantata took place, one at Solihull in the afternoon, and another in the Town Hall in the evening, when every nook and corner of the Hall was crowded to excess by a hearty appreciative concourse of people."—Birmingham Daily Times, Sept. 24, 1888.Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; Ditto, paper boards, 3s.; Ditto, scarlet cloth, 4s.; Voice parts, for the use of Choral Societies, each 1s.
A selection of Soprano and Contralto Movements for School Use, 1s. 3d. Band Parts on Loan. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BOARD.—To AMATEUR VIOLINISTS, &c.—
A Professional Pianist of repute offers refined HOME in well-appointed house. References required. S., Dennet's Library, Hill Street, Upper Clapton.TO PIANOFORTE TUNERS.—WANTED, a thoroughly efficient TUNER, with unexceptional personal character. State particulars of last employment, salary required, &c., Lyon and Hall, Brighton.WANTED, a MAN, with good references, to attend to paper department in a country Music Shop. State age, experience, abilities, and salary required. G. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.ORGAN for SALE. Cheap. Three-Manual and Pedals. Sweet Tone. Full particulars on application to Rev.
J. H. Lambert, Leigh Rectory, Worcester.TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, by GERN. Pneumatic Pedal action. Suitable for Church or Concert-room; scarcely been used. Price £200. Arrangements could be made for payment by instalments. Further particulars, Mr. Barnes, 220, Camden Rd., N.W.TWO-MANUAL PIPE ORGAN. 10-ft. high; 18 stops; full compass pedals; handsomely decorated speaking front. Splendid toned instrument; perfect order. Would lead 800 persons. Price £150. S., 21, Waltherton Road, Westbourne Park, London. Appointments (evening preferred).

MESSRS. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.,
Invite an inspection of their unrivalled Collection of

OVER THREE HUNDRED
OLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS,
AND DOUBLE-BASSES.

Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS's celebrated BOWS
The only Makers of the

NEW QUEEN'S MODEL
PIANO AND AMERICAN ORGAN CHAIRS
From 25s.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC

for the Performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly
by experienced Workmen.

NEWLY REVISED AND ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

TO MUSICAL STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.

NEW PATENT TOUCH REGULATOR

FOR PIANOFORTES (UPRIGHTS ONLY)

INVENTED BY E. A. SYDENHAM.

This invention can be applied with the greatest advantage to either new Pianos which have a light touch or to Pianos in which the touch has become loose or almost worn out; it requires no fastening whatever, being simply laid on the Keys inside the Piano; it does not require the intervention of a Pianoforte Maker, but can be applied with the greatest ease by any one in about the space of one minute.

EXTRACTS FROM TESTIMONIALS.

"I do not doubt that Mr. Sydenham's New Touch Regulator will prove of great value to all Pianoforte Students who may make use of it.

"C. SWINNERTON HEAP, Mus. Doc."

"Will prove a boon to thousands of Piano Students.

"ARTHUR O'LEARY, Fellow of the R.A.M."

"I believe it will greatly help to strengthen both wrist and fingers.

"OSCAR BERINGER."

"15, New York Street, C.-on-M., Manchester.

"DEAR SIR,—I received the regulator this morning, and am highly pleased with it, as it has transformed an almost worthless Pianoforte into a very useful one for technical practice, indeed I am surprised at such a result from so simple a contrivance.—Yours sincerely,
"Sept. 8, 1888."

"HERBERT YATES.

Price One Guinea (liberal discount to the profession).

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms.
Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY and CO., Music
Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, W., undertake the REVISING,
PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS,
Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post
(every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

THE "UNRIVALLED" ITALIAN VIOLIN
STRINGS. To be had only of Mr. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W., on whose premises there is also a fine assortment of old Italian Violins. Price list on application.

ARNENTERON VIOLIN STRINGS.—The best
A that can be made. True, durable, properly gauged, pure tone, thoroughly reliable. A sample free on application. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, E.C.

"SINGERS' FRIEND" LOZENGES for Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and Cough.

"SINGERS' FRIEND LOZENGES clear the Voice in a splendid manner.
Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 3d., post-free, of W. JAMES, Chemist, Highgate Road, London, N.W.; and of all Chemists.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

ALFRED MONK, Organ Builder, Works and Showrooms, 550, Holloway Road, London. Organs built to any dimension. The most valuable selection of high-class Stops, and complete and perfect in scales, at the most reasonable prices. Estimates sent free. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Inspection invited to view the Works and Organs in course of construction and the large stock of seasoned materials.

ORGANS FOR SALE OR HIRE ON EASY TERMS.

Second-hand two-manual Organ, 8 stops; ditto, 12 stops; ditto, 14 stops; ditto, 15 stops; six one-manual Organs; Piano and Harmonium; Hydraulic engine and bellows.

JAMES CONACHER AND SONS,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

BATH BUILDINGS, HUDDERSFIELD.

Gold Medal awarded, Bradford Technical School Exhibition, 1882.

Specifications and Estimates free of charge.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 102 years.

VIOLINS, &c.

COLLIN - MÉZIN À PARIS.

GEORGE WITHERS and CO.,

VIOLIN AND BOW MAKERS AND REPAIRERS,

51, ST. MARTIN'S LANE, LONDON,

Sole Agents.

THE "CARRODUS" VIOLINS (named by permission of J. T. Carrodus, Esq., the Eminent Violinist) are the very best modern fiddles. Remarkable beauty; exceptional workmanship; splendid tone; reasonable price. Through any Professor or Dealer. Testimonials and price lists from Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New Attachment by Pneumatics. Very simple, and perfect touch. Wonderfully cheap. Write for full particulars and price lists. Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES AND THE PROFESSION.

SECOND-HAND STEINWAY FULL CONCERT
GRANDS.—A limited number of these celebrated Instruments, which have been in Concert use, will shortly be offered on exceptional terms to the Profession. Full particulars may be obtained on application to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, London, W.; or of their various Provincial Agents.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES, and HARMONIUMS supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, Post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the Army, Navy, and Rifle Corps.

Mr. Stedman's Musical Agency

(Established for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),

12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

TO CONCERT-GIVERS AND ENTREPRENEURS GENERALLY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform Projectors of Concerts, Managers of Operas, Operettas, and Entrepreneurs generally that he is prepared to arrange for large or small parties of artists of all positions in the profession, and for Concert Tours. All details of management undertaken without the slightest trouble to those favouring Mr. Stedman with their wishes. Terms upon application.

TO THE CLERGY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform the Clergy that he has established a REGISTRY OF ORGANISTS, CHOIRMEN, and CHORISTERS seeking APPOINTMENTS, which is open to their inspection, and they are invited either to call or to write stating their requirements. From his personal knowledge of the qualifications of Organists and Singers, Mr. Stedman is able to give the Clergy valuable information as a guide to selection.

CHURCH FESTIVALS arranged and carried out in all details.

CHOIR-BOYS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to supply good SOLO CHOIR-BOYS for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c.

MUSIC FOR BANQUETS, &c.

MR. STEDMAN undertakes the music (and all the necessary details) for Banquets of City Companies, Masonic Lodges, &c., at the shortest notice.

ORCHESTRAS AND CHOIRS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to provide CHOIRS and ORCHESTRAS for the performance of Oratorios and Cantatas.

MR. STEDMAN will be happy to advise his clients upon all professional matters, confidential or otherwise, either by letter or personally by previous appointment at his Offices, 12, Berners Street, London, W.

LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY.

Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.

CONDUCTED BY

Mr. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music.
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY is prepared to provide Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glee, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c. Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading Vocalists and Orchestral Players will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY can supply First-class SOLO CHOIR BOYS, who are thoroughly trained in most of the Oratorios and Cantatas. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed. Dates are now being booked for October and November.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY provides Choir, Full Orchestra (first-class performers), and the principal singers for Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous Concerts, &c. All letters, telegrams, &c., should be addressed to Mr. H. Tuddenham, 304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

THE LIVERPOOL CONCERT PARTY.

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c.

Madame LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).

Miss ANNIE RICHARDSON (Contralto).

Mr. THOMAS BARLOW (Tenor).

Mr. EDWARD GRIME (Bass).

Masters C. and A. ROSS (Solo Pianist and Violinist).

Mr. R. D. RODGERS (Humorist). Miss RICHARDSON (Accompanist).

For particulars, terms, &c., address, Miss Richardson, 6, Abercromby Terrace, Liverpool.

JAMES RUSSELL AND CO.,

120, High Street, Oxford,

THE OXFORD CONCERT AGENTS,

Share, Commission, or Purchase. Vacant dates for October, November, and December.

MR. PERCY WHYTE'S CONCERT COMPANY.

SEASON 1888-89.

Open to Engagements for Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, or Sacred and Secular Concerts. MR. PERCY WHYTE, of the principal Liverpool and Provincial Concerts, has great pleasure in submitting to the notice of his patrons and the public the accompanying list of Artists, any of whom may be engaged singly or otherwise on the most reasonable terms.

CONCERT PARTIES of any number of Artists may be made up from the undermentioned list of Vocalists:—

MISS FANNY BOUFFLEUR,

SOPRANO

(Of the Liverpool, Manchester, Preston, and Southport Concerts).

MISS HARRIETTE RUTHERFORD,

CONTRALTO

(Of the London, Liverpool, and Provincial Concerts).

MR. PERCY WHYTE,

TENOR

(Of the Liverpool, Sheffield, Preston, and Southport Concerts).

MR. GEORGE PLATT,

BARITONE

(Of the Preston, Southport, and Leicester Concerts).

MR. FRANK WESTON,

SOLO VIOLONCELLO

(Of the Birmingham, Leeds, Newcastle, and Scarborough Concerts).

MR. H. J. NICHOLLS,

BUFFO

(Of the Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Preston Concerts).
Author and Composer of Operetta, "Figaro Junior," and the following original Buffo Songs, &c.: "Comparisons," "Le Jeune Français," "The Dry-land Sailors," "A Lullaby," "Blue Beard," "Blue Bottle," &c., &c.

MR. PERCY WHYTE'S QUARTET, viz.:—

Miss FANNY BOUFFLEUR, Miss HARRIETTE RUTHERFORD,
Mr. E. J. MACREADY, and Mr. GEORGE PLATT.

Mr. HUBERT WHITTINGHAM, Organist, Childwall Church, Liverpool, Accompanist.

The above Company having completed a most successful series of engagements at the following (among other) towns: Sheffield, Leicester, Barrow-in-Furness, Nantwich, Oldham, Mossley, Blackburn, Preston, Liverpool, &c., are now booking dates for the winter season.

Full particulars, press opinions, and specimen programmes sent upon application to MR. PERCY WHYTE, Laburnum Villa, Church Road, Stanley, Liverpool.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S CONCERT COMPANIES.—The following dates are already booked:—

1888.				December 17
August 23	...	...	Llangollen.	...	...	...	Manchester.
" 30	...	...	Birkenhead.	" 22	...	...	Oldham.
" 31	...	...	Manchester.	" 29	...	...	Glasgow.
September 4	...	...	Wrexham.	" 29	...	...	Bolton.
" 14	...	...	Manchester.	January 5	...	...	Bradford.
" 19	...	...	Halifax.	" 12	...	...	Manchester.
" 21	...	...	Blackpool.	" 26	...	...	Leeds.
" 24	...	...	Manchester.	" 29	...	...	Darwen.
October 3	...	...	Leeds.	February 2	...	...	Bolton.
" 8	...	...	Blackburn.	" 5	...	...	Dewsbury.
" 9	...	...	Dewsbury.	" 9	...	...	Preston.
" 13	...	...	Bury.	" 12	...	...	Oldham.
" 16	...	...	Lancaster.	" 16	...	...	Bury.
" 20	...	...	Leeds.	" 23	...	...	Manchester.
" 24	...	...	Bolton.	March 1	...	...	Liverpool.
November 2	...	...	Carlisle.	" 2	...	...	Leeds.
" 10	...	...	Bradford.	" 9	...	...	Bradford.
" 17	...	...	Manchester.	" 16	...	...	Bolton.
December 1	...	...	Preston.	" 19	...	...	Oldham.
" 11	...	...	Ashton-under-Lyne.	" 23	...	...	Bury.
" 15	...	...	Leeds.	" 30	...	...	Preston.

Bookings in progress with Edinburgh, Dublin, Belfast, Newcastle, &c., &c.

Telegrams: Cantor, Liverpool. Letters: Church Street, Liverpool.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly's Organ Harmoniums are the "only instruments" of English manufacture that gained "any award" at the Dublin and Paris Exhibitions.

A liberal discount for Schools and Charitable Institutions.

Three hundred Second-hand Pianofortes by the leading makers, at all times very cheap. New Pianos (warranted), in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

20 New and Second-hand Pianofortes by Erard, Broadwood, Collard, Holdernes, Kirkman, and other eminent English and Continental makers, harmoniums, American organs, harps by Erard, flutinas, musical boxes with changing barrels, Italian and other violins, violas, and violoncellos, bows and fittings, brass and wood-wind instruments, of the latest models, guitars, banjos, concertinas, miniatures, enamels, china, books, &c.

DEBENHAM, STORR and SONS will Sell by Auction, at their Mart, King Street, Covent Garden, on Thursday, October 4, and Monday, October 8, at twelve o'clock. MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS and other valuable PROPERTY, as above.—Catalogues Post-free. On view the day before and morning of sale.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c., 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.
2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN:
Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to A. HEMSTOCK, Organist, Diss.

"Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."—Musical Standard.

"Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

WORKS BY F. DAVENPORT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC.

Crown 8vo, 1s.

"In the space of some fifty pages the reader will find all that is necessary to be known about the pitch of notes, intervals, and scales, rests, time, and abbreviations, and will, we doubt not, also find how much more there is of which he was ignorant concerning these subjects, although he had already flattered himself that he had mastered their elements a long time ago."—Saturday Review.

ELEMENTS OF HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT.

Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

"This work is intended to meet a growing demand for a more concise and simpler exposition of the Day theory. It includes as much of the science of Counterpoint as is necessary for students who enter for the Royal Academy, Local, and other similar examinations." London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

Now ready.

THE

RED CROSS KNIGHT

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

COMPOSED BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

(Op. 24.)

The Accompaniments arranged from the Full Score for HARMONIUM AND PIANOFORTE

BY THE COMPOSER.

Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence net.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMS REEVES: HIS LIFE, BY HIMSELF.

Ready October 8, at all Libraries and Bookstalls.

SIMS REEVES: HIS LIFE, BY HIMSELF

1 Vol., Crown 8vo, 10s. 6d.

London: SIMPKIN and MARSHALL, and

LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING Co., Ltd., 54, Great Marlborough St., W.

Positively ready October 8.

SIMS REEVES: HIS LIFE, BY HIMSELF

1 Vol., Crown 8vo, 10s. 6d.

LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING Co., Ltd., 54, Great Marlborough St., W.

HARMONY LESSONS. By C. A. TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction, Classes, and Tuition by Correspondence. Used at the London Academy of Music. Price 1s. Schott, 159, Regent Street, W., and of the AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

THE

CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

AN ORATORIO COMPOSED BY

GEO. SHINN, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

(SUITABLE FOR CONCERT ROOM OR CHURCH.)

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

During the few months the Work has been published it has been taken up at the following places: St. Margaret's, Westminster (Canon Farrar's); Christ Church, Lambeth (Rev. Newman Hall's); St. Luke's, Bermondsey; East Dulwich; Peckham; Camberwell (two performances); Islington; Walworth (three performances); Brixton; Streatham (two performances); Southwark; Liverpool; Brighton; Leeds; Hastings; Luton; Whitby; Bilston; Coleford; Bradley; Halton; Maldon; Chesterfield.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the author of several Cantatas and other compositions, all of which are written in a style at once musicianly and popular. 'The Captives of Babylon' may be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas. The work contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"In our judgment no better work of the kind has yet been published. It is brimful of pretty melodies, and the harmonic effects show the skill of a painstaking and talented musician."—Free Methodist.

"It is cleverly written, and in an attractive style. The music is of a varied and pleasing character, so that it is likely to become very popular."—The Portsmouth Evening Mail.

"Mr. Shinn is well known, and deservedly so for his musical talent. Continuity of design and freshness of conception are apparent throughout the work. It contains many effective solos and choruses, and the music is not difficult. There is no doubt that the Oratorio will become very popular."—South London Press.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

VOCAL SCORE. STAFF NOTATION. 15TH THOUSAND.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s. The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

BONNIE KILMENY

CANTATA

BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Two Shillings net.

Conductors of Choral Societies, &c., should see this highly interesting and beautiful work.

Edinburgh: PATERSON and SONS, 27, George Street.

CHURCH MUSIC

By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D.

Harvest and Festival Anthems—

"Blessed be Thou." Four Voices. Octavo	3d.
"I will magnify Thee." Four Voices. Octavo	3d.
"I was glad when they said unto me." Four Voices. Octavo	3d.
Festival Tune—"Sing to the Lord"	1d.
Office of the Holy Communion	9d.
Chant—Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	3d.
Cantate and Deus misereatur in E	3d.
"Ave Maria." Soprano Solo. Folio	net 18. 6d.
"Amen." For four Voices. Specially adapted for close of Service. (Card)	1d.

ORGAN MUSIC.

No. 1. Larghetto espressivo	net.
"2. Andantino in G	1s.
"3. Festal March... ..	1s.
"4. Andante religioso in E	6d.
"5. Funeral March in C minor	1s.
"6. Fantasia and Fugue in D	1s.

Or the whole, complete, 3s.

"Ave Maria." Arranged for the Organ	1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat	1s.
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ. For use between Offertory Sentences, &c.	2s.

And all other Works by the same Composer. Lists on application.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC BY ALEX. S. COOPER,

F.C.O.

Editor of "The Parochial Chant Book," &c.

COMMUNION SERVICE, chiefly in Unison, including the Ely Prize Creed. 6th edit. Price 1s.

BENEDICTE. Three different Settings. 4th edit. Price 3d.

TE DEUM, with Single and Double Chants. 6th edit. Price 4d.

COME UNTO ME. Full Anthem. 7th edit. Price 3d.

UNISON CHANTS, with varied Accompaniments. 1st and 2nd Series. Reduced price 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC. By Dr. E. J. CROW.

Te Deum and Jubilate in C	9d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	6d.
Cantate and Deus misereatur in G	8d.
Harvest Hymn. (6s. per 100)	1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S (WM.) FESTAL and GENERAL ANTHEMS.

No. 1. THE LORD REIGNETH. Easter, Whitsuntide, or General.
"2. THUS SAITH THE LORD, THE KING OF ISRAEL. Easter, Trinity, or General.
"3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY. Harvest, Easter, or Whitsuntide.
"4. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING. Festival or General.
"5. IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. Christmas.
"6. I WILL GIVE THANKS. Easter, Ascension, or General.
"7. ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Harvest or General.

Price 2d. each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY W. G. WOOD.

Three Canons for the Organ	net 2. 0
Concert Fantasia and Fugue	2. 0
Postlude in D	1. 0
Allegro in C... ..	1. 0
Allegro (in the form of a Minuet)	1. 6
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	0. 3
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. For Voices, Organ, and Orchestra... ..	net 0. 6
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem, Anthem. For Festival or General use	net 0. 4

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY THE REV. H. H. WOODWARD, M.A., Mus. Bac.—The BENEDICTUS to Lengthened Chants (Six Settings), a medium between the Ordinary Chant and "Cathedral Service." Complete, 2d. Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on an Ancient Theme, arranged for the Festivals of the Worcester Church Choral Association. Price 3d.

"Very effective."—Church Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRIZES for WHITSUNTIDE HYMN TUNES (£3, £2, and £1). Manchester Sunday School Union. For conditions send stamp to J. E. Balmer, Crumpsall, Manchester.

Just published.

SACRED CANTATA

SAMUEL

The Words selected from Holy Scripture and from Hymns Ancient and Modern (by permission). The Music composed by LANGDON COLBORNE.

Performed with great success on the Sunday Evening preceding the Hereford Festival.

This work takes one hour in performance, and contains several well-known Hymns, intended to be sung by the choir and congregation.

Price 3s., paper; bound, 4s.

"The music of 'Samuel' is always thoughtful and graceful, and often a great deal more than either of these."—Musical World."If the plan of this Cantata can be followed (and Dr. Colborne's thoughtful and beautiful music may show that it is capable of being made artistic as well as didactic), the great question of Congregational music may find a solution in its frequent employment."—Morning Post."A fine piece of church music."—Standard."Choirs will be glad to have a work of this kind, as it is not by any means difficult."—Birmingham Post.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D

By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 6d.

"A good scholarly piece of work in the orthodox English church style."—Musical Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS—(in E flat). By ALFRED J. DYE. Small 8vo, 3d.; Organ Copy, 6d.

"A simple setting, quite within the reach of ordinary church choirs."—Musical Record."In the various broad and effective unison sentences the organ is handled with judgment and skill."—The Choir.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM in G, by GEORGE LEES. Price 4d.

"Parish choirs will find no difficulty beyond an occasional chromatic passage in this Te Deum. It is bright and vigorous, but at the same time distinguished by church-like dignity throughout."—Musical Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOUR ANTHEMS

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS JACKSON.

IN THEE, O LORD. Price 4d.

O GOD, THOU ART MY GOD. Price 4d.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS. Price 4d.

O PRAISE THE LORD. Price 3d.

These Anthems will be found useful for Festival occasions, being bright, effective, and not difficult.

May be had from R. JACKSON, 23, Barker Street, Oldham.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Anthem. Suitable for Harvest Festivals. THOU, LORD, IN THE BEGINNING. By J. C. BEAUMONT. 3d. Specimen Copy, 1d.

Huddersfield: HORSFALL and BAILEY, 48, John William Street.

Just published.

WHO IS THIS? Hymn for Contralto Solo and Chorus. Words by the Bishop of WAKEFIELD; Music by FRED. RAYNER. Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

W. H. BIRCH'S CHRISTMAS ANTHEM, "BEHOLD, I BRING YOU," and "HURRAH FOR MERRY OLD CHRISTMAS." 3d. each. Can be had at 5, Jesse Terrace, Reading.

NEW ANTHEM. SUITABLE FOR GENERAL USE.

Written for Alto Solo and Chorus.

I WILL LAY ME DOWN IN PEACE.

Composed by WILLIAM HURST.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Theory of Music, by Louisa Gibson.

PART I.—Elements. 25th Thousand.

PART II.—Triads, Suspensions, &c. 3rd Edition.

PART III.—Chords of 7th to Counterpoint, &c. Revised and enlarged. "Clearest and most comprehensible works of the kind ever written."—Graphic."A model of conciseness and perspicuity."—Schoolmaster."Real marvels of conciseness and practical utility."—E. Aguilar. WERKES and Co. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER,

Organist of St. Mary Magdalene, Worcester.

POPULAR, EASY, MELODIOUS, AND EFFECTIVE.

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. New	4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-Fa Edition	3d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM. 3rd 1,000	3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR IN THE EAST. 10th Edition	4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 6th 1,000	3d.
GLORY TO GOD. 7th Edition	3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN. 6th 1,000	3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 7th Edition	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 15th Edition	3d.
(MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 8th 1,000	3d.
TE DEUM IN F. 8th Edition	3d.
(MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. 15th Edition	4d.
These have been sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. 3rd Edition	4d.
COMMUNION SERVICE. 2nd Edition	6d.
BENEDICITE. 2nd 1,000	2d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM. Easy, bright, and effective. 3rd 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.

FESTIVAL ANTHEM. Suitable for any Festival or Special Service. Melodious and effective. 3rd 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EASY CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

Just published. Price 3d.

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR.—
Canon for Three Voices. By Rev. CHARLES R. WARD.

Just published. Price 3d. New Anthem for Christmas.

THIS DAY IS BORN. Composed by Sir GEORGE MACFARREN.

New Christmas Anthem, now ready.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST. By S. C. COOKE. For Parish Choirs. Full, easy, and effective. Price 3d.

Just published. Price 4d. New Anthem for Christmas.

AND IT CAME TO PASS. By ARTHUR SIMMS, Mus.Bac., Oxon.

Just published. New Anthem for Christmas.

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.
Composed by HARRY DANCEY. Price 3d.

SERVICES.—Te Deum in D, for the use of Parish Choirs ... W. H. Draycott 3d.
Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie. Chant Form ... F. Austin 4d.
Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 1, in D ... S. C. Cooke 4d.
Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 2, in E flat ... S. C. Cooke 4d.
Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 3, in D ... S. C. Cooke 4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G ... S. C. Ridley 4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, in Unison Harry Dancey 3d.

THE CHOIRBOY'S MANUAL, for rapidly acquiring Sight Singing. By SINCLAIR DUNN. Price 2d.
THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY (LIMITED),
 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY

DAVID DAY.

Round us shines a glorious light. 2nd edition ... 2d.
 By the same Composer.
Te Deum laudamus, Chantwise ... 2d.
Four original Kyrie Eleisons ... 3d.
Six original Hymn Tunes to favourite Hymns ... 4d.

EVENING SERVICES.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D ... 4d.
 London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

O LORD, THOU ART MY GOD. Four voices... 3d.
 AND
IN THE BEGINNING. Four voices ... 3d.

COMPOSED BY

E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY T. MEE PATTISON.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
The Ancient Mariner. Cantata	s. d.	2 6 6d.
" Curwen and Sons) Sol-fa. (Published by Messrs.	—	—
The Lay of the Last Minstrel. Cantata... ..	2 6	gd.
May-Day. Cantata	1 6	6d.
The Miracles of Christ. Sacred Cantata	2 0	gd.
London Cries. Popular School Cantata	2 0	6d.
Band parts of above Cantatas may be hired.
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4	—
Six Kyries	0 2	—
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3 6	—

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA.

Baraby, J. (in E flat).....	8d.	Martin, George C. (in A).....	6d.
Bridge, Dr. J. F. (in G).....	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in A).....	6d.
Calkin, J. Baptiste (in G).....	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in B flat).....	6d.
Fanning, Eaton (in C).....	6d.	Stanford, C. Villiers (in A).....	6d.
Gadsby, Henry (in C).....	6d.	Steggall, Dr. (in C).....	6d.
Lloyd, C. H. (in F).....	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in F).....	4d.
Mann, A. H., Dr. (in E).....	1s.	Tours, Berthold (in D).....	6d.
Martin, George C. (in C).....	6d.	Williams, C. L. (in F major).....	4d.
Wood, W. G. (in B flat).....	6d.

Cantate and Deus (in C), Dr. Steggall, 6d.

The above may also be performed either with strings and organ accompaniment or with organ only, when necessary.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

IN THE KEY OF A

A PLAIN SETTING FOR CONGREGATIONAL USE

BY

W. DE M. SERGISON,

Organist of St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, S.W.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEMS.—JUST PUBLISHED.

BLESSED IS HE

PSALM XLII, 1, 2

QUARTET AND CHORUS

BY

GUSTAV ERNEST

Octavo. Price Fourpence net.

LET THE HEAVENS REJOICE

PSALM XCII., II, 12, 13

FOR ADVENT

QUARTET AND CHORUS

BY

GUSTAV ERNEST

Octavo. Price Fourpence net.

London: J. and J. HOPKINSON, 95, New Bond Street, W.

NEW CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THROUGH THE MIDNIGHT AIR

By F. W. DAWKINS

(Organist, St. James's, Hampton Hill).

Price 2d.; Words, 1s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMN TO PEACE, from the Eirene of Aristophanes, for Soli, Trio, and Chorus. 1s. TWO SONNETS, by Sir PHILIP SIDNEY, for S.A.T.B. in the Madrigal style. 6d. By VIVIAN WALLIS POPHAM. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BERLIOZ'S TE DEUM. Op. 22. Performed at the Crystal Palace, April 18, 1885. Vocal Score, 2s. net. STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., 84, New Bond Street, London, W.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net, by GEORGE RISELEY. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RULES IN RHYMES AND ROUNDS, or Precept and Example combined in Easy Progressive Rounds. By J. POWELL METCALFE. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.	Net.
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song.)	s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)
KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner...	2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song)	2 0
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)
THE ZINGARA	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)
THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford	2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq.	2 0
NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq.	2 0
THE LITTLE LASS 'O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition	2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook	2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE	2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition	0 2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition	0 2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 19th Edition	0 2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition	0 2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition	0 2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition	0 2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition	0 2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition	0 2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition	0 2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.)	0 3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDICOTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published)...	6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published)	6d.
Humpty Dumpty	6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Jack and Jill	4d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Sobbing Quartet	3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song	4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song	4d.
Yule. Part-song	4d.
The Boy and the Bee	6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

DICKORY, DICKORY, DOCK. Humorous Glee.

By ALFRED ALLEN. "The composer evinces considerable humour."—Saturday Review. Price 4d. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.)	2d.
"—"Little Jack Horner"	4d.
(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)
Two-part Songs (S.C.)—"The Robin"	2d.
"—"The Skylark"	2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition. Popular Part-song.

THE RIVER FLOWETH STRONG, MY LOVE.

Music by ROLAND ROGERS, Mus. D. Price 4d. Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR PART-SONGS for CHRISTMAS

BY

WILLIAM J. YOUNG.

Hail! Merry Christmas	22nd thousand	2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	7th "	3d.
Songs of praise the angels sang	7th "	3d.
A Happy New Year	4th "	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Manchester: HIME and ADDISON and WATSON and Co.

HAROLD.—DRAMATIC CANTATA for SOLO VOICES and ORCHESTRA.

Founded on Lord Lytton's Historical Novel. The Poetry by the Rev. F. W. VERNHAM; the Music by J. F. H. READ. Performed at the Walthamstow Musical Festival for 1887. Price 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

NARCISSUS

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

WORDS AND MUSIC BY

SAMUEL BUTLER

(Author of "Erewhon," &c.), Op. 2 (Mus.), and

HENRY FESTING JONES.

(Op. 4.)

Characters: Amaryllis (Soprano), Narcissus (Tenor), Messenger (Alto or Baritone), Chorus (S.A.T.B.)

ARGUMENT.

PART I.—Narcissus, a simple shepherd, and Amaryllis, a prudent shepherdess, with companions, who form the Chorus, have abandoned pastoral pursuits and embarked in a course of speculation upon the Stock Exchange. This results in the loss of the hundred pounds upon which Narcissus and Amaryllis had intended to marry. Their engagement is broken off, and the condolences of the Chorus end Part I.

PART II.—In the interval between the parts the aunt and godmother of Narcissus has died at an advanced age, and is discovered to have been worth one hundred thousand pounds, all of which she has bequeathed to her nephew and godson. This removes the obstacle to his union with Amaryllis; but the question arises in what securities the money is to be invested. At first he is inclined to resume his speculations and to buy Egyptian bonds, American railways, mines, &c.; but yielding to the advice of Amaryllis he resolves to place the whole of it in the Three per cent. Consolidated Bank Annuities, to marry at once, and to live comfortably upon the income. With the congratulations and approbation of the Chorus the work is brought to a conclusion.

Orchestral Parts can be hired.

Vocal Score, with Accompaniment for the Pianoforte, price 5s. net.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

HANDEL FESTIVAL SELECTION, 1888.

A few Copies of the Selection remaining from this year's Handel Festival may still be had.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND CHOIRBOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools. Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs,

For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CATECHISM on the RUDIMENTS of MUSIC and PIANOFORTE PLAYING.

By E. ELLICE JEWELL. Fourth and Revised Edition, price 1s. Also, ELEMENTARY EXERCISES, to be used in conjunction with the above-named work. No manuscript music-book or paper will be required, as space is left with ruled staves for the pupil to write all the exercises in this book. Price 2s.

PIANOFORTE STUDENT'S DAILY STUDY, comprising Scales, Chords, Arpeggi, and Finger Exercises. Arranged by ELLICE E. JEWELL. Price 6s.

LAMBORN COCK, 26, Old Bond Street, London.

RIVIÈRE & HAWKES'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

LANGEY, OTTO; SONATINA in D, for Violoncello and Pianoforte, easy but melodious for the Cello and brilliant for the Pianoforte. A favourite piece at School Concerts. (Also arranged for either Violin, Viola, or Flute and Piano.) 2s. net.

LANGEY, OTTO; RESIGNATION, a sacred piece for Violin, with Pianoforte and Harmonium accompaniment. (Also arranged for Violoncello.) 1s. 6d. net.

LANGEY, OTTO; CHANT D'EGLISE, Duet for two Violins with Pianoforte and Harmonium ad lib. accompaniment; melodious and easy. 2s. net.

The complete list of our instructive music for Violin and other instruments sent free on application.

RIVIÈRE & HAWKES, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.—New Song, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. FRITZ ERCKMANN'S "ONE HOUR BEFORE THE DAY." (English and German words.) 1s. net.

Aberdeen: JAMES MACBETH.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

No. g.	The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants.	s. d.
" 10.	Limp cloth	4 0
" 11.	Cloth boards	5 0
" 12.	Small edition	3 0
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa	3 0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),

With Canticles and Anthems.

Pointed for Chanting for Congregational use	1 3
(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to supplies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, rs. gd.; Treble, 16mo, rs. Words only, gd. and 6d.; paper, 4½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

THE HOME HYMN-BOOK.

Second Edition, with Music, 3s. 6d. Words only, 6d. and upwards.

Dr. G. C. MARTIN: "It is one of the very best collections existing."
Dr. F. R. BATES: "I have gone carefully through the book, and like it exceedingly."

Dr. J. C. BRIDGE: "An excellent collection, and the number of hymns suitable for children is a strong feature."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

No.		s. d.
1.	Hymns only. Royal 24mo. Bourgeois Antique. Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only. Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	0 6
"	Hymns only. Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 4
"	Hymns only. Royal 24mo. Nonpareil Antique. Double Columns. Paper cover	0 3
3.	Hymns with Tunes. Demy 8vo. Cloth	4 0
4.	Hymns with Tunes. Demy 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	5 0
5.	Tunes only. Demy 8vo. Cloth	3 0
6.	Tunes only. Demy 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	4 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes. Treble part only. Royal 24mo, cloth	1 6
"	Hymns with Tunes. Treble part only. Royal 24mo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	2 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes. Small post 8vo, to bind with the Pearl 8vo Prayer Book. Cloth	2 6
9.	Hymns with Tunes. Ditto. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	3 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes. Large type. Imperial 8vo. Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter, and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN or HARMONIUM. Composed by G. H. SWIFT. Six Books, rs. each; 10 pieces in each Book. "This work should be in the hands of every lover of well-written Organ Music, being without doubt the finest collection of tuneful and effective Voluntaries ever published." ALPHONSE CARY, 47 and 48, Northbrook Street, Newbury; London Branch: 87, Oxford Street, W.

1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. gd. Vocal parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, rs. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth, rs. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT BOOK. Edited by

E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, rs. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND

CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d.; with Proper Psalms, rs.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, rs. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And PARKER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57

RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, rs. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS,

and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLI-

CANUM. 18mo, price rs.; in cloth, rs. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLI-

CANUM. Quarto, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ST. ANDREW

A NEW MISSIONARY CANTATA

FOR CHOIR AND CONGREGATION

Dedicated to the Right Rev. W. WALSHAM HOW, D.D., LORD BISHOP OF WAKEFIELD,

and approved of by the Right Rev. R. C. BILLING, D.D., LORD BISHOP OF BEDFORD.

WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY THE

REV. W. FRAZER NASH, LL.B.,

Precentor of St. Andrew Undershaft, City.

MUSIC COMPOSED BY

W. M. WAIT,

Organist and Choirmaster of St. Andrew Undershaft, City.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

May be had from the Publishers, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; or, from the COMPOSER, 39, Median Road, Clapton, E.

THIRTY or FORTY COPIES each to sell cheap—

"Ancient Mariner," "Eve of St. John," "Mary Magdalen," "Ruth." Also a large number of Gleees. Apply, C. J. Hartley, 19, Whetley Grove, Whetley Lane, Bradford.

GLEES, PART-SONGS, and MADRIGALS. A collection in handy sized, neatly bound volumes, to be sold cheap. Duplicate parts. J. R., 3, Oakley Square, N.W.

FOR SALE.—54 Lloyd's HERO AND LEANDER,

6d. each; 80 Lloyd's ALLAN-DALE and other Part-Songs. Apply to Dr. Bridge, Chester.

Just published.

HANDEL'S SAUL

WITH ADDITIONAL ACCOMPANIMENTS

BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

FULL SCORE (MANUSCRIPT).

Vocal Score, 8vo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
First Violin ...	6	0	Trumpets ...	1	0
Second Violin ...	6	0	Trombones (Alto & Tenor) ...	1	6
Viola ...	5	0	Trombone (Bass) ...	0	6
Violoncello and Bass ...	5	0	Drums ...	1	0
Flutes ...	3	0	Glockenspiel (Bells) ...	0	6
Oboes ...	4	6	Organ ...	6	0
Clarinets ...	4	0	Soprano ...	1	7½
Bassoons ...	4	6	Alto ...	1	7½
Double Bassoon ...	1	0	Tenor ...	1	6
Horns ...	2	6	Bass ...	1	6

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In preparing a New Edition for Concert use of Handel's "Saul," it is needless to say that considerable omissions had to be made in order to bring the work within a reasonable length. These have been, for the most part, those that were sanctioned by usage; but, in addition, two not very interesting songs ("Birth and fortune I despise" and "Your words, O king") have been cut out, while the symphony preceding the recitative, "The time at length is come," has been restored as a probably unique specimen of Handel's treatment of the full orchestra.

Musicians will be aware that the score of "Saul" is one of the fullest and richest of all Handel's works. The Editor has attempted, as far as possible, to preserve the original colouring. With this view the composer's trombone parts, curiously written in some places, have been retained exactly. The same is the case with the trumpets, excepting that a few passages have been modified, where Handel had written them impracticably high for modern players. But in no case has the Editor added one note for trumpets or trombones where the composer had not employed them.

The score of "Saul," alone among Handel's oratorios, contains full directions for the treatment of the organ, though the part is seldom written out. The Editor has endeavoured, as far as possible, to carry out these directions in filling up the part. In some cases, as in the symphony preceding the chorus, "Welcome, welcome, mighty king," the effect will be found peculiar; but for this, Handel, not the Editor, is responsible, as the indications here are most minute. In a few passages, in which there is an obbligato part for the organ—e.g., in the chorus, "Mourn, Israel, mourn"—an arrangement for other instruments is given in small notes, which is intended for use if the oratorio is given in places where there is no organ.

The recitatives should be accompanied by the organ or pianoforte; but, at the desire of the publishers, an arrangement of the accompaniment for strings has also been given. In one instance only has the Editor allowed himself an alteration in the colouring. The recitative sung by the Ghost of Samuel is in this edition accompanied by the low notes of clarinets and bassoons. Purists may possibly object to this; but the Editor would urge, in extenuation, though not in justification, that he has merely carried a little further Handel's own idea of individualizing the spectre by the use of wind instruments. The bassoon parts, at the commencement of this scene, as well as the wind parts in the air "Infernal spirits," are Handel's own.

In this score all the original parts are indicated by "H" and all the additions by "P." In cases where something has been added to Handel's parts, both letters are prefixed. It has not been thought needful to do this with the trumpet parts, the alterations being confined to a very few notes. Here Handel's own passages have been retained, even though difficult, whenever at all practicable.

May this edition help to restore to its proper place in public esteem one of the finest of Handel's many neglected oratorios!

EBENEZER PROUT.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Thème et Variations

FOR PIANOFORTE

BY

MARGARET DE PACHMANN

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET.

O DON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

READY ON OCTOBER 20.

CROWN 8vo, 570 PP., CLOTH.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION

OF WORDS

OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

LONDON & NEW YORK

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE VILLAGE QUEEN

A PASTORAL CANTATA FOR TREBLE VOICES

WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES VINCENT,

Mus. Doc., Oxon.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

"Dr. Vincent has arranged his music so as to fully satisfy the dramatic needs. There are airs, duets, choruses with instrumental festal music, all of the brightest and most attractive patterns. The whole of the music is of the most interesting character, and some of it, as, for example, the opening choruses 'Awake, awake,' 'Behold the day,' the Finale 'For long shall we remember,' the duet 'Yes! sleep no more,' the songs 'Let the merry lives,' 'O nightingale,' and so forth, are far above the dead level of conventional interpretation which the character of the words would seem to inspire. Altogether the Cantata is well worthy of the notice of those who are in search of novel and pleasing things of its kind."—Musical Times.

"The music is in Dr. Vincent's bright and genial style, wholly free from pretension and affectation, just original enough to avoid being commonplace, easy to sing, always fresh, and sometimes even sparkling. There are evidences of sound, serious musicianship underlying the light and merry exterior, so the Cantata claims the right of popularity on more than the score of mere tunefulness, of which important quality it can nevertheless boast its full share. For a ladies' school concert or a choir of ladies it can be warmly recommended."—Musical Standard.

"It is the simple story of the crowning of a May Queen, and the music is as simple as the story. It is one of a series of Cantatas for female voices, published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. (London). If all the rest of the series are as melodious as Dr. Vincent's contribution, they will need no other recommendation. The movements in 'The Village Queen,' while they are thoroughly English in the character of their themes, have a variety of treatment which is sufficient to sustain the interest of the listener to the very last bar of the work."—Manchester Guardian.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORSBORN & TUCKWOOD'S POPULAR SHILLING PUBLICATIONS.

THE VESPER VOLUNTARIES.—"Containing short Melodies for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ, which by their variety will be useful for Church purposes as Offertory Music, Interludes, or Voluntaries, and will certainly be welcome for their effective grace and simplicity, demanding no special executive skill in their performance."—Saturday Review.

Book 1.—SIXTEEN VOLUNTARIES	... By NICHOLAS HEINS
2.—FIFTEEN	... J. E. NEWELL
3.—ELEVEN	... W. HAYNES
4.—THIRTEEN	... J. C. BEAZLEY
5.—THIRTEEN	... A. J. GREENISH, Mus. Bac.
6.—TWELVE	... ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac.
7.—THIRTEEN	... ARTHUR GRAHAM
8.—TWELVE	... E. BOGETTI
9.—TWELVE	... THEO. BONHEUR
10.—FIFTEEN	... A. W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac.
11.—ELEVEN	... F. F. ROGERS
12.—FIFTEEN	... J. HORSPOLL
13.—TEN	... ODOARDO BARRI
14.—TWELVE	... JULES THERESE
15.—TWELVE	... SEYMOUR SMITH
16.—TWELVE	... FRANK MANLY
17.—FIFTEEN	... J. E. NEWELL
18.—TWELVE	... VERNON REY
19.—TEN	... JULES THERESE
20.—TWELVE	... KING HALL

Volumes 1, 2, and 3, containing six of the above numbers in each book, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. net. Post-free, 5s. 6d.

THE ORGANIST'S COMPANION. Containing Short Interludes, &c., for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ. Price 1s. net. By post, 14 stamps.

Book 1.—INTERLUDES, VOLUNTARIES, &c.	By N. HEINS
" 2.—NINE VOLUNTARIES	ARTHUR GRAHAM
" 3.—FIFTEEN VOLUNTARIES	J. E. NEWELL

CATHEDRAL MARCH ALBUM.—For Organ. 1s. each net.

Book 1.—EIGHT ORIGINAL MARCHES.
" 2.—SEVEN

ORGAN.—THE MINSTER ECHOES. Original Voluntaries, with Pedal Obbligato, arranged from the Compositions of Popular Composers, by ARTHUR GRAHAM.

Book 1.—SIX VOLUNTARIES.	Book 7.—SEVEN VOLUNTARIES.
2.—SIX	8.—THREE
3.—FIVE	9.—NINE
4.—FIVE	10.—EIGHT
5.—SIX	11.—EIGHT
6.—FIVE	12.—SEVEN

Other Numbers in the Press.

Volumes 1 and 2, containing Six of the above Numbers, handsomely bound in Chocolate Cloth, 7s. 6d. net. By post, 8s.

TWO-PART SONGS. Arranged for Ladies' Voices. For the use of Schools and Classes. Price 3d. each. Complete, in neatly bound book, 1s. each net.

SONGS OF THE FAIRIES. By J. E. NEWELL.
1. Merry Elves	Words by Shakespeare.
2. Child of Earth	"
3. Forest Fairy	W. H. Bellamy.
4. Over hill, over dale	Shakespeare.
5. Oh! where do fairies hide their heads	T. Haynes Bayley.
6. The fairies' lullaby	Shakespeare.

THE COLLEGE SERIES. By A. W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac.
1. Stars of the summer night	Words by Longfellow.
2. Gentle Spring	"
3. Twilight	"
4. Curfew	"
5. It is not always May	"
6. The rainy day	"

TRIOS. THE CANTERBURY SERIES. By OSCAR VERNE. For use of Schools and Classes. Price 3d. each; or, Six bound, 1s. net.

No. 1. Oh! by rivers	Oscar Verne	net 3d.
" 2. Little Celandine	"	3d.
" 3. Stars of the Summer night	"	3d.
" 4. Merry Elves	"	3d.
" 5. The Woodthrush	"	3d.
" 6. It is not always May	"	3d.

To be had of all Musicsellers, or from ORSBORN & TUCKWOOD, 64, Berners Street, W.

WORKS BY

JOHN FARMER,

ORGANIST AT BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD, AND DIRECTOR OF THE HARROW MUSIC SCHOOL.

HARROW SCHOOL SONGS	...	complete	s. d.
HARROW GLEE BOOK	...	...	3 0
NURSERY RHYMES. 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Sets	...	each	1 0
CINDERELLA. Fairy Opera	...	...	3 0
CHRIST AND HIS SOLDIERS. Oratorio	...	...	3 0
Chorus parts	...	...	1 0
REQUIEM	...	...	2 0

JUST OUT.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO ... 3 0

For Men's Voices, with Solos—for The Mouse (Alto), The Frog (Tenor), The Rat (Bass), with an Accompaniment for String Instruments and Piano or for Piano alone.

Chorus parts	...	...	1 0
String parts	...	...	0 6
The same for Mixed Voices	...	...	3 0

(With Accompaniment for String Instruments.)

And also for Female Voices, ditto ... 3 0

AND ALL OTHER WORKS ARE PUBLISHED BY

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, BERNERS STREET, W.

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.

An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and HarmoniumBY
J. W. ELLIOTT

WILL BE PUBLISHED SHORTLY.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.

AS PERFORMED BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL
CHORAL SOCIETY.

JOAN OF ARC

AN HISTORICAL AND DRAMATIC CANTATA

WORDS BY FREDERICK ENOCHMUSIC BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.

"In abstract musical merit we are inclined to regard it as an advance on the earlier work, 'The Holy City.' . . . The choruses are written with much knowledge of effect, and one of them, 'On to the battle, on,' is exceedingly spirited. An 'Ave Maria,' and the final chorus of the 'Spirit Voices' may be named as really charming."—Athenæum.

"As in his other works, particularly 'The Holy City,' the composer writes admirably for the solo voices, and equally well for the chorus. . . . The fact must strongly be insisted upon that 'Joan of Arc' is a work which is bound to be widely taken up by provincial societies, doubtless to attain which end the composer has employed but three soloists, and has given a more than usually large degree of importance to the choral work. . . . The 'Ave Maria' is singularly beautiful, and will probably be considered the gem of the work."—London Figaro.

"Joan of Arc' was last night produced for the first time in the metropolis by Mr. McNaught and the admirable choir of the Bow and Bromley Institute. . . . Obviously written with a special view to the requirements of provincial and other choral societies, and likely to become highly popular."—Daily News.

"Calculated to delight performers and listeners, being full of melody and taking effects."—Referee.

"Must enhance the high reputation of its composer. From beginning to end 'Joan of Arc' is marked by perfect and natural melody, a smoothness that is really delightful, and instrumentation that indicates the touch of a masterhand."—Liverpool Courier.

"The music from beginning to end is of the highest order, both in form, construction, dramatic expression, and religious colouring. Particularly beautiful is the great wealth of melody, which carries with it the impression that it is the outcome of the inspiration and genius of a highly-refined musician. . . . The Cantata is even a more masterly and beautiful work than 'The Holy City.' . . . 'Joan of Arc' is one of the most melodious, refined, and expressive works that has come under our notice."—Huddersfield Examiner.

"No more charming Cantata than 'Joan of Arc' could have been chosen. It abounds in delicious music. There is not a tedious note in it, nor any number which can be accused of impairing the dignity of a composition having a lofty aim."—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Chronicle.

"Gives the listener a vivid and realistic impression, its attractiveness being continuous instead of spasmodic."—Bradford Observer.

"The choruses are always effectively written—the solos are extremely melodious; deserves, and will probably achieve, great popularity."—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Journal.

"There is a reality about the whole tone of the work that seems to bring every scene in the life of the French heroine vividly before us."—Border Counties Herald.

"It would not be surprising if it attained to even the almost phenomenal popularity of 'The Holy City'; contains a similar wealth of melody and effective part-writing."—Birmingham Daily Times.

"Reading the score convinces us that it is our townsman's greatest production. The music displays more skilful workmanship than any music we have received from the same hands. . . . Could have been originated by none but a born melodist."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"A distinct advance upon Mr. Gaul's previous work in cantata form. . . . A constant flow of exquisite melodies and effective choral writing."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"Now with matured experience and ripened scholarship he gives to the town which has received and welcomed his first triumphs his magnum opus, 'Joan of Arc.'"—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"The Cantata, from the first bar to the last, is rich in melody, beautiful harmonic combinations, and clever orchestration. The beautiful 'Ave Maria' is a splendid example of pure and fervent church music, but there are so many exquisite points of merit in Mr. Gaul's latest work that they hardly need detailing. Taking the work as a whole, it bids fair to become a great favourite with all choral societies."—Birmingham Weekly Post.

"A thoroughly melodious work, and should find favour with choral societies. It is not difficult to sing, and contains sufficient variety to keep up the interest to the end."—Manchester Guardian.

Price, paper covers, 2s. 6d.; ditto, boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100. (Ent. Sta. Hall.)

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental Parts may be had on application to the Composer and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

CALLIRHOË

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS BY W. BARCLAY SQUIRE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 2s. 6d.; Paper Boards, 3s.; Cloth, 4s.

Vocal Parts, each 1s. Tonic Sol-fa in the Press.

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 32s. 6d. Full Score, MS.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The success of Dr. Bridge's Cantata is beyond dispute, and we shall probably hear much of it during the approaching season.

THE DAILY NEWS.

It ought to take very high rank among the popular cantatas of the modern repertory. In the provinces and among ordinary choral societies there is little doubt that "Callirhoë" will be in immediate demand, not only because the choral work is so sympathetic and effective, but also because it really needs the engagement of only two artists out of the usual quartet, the contralto having very little and the baritone nothing to do.

MORNING POST.

Will doubtless find a speedy welcome among choral societies.

THE STANDARD.

Dr. Bridge is anything but a Wagnerite; but he has escaped the shadow of the cloisters in all this exciting music which is perfectly modern in its free development and display of passion.

THE ATHENÆUM.

May be strongly recommended to the notice of choral societies, as certain to interest them and their audiences.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"Callirhoë" brings to light a native composer who has fancy and originality in addition to thorough knowledge of the technical means by which these inestimable gifts are calculated to yield artistic benefit.

THE GLOBE.

There can be little doubt that his new Cantata will, ere long, become popular in all parts of the country.

THE GUARDIAN.

Dr. Bridge's new composition will take high rank among his works, for he has written it with much knowledge of vocal and instrumental effect, and no small power of graphic delineation.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

I think "Callirhoë" should win success with choral societies, for it is fresh and fanciful, and it only needs two leading singers, a soprano and a tenor. Local talent might be utilised for the small contralto part.

SUNDAY TIMES.

"Callirhoë" was received with every sign of delight. The composer, who conducted, had a rapturous recall, and the choir, after singing his music con amore, cheered him with frantic warmth. It was a first-rate performance.

FIGARO.

The work is one of which the Westminster Abbey Organist should be proud.

MUSICAL WORLD.

Melodic charm and modern harmonic effects. The solos for the soprano are exceptionally pleasing.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

REDUCED PRICE.

Fifth edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover; 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS

SINGLE AND DOUBLE

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., ETC.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains nearly 400 Chants, which are appropriated to "Venite, exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page and affording several Series, suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter, from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE MESSIAH

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 1 OF NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD ORATORIOS & CANTATAS

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR GEORGE A. MACFARREN.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE CREATION

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 2 OF NEW EDITION OF STANDARD ORATORIOS and CANTATAS.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR G. A. MACFARREN.

Prospectuses of Series gratis and Post-free.

TWELVE TWO-PART SONGS

FOR LADIES' AND BOYS' VOICES,

with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Written, composed, and dedicated to Sir GEORGE A. MACFARREN by his Pupil, SINCLAIR DUNN.

Price 2d. each.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| No. 1. Come to the woodlands. | No. 7. Lovely Spring. |
| " 2. O come, let us sing. | " 8. Baby dear. |
| " 3. Where bluebells grow. | " 9. Marching along. |
| " 4. The Lily of the Valley. | " 10. Evening's Starlight. |
| " 5. The Snowdrop. | " 11. Rest in Thee. |
| " 6. Merry Maidens. | " 12. Where the roses bloom. |

Just published, 1s.

THE MUSIC CLASS; OR, SIGHT SINGER.

FOR THE USE OF SINGING CLASSES, CHOIRMASTERS, &c., BY SINCLAIR DUNN.

An easy, systematic course of instruction for teaching to read Music at Sight in a few lessons.

A large reduction for quantities.

London: THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING CO. (Limited),
54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

PERFORMING EDITION.

THE MESSIAH

AN ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

HANDEL.

THE BAND PARTS from the Original Score, with the additions by MOZART.

The Bowing and Fingering marked by
ALFRED BURNETT.

The Instrumentation slightly amplified, and the whole Edited by
G. A. MACFARREN.

First Violin ...	3 o	Horns ...	...
Second Violin ...	3 o	Trumpets ...	...
Viola ...	3 o	Trombones, A.T.B. ...	...
Violoncello and Bass ...	3 o	Drums ...	...
Flutes ...	...	Treble ...	...
Oboes ...	...	Alto ...	...
Clarinets ...	...	Tenor ...	...
Bassoons ...	...	Bass ...	...

VOCAL SCORE, EDITED BY G. A. MACFARREN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ORGAN

By W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. Doc., CANTAB.

This work has been designed to meet the wants of those Organists who have to play organs more or less incomplete. The whole of the pieces may be played, therefore, upon organs with two keyboards; many of them, by a little management, upon organs with only one. The pedal is, of course, indispensable. It has been the aim to make all the pieces thoroughly playable, and as easy as was consistent with their due effect.

Nos. 1 to 16 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

THE ORGAN JOURNAL

By W. J. WESTBROOK, Mus. Doc., CANTAB.

The pieces here provided are of moderate difficulty, may be played upon organs with two keyboards and pedals, and appear for the first time in any publication for the organ, almost without exception.

Nos. 1 to 8 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

London: THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING CO. (Limited),
54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ASHTON, ALGERNON.—"Playmates." Eight Small Piano-forte Pieces. Op. 23.	4	0
— "Phantasiestücke," Op. 24. For Violin and Piano-forte.	8	0
— "Silhouettes." Three Simple Piano-forte Pieces. Op. 33.	5	0
BACH, J. S.—Aria. For String Orchestra (Quintet or Quartet). Arranged by H. Wehrle. Score and Parts.	5	0
BARRÈS, J.—"Souvenirs et Regrets." For Violin or Violoncello, with Piano-forte.	4	0
BRUNO, FR.—Andante. For Piano-forte or Harmonium.	2	0
CARMAN, M.—Petit Rondo (Classical form). For two Violins or B flat Clarinets, with Violoncello or Bassoon.	4	0
FAUCHEUX, A.—Rêverie. Easy piece for Violin or Violoncello, with Piano-forte.	3	6
GUILMANT, A.—Sixty Interludes in the Gregorian tonality (short and easy). For Organ or Harmonium. Op. 63. net	3	6
HANSEN, R.—Sonata. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 1.	6	0
HARTMANN, J. P. E.—Good Friday—Eastermorn. Two Pieces for the Organ. Op. 43.	3	0
HEGNER, L.—Elegy. For B flat Clarinet or Violoncello and Piano-forte.	3	0
HENSELT, A.—Ave Maria. Arranged for String Orchestra. Score and Parts.	4	0
HOFMANN, H.—"Irrlichter und Kobolde." Scherzo for Orchestra. Arranged for Piano-forte Duet.	10	0
KINDLER, CHR.—Twelve Progressive Studies. For Flute, with Piano-forte ad lib.	6	0
— Fantasia on a theme by Rudolph Bay. For Flute and Piano-forte.	3	0
KIRCHNER, TH.—Quartet in C minor. For Piano-forte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello.	16	0
KLEIN, B. O.—Sonata. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 10.	12	0
— Two Concert Pieces (Romance and Spinning Song). For Violin and Piano-forte:—
No. 1. 5 0 No. 2.	6	0
KLEINMICHEL, R.—Fantasia Overture in A. Op. 25. For Orchestra:—
Full score. 20 0 Orchestral parts.	24	0
KOUSNETZOFF, A.—Idylle. Op. 7. For Violoncello and Piano-forte.	4	0
— "Le Regret." Melody for Violoncello and Piano-forte. Op. 10.	3	0
KRAUSE, A.—Four Songs for one Voice and Piano-forte (German words). Op. 33.	6	0
LISZT, F.—"Consolations." Arranged for the Harp. By E. Schücker.	7	0
MÄHLIG, R.—Andante Cantabile. Easy Duet for two Violins and Piano-forte.	4	0
MATTHISON, HANSEN G.—Concert Piece in E flat. For the Organ.	4	0
— Jubilee Fantasia. For the Organ. Op. 21.	3	0
NÉRUDA, F.—Mazurka. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 20.	3	0
— Two Concert Pieces. No. 1, Mazurka. No. 2, Ungarisch. For Violoncello and Piano-forte. each	3	0
— Andante and Allegro de Concert. For Violoncello and Piano-forte. Op. 40.	10	0
PIRANI, E.—Romance in F. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 33.	3	0
— Gavotte. Op. 34. For two Piano-fortes. Four hands.	4	0
POPPER, W.—Impromptu in G. For Violoncello and Piano-forte. Op. 6.	4	0
PURCELL, H.—Three Pieces (Allemande, Sarabande, Cebell). Arranged for String Orchestra (Quintet or Quartet). Score and Parts.	6	0
SALOMÉ, TH.—Six Pieces. For Harmonium. Op. 29:—
No. 1. Melody. 2 6
" 2. Waltz. 3 0
" 3. Offrande. 3 0
" 4. Intermezzo. 2 6
" 5. March. 2 6
" 6. Echos Villageois. 2 6
SAURET, E.—Six Characteristic Pieces. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 22. complete	9	0
SCHLUTY, J.—Stabat Mater. Chant, with Variations for the Organ.	4	0
SCHUBERT, FR.—Overture to "Der Teufel als Hydraulicus." Arranged for Piano-forte. net	1	6
— Overtures in D, B, D, and E minor. Arranged for Piano-forte. each net	1	6
— Two Overtures in Italian Style. Arranged for Piano-forte. each net	1	6
— Second Symphony in B. Arranged for Piano-forte.	4	0
— Seventh Symphony in C. Arranged for Piano-forte Duet.	7	0
— Subscription Edition of complete works. Series IX. Piano-forte Duet in single numbers:—
No. 1. Three Marches. Op. 27. net	1	6
" 2. Six Marches. Op. 40.	3	0
" 3. Three Military Marches. Op. 51.	1	6
" 4. Funeral March. Op. 55.	1	0
" 5. Heroic March. Op. 66.	1	6
" 6. Two Characteristic Marches. Op. 121.	2	0
" 7. Kindermarsch in G.	0	6
SCHYTTÉ, L.—Four Characteristic Pieces. Op. 12. For Piano-forte. No. 1, Minuet; No. 2, La Nuit; No. 3, Le Soir; No. 4, Jeu des enfants. each	2	0
— Musical Pictures. Nine Piano-forte Pieces. Two books.	6	0
WAGNER, R.—Nine Lyrical Pieces from "Lohengrin." Arranged for Violoncello and Piano-forte by C. Hüllweck:—
Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7, 9. each	2	0
" 4, 6, 8.	3	0
WOLFRUM, PH.—Quintet. Op. 21. Arr. for Piano-forte Duet.	15	0

Sold at half-price if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just published.

PRELUDE

TO THE

ŒDIPUS REX

OF SOPHOCLES

COMPOSED BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

(Op. 29.)

Full Score.	price 6s.
Orchestral Parts, complete.	12s.
String Parts, separately.	each 1s.

Vocal Score of the complete Work, with Greek and English text, as arranged for the Piano-forte by the Composer, price 3s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price, complete, 2s. net; or, singly, each 6d. net.

SIX SHORT AND EASY PIECES, in Two Parts, for the Piano-forte, composed expressly for the use of Young Children, the compass for the right hand being within the octave, by E. A. SYDENHAM.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"These charming little pieces . . . will insensibly lead forth the musical capabilities of young players."—Musical Times.

"Sufficiently excellent in scope and character to deserve warm approbation and achieve considerable success."—Leeds Mercury.

"Very graceful melodies."—Glasgow Herald.

"Little gems for little learners."—Northampton Mercury.

"Well calculated to advance the pupil by separate stages."—Dundee Advertiser.

"The melodies are graceful and delicate."—The Schoolmaster.

* A special reduction made to Teachers and Schools for quantities.

Address, COMPOSER, Florence Villa, Whittington Road, Bowes Park, N.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

A LIST of QUALIFIED MUSICIANS

HOLDING

BRITISH DEGREES OR DIPLOMAS

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL SOURCES BY

JOHN WARRINER, Mus. B.

(TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN).

In this work are collected for the first time the names of all Graduates in Music of Universities in the British Isles, and those entitled to append to their names the letters: R.A.M., A.R.A.M., L.R.A.M.; F.C.O.; L.Mus., T.C.L.; A.R.C.M.; F.G., or L.T.S.C.; to which have been added the names of those who have received the degree of Mus. D. from the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Members and Associates of the Philharmonic Society of London. Its issue has been rendered advisable from the number of persons assuming titles more or less doubtful in character, or producing as "qualifications" Certificates intended for Students only.

Subscribers to first edition are requested to note that the names below should have been added. They will appear in subsequent issues.

Name.	Qualification.
AINLEY, W. C.	Mus. B., Cambridge.
*BELL, GEORGE.	Mus. D., Trinity College, Dublin.
BROWN, J. CONWAY.	L.Mus., T.C.L.
BUCKNELL, CEDRIC.	Mus. B., Oxon.
*HARDCASTLE, S.	F.T.S.C.
JAMES, FREDERIC.	Mus. B., Cambridge.
JOHNSON, T.	Mus. B., Cambridge.
LIDDLE, J. S.	Mus. B., Oxon., F.C.O.
*MARTIN, G. C. (p. 20)	Mus. B., Oxon., F.C.O.
ROHNER, G. W.	Mus. D., Trinity College, Dublin.
*ROPER, ISAAH.	Mus. B., Cambridge, F.C.O.
*SNEEDON, JAMES.	Mus. B., Cambridge, G. & L.T.S.C.
*WATSON, GEORGE F.	G.T.S.C.
*WATSON, H.	Mus. D., Cambridge.

* Amended particulars.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence from the COMPILER, De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.; or,

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOW TO LEARN TO PLAY THE PIANO

WELL. 4th Ed., 1s. "The Art of Playing at Sight," 1s. 4th Ed. "Little Difficulties in Playing Explained," 1s. "Rules of Simple Harmony," 3rd Ed., 1s. "Harmonium, and How to Play it," 1s. "How to Form and Train a Choir," 1s. "How to Tune your own Piano," 1s. THOS. SMITH, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

AIR WITH VARIATIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. G. PEARSON.

One Shilling and Sixpence.

"Mr. Pearson's air is pleasing, and the five variations are well contrasted."—Musical Times.

"The theme is fresh and graceful, and is developed through the variations with taste and skill."—Scotsman.

"Possesses very considerable merit."—Scottish Leader.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ORGAN WORKS

OF

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH

EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, AND JAMES HIGGS,

Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Book I.—EIGHT SHORT PRELUDES AND FUGUES 2s. 6d.

In this edition much help is offered towards a correct and effective rendering of Bach's Organ Music. The distribution of the parts between the two hands is clearly shown. The notes most conveniently played by the right hand are printed on the upper, and those best taken by the left hand on the lower, of the two manual staves. The pedalling is indicated where necessary. Marks of expression and phrasing are added occasionally, and suggestions for the effective use of the organ are given throughout. The Preface contains many useful hints.

Book II.—PRELUDES, FUGUES, AND TRIO ... 3s. 6d.

The second book of the new edition of Bach's Organ Works is more advanced in point of difficulty than the first, and will be found of conspicuous interest. It includes the well-known "Giant" in D minor, the shorter Prelude and Fugue in E minor (a great favourite with Mendelssohn), and an exceedingly effective Prelude and Fugue in C minor, in addition to other less-known but important works. It is a specialty of this edition that a convenient and effective mode of performance is everywhere indicated. Appended to the preface is a suggested metronomic rate for each movement.

Book III.—PRELUDES, FUGUES, AND FANTASIA ... 3s. 6d.

The third book contains compositions of greater difficulty, it is therefore more fully fingered and marked for the pedals. It is believed Organ Students will derive the greatest possible assistance by having their attention directed from the outset to a convenient method of dealing with each difficulty as it arises. The present book includes the Fugue in B minor, on a subject from Corelli, a beautiful Prelude and Fugue in A major (most useful for obtaining command of the higher part of the Pedal-board), a Prelude and Fugue in C major, a Fantasia and Fugue in C minor, and the well-known short G minor Fugue. There is, as usual, in this Edition a Preface containing interesting particulars of the several works.

Book IV.—SONATAS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDAL ... 3s. 6d.

The fourth book contains the first three of the six celebrated Sonatas or Trios for two manuals and pedal. Spitta says: "These Sonatas were intended by J. S. Bach to complete the education of his eldest son, Wilhelm Friedemann, as an organist." They are invaluable as studies and very beautiful as music. In the present edition they are for the first time fingered and marked for the Pedals.

Book V.—SONATAS FOR TWO MANUALS AND PEDAL ... 3s. 6d.

The fifth book contains the last three of the six Sonatas. Those in E minor, C major, and G major. They are of exceeding value to the Student of Organ Playing. The mastery of them assuring him of that thorough independence of hands and feet so indispensable to the fully accomplished organist. As in the former book, proper fingering and pedalling is everywhere indicated. The Preface contains a detailed analysis of each movement.

Book VI.—PRELUDES AND FUGUES ... 3s. 6d.

The sixth book includes several of Bach's greatest and most popular Organ Works. (1) The Toccata in D minor, with its contrasting effects of recitative-like passages and massive harmonies. (2) The well-known Prelude and Fugue in D major, which Spitta describes as "one of the most dazzlingly beautiful of all the master's Organ Works. . . . Skilful pedal-players will find it exactly suited to them, for the theme is quite exceptionally fitted for pedal technique." (3) The Prelude and Fugue in F minor, less known perhaps than the other contents of the book, but scarcely less beautiful, or less worthy of the student's attention. (4) The great Prelude in E flat major, together with the Fugue in three sections, known as the St. Ann's. The whole are laid out with especial regard to the convenience of the player. Necessary fingering and other marks to help to effective performance are inserted, and the Preface contains various notes and suggestions relative to the history, structure, and treatment of the several works.

Book VII.—PRELUDES AND FUGUES ... 3s. 6d.

The seventh part of Bach's Organ Works contains:—Prelude and Fugue, A minor; Prelude and Fugue, B minor; Prelude and Fugue, C minor; Prelude and Fugue, C major; and Prelude and Fugue, G major.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SEVEN PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

ADOLPHE HENSELT.

EDITED AND FINGERED BY

WLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. SI OISEAU J'ETAIS. TOI JE VOLERAI! Op. 2, No. 6.
2. DORS-TU, MA VIE? Op. 2, No. 11.
3. POÈME D'AMOUR. Op. 3. ANDANTE ET ALLEGRO.
4. ENTSCHWUNDENES GLÜCK. Op. 5. ÉTUDE X.
5. TOCCATINA. Op. 25.
6. QUATRIÈME IMPROMPTU. Op. 37.
7. WIEGENLIED. Op. 45 (CHANSON DE BERÇEAU).

The fingering in this Edition is made with regard to the position of the hands; that which at first sight appears awkward will be found calculated to give a fluent rendering of the technical difficulties, and at the same time a tranquil movement of the hands. Any alteration in the notes is made with the approval of the Composer, and by his wish published.—W. DE P.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORGAN SOLOS by IRVINE DEARNALEY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE ON "JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN."
3s. net.

VARIATIONS, FUGHETTA, AND CANON ON "AURELIA."
2s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OFFERTOIRE

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sung by Miss HILDA WILSON and Mr. FRANK MAY.

THE SOUL'S DEFIANCE

SONG

COMPOSED BY

E. A. SULLIVAN.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VIOLIN & PIANOFORTE ALBUMS.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH.

* No. 1.

FOUR MARCHES

COMPOSED BY

MENDELSSOHN.

No. 1. WEDDING MARCH.

„ 2. WAR MARCH OF THE PRIESTS.

„ 3. CORNELIUS MARCH (Op. 108).

„ 4. FUNERAL MARCH (Op. 103).

TRANSCRIBED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

* No. 2.

THIRTY MELODIES

COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

These Melodies are expressly written to be used in connection with the Author's VIOLIN PRIMER.

* No. 3.

TEN TRANSCRIPTIONS FROM MENDELSSOHN'S

“ELIJAH”

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

* No. 4.

TEN TRANSCRIPTIONS FROM GOUNOD'S

“MORS ET VITA”

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

* No. 5.

TWELVE SKETCHES

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

* No. 6.

HUNGARIAN DANCES

TRANSCRIBED BY

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

No. 7.

NINE

MORCEAUX DE SALON

COMPOSED BY

IPPOLITO RAGGHIANI.

* No. 8.

TWELVE PIECES

COMPOSED BY

OLIVER KING.

* No. 9.

SIX

MORCEAUX DE SALON

COMPOSED BY

JOACHIM RAFF.

No. 10.

SIX

CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

For Two Violins and Pianoforte

COMPOSED BY

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

Nos. 11 AND *12.

TWELVE SONATAS

COMPOSED BY

ARCANGELO CORELLI.

EDITED BY

ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

BOOKS I AND II.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence each.

* No. 13.

EIGHT

NATIONAL MELODIES

ARRANGED BY

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

* These Albums may also be had arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,
RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

T. ANDERTON.				FRANZ LISZT.
YULE TIDE.. .. .	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.	THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
THE NORMAN BARON	1/6	2/0	3/0		2/0	—	—
	1/0	1/6	—	C. H. LLOYD.
BEETHOVEN.				ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
THE PRAISE OF MUSIC	1/6	—	—	HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.				SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
ROCK OF AGES (Latin and English words)	1/0	—	—	THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male voices)	1/6	—	—
CALLIRHOË	2/6	3/0	4/0	HAMISH MacCUNN.
(Tonic Sol-fa, in the Press.)				LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER	1/0	—	—
DUDLEY BUCK.				A. C. MACKENZIE.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0	ROSE OF SHARON	5/0	6/0	7/6
F. CORDER.				(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN ..	2/6	—	—	THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
F. H. COWEN.				JASON	2/6	3/0	4/0
SLEEPING BEAUTY	2/6	3/0	4/0	C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
RUTH.. .. .	4/0	4/6	6/0	BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—	JUDITH; or, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH	5/0	6/0	7/6
ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.				CIRO PINSUTI.
SAINT LUDMILA.. .. .	5/0	6/0	7/6	PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0	E. PROUT.
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—	THE RED CROSS KNIGHT	4/0	4/6	6/0
STABAT MATER	2/6	3/0	4/0	C. SAINT-SAËNS.
HENRY FARMER.				THE HEAVENS DECLARE	1/6	—	—
MASS IN B FLAT (Latin and English)	2/0	2/6	3/6	SCHUMANN.
ROBERT FRANZ.				THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
PRAISE YE THE LORD (PSALM 117) ..	1/0	—	—	THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
NIELS W. GADE.				ALICE MARY SMITH.
PSYCHE	2/6	3/0	4/0	(Mrs. Meadows White.)
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)				SONG OF THE LITTLE BALTUNG
F. GERNSHEIM.				(Male Voices)	1/0	—	—
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—	THE RED KING (Male Voices) ..	1/0	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.				C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—	THE REVENGE	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.				(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)
THEREDEMPTION	5/0	6/0	7/6	J. STAINER.
(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)				THE DAUGHTER OF JAIRUS ..	1/6	2/0	—
DITTO (French words)	8/4	—	—	(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)
DITTO (German words)	10/0	—	—	ST. MARY MAGDALEN	2/0	2/6	4/0
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE..	2/6	—	—	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)
MORS ET VITA	6/0	6/6	7/6	THE CRUCIFIXION	1/6	—	—
(Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)				(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)
ADOLF JENSEN.				ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—	THE GOLDEN LEGEND	3/6	4/0	5/0
				(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)
				C. M. VON WEBER.
				IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—

CHAPPELL AND CO.'S WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NEW NUMBERS OF
VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS

- | | |
|---|--|
| 112. The Torpedo and the Whale ("Olivette").
S. Solo. S.A.T.B. Audran 4d. | 106. Cupid swallowed. Madrigal. A.T.B.B.
... .. Ch. Santley 4d. |
| 111. Love will find out the way. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 2d. | 105. Chorus of Maidens (from "Isaias"). S.S.C.C.
... .. Mancinelli 4d. |
| 110. Victoria—our Queen. S.A.T.B. J. Barnby 3d. | 104. Prelude and Chorus of Maidens (from "Isaias").
S.S.S.C.C. Mancinelli 4d. |
| 109. Praise ye the Father (Marche Romaine adapted for Chorus). S.A.T.B. Ch. Gounod 2d. | 103. Sailor's Grave. S.A.T.B. John H. Gower 3d. |
| 108. Hunting Chorus (from "Fridolin"). C.T.T.B.B.
... .. A. Randegger 4d. | |

POPULAR NUMBERS.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 4. British Grenadiers. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 2d. | 47. The German Fatherland. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 1d. |
| 8. Soldiers' Chorus. T.T.B.B. Gounod 4d. | 51. Charity (La Carità). S.S.S. Rossini 4d. |
| 9. The Kermesse (Scene from "Faust") 6d. | 52. Cordelia. A.T.T.B. G. A. Osborne 4d. |
| 10. Up, quit thy bower. S.A.T.B. Brinley Richards 4d. | 54. Chorus of Handmaidens (from "Fridolin")
... .. A. Randegger 4d. |
| 14. The Gipsy Chorus Balfe 4d. | 56. The Red Cross Knight Dr. Callcott 2d. |
| 19. Thoughts of Childhood. S.A.T.B. Henry Smart 2d. | 57. The Chough and Crow Sir H. R. Bishop 3d. |
| 21. An old Church Song. S.A.T.B. 2d. | 58. The "Carnovale" Rossini 2d. |
| 22. Sabbath Bells. S.A.T.B. 2d. | 65. Dame Durden 1d. |
| 23. Serenade. S.A.T.B. 2d. | 66. A little Farm well tilled Hook 1d. |
| 28. March of the Men of Harlech. S.A.T.B. Dr. Rimbauld 2d. | 67. There was a simple maiden G. A. Macfarren 1d. |
| 29. God save the Queen. S.A.T.B. 1d. | 68. Fair Hebe 1d. |
| 30. Rule, Britannia! S.A.T.B. 1d. | 69. Once I loved a maiden fair 1d. |
| 34. Market Chorus ("Masaniello"). S.A.T.B. Auber 4d. | 70. The jovial man of Kent 1d. |
| 35. The Prayer ("Masaniello"). S.A.T.B. 1d. | 71. The oak and the ash 1d. |
| 45. O Thou, whose power (Prayer from "Mosè in Egitto") Rossini 2d. | 72. Hearts of oak 1d. |
| 46. The Guard on the Rhine. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 1d. | 80. Christ is risen (Easter Anthem). S.A.T.B. Berlioz 3d. |

COMPLETE LIST ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

The present Collection of Part-songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small Classes.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE,

LECTURER ON VOCAL PHYSIOLOGY AND TEACHER OF VOICE-PRODUCTION,

AND

CHARLES W. PEARCE,

MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

IN SEPARATE BOOKS, FOR SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO, TENOR, BARITONE, & BASS.

Price Eighteenpence. In Cloth Boards, Three Shillings.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.

ISAIAS. Oratorio. Words by ALBINI (Translation by J. BENNETT). The Music composed by MANCINELLI. Written expressly for the Norwich Festival of 1887. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s.

FAUST. A Dramatic Legend. By HECTOR BERLIOZ. A new Edition of this celebrated Work at a greatly reduced price. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY. A Cantata. By ALFRED CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama. Words selected from MILMAN'S Poems. The Music composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Price, in paper cover, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

GOD IS LOVE. A new Edition of this popular Cantata. Words selected from the Sacred Poets. Music composed by Mrs. J. ROBINSON. Price 3s. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net; Harmonium Part, 1s. 6d. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS. Cantata. Written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY. Music composed by GEO. FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net.

ORCHESTRAL AND CHORUS PARTS OF THE ABOVE MAY BE HAD ON HIRE OF CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, W., AND 15, POULTRY, E.C.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S "PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL."

SECTION I.—Elementary.

„ II.—Easy.

SECTION III.—Moderately Difficult.

„ IV.—Difficult.

SECTION V.—Very Difficult.

FORSYTH BROTHERS beg to announce that in compliance with the request of many eminent teachers, both in England and the Continent, they have issued an edition of this celebrated work with GERMAN or CONTINENTAL FINGERING.

PREFACE.

A few remarks will suffice to explain the object of this Publication and its distinguishing features.

"THE PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL" will consist of a series of Pieces selected from the best Composers, and calculated to guide Students, by gradual steps, from the very beginning to the highest degree of execution, and at the same time to form their taste and style.

The Work will be divided into five sections—namely, ELEMENTARY, EASY, MODERATELY DIFFICULT, DIFFICULT, and VERY DIFFICULT.* Commencing with the rudiments of Musical Notation, the Pieces will succeed each other in such progressive order that Students, after having mastered one number, may safely proceed to the next, thus sparing both teacher and pupil the difficult task of selection.

Each Piece will be prefaced by a certain number of Exercises written expressly by me for this Publication, and having some bearing upon the difficulties of the Composition which they introduce. The daily practice of these Exercises should always precede that of the Piece, until both are completely mastered.

Long experience has convinced me that the usual mode of fingering is insufficient to guard Pupils from the danger of contracting bad habits, as they cannot always be under the eye of the Master, and yet require a constant guide in this more than in any other matter. Every note therefore will be fingered, except that in the case of reiterated chords the fingering will be marked only once, and Octaves will not be fingered when they are to be played with the thumb and fourth finger.

All Turns, Shakes, Appoggiaturas, and other ornaments will be clearly explained in foot-notes, whenever their proper execution may be doubtful; and in the more advanced Pieces there will be found, in brackets, supplementary signs of expression, where they may appear to me to facilitate the correct rendering of the Composer's intention. These I give on my own responsibility, and as my interpretation of the masterpieces which I have made my study for many years.

Two Metronome marks will be prefixed to every Piece and Exercise;—the first indicating the time beyond which Students ought not to venture before they can play both Piece and Exercise without fault; and the second giving the correct time.

The utmost endeavours will be used to keep the entire Work free from errors, and the greatest care bestowed upon its publication, which the long and intimate relations I have had with Messrs. FORSYTH BROTHERS have led me to entrust to them.

A long experience as a Teacher and Performer, and a thorough acquaintance with the whole range of Pianoforte Music, encourage me in the hope that this "Practical Pianoforte School" may prove what I wish it to be—a safe guide towards a sound Musical Education.

CHARLES HALLÉ.

* The title "Very Difficult" is not meant to convey the idea that this Section will provide Pieces of the extreme difficulty suited to exceptional cases only (this being beyond the scope of a "School"); it is by taxing in a high degree the general Students' intellectual faculties, as well as their mechanical powers, that the works included will be found "very difficult" to play well.

Catalogues and all particulars may be had from all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom and the Colonies. Also from SCHUBERTH AND CO. ...	...	...	23, Union Square, New York.

T. PRESSER ...	...	...	1704, Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.
W. ROHLFING AND CO. ...	...	...	Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
I. SUCKLING AND SONS ...	...	...	Yonge Street, Toronto, Canada.

AND

FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

BY

J. L. HATTON.

All the ends of the world	2d.
Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord	3d.
Hosanna to the Son of David	2d.
In the beginning was the word	2d.
In the days of Herod the King	3d.
Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	2d.
Now when Jesus was born	2d.
Also the seven Anthems, bound complete	net 10

METZLER & CO.,

SOLE AGENTS

FOR THE CELEBRATED

MASON AND HAMLIN

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

&c., by

ALFRED I. CALDICOT.

Humpty Dumpty (Manchester prize)	...	...	...	6d.
Little Jack Horner	6d.	Sol-fa,	2d.
Jack and Jill	...	...	...	4d.
The House that Jack built	6d.	Sol-fa,	2d.
The Haymakers	...	4d.	Sol-fa,	2d.
Out on the Waters...	...	...	...	4d.
Yule	...	...	4d.	Sol-fa,
The sobbing Quartet	3d.	Sol-fa,	2d.
Poor little Tom-ee! (a catastrophe)	...	...	...	6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty Maid?	...	...	...	6d.
Sleeping Leaves (glee)	4d.	Sol-fa,	3d.
The Boy and the Bee (humorous)	6d.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c., BY HAMILTON CLARK.

Grace be unto you	...	...	...	...	...	3d.
How beautiful upon the Mountains	...	...	...	...	...	4d.
Behold my servant	...	...	...	...	...	4d.
Sing we so joyfully	...	...	...	...	...	1d.
Upon the snow-clad earth.	...	...	...	...	...	3d.

ALSO

By Arthur Sullivan

CHRISTMAS CAROLS, BY E. H. KIMBAULT

In excelsis gloria	...	...	...	...	Id.
Hark what news the angels bring	...	...	...	...	Id.
Behold I bring you glad tidings	...	...	...	...	Id.
Sing we merry Christmas (Rev. C. T. Bowen)	...	...	...	...	Id.
A child this day is born (A. S. Cooper)	...	...	...	...	Id.

THE QUEEN'S MODEL. Style 512.
Supplied to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen.

AMERICAN ORGANS.

CANTATAS.

The Fishers (new). Soli and Chorus. By H. Rose and J. M. Coward. 3s. net. Chorus parts, 8d. each.

Robin Hood. Soli and Chorus. By J. L. Hatton. 2s. 6d. net.

Harvest Home. By G. B. Allen. 2s. 6d. net.

Babes in the Wood. By G. Fox. 2s. 6d. net.

METZLER & CO., 42, Great
Marlborough Street, W.

Mason and Hamlin Organs for the Church.
Mason and Hamlin Organs for the School.
Mason and Hamlin Organs for the Drawing Room.

Mason and Hamlin Organs for the Concert Room.

Mason and Hamlin Organs for Missionaries.

New Illustrated Catalogue gratis and post-free.

METZLER & CO.,
42, GREAT MARLBOROUGH ST., LONDON, W.

MUSIC FOR SCHOOLS.

The Butterfly and the Humble-bee.
Song for Children. By H. Rose and J. M. Coward. 2s. net. Vocal Part, 2d.

Eight Two-Part Songs. By Michael
Watson. 1s. 6d. net.

Rose Queen. Vocal Waltz. By A.
G. Crowe. 2s. net. Vocal Part,
2d. net.

Awake, O happy Nation. National Song and Chorus. By H. Rose and J. M. Coward. 2s. net. Vocal
P. rt, net 2d.

METZLER & CO., 42, Great
Marlborough Street, W.

HIGHEST AWARDS FOR UPRIGHT PIANOS
1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1885, 1886.

CHALLEN AND SON,

Makers to H.R.H. Prince Albert Victor of Wales.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

"I have inspected the Upright Pianofortes of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON, and have much pleasure in giving my unqualified approval of them.

"I consider that, for purity of tone, touch, and good workmanship, they will favourably compete with Upright Pianos made by any other English firm, and superior to most of those of foreign manufacture. Their cheapness should also bring them within the reach of everyone.

"April, 1888.

"FREDERIC H. COWEN."

PRICE LISTS POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN

103, NEW BOND ST., W.

SOLE IMPORTER IN GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

OF

J. & P. SCHIEDMAYER'S AND KNAUSS & SONS' PIANOFORTES

WHICH MAY BE HAD FROM THE PRINCIPAL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

REDUCTION IN PRICES.

AMERICAN PORTABLE MUSIC STANDS (J. F. WALTERS' PATENT.)

Awarded Prize Medal International Inventions Exhibition, 1885.

IRON STANDS, single desk .. from 7/6
BRASS STANDS, in great variety .. 15/-
Cases for the above 8/-

To be obtained of all
Music Dealers.

{ IRON DOUBLE DESK 15/, 18/6
BRASS .. from 35/-
Cases for the above 7/-

Or will be sent free from the Manufacturers and Proprietors of the Patents, HARROW & CO., 13 & 14, Portland Street, Wardour Street, London, W.

CHAPPELL'S PIANOS

From 16 to 135 Gs.

On the One, Two, or Three Years System
OF
HIRE AND PURCHASE.

Also a large assortment of New & Second-hand
Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, and Bechstein, at greatly reduced prices.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

Agent for Clough & Warren's Organs and Alexandre Harmoniums.

50, NEW BOND STREET, AND 15, POULTRY.

And of all the principal Musicsellers.

ORGANISTS AND ORGAN STUDENTS.

ff, f, mf, p. DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON! p, mf, f, ff.

ALL the above modifications of Tone are obtainable by AINSWORTH'S PATENT ACTIONS and ORGAN PEDALS in combination with any Pianoforte. They are the ONLY ONES whereby you may PLEASANTLY (not by mere monotonous sounds) acquire or maintain proficiency as an Organist.

AINSWORTH'S NEW PATENT MODIFYING ACTION and ORGAN PEDALS may now be inspected in combination with a Pianoforte almost everywhere. Where it is not convenient to inspect, they may be had through any Dealer or Professional Gentleman on approval. They are positively the

ONLY ONES POSSESSING REAL MERIT.

Owing to improved machinery and large demand, AINSWORTH'S prices defy competition. PRICE from £4 4s.

On receipt of trade or professional card you will receive list and liberal terms.

Second-hand List issued Monthly. Very low prices.

Address—AINSWORTH'S (Patent Piano & Organ Combination Works), Brinscall, Chorley, England.

N.B.—Works two minutes' walk from Brinscall Station. Inspection allowed to intending customers.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 549.—Vol. 29.

Registered for transmission abroad.

NOVEMBER 1, 1888.

Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Mr. BARNEY.

EIGHTEENTH SEASON, 1888-89.

Mozart's REQUIEM and Rossini's STABAT MATER, on WEDNESDAY, November 7, at 8. Artists: Madame ALBANI, Madame SCALCHI, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Signor DEL PUENTE. Organist, Mr. HODGE. Band and Chorus, 1,000. Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 2s.

Ten Concerts will be given during the Season, eight being Subscription.

Prices for the Subscription Series of eight Concerts: Stalls, 42s.; Arena, 32s.; Balcony—reserved, 24s.; unreserved, 20s. Seats may be secured and prospectuses obtained at the Royal Albert Hall.

Cowen's RUTH will be performed on WEDNESDAY, November 28, at 8. Artists: Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Miss AGNES LARKCOM, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. BARTON MCGUCKIN, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS. Prices: 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., 3s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

BOURNEMOUTH PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

President: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Vice-President: J. MORANT, Esq.

TWO GRAND PERFORMANCES OF

DR. A. C. MACKENZIE'S

DRAMATIC ORATORIO

THE ROSE OF SHARON

WILL BE GIVEN IN THE

NEW TOWN HALL, BOURNEMOUTH,

NOVEMBER 21, at 3 and 8 o'clock.

VOCALISTS

Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.

Madame MARIAN MCKENZIE.

Mr. CHARLES CHILLEY.

Mr. ROBERT GRICE.

Band and Chorus of 250 Performers.

Leader Mr. J. T. CARRODUS.

Organist Mr. T. A. ALDRIDGE.

Conductor, Signor G. D. LA CAMERA.

ADMISSION

Morning 5s. od. ... 3s. 6d. ... 2s.
Evening 5s. od. ... 3s. 6d. ... 1s.

Plan and Tickets at Slade and Wood's Music Stores, Sydenham's Royal Marine Library.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—CHURCH OF ENGLAND
HIGH SCHOOL for GIRLS (Limited), 6, Upper Baker Street, Regent's Park.—Head Music, Mistress, Miss Macirone, late Professor of Royal Academy of Music. Fee, three guineas per term. Children from 8 to 13 allowed to begin and continue for two guineas per term. Pupils not in the School pay an entrance fee of one guinea. The fees payable in advance. Pupils wishing to join Violin Class under Mdlle. Gabrielle Vaillant to send in their names to Miss Macirone.
F. J. HOLLAND, Chairman.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIO CONCERTS.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER and CO. have the honour to announce that during the ensuing Season (1888-89) they will again give, at ST. JAMES'S HALL, a Series of SIX CONCERTS under the above title.

THE FIRST CONCERT WILL TAKE PLACE ON

THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 6, when

JUDITH

AN ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY

Will be performed for the first time in London.

MISS ANNA WILLIAMS.

MADAME PATEY.

MR. LLOYD.

MR. SANTLEY.

CONDUCTOR DR. MACKENZIE.

Prices of admission to each Concert: Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Admission, 2s. 6d. Subscription for the Six Concerts: Stalls, £2 12s. 6d. Subscribers' names received by Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C.; the usual Agents; and Basil Tree (Austin's Ticket Office), St. James's Hall, 28, Piccadilly, W.

FINSBURY CHORAL ASSOCIATION,

HOLLOWAY HALL.

CONDUCTOR: MR. C. J. DALE.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, STERNDALÉ BENNETT'S

WOMAN OF SAMARIA

AND, FIRST TIME IN LONDON,

DR. J. F. BRIDGE'S CANTATA

CALLIRHOË

Produced with great success at the recent Birmingham Festival.
The performance will be conducted by the Composer.

PRINCIPAL VOCALISTS:

Miss ANNA WILLIAMS

Madame BELLE COLE.

Mr. CHARLES BANKS.

Mr. BRERETON.

To commence at Half-past Seven precisely. Tickets, 5s., 3s., and 2s. May be obtained on application to Mr. W. H. Davis, 37, Weston Park, Crouch End, N., or the Hall Keeper, Holloway Hall, N. Prospectus for the season may be obtained from the Hon. Secretary, Mr. GILBERT HANKEY, 68, Ashley Road, Crouch Hill, N.

PUBLIC HALL, Harrow.—MR. WHATMOOR'S
CHAMBER CONCERTS. Second Concert, November 9. Trios: Dvorák, Op. 21; and D minor, Mendelssohn. Piano Solos: Liszt and Chopin. New song, "Eidöla," by FREEMAN WHATMOOR. Vocalist, Mrs. Trust. Trains from Baker Street direct.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME ANNIE ALBU (Soprano).

Concerts and Oratorio, address, 10, Albert Terrace, Blackpool.

MISS JULIE ALBU (Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Jenny Lind-Goldschmidt).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 4, Elgin Avenue, Westbourne Pk.

MISS ARTHUR (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).

Address, 6, Langholm Crescent, Darlington.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. H. Cummings, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.; or, M. B. Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).

Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS FRASER BRUNNER (Soprano).

For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts, address, 40, George Street, West Birmingham; or, H. Tuddenham, Esq., 304, Regent Street, Oxford Circus, W.

MADAME MERTON CLARK (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Masonic Banquets, &c., address, 38, Holbeck Road, London, S.W.

MISS EFFIE CLEMENTS (Soprano).

Own address, 35, Albion Street, Hyde Park; or, Mr. Alfred Moul, 26, Old Bond Street.

MISS CONWAY (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Cantatas, &c., address, 53, Robert Street, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.

MISS HARRIET COOPER (Soprano)

(Hon. Certificate R.A.M.).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 19, Lendal, York.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne. "Sang her solos in an excellent manner, possessing a strong voice of wide range."—The Standard, October 6, 1888.

MISS ELEANOR FALKNER (Soprano)

(Of St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts).

2, Grafton St., Gower St., London, and Snow Hill, Wolverhampton.

MADAME FARRAR-HYDE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Grafton Place, Ashton-under-Lyne; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano),

84, Mansfield Road, Haverstock Hill, London.

MISS JEANNETTA FRAZIER (Soprano).

Oratorios, Italian Operatic, Cantatas, Miscellaneous, and Ballad Concerts, 36, Muntz Street, Small Heath, Birmingham; or, 14, Bernard Street, Russell Square, W.C.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, formerly Her Assistant Professor; Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS MARIE GANE (Soprano)

(Of Crystal Palace (A. Manns, Esq.) Concerts; Bristol Musical Festival; Bath and Cheltenham Musical Festival). Address, 386, Brixton Road, S.W.; or, Montpelier, Bristol.

MISS MAY GOODE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Piercy Watson, Professor of Singing, St. Cecilia, Leamington Spa.

MADAME MINNIE GWYNNE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, address, 18, St. Stephen's Avenue, Uxbridge Road, W.

MISS ISABEL HALL (Soprano)

(Royal Academy and Trinity College Certificated).

For Concerts, &c., terms, address, 65, Shear Brow, Blackburn.

MADAME E. J. HEMERY (Soprano).

Accompanist. Pupils visited for Piano, Harp, Singing, Accompaniments; and Miss Gertrude Hemery open for Dramatic Recitals.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, and Cantatas, address, 2, Brighton Terrace, Cornbrook Park, Old Trafford, Manchester.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)

(Pupil of W. H. Cummings, Esq.).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Canonbury Villa, 255, Essex Road, N.

MADAME ALICE JACKSON (Soprano).

Address, 31, Tweed Street, Liverpool.

MISS KATHERINE JAMES (Soprano or Mezzo)

Is booking engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. For Press Notices, &c., address, 13, Horsford Road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Asaph.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano), MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto),

80, Addison Street, Nottingham.

MADAME EVA NEATE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Burnside, Clifton Road, Weston-super-Mare.

MISS EMILIE NOBLE, Y.C.M. (Soprano)

(Pupil of Whewall Bowling, Esq.).

All Concerts, Cantatas, &c., Chapeltown, Leeds.

MADAME PROBERT-GOODWIN (Soprano),

Oratorio, Cantata, or Ballad Concerts. Arundel House, Woodfield Rd., Redland, Bristol; or, 44, Tressilian Rd., St. John's, London, S.E.

MISS ELLIOT RICHARDS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 9, Oakley Street, Northampton.

MISS MARION STEAD (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, care of W. S. Child, Esq., Hon. Sec., Musical Society, York. Press notices.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)

(Pupil of Mr. Fred Walker)

Is open to engagements for Oratorio, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. Address, Beverley House, Barnes, Surrey.

MISS EMILY TAYLOR (Soprano)

(Pupil of late J. B. Welch and Miss Bessie Cox).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 158, Ladbroke Grove Road, W.

MADAME ELÈNE WEBSTER (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Forsyth Brothers, 272A, Regent Circus, Oxford St., W.; or, 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

MADAME CLARA WEST (Soprano),MISS LOTTIE WEST (Contralto),

Beethoven Villa, King Edward Road, Hackney.

MRS. CHRISTIAN WILLIAMS (Soprano)

(Pupil of Signor Randegger).

For Oratorio, English and Scottish Ballad Concerts, address, 27, Falkner Street, Liverpool.

MISS MINNIE WILLIAMSON (Soprano).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., for vacant dates, address, St. Owen Street, Hereford.

MISS BERTHA BALL, R.A.M. (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 55, Breakspear Road, St. John's, S.E.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)

(Medalist, R.A.M.).

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c., 6, Lordship Park, Stoke Newington. Press notices sent on application.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

(Principal of St. Peter's, Manchester).

For Oratorio, Operatic or Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Hulme, Manchester; or, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, Strand, London.

MISS AMY BROOKES (Contralto)

(Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 7, Mount Preston, Leeds; or, 31, Torrington Square, W.

MISS MARION BURKE (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, At Homes, &c. 39, Scylla Road, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MISS NELLIE CLOUDESLEY (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Crayford, Atherton Road, Forest Gate.

MRS. CRESER (Contralto).

For Oratorio, Chamber and Ballad Concerts, address, 22, Blenheim Terrace, Leeds.

MISS DEWS (Contralto),

4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS SUSETTA FENN (Contralto),

From the Promenade Concerts, Covent Garden.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 9, High Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto),
Gold Medalist, L.A.M., 1888; First-class Society of Arts, &c. Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., for terms and vacant dates, 3, Holford St., W.C.

MISS MARY HUTTON (Contralto)

(Pupil of Mr. T. A. Wallworth).

For Oratorios and Concerts, address, 28, King's Rd., Finsbury Park, N.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE (Contralto)

(Licentiate Royal Academy).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 10, Springfield Road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MADAME ARNOLD POTTER (Contralto),

33, Graham Road, Dalston, E.

MISS SARAH SANDERSON (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c. Press opinions and vacant dates, address, 4, Casson Gate, Rochdale.

MISS COYTE TURNER (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 99, Wilberforce Road, Finsbury Park, London, N.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby, and Assistant Professor in her Academy; also Professor in the Hyde Park Academy of Music).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. JAMES AUGUST (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 11, Beechholme Road, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MR. EDMUND BADGER (Tenor),

Monteagle, Dunstons Road, East Dulwich, S.E.

MR. ARTHUR BOOLE (Tenor)

(Pupil of J. E. Webster, Esq., late Principal, North London Academy).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Chapeltown, Sheffield.

MR. GEORGE BUTTERWORTH (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bank Street, Darwen.
"GRAND CONCERT, RUNCORN.—Mr. Butterworth is a tenor with a mellow and expressive voice, and the solos and songs set down to his name were admirably rendered, and he was twice honoured with an encore."—Runcorn Examiner, May 4, 1888.

MR. ALFRED CONSTABLE

(Choirmaster and Principal Tenor, Bromley Parish Church).
For Concerts, &c., 18, St. German's Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

MR. ARTHUR FOX, A.R.A.M. (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, 20, St. Charles Square, North Kensington, W.

MR. GREGORY HAST

(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square).

MADAME GREGORY HAST

(Pianist).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballad Concerts, &c., 9, Shipka Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. WALTER HOWGATE

(Principal Tenor, Salisbury Cathedral).

For Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 1, Spire View, Salisbury.

MR. W. H. LOWE (Tenor).

At liberty for Oratorios and Concerts. Address, 17, Blythe Villas, Blythe Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. J. MELLOR (Tenor),

Eccleshill, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WALTER PHILLIPS (Tenor), Medalist.

For Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic, address, 255, Junction Road, N.

MR. JOHN JAMES SIMPSON (Solo Tenor)

(Ripon Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 11, Magdalen Terrace, Ripon.

MR. KENDAL THOMPSON (Tenor).

For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, care of Forsyth Bros., 272A, Regent Circus, Oxford St., W.; or, 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. DEAN TROTTER (Tenor)

(Exeter Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 11, Polsloe Park, Exeter.

MR. CLIFFORD HEATH (Baritone).

For Concerts, Receptions, and At Homes in London or country.
Address, 22, Manor Place, Paddington, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, &c. Lessons in voice production. Address, Handel Villa, Thornton Heath, London.

MR. J. G. HEWSON (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 276, Hyde Road, Manchester; or, St. Anne's Road, Stamford Hill, London.

MR. W. J. INESON (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.; Quartet also provided. Address, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. EDWARD MILLS (Baritone)

(E. M. Chesham).

For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., 24, Morval Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. ORTNER (Baritone).

Address, Laleham House, Santos Road, Wandsworth.

MR. ARTHUR M. SHORE, R.C.M. (Baritone)

(Pupil of Signori Alberto Visetti and Franco Novara).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Has vacancies for pupils for Singing and Violin. 13, Hammersmith Road, Kensington, W.

MR. JAMES B. SMITH (Baritone)

(Peterborough Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 4, Princes Villas, Park Road, Peterborough.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)

(Gold Medalist and Certificate R.A.M.).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, Banquets, or Operatic Work.
The Poplars, Dartford.

MR. JOHN BARTON (Bass),

33, Gibson Square, N.

MR. S. J. BISHOP (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Southwell.

MR. J. BROWNING (Principal Bass),

Parish Church, Leeds. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Bass),

Teacher of Singing, 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. R. HILCOTT (Solo Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 13, Marchmont Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. SEYMOUR KELLY (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Chichester.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass),

Cheapside, Workop, Notts.; or, H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent St., W.

MR. FRANK MAY (Bass)

And the London Oratorio and Ballad Union, under his direction.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 14, Hanover Street, W.

Telegraphic address, "Iolas, London."

MR. EADE MONTEFIORE (Bass),

MUSICAL ENTREPRENEUR,

41, Albert Gate, Hyde Park, S.W.

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass),

20, Bishop's Road, W.; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street, W.

MR. F. G. RICHARDSON (Bass),

12, Forest Grove, Southey Street, Nottingham.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass),

51, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. H. W. WEBSTER (Bass),

25, Great College Street, Westminster, S.W.

MR. S. WINTERBOTTOM (Bass).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Mossley, near Manchester.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncello).

For Concerts, Drawing-Room Matinées and Soirées, &c.; also Chamber Music Instrumental Party, Newport House, West Bromwich, near Birmingham.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano). Engaged: November 1, Alexandria; 2, Alva; 5, Hull; 7, Retford; 8, Glasgow Exhibition; 28, Bury; December 22, Uppermill; 28, Brighouse. Address, Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire; or, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MISS ALMA HALLOWELL (Soprano), Medalist
R.A.M., pupil of Signor Manuel Garcia, and Miss FLORENCE HALLOWELL (Contralto) can accept Engagements, Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Miscellaneous Concerts. Address, Barkisland, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MISS HATTIE HICKLING (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 30, Pepys Road South, New Cross, S.E., whereshe desires letters respecting Concert engagements, Oratorios, &c., or pupils, to be addressed.

MISS MARGARET HOARE (Soprano) begs to announce her REMOVAL to 9, Belsize Road, N.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Address, Nottingham.

MISS JULIA JONES (Soprano) begs that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., will be addressed to 4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano). Engaged: October 18, Wandsworth; 24, Buckingham; 27, Westminster; November 1, Westminster; 3, Newington; 6, Dulwich; 17, Rotherhithe; 29, Clapham; December 3, Battersea; 22, Bermondsey. Address, 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS EDITH LUKE (Soprano), Associate and Gold Medalist, L.A.M. Engaged: November 1, Westcomb Park ("Ruth"); 6, East Dulwich (Ballads); 7, Brixton; 10, Kensington; 15, Clapham; 24, City. For vacant dates, address, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, Strand, W.C.

MISS EDITH MARRIOTT (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to Oaklands, Parsons Green, S.W., where she desires letters respecting Concert Engagements or Pupils to be addressed; or, to Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano). Engaged: Scarborough, October 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28; November 14 and 15, Hyde ("Bohemian Girl"); 30, Perth ("Ancient Mariner"); December 6, Holmfirth ("St. Paul"); Sheffield ("Prodigal Son"); 26, Rawmarsh ("Messiah"). Others pending. Address, Crag Cottage, Knarbro'.
MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed 44, Alexandra Road, London, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME WORRELL (Soprano), Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, begs to announce that all communications respecting engagements for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., should be addressed to 69, Wiltshire Road, Brixton, S.W. Madame Worrell's Annual Evening Concert, at Brixton Hall, on Monday, November 26.

MISS CHADWICK, R.A.M. (Contralto), begs to announce her REMOVAL to 2, Coppice Street, Werneth, Oldham, late 58, Henshaw Street.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto). For Oratorios, Ballad and Miscellaneous Concerts. Engagements: "Elijah," "Messiah" (two), Masonic Dinner (13th), five Ballad Concerts, &c. For terms, vacant dates, Press notices, and references, apply, W. Sexton, 447, Strand, W.C.

MISS KATE LUKE (Contralto). For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Good Accompanist and Pianoforte Teacher. Address, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, Strand, W.C.

MADAME AND MR. D. SUTTON SHEPLEY (Gentleman of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace). Contralto and Bass, request all communications to be addressed to 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, London, S.W.

MDLLE. PERETTI, Vocalist (Pupil of late Signor Chiaromonte, Conservatoire de Bruxelles, and Mr. Visetti, Royal College of Music), begs to announce her CHANGE OF RESIDENCE to 163, Buckingham Palace Road, S.W., where all communications respecting Singing Lessons and Engagements should be addressed.

MR. G. BANKS (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Concerts, &c., be addressed to The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Mdm. Adelaide Mullen) on tour in America with Mr. Ludwig, return end of January. Business communications to Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.; or, to Mr. Beaumont, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 21, East 17th Street, New York.

MR. ARTHUR CASTINGS (Principal Tenor, Hereford Cathedral) engaged: Hereford, Sept. 11, 12, 13, 14; Settle, 29; Malvern, Oct. 6; Cardiff, 15; Ledbury, 18; Kingston, Nov. 6; Hereford (Morning Concert), 15; Newport (Evening Concert), 15; Hereford, 26. Engagements pending for Grimsby, Nottingham, and Cardiff. For terms, vacant dates, press notices, &c., address, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Tenor), Member of the Society of Professional Musicians. Engaged: Brigg, September 19; Market Rasen, October 3; Derby, 12; Newark, 25; Chesterfield, 30; Nottingham, November 23; Leicester, 26; Uttroxtor, December 14; Barnsley, 20; Sleaford; Grantham, 27. Other engagements pending. Address, The Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN, Scottish Tenor, will sing at Ulverstone, October 26; Windsor, 30; Westbourne Park, 31; Tredegar, November 1; Merthyr, 2; Aberdare, 3; Portadulais, 5; Llanelly, 6; Neath, 7; Swansea, 8; Bridgend, 9; Aberavon, 10; Stockwell, 12; Notting Hill, 13; Kennington, 16; Sheffield, 17. Bayswater, 23; Greenwich, 24; Westbourne Park Chapel, 26; Bootle, 27; Pembroke Dock, 29 and 30; Burnt Ash, December 3; Tottenham, 6; Bayswater, 14; Morley Hall, 22 and 29; Highgate, January 29; Croydon, March 14.—For terms, &c., address 62, Berners Street, W.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 47, Croxted Road, West Dulwich, S.E.; or The Cathedral.

MR. WILLIAM FOXON (Tenor). Engaged: October 9, Basingstoke; 10, Odiham; 11, Farnham; 12, Salisbury; 13, Reading; 18, City; 27, Reading; November 27, Sheffield; January 8, 1889, Newbury. Others pending. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 22, Monmouth Road, Bayswater.

MR. JAMES GAWTHROP (Tenor), Gentleman of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's, begs that all communications be addressed to 34, Priory Park Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. E. GEERE (Tenor), 141, Bridge Road, Battersea Park, S.W. Open for Engagements, Concerts, &c.

MR. HOLBERRY HAGYARD will sing: Stevenage (Ballads); West Hartlepool ("Building of the Ship"); Cambridge (Ballads); Diss ("Holy City"); Holmfirth ("St. Paul"); Leeds (Miscellaneous); Bury ("St. Paul"); West Norfolk Choral Society (Miscellaneous); Braintree ("Messiah"); Huddersfield Festival Choral Society ("Messiah"); Leeds ("Creation"). For Oratorios, Masonic meetings, &c., address Principal Tenor, Trinity College Choir, Cambridge.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Engagements be addressed to his residence, 23, Endlesham Road, Balham, London, S.W.

NOVEMBER ENGAGEMENTS: 3, Bohemian Concerts (Portman Rooms); 6, Ladbroke Hall (Notting Hill); 10, Glasgow; 14, Falkirk; 16, St. James's Hall; 19, Cheltenham; 22, Cambridge; 23, Chough and Crow Society (Cannon St. Hotel); 24, Dover; 27, Brixton Hall. Please note change of number (late 33).

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor), having taken up his residence in London, is at liberty for Concerts and Oratorios. Address, Eaton Lodge, Commercial Road, Peckham, S.E.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor), of St. Paul's Cathedral, begs to announce that he is booking Engagements for Concerts and Oratorios, "Messiah," "Elijah," "Last Judgment," Cowen's "Rose Maiden," &c., already booked. For vacant dates address as above, or "Grovefield," Parsons Green, S.W.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM can provide SOLO CHOIR-BOYS, of his own training, for Advent performances of Spohr's "Last Judgment," or for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Guaranteed thoroughly efficient and capable of any solo work they undertake. Address as above.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., be sent to his new address, 481, Manchester Road, Bradford.

MR. PERCY PALMER (Tenor) desires that all communications for Engagements be addressed to his residence, 7, Peterboro' Villas, Fulham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. S. THORNBOROUGH (Tenor). Répertoire: "Andromeda," "Redemption," "Elijah," "Creation," "Messiah," "Judas Maccabæus," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," "Acis and Galatea," Masses, &c. Address, 125, Montague Street, Blackburn.

MR. RICHARD R. WILSON (Tenor) is again at liberty for Oratorio, Ballad, and other Concerts. For terms and particulars, address, Grange Road, West Hartlepool.

MR. ROBERT GRICE (Baritone), St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, begs to announce that he is at liberty to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad and Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., and has already booked Engagements at the following places:—Leicester ("Stabat Mater"); Twickenham (Ballads); Huddersfield ("Elijah"); Highbury (Ballads); Peckham (Ballads); Freemasons' Hall (Ballads); Camden Town (Ballads); Camberwell ("St. Mary Magdalen" and "Crusaders"); Oxford ("Daniel"); New Cross (Ballads); Birmingham (Subscription Concerts); Hornsey (Ballads); Ilkerton ("Creation"); Bournemouth ("Rose of Sharon"); Bradford ("Light of the World"); Leicester (Ballads); Bury, Lancs. ("Herald"; Belfast ("Creation"); City ("Last Judgment"); Kentish Town (Ballads); High Wycombe (Sacred Selection); Hebbden Bridge ("Messiah"); Melton Mowbray (Selections); Northampton ("Elijah"); Glasgow ("Messiah"); Banbury (Ballads); Brockley ("Fall of Babylon"); Highbury (Berlioz's "Faust"); Cheltenham ("Stabat Mater" and "Saul"); Finsbury Choral ("St. Mary Magdalen" and "Bride of Dunkerton"); West Bromwich ("Golden Legend"); Bradford (Ballads), &c. For references and terms, address, 8, Ringcroft Street, Holloway, N.; or, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MR. LAWFORD HUXTABLE (Baritone), Pupil of Signor Alberto Randegger, is open to accept Concert and Oratorio Engagements. Address, Clarence House, 47, Haverstock Hill; or, N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. F. W. PARTRIDGE (Baritone), Associate of the Royal College of Music, can accept engagements for Oratorios and Concerts as Vocalist or Accompanist. Address, 2, St. George's Villa, Beckenham.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH, of the Manchester and Provincial Concerts, and Solo Bass, Parish Church, Burnley, is open for Oratorios, &c. Press notices, &c., on application. 56, Curzon Street, Burnley.

MR. W. BELL KEMPTON (Bass), of St. George's Chapel and H.M. Private Chapel, Windsor Castle, for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Quartet Party provided. For terms, address St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.

MR. T. WILFORD PRICE (Bass). Engaged: October 3, City; 9, Norwood; 11, Cannon Street; 15, 17, and 24, City; 26, Southend-on-Sea; 27, Dover; November 3, Portman Rooms; 6, Croydon; 14, City; 19, Dulwich; 24, West End; 28, City. For open dates and other Engagements, address, 75, Kent House Road, Sydenham.

MR. and MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Mezzo-Soprano). Oratorio and Concert Parties provided. On tour in Scotland in January. For dates and Press notices, address, Willow Lodge Leeds.

HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL,
SEPTEMBER, 1888.MR. W. H. BRERETON as LUCIFER in the GOLDEN LEGEND.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH, September 12.

"The solo artists were Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Brereton. As the three first-named have been repeatedly heard in Sir Arthur Sullivan's work, it is enough to state that they in no sense departed from the standard of previous performances. What was excellent before appeared again worthy of praise, but a special word is due to Mr. Brereton, who, I believe, sang the music of Lucifer for the first time, and did so without rehearsal. It is pleasant to credit the young artist with a great success, both as regards emphasis and expression. Mr. Brereton may be commended also for an intelligent attempt at characterisation, as far as that is possible on the concert platform. He certainly made the utterances of Lucifer sardonic, and by other means, often slight, helped to suggest the personage whose words he spoke."

THE TIMES, September 12.

"Mr. Brereton, in addition to realising a good deal of the humour which is the dramatic and musical keynote of Lucifer, did full justice to the vocal demands of his task."

THE MORNING POST, September 12.

"Though it demands exceptional declamatory powers and a peculiar quality of voice to do it justice, Mr. Brereton was most successful in his reading of the part of Lucifer; his voice, greatly improved of late, was resonant and incisive, and he succeeded in creating a most favourable impression."

THE DAILY NEWS, September 12.

"Sir A. Sullivan conducted, and the cast included Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Messrs. Lloyd and Brereton. The last, so far as I am aware, was new to the part of Lucifer, whose music many a vocalist has found a hard nut to crack. It is therefore much to the credit of this young vocalist, although the part lay rather high for him, that where so many have failed he succeeded, his voice standing well through the din of the Strasburg Bells, while its expression in the study and in the road to Salerno showed that he possessed a good deal of that sardonic humour which the character demands."

FIGARO, September 22.

"In regard to the performance of 'The Golden Legend,' the chief point was the admirable singing of Mr. Brereton as Lucifer."

GUARDIAN, September 19.

"Among the soloists Mr. Brereton deserves unqualified praise for his excellent impersonation of Lucifer. He is not far from being the best Lucifer that has yet been heard, and in the difficult scene where the solo voice has to make itself heard through the chorus and the enormously heavy instrumentation he was clearly audible throughout, a thing which no other singer has been since the production of the work."

MUSICAL WORLD, September 15.

"Mr. Brereton, if we mistake not, assumed the part of Lucifer for the first time, and made a distinct success therein. This earnest and conscientious young artist imparted an amount of individuality and force to the music, by legitimate and thoroughly artistic methods of expression, which did him infinite credit."

MUSICAL TIMES, October 1.

"Mr. Brereton may be warmly commended for his singing as Lucifer."

Address, 6, Blenheim Road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. EDWIN EVANS will Play at the Bow and Bromley Organ Recital, November 10. 28, Castletown Road, West Kensington.

MR. SIDNEY BARNBY'S GLEE PARTY.
Address, 15, Manor Mansions, Belsize Grove, N.W.

THE STELLA VOCAL QUARTET.—For Concerts, Dinners, &c. Entertainments provided. Address, Manager, 3, Freke Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

THE ÆOLIAN QUARTET (Messrs. W. H. SHINER, S. B. INCE, W. A. DUNN, and A. H. FAIRBAIRN), for Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. For terms, Mr. A. H. Fairbairn, 14, Coombe Road, Sydenham, S.E.

MR. A. H. FAIRBAIRN (Baritone-Bass) can be engaged separately, or with the above.

MR. ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Mus. Bac., begs to announce his CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 5, Atherton Terrace, Gloucester Road, S.W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY begs to notify that his address is now 4, HENRY ROAD, FINSBURY PARK, N.; or, Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

WALTER THOMAS BARKER, A.R.A. Music, Harpist, 49, Ebury Street, Belgrave, S.W. Open for engagements, At Homes, Receptions, Orchestral, &c.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—MR. H. MALLAM WILLIAMS is prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS as CLARINETTIST. For terms, address letters A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. CHARLES FRY'S RECITALS: MERCHANT OF VENICE (with Sullivan's Music), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS, PRECIOUSA, &c. Elocution Lessons: Croydon Conservatoire (Mondays); Hampstead Conservatoire (Wednesdays). Private Lessons. Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, W.

VIOLINIST and VIOLONCELLIST (professional or good amateur) invited for CLASSICAL CHAMBER MUSIC on Sunday evenings, once a fortnight, at house of a well-known professor in Paddington. Music provided. Address, Pianist, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, City), teaches the ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, &c. 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.—To Professors of Music, Teachers in Colleges and Schools, &c., wishing to learn the Tonic Sol-fa system. A Course of Nine Lessons will be given at 9, Warwick Lane, London, E.C., from Thursday, December 27, to Saturday, January 5, from 3.30 to 5 p.m. Teacher, Mr. L. C. Venables. Attention will be directed to the Art of Teaching, and a class of children will be present on one or more days. Fee, 10s.; single lessons, 1s. 6d.

SINGING LESSONS.—Careful Training of the Voice.—Dr. ARTHUR HELBIG has a few VACANCIES for Professional or Amateur STUDENTS. Education in Dramatic and Concert Singing. Address, 84, New Bond Street, W.

VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING. Mr. FREDERICK BIRCH receives PUPILS at 221, Temple Chambers, E.C.; and at 4, Downs Road, Clapton.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included), and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by Mr. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C.; or at the City School of Music, 26, Knight-ridge Street. During the present year pupils of Mr. Frost have obtained appointments at Chichester Cathedral and four London churches.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS.—MUS. DOC., OXON., MUS. D., DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and London; Cambridge Preliminary Mus. B. (including the 1st in the 1st Class two years); Oxford 1st Mus. Bac., 1888; L.R.A.M. (London), 1888; Local R.A.M. "With Honours," 1888; N.S.P.M. 1888, F.G.O. 1888, F.C.O., A.C.O., Toronto (one Doc. and 21 in 1st, 2nd, and Final Bac., several 1st Class, 1888). More than 280 Certificates, Degrees, &c., have been gained by DR. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won the GOLD MEDALS for excellence in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Plan or Design at Manchester in 1885, 1886, and 1887. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Musical Compositions by Post to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory, &c., given at own or pupil's residence, or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Organ lessons. For terms, address, Willersley House, Wellington Road, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. W. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac., Trin. Coll., Tor. Candidates successfully prepared by Post for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. 23, Gillespie Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. EDWARD BROMELL (Professor, London Academy of Music) gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. personally and by correspondence. Classes' Compositions revised. 16, Meynell Road, South Hackney, E.

MR. ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, &c., by Post. 9, Avington Grove, Fenge, S.E.

DR. CROW, of Ripon Cathedral, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c., by Correspondence.

CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in subjects for Mus. Bac. degree, by Oxford graduate. Twelve lessons, two guineas. Oxoniensis, C. T. M. Martin, Esq., St. Peter's Street, St. Albans.

ELEMENTARY HARMONY (STAINER'S Primer, BANISTER'S "Music," &c.), also COUNTERPOINT. Systematic Tuition, by Post, 1s. per Lesson. Exam. preparation. References to past and present Pupils. Address, Canto, Cobden Club, Blackburn.

MR. JOHN GREIG, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (passed Exam. for Mus. Doc., Oxon., 1887), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FUGUE by CORRESPONDENCE. Coached successfully for final Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1886. Address, 7, Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations by Post. Address, Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: L.Mus., T.C.L. (including candidate with highest number of marks), and A.Mus., T.C.L., July, 1888; F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1888; F.Gld.O., 1888; Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887, First, Second, and Final Examinations, with First on List in Final; and 1888, several First Class; A.R.C.M., 1887; Senior Local R.A.M. and T.C.L. in Honours. Terms very moderate. Address, Cotham, Surrey.

MR. HERBERT T. LEWIS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives POSTAL LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. MSS. revised. Address, Byars Road, Glasgow.

DR. M. J. MONK (Oxon.), F.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, INSTRUMENTATION, &c., by Post, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. 20, Marlborough Road, Banbury.

MR. HENRY PIGGOTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and other branches of the THEORY OF MUSIC. Candidates prepared for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. Alton, Hants.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., taught personally or by Post. Terms moderate. 6, East Chapel Street, Mayfair, W.; or, Haldon, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.C.O., L.Mus., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, L.Mus., T.C.L., Organist, Parish Church, Girvan, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence, on most reasonable terms. References to past successful pupils (first-class honours) in various examinations.

MR. W. H. TUIT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES Harmony, Counterpoint, Acoustics, &c., by Correspondence. Latest Successes: Mus. Bac., Final, Cantab., 1886; A.C.O., L.R.A.M., and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887 and 1888, First, Second, and Final, all in First Class, &c.—Ashburn, Derbyshire.

PIANOFORTE and HARMONY LESSONS by a LADY (L.Mus. T.C.L.); also a small Class for the practice of Chamber Music. Licentiate, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

UNIVERSITY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.

(THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND UNIVERSITY OF UPPER CANADA.)

The next ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS for the Degree of BACHELOR OF MUSIC will be held simultaneously in TORONTO and LONDON in Easter week, 1889. Women are admissible to these Examinations.

For particulars apply to Rev. E. K. KENDALL, D.C.L., Registrar for England, Southsea.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

President: E. J. HOPKINS, Mus. Doc.

Principal: EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.

LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATION, November 29, 1888.

Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.

HEDLEY CARUS, Esq., Hon. Sec., 270, Cornwall Road, W.

Telegraphic address, "Outnumber, London."

GUILD OF ORGANISTS,

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, W.C.

Patron—THE RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF LONDON.

Established to advance the cause of Church Music and the truest interests of its Professors.

Members of the Church of England and Ireland and the Episcopal Church of Scotland are eligible for election.

Next Fellowship Examination, January; last day of entry, December 29.

Subscription: Professional Organists (Associates), 10s. 6d. per annum; Amateurs (Members), 7s. 6d. per annum; Life Subscription, 5 guineas.

Prospectus and further particulars may be obtained from the Hon. Sec., Dr. J. H. Lewis, Staines, Middlesex.

TO COMPOSERS, MANAGERS, and PUBLISHERS.—The LIBRETTO of a novel and bright little COMIC CANTATA, modelled and written on the newest lives, with every opportunity for some good music, and playing about forty-five minutes; to be negotiated; principals only. Address, Rex, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The dates given of following arrangements must be regarded as preliminary, and may be subject to slight alterations:—

December 4, 1888	...	Lecture at 8.
January 8, 1889	...	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 9	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 10	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 11	...	Diploma Distribution.
" 15	...	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 16	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 17	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 18	...	Diploma Distribution.
February 5	...	Lecture.
March 5	...	Lecture.
April 2	...	Lecture.
" 29	...	Annual College Dinner.
May 7	...	Lecture.
June 4	...	Lecture.
July 16	...	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 17, 18	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 19	...	Diploma Distribution.
" 23	...	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
" 24, 25	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
" 26	...	Diploma Distribution.
" 30	...	Annual General Meeting.

Further arrangements and particulars will be duly announced.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

95, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury.

THE LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

FOR EXAMINATIONS IN PRACTICAL AND THEORETICAL MUSIC.

PATRONS.

Sir GEORGE J. ELVEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc., Oxon. and Cantab.

Sir HERBERT S. OAKELEY, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Dublin, St. Andrew's, LL.D., Professor of Music, Edinburgh University.

HONORARY PRESIDENT.

WM H. CUMMINGS, Esq., Professor, R.A.M.; Hon. Treasurer, Royal Society of Musicians; Conductor of Sacred Harmonic Society.

The above College holds periodical Examinations in Pianoforte Playing, Singing, and Theory of Music, and grants Certificates to all successful Candidates, irrespective of age.

The next Examination will take place in December, when Silver and Bronze Medals will be awarded. Forms of Entry of Secretary.

Local Representatives are required for Vacancies in Towns near London; also in various parts of the country. Apply to the Secretary.

ORGAN PRACTICE, tubular pneumatic; three manuals; independent pedals; terms and specification on application. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

ORGAN PRACTICE (in the City). One shilling per hour, upon a complete instrument. Three manuals and independent pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis, 29, Minories. ORGAN and PIANO Lessons by Mrs. ELIZABETH STIRLING.

ORGAN PRACTICE and LESSONS.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 2s. one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Hydraulic engine. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depot, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

MUSIC COPIED and Drawn from the Full Score, with proper Cues for Engraving; also Songs or other Pieces Transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC legibly TRANPOSED or COPIED, at 6d. per folio manuscript page. Copyist, 20, St. Michael's Road, Wallington, Surrey.

WANTED, a Lady SOPRANO SINGER for the Choir of All Hallows', Lombard Street (must be a communicant). Salary, £6 a year. Further particulars of T. Bensted, 4, Pembroke Villas, Richmond, Surrey.

WANTED, Two LEADING BOYS for St. Luke's, Hackney. £5 each. W. D., 3, Braemar Road, Tottenham, N.

WANTED, Two good TREBLE BOYS and One ALTO BOY for Church Choir in neighbourhood of Clapton and Hackney. Salaries according to ability. Apply, by letter, to J. L., 155, Fenchurch Street, E.C.

TWO LEADING TREBLES REQUIRED, for Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill, for Sunday services. Stipends from £10, according to ability. Apply, Dr. Walmsley Little, 36, Bonham Road, Brixton Hill.

TWO LEADING BOYS WANTED, for Christ Church, Lee Park, S.E. Must have some knowledge of music and good voices. Remuneration either in salary or private musical instruction. Apply, J. T. Field, "Montana," Blackheath, S.E.

TREBLES.—There are VACANCIES for Two BOYS (under twelve), with good voices, in the Choir of St. Ethelburga, Bishopsgate. Remuneration according to ability. ALTO and TENOR (voluntary) also required. Apply by letter to Organist.

ST. MARY MAGDALENE, Taunton.—BOYS with good Voices WANTED for the Choir. On election they receive free education at one of the best Schools in Taunton. Applications may be made and particulars obtained from Mr. A. P. Standley, F.C.O., Taunton.

WANTED, efficient CHORISTER for St. Anne's, Eastbourne. The outgoing Boy has passed Royal Academy and Cambridge Local. Education at the High School. Apply, stating particulars as to age, &c., to Rev. P. J. Minos, B.D., Eastbourne.

AN ALTO IS REQUIRED, at Christmas, for the Choir of All Saints', Margaret Street, W. Duties: two services on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday, and a weekly rehearsal on Fridays, at 6 p.m. Salary, £25, and 10s. 6d. allowed for each extra day's services. A good Reader indispensable. Apply, by letter, to Mr. W. S. Hoyte, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

ALTO REQUIRED, for St. Cuthbert's, Earl's Court (must be a communicant). Apply to Lieut.-Colonel Douglas, 83, Philbeach Gardens, S.W.

ALTO WANTED, for St. James's, Norlands, W. Two Sunday Services and a week-day practice. £12 per annum. Address, Mr. Edw. H. Birch, 19, Cambridge Gardens, Notting Hill, W.

ALTO WANTED, for All Saints' Church, Kensington Park Salary, £12. Good Reader indispensable. Address, Ernest Lake, Esq., 57, Burlington Road, Bayswater, W.

ALTO WANTED, immediately, for Wandsworth Parish Church. Good Reader indispensable. Stipend, £10. Applications (letters only) to H. W. Weston, F.C.O., 20, Dempster Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL. There will shortly be a VACANCY for a LAY CLERK. ALTO Voice. Age not over 30. Candidates, who must be Churchmen and acquainted with Cathedral Music, should apply to the Rev. The Precentor, King's Buildings, Chester.

WANTED, for James's Church, Paddington, two ALTOS (communicants). Apply, by letter, to Choirmaster, 57, Clifton Hill, St. John's Wood, N.W.; or, personally, at St. James's Lecture Hall, on any Friday evening at 9 o'clock.

YORK MINSTER CHOIR.—TENOR REQUIRED.—Candidates must be communicants of the Church of England, and possess a thorough knowledge of Cathedral Music. Stipend, £100 per annum. The successful candidate must be prepared to sign an agreement to stay two years. Testimonials and applications to be sent in before November 11th, and addressed Dr. Naylor, 9, Grosvenor Terrace, York.

TENORS and BASSES REQUIRED, for the Choir of the Children's Home, Bonner Road, E. Services on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Apply to R. D. Metcalfe, Organist and Director of the Choir.

WANTED, a BASS and TENOR, for St. Mary's Choir, Kilburn. Apply, Director of the Choir, Edgar Pettman, who also requires an ARTICLED PUPIL. For particulars, apply, 99, Abbey Road, St. John's Wood.

ST. MARY, Bourdon Street, W.—BASSES WANTED. £10 per annum. Apply at Church on Thursdays at 9 p.m., or after Sunday evening service.

WELLS CATHEDRAL.—VACANCY for a BASS VOICE (not Baritone). Apply for particulars to the Organist, C. W. Lavington, before November 8.

BASS (not Baritone), Catholic, WANTED, for High Mass and Vespers. Address, Organist, New Priory, Quex Road, Kilburn.

WANTED, BASS and TENOR Voices for Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C. Salary, £5 per annum. Apply, Friday, 7-45 p.m.

AN ALTO, experienced, and Musician, desires an ENGAGEMENT as CHOIRMASTER and CHORISTER. F. H. R., 6, Belitho Villas, Barnsbury, N.

ADVERTISER (Bass) wishes to meet with a Gentleman who would Train Voice in return for services. Address, W., 20, Canonbury Square, Islington.

ORGANIST WANTED, for a Presbyterian Church in the North of London. Salary, £20. Address, by letter only, Simpson, 30, Heathland Road, Stoke Newington.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Newington Green Unitarian Church. Service liturgical. Two manual organ. £15 to £20 per annum. Apply to A. Titford, 56, Leadenhall Street, London, E.C.

ORGANIST REQUIRED, for Bagshot, Surrey. Choral Services. Experienced man. Address, The Vicar.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for the Congregational Church, Winchester. Salary, £40. Apply, by letter, to Mr. E. Minshall, Nonconformist Musical Journal Office, 44, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

AT CHRISTMAS.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C. An experienced choir-trainer required. Apply, by letter, stating salary required, and enclosing copies of recent testimonials, with references, to The Vicar.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for a West-End Congregational Church. He will be required to train a Voluntary Choir and conduct a Choral Class. To a thoroughly competent man a liberal salary will be paid. Apply by letter, stating qualifications, &c., to S. W., Young's Library, High St., Kensington, W.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—A Gentleman who is desirous of studying for the A.C.O. examination wishes to meet with an ORGANIST, within twenty miles of London, who would prepare him in return for his services as above. Experienced. Address, E. F., 2, Croft Terrace, Kirby Moorside, near York.

WANTED, ORGANIST, for Country Parish (Selborne). Efficiency in Choir-training the first requisite. Age from 20 to 30. Salary, £45. New Organ by Lewis. Choir unsupplied. Address, with particulars of education and posts previously held, Rev. E. R. Bernard, Selborne, Alton, Hants.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (disengaged) desires immediate ENGAGEMENT. Church or chapel near station W. or S.W. Anglican service. Would deputise. Moderate salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Fimlico, S.W.

AN ORGANIST with ability (aged 27) seeks an ENGAGEMENT. Excellent references. Sea-side preferred. Apply, Cello, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—RE-APPOINTMENT desired. Long experience. Choir well trained. First-rate testimonials. Communicant. Address, B., 24, Dalston Lane, E.

ORGANIST (voluntary) desires APPOINTMENT, within half-an-hour north of City. Four years' experience. Good references. Thoroughly used to Church service. H., 11, Copthall Court, E.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks an EN- GAGEMENT, or as ASSISTANT. Small salary. Address, T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COLONIAL.—ORGANIST, PIANIST, and CONDUCTOR (Orchestral and Choral), of first-class position, wishes to hear of an APPOINTMENT in America or the Colonies. Is a Bachelor of Music; communicant; married. Address, Pythagoras Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

AN Oxford ORGANIST, qualified for degrees in Arts and Music, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT after Christmas. Cathedral training. Address, X., 2, College Terrace, Maidstone Road Rochester.

ORGANIST, disengaged at Christmas, desires RE- ENGAGEMENT. Church or chapel. Over three years in last appointment. Stipend moderate. A., 10, Barnsbury Square, N.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—Dr. H. W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge, having resigned the appointment he has held for the past eight years of ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of Edgbaston Parish Church, will be at liberty to accept a similar APPOINTMENT, in, or within 25 miles of Birmingham, on the first Sunday of the New Year. Highest testimonials. Please address, 76, Bristol Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

AN ORGANIST of eleven years' experience would be glad of an ENGAGEMENT until April. Salary of minor consideration. H. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer & Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, ASSISTANT ORGANISTSHIP in town. Salary no object. Used to three-manual. Four years in last situation as Organist-Choirmaster. F. J. C., 5, Fairbank Road, Peckham.

CHOIRMASTERSHIP, with occasional Organ duties, WANTED. Large and varied experience, especially in training boys' voices. TENOR Voice. Fair Violoncello player. Highest recommendations. S., Beverley, Yorks.

AN experienced Catholic ORGANIST desires an APPOINTMENT. Excellent references and testimonials. Address, J. K. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST, &c.—F.C.O., highest testimonials, desires RE-APPOINTMENT. Organist, 26, Kennington Park Road, London.

MR. W. H. TREFFRY, Organist and Choirmaster, French Protestant Church, Bloomsbury Street, where there is no Evening Service, desires an additional ENGAGEMENT as CHOIRMASTER or as CONDUCTOR of a Musical Society. Address as above.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

NOVEMBER 1, 1888.

A FESTIVAL RETROSPECT.

DURING the summer and autumn of the present year six Musical Festivals have been held in England, and it would be strange indeed if at one, or other, or all of these we cannot find, when looking back upon them, some matter for profitable reflection. Their very number is suggestive. A few years ago two such musical gatherings, or three at the outside, were all that followed the end of the London season; but now we have a Festival at Bristol, another at Chester, another at Wolverhampton, another in Staffordshire, and yet another, at present in an embryonic condition, at Peterborough. It would be wrong to suppose that this form of musical activity belongs entirely to the time now present. When the nineteenth century was much younger than it is now Festivals were very common in England. They took place, for example, in Cathedral cities like York, in bustling towns like Liverpool, in quiet county capitals like Reading, and even in Stony Stratford. But their existence at that time was easily explained. Railways were unknown, place was divided from place by expensive and tedious coach journeys, and if these detached communities wished to enjoy a feast of music they had to arrange one for themselves or do without. The conditions just referred to have now entirely disappeared. Cheap and rapid communication has brought all England into touch with its musical centres, and there seems to be little need for such efforts as were made when localities were isolated. Nevertheless, Festivals are multiplying. That this is not the result of a necessity is clear, and we are bound to look for its explanation in a greater sympathy with, and enthusiasm for the art. Take Wolverhampton as an illustration. This town is within the district served by Birmingham, and the triennial celebration of the greater place belongs in a nearly equal degree to the less, as far as opportunities of benefiting by it are concerned. Yet Wolverhampton must needs have a Festival of its own, obviously for sheer love of the thing, and so, mutatis mutandis, with cases elsewhere. Regarded in this light the present multiplication of Festivals has a cheerful and encouraging aspect. It shows the leaven of musical progress at work, and that the question is not so much ministering to necessity and there stopping short, as the provision of abundance.

Readers of these remarks are not likely to question the usefulness and advantage of a Festival to the place in which it is held and to the art. But they may not have given much thought to the question whether all the benefit it can confer is actually enjoyed. On this head there is room for serious doubt. In the first place, we rarely see a Festival so managed as that it shall promote general executive efficiency in its immediate neighbourhood. To some extent, no doubt, this is done. Birmingham, Leeds, Bristol, Wolverhampton, and Norwich draw the whole of their chorus from the locality, and thus keep up a high standard of vocal excellence by which all around more or less benefit. In some degree this is the case at the Three Choir cities, Chester and elsewhere, but in these instances singers are imported to do the work which should belong exclusively to the amateur vocalists of the district. On the whole, however, there is little fault to find with the present system as regards encouraging choralists. It is when we come to the case of orchestral performers that a real and serious deficiency appears. Practically, every Festival in England, that at Bristol excepted, is more or less dependent upon the metropolis for an orchestra when its triennial solemnity comes round. Another exception may, perhaps, be made in favour of Wolverhampton, where, if we be correctly informed, many players are drawn from Birmingham and other neighbouring places. With regard to Bristol, there is this difference only—the orchestra comes from Manchester instead of from London. Clearly, this is not an ideal condition of things. It implies that even Leeds and Birmingham have no materials within themselves for the formation of an orchestra, and that smaller places must be in a state yet more hopeless, if that be possible. But is this so? We think it will be found on enquiry that in all the large Festival towns there are instrumentalists of no mean capacity whom the present system entirely shuts out. Birmingham and Bristol have excellent players within their gates, yet these are excluded from the triennial meetings, while only in a few instances elsewhere are local people admitted, and then in the smallest possible proportion to the whole. Of course we are not going to say that the question of ability can be ignored here. Nobody would be foolish enough to expect from Festival managers the engagement of local talent without regard to skill. But we do complain that efforts are rarely made in Festival towns to promote orchestral efficiency with a view to its utilisation in this manner, and ultimately to the creation of a state of things which would render unnecessary the importation of so many performers from without as now. It would be well if every Festival had its own orchestra, but the good in question cannot be attained while competent local performers are passed over, and no measures are taken to encourage the multiplication of their numbers and the increase of their skill. At Bristol, as is well known, the Festival Society takes upon itself the musical education of persons who aspire to a place among the chorus. Cannot some such machinery be made to work in favour of local orchestras, that great and crying need of musical England?

A noticeable feature in connection with the Festivals of the present year is the comparative absence of new works. Dr. Parry's "Judith" and Dr. Bridge's "Callirhoë" at Birmingham, with a Psalm by Mr. Oliver King at Chester, represent all the musical activity of 1888 in this form and under these conditions. Hereford offered nothing new (Dr. Colborne's "Samuel" not entering into the programme proper), and Bristol and Hanley equally entrusted their fortunes to the power of familiar works. We are not, perhaps, entitled to look upon these facts as having any special significance. There is no reason to believe that a reaction has set in against novelties, a fair proportion of which is, on various grounds, desirable, and even necessary to the welfare of the art. At the same time, it will not do to pass unregarded the fact that the comparative indifference of our Festival public to new works tends to make committees and managers careless about their presentation. A novelty involves a great deal of trouble all round, and it is in human nature to take things easily, putting a very liberal construction upon any encouragement thereto. These remarks apply especially to Festivals in the second rank. Birmingham and Leeds must always have a due proportion of works specially written, but, as we have just seen, an equal obligation is not recognised in some other places. To a large extent, the matter depends upon the public. If the amateurs of any given locality be indifferent to novelty, it is not likely that Festival managers will take much trouble for its provision. On the whole, however, there is little of which to complain in the present condition of things.

We may discover cause for reflection in another fact:—The Festivals of the present year, leaving out that in honour of Handel at the Crystal Palace, and the small, tentative effort made at Hanley, have all been financial failures, either absolutely or comparatively. Chester led off with mostly poor audiences, and is understood to show a corresponding balance-sheet, while at Birmingham the receipts dropped some £600 or £800 (we have not seen the official figures) below those of 1885, which were themselves considerably smaller than in 1882. At Hereford the stewards have been called upon to make up a loss of £700 on the working of the Festival, and the only word applicable to the condition of things at Bristol is "catastrophe" in capital letters, it being stated in well-informed local quarters that each of the four hundred guarantors will be called upon for at least £3. We do not, of course, guarantee the accuracy of these figures, but they are approximately correct, and show, with disagreeable conclusiveness that Festival enterprise in 1888 has been, all round, a losing concern. If the facts stood alone it would be easy to account for them by reference to special and non-permanent causes, such as badness of trade; but, unhappily, they are facts in a sequence which stretches back some way, and is of a nature to excite unpleasant misgivings. The Birmingham Festival, for example, has been declining since 1876, and that steadily save for a spurt upward in 1882, under the influence of M. Gounod and his "Redemption." We can only estimate the full significance of this by taking note of the rank of the Birmingham Festival among its kind—the vast prestige it enjoys, its unequalled resources, and the favourable position it holds in the centre of England, envied by a highly educated and well-to-do population. If failure take place here, what success can be expected under less happy conditions elsewhere? The condition of things in the Warwickshire town is, no doubt, attributed by some to special reasons, such as, perhaps, unskilful management, the engagement of a conductor against whom there is a prejudice on the score of nationality, the making up of programmes not in full accord with public taste, and so on. We cannot take upon ourselves to say that such causes are inoperative, but the present year's failure all round points to some more general reason, the discovery of which is a matter of extreme importance. Is it that the facilities for hearing good music well performed under ordinary conditions are so ample as to make special occasions superfluous? In view of the increase of Festivals we can hardly entertain such an idea, because that increase must be based upon the sympathy of the public. Then is it that Festivals are not made attractive enough, or sufficiently superior to everyday opportunities? There may be something in this question, full enquiry into which would possibly show the urgent need for a modification of present procedure. Once more, is it that the charges for admission are too high, having regard to the ordinary expenditure involved by attendance at concerts? Connected herewith, in the relation of cause to effect, are the ever-increasing demands made for the services of leading artists. If people are kept away from Festivals by high prices, it is to an abatement of those demands that we must look for a remedy. We know all that can be said about market value, the law of supply and demand, the axiom that a thing is worth what it will fetch, and so on. But the world is not entirely dominated by cold and bloodless considerations of this kind—considerations which never assume that an artist should have some regard for his art as well as for himself. But they do prevail to a large extent, and leading ladies have no scruple about demanding five or six hundred guineas for four days' work, while others get as near the same terms as they possibly can, no thought being given to the question whether the Festival can pay and live. The worst feature in the case is that artists increase their demands as they become more and more assured of their position and less affected by rivalry. Round and round goes the screw. There is no more compunction than we should expect to find among the sweaters at the East End, and the motto is "They cannot do without me; put on another fifty guineas." Certainly we have here an illustration of the "way of the world," and of what men call "business"—a term that so often overrides the Decalogue; but one hardly expects to find City principles among people professing an art to which they are presumably devoted. As matters stand, however, it would be Quixotic to look for artists content to "live and let live"; the only apparent remedy being, since trade notions must prevail, a defensive union of Festival managers. The next Festival season will require careful watching with a view to determine where lies the source of a mischief which is evidently widespread, and threatens the very existence of a valuable institution.

The artistic success of the late Festivals affords a more agreeable subject for contemplation. We can rejoice in the addition to our English repertory of works which favourably represent the state of musicianship in this country, and we can congratulate ourselves upon performances generally distinguished by much excellence, both choral and orchestral. In no case did the figure of merit fall below that indicated by the term "good," while in some it was unusually high. As regards the solo vocalists, one disquieting thought suggested itself. We have at present a first-rate leading quartet, but there are few indications, in the second rank, of qualified successors, and the question is sometimes put: "What shall we do when Albani, Patey, Lloyd, and Santley retire and make room for others?" But sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. A similar question has often been asked before, and we have never yet suffered from a lack of efficient people. No doubt the future will take care of itself again.

MR. CROWEST ON ENGLISH OPERA.

WHILE nominally engaged in discussing the National Opera scheme, Mr. F. J. Crowest, in the October number of the National Review, has availed himself of the opportunity to promulgate afresh his favourite boycotting theory in a paper of some sixteen pages, which, for confusion of thought, inaccuracy of statement, and mixture of metaphor, cannot be matched outside by the sayings of Sir Boyle Roche. It is not our purpose, however, in the present instance to dissect Mr. Crowest's periods, though that would be a most tempting task. In so far as he is prepared to accord the scheme a general approval and support, we are glad to find ourselves on the side of a writer from whom we have differed in the past, and shall probably differ in the future. Furthermore, we are ready to credit him with perfect sincerity of conviction in all his opinions. But none the less do we feel impelled to protest in the columns of THE MUSICAL TIMES against Mr. Crowest's assumption that he represents the views of a large section of the musical world in this country, and to warn any of our foreign readers against supposing that because the article appears in the National Review it reflects a national feeling.

The article opens with a touch of irony—"England has started a musical idea without the aid of outside help or influence! This is refreshing as it is surprising and novel." Taken literally the second sentence is inaccurate. If it is "wrote sarkastic" we fail to see the sting of the remark.

Spontaneous action, continues the writer, in music by Englishmen "must be gratifying even to those who have been accustomed to look forward to, and hope for, the time when she will hold some rightful place in the councils of musical Europe." Why "even"? Surely this section are those who should first welcome an advance in this direction! And the very next sentence says as much.

"Considered merely as a spasmodic art throe, this National Opera idea, so well initiated at the Mansion House meeting recently, must be encouraging to a large section of people of this country who had grown to believe that we took all our musical ideas and methods from our continental neighbours." Mr. Crowest is evidently one of this large section. Our nation's music, he says, is "crippled and neglected," our "satiated aristocracy" insists on indulging "in an excess of voluptuous and sugar-coated Italian melodies." The only remedy for existing evils is for the public at large to "refuse to support foreign opera," not merely Italian, but German, French, and Russian as well. How then, in the name of common sense, are we to reconcile this suggestion with his panegyric in this very article on Wagner—yes, Wagner—as "the only genius for many years," who "would appear to have thought of raising opera out of the dead level into which it has sunk"? But, genius or no genius, we must deny him a hearing; we must proscribe his scores and his theories, not because they are wrong or unsound, but simply and solely because they are the work of a foreigner. The ideal English Opera of the future can only be evolved out of surroundings from which every shred of foreign influence has been eliminated. Now, such a process, we beg leave most respectfully to affirm, is first of all wholly undesirable; secondly, Mr. Crowest's own method of carrying it out would most undoubtedly defeat his own ends, as many of the native scores which he would permit, and even encourages English composers to study, are saturated with foreign influences; and, thirdly, it is, fortunately, impossible.

How far Mr. Crowest carries his pious horror of the foreigner may be judged from the fact that he is disposed to feel a little uneasy about the new scheme because it was hatched "amid the hospitable atmosphere of a naturalised Lord Mayor—who extends to it his ægis," a "mystic atmosphere of civic wine and walnuts." The scheme is vague and hazy, says Mr. Crowest, and before he goes to the length of lending it his "ears and encouragement," it is essential that its aim should be discovered. This, however, does not prevent him from speculating at considerable length on what the promoters have in their minds, or from laboriously demolishing imaginary projects which it is little short of impertinence to ascribe to the committee. "It may be an attempt on the part of the distinguished Belgian who is our Lord Mayor to set up the Netherlands School of Music again! . . . Or, the idea may be one to openly or covertly aid, yet once again, the cause of Italian Opera in England, in which case it is to be earnestly hoped that not a glimmer of success will attend it." One reason which he assigns in justification for this is too curious to be passed over. "English singers never have been, and never will be, able to master the vocal parts of Italian and other operas, written as they are for voices of a calibre different in every way to those indigenous to our soil." Has Mr. Crowest forgotten the achievements of L'Inglesina, or of Kelly, or of Balfe? Has he listened to Mr. Santley in the "Flying Dutchman" or Mr. Lloyd in the "Preislied" and other Wagnerian excerpts? We think not, or he would not have had the hardihood to put forward such an assertion without qualification. As to the merits and defects of Italian Opera, we see no object in entering into any discussion. We are quite ready, for the sake of argument, to agree with Mr. Crowest that it has seen its day in England; but how far he is qualified to pronounce an opinion on this subject may be gathered from his extraordinary statement that the strength of Italian operas lies in concerted pieces—in other words, in harmony rather than melody. After this we shall be prepared to be told that Brahms's true bent is towards opéra bouffe, and that Offenbach's orchestration is more complex than that of Wagner.

It is a relief, however, to learn that Mr. Crowest acquits the promoters of the National Opera scheme of any sinister design in regard to the resuscitation of Italian Opera in England. "The public eye is at length opening lazily, after a profound musical subjection of some two centuries, during which all national musical place and honour—especially as regards opera—have been cast aside to make way for a species of art Juggernaut, which has well nigh annihilated every germ of native musical life and tradition." May we be allowed to observe that a Juggernaut, with everything cast aside to make way for it, would be an entire novelty, a veritable oxymoron, if Mr. Crowest will pardon us for using a foreign word. And yet the metaphor is not inapt, for it accurately reflects the state of mind of the writer and his congeners, the "intelligent folk who could perceive that the overriding of native music and musicians by a foreign element was a national art-mistake." The dominion of Italian Opera has been a serious obstacle in the way of the development of native art, but not in England alone, although the tyranny has lasted longer here than anywhere else. This terrible Juggernaut is no longer an engine of dread or destruction. Some of the most musical parts of the kingdom were never subjected to it, and for some time past all that is self-respecting and sound in the musical community has refused to be trampled upon by it any longer. And a Juggernaut no longer fulfils the final cause of its being when, as in Mr. Crowest's image, the spectators make way for it to pass but refuse to throw themselves under the wheels.

But even though the Mansion House Committee may have as their aim the furtherance of purely native opera, we must not rush too eagerly after the scheme. "Before seeking to build up a structure of national lyric art, it would be wise to ascertain the country's feeling about it, lest there be produced a something that may prove intolerable." England, Mr. Crowest tells us, has a "rightful claim to some front in the great art march of modern times." But woe betide her if she lays claim to "some front" to which her genius does not entitle her. Vaulting ambition might then o'erleap itself, and—if we may be permitted to imitate Mr. Crowest's imagery—take "some back seat" in the rear of the great art march-past, &c. Many questions must be asked and answered before the English public, in other words, before Mr. Crowest will accord his support to the scheme. "Are English people content to see themselves mirrored in a lyric play? . . . We are a cold-blooded, phlegmatic, dealing with fact, hard-headed people: shall all this be reflected in a musical dress? . . . True English Opera must be more matter-of-fact than the foreign importations we have long been accustomed to, and it will be well to face this from the outset. . . . The English swain does not spend hours beneath the casement of his adored one, serenading her with his heart's tenderest harmonies. He will not climb balconies to cheat one kiss from her who is the soul of him. No; the romantic Briton, in everyday life, waits at the corner of the street, if he is refused the knocker, and plants his white rose in the bosom of the loved one by the aid of a glimmer from the street lamp. This would not go well to music, and therefore it is that we should well weigh the probabilities of what a really English lyric drama would be before we take leave of the ecstatic, romantic, and tragic extravagancies—frequently absurdities—inseparable from the opera of Italy and other countries." Thus, with pitiless logic, does Mr. Crowest demolish the air-castles built by the promoters of the National Opera scheme. "Intelligent folk" will only "accord their trusty support" to purely native art. But we must be true to ourselves, and in so doing we are bound to produce "something intolerable," yea, verily, something the like of which was never seen on the operatic stage before—the romantic Briton refused the knocker, and patrolling the pavement until he can plant his white rose in the bosom of her who is the soul of him. The dilemma seems hopeless; either the genuine article which is enough to make the angels weep, or the foreign importation which is anathema to Mr. Crowest. A glimmer of hope, however, is vouchsafed in the succeeding paragraph. We are "not a dramatic people. . . We have to grow to regard music as allied to the strong and sublime affections." We are, in fine, in our musical nonage; but in time all will be well "if our training schools and colleges are doing their work." At present "England, as a nation, has little or no notion concerning the construction of an opera." The Briton, even though he be "called to louder than Baal was, would perhaps then refuse to be transported into a region of melopœia." He will not lend himself to the illusion necessary to the enjoyment of a play; he "hates deception," and will not tolerate anything that is not a "bonâ fide embodiment of the thought, emotions, and lives of the people wherever the scene be placed." No truculent Nationalist member ever gave a more unprepossessing picture of the brutal Saxon than that penned by Mr. Crowest of the average English opera-goer. Of sentiment, imagination, or sympathy he has not a spark. Dull, stolid, and spiritless, he will recognise no reality in scenes or characters which do not tally with his own sordid experiences. The remarkable thing about this disparaging attitude of Mr. Crowest is that it seems to be compatible with an inordinate esteem for the capacity and achievements of English musicians. The article is a long series of somersaults. What the writer wants, or thinks, or is driving at, is to us an insoluble mystery. "We must have a native opera," he cries; and then in the same breath, "we can't have a native opera, because it would reflect a nation of blockheads." The succeeding portions of this paper are chiefly concerned with a eulogy of the achievements of the English school, and, in particular, of the dramatic talent of Purcell, Arne, Dibdin, Loder, Balfe, Barnett, Bishop, Macfarren, and Wallace. But he has declared that we are an undramatic people; also, that it is impossible to write a good opera unless it mirrors the national temperament. The national temperament is so prosaic that its faithful reproduction is "something intolerable." Ergo, we are driven to conclude either that the national temperament has changed or that Balfe, Barnett, Bishop, and Wallace wrote bad operas. This, however, runs counter to Mr. Crowest's repeatedly expressed panegyrics of the English operatic writers already mentioned. "Our heritage of native dramatic music is no mean one in quantity or character." Barnett had "real dramatic genius," and his works are distinguished, according to Mr. Crowest, by "masterly instrumentation"; and it is manifest that he sets far more store by "The Bohemian Girl," "Lurline," and "The Talisman," than such German "frippery" as, say, Goetz's "Taming of the Shrew," or Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," for Wagner, although he was a genius, was a foreigner, and his works are, therefore, foreign importations, and as such must be banned and boycotted by intelligent folk in this country. With Mr. Crowest's eulogy of Purcell we are quite in accord, though it would be rather difficult to square Purcell's views with those of Mr. Crowest. The very names of his operas, "Dido and Æneas," "King Arthur," "Diocletian," and the "Indian Queen" are far from suggesting the gentleman under the gas-lamp who has been refused the knocker. But the literary parallel with which he has chosen to illustrate his case is of such exquisite infelicity that we cannot refrain from quoting it: "Just as Spenser's 'Faërie Queen' decided whether there was to be such a thing as English poetry or no, so Purcell's dramatic music has always stood a refutation to any doubt concerning England's power in dramatic musical composition." Dan Chaucer then, in spite of Spenser's opinion, is evidently not "on fame's eternal bead-roll worthy to be filed"; but it is possible that Mr. Crowest may have evidence to which other students have not access, establishing the painful fact that Chaucer was a foreigner. That he should claim Storace as an English composer is only another example of the inconsistency with which we are confronted at every turn. It is true that Storace is described as such by some writers, but in view of his parentage, his training at Naples, and his association with Mozart, it is indeed strange that Mr. Crowest should exempt him from his boycotting decree. Of Bishop he speaks with enthusiasm, and we are not going to quarrel with him on this score; but in declaring that Bishop "will always be an excellent model for a native lyric style," Mr. Crowest practically negatives the notion that there can be any growth in music. Bishop's choruses, according to Mr. Crowest, will stand the test of comparison with the colossal structures of Handel. But then it is well to bear in mind that Handel was a foreigner.

"With such a list of English composers of dramatic music before us—to say nothing of what Stanford, Sullivan, Goring Thomas, and Mackenzie might do for their country's art—it is irritating indeed to be going out into the wilderness to find some tenth-rate Italian or German composer to write for us an opera, when scarcely a note of this native music has been heard by this generation." Here, at last, we come to a definite suggestion—that we should revive the operas of Loder—whom he presently specifies by name—Balfe, Barnett, Bishop, &c., and unearth those "thousands of scores," . . . "pile upon pile of dramatic music by England's known and unheard composers," which is "lying dormant or withering away somewhere." Let us be up, cries our musical Boyle Roche, and rescue these dormant withering piles, and with them as our basis build up an unadulterated home-brewed structure, which shall strike terror into the heart of the tenth-rate foreigner. Stanford and Sullivan, Goring Thomas and Mackenzie, they too shall join in the apotheosis of the commonplace, the mirroring of the matter-of-fact, the glorification of the grotesque. No more "Canterbury Pilgrims," or "Colombas," or "Nadeshdas," we beg of you, but a good straightforward plot of everyday life, with a city man for the hero and real omnibuses on the stage.

For in this matter the ultimate appeal lies with the public. "It is to the public that we must look . . . When the public adjudicates upon this matter there should be an insistence that the outcome shall be thoroughly representative of the nation—British and nothing else—in music, artists, conductor, and the like." Mark well the logic. "The public is to be left to decide, but there must be 'an insistence' that the public shall decide in one way and not in another. It is to be at once free and controlled by the intelligent folk of whom Mr. Crowest speaks. 'Now we own a Stanford, Mackenzie, and Sullivan—prophets who, so far, have been honoured out of their own country.' Has Mr. Crowest attended the two last Birmingham and Leeds Festivals, or witnessed any performances of the 'Golden Legend,' the 'Revenge,' or the 'Rose of Sharon'?" From his advice to the composer of opera we extract the following passages: "The main characteristic of such a work (a native lyric drama) would be a simple grandeur in all respects, and the music of that pure and nervous cast of sentiment which marks the traditional English school":—but how is this to be reconciled with our national temperament as delineated by Mr. Crowest,—cold-blooded, phlegmatic, matter-of-fact, undramatic, unromantic? "The composer need never stun the ears, and the less thunder and lightning there is, the smaller will be the ground of complaint for encroaching upon the stage architect's demand. . . . No native composer need descend in his art to compose passages to show off the conceits of singer or instrumentalist, nor need he build up roulades and cadenzas, which can never reach the heart, and which only furnish a vehicle by means of which the vulgar artist wins the applause and the questionable appreciation of his gaping auditors. Again, the public taste has so improved that it will now listen to, and can understand concerted music." The italics are ours. No wonder that Mr. Crowest, while professing to allow the public complete freedom to decide the question of what is, and what is not English opera, is anxious to dictate to it the course it shall take, when its education is still so rudimentary. And then he goes on, "It may occur to some English genius, too, to try an opera with the recitative parts spoken instead of sung." On the contrary, Mr. Crowest ought to be the first to protest against such a foreign importation, the practice being that invariably followed in French opéra comique.

Were we not afraid of wearying our readers we should continue this examination of his paper to the bitter end. Enough, however, we think, has been done to illustrate its aggressive insularity, its sounding platitudes, and dictatorial self-assertion. We will content ourselves with one more quotation from the concluding paragraph: "Never were conditions in our own country more favourable than they now are to determine this national music question. The Berliner Tagblatt, the Paris Figaro, the Gazetta d'Italia, too, are laughing at us. Is musical England to stand this?" Whether these papers are or are not indulging in mirth at our expense we are not in a position to state; but if their attention is attracted to Mr. Crowest's paper, explosions of Homeric laughter will inevitably be heard all over the Continent.

CHARLES L. GRAVES.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. XXVI.—HANDEL.

THE family of John Sebastian Bach has been described by his greatest biographer as "purely and thoroughly German." These words apply with hardly less truth to the connections of George Frederic Handel, and the parallelism extends further than nationality since both masters belonged to what we now call, with the fine distinction exacted by the laws of caste, the lower middle classes. The men of the Bach tribe were mostly good solid burghers, neither "well-born," on the one hand, nor wanting in "respectability," on the other. Thanks to Spitta, we know all about them and have a liking for them and their sturdy virtues. Our knowledge of the Handel stock, however, is less comprehensive and precise. They do not seem to have been a family of musicians like the Bachs, or to have left any foot-prints on the sands of time that were not obliterated by the next tide. It has simply been ascertained for us that, in the first years of the seventeenth century, one Valentin Haendel, a coppersmith, migrated from Breslau to Halle with his wife, and there established the family to which the great composer, his grandson, belonged.

The Handels (it may be convenient at once to spell their name as Englishmen know it) appear to have been a socially ambitious race. Valentin rose to the rank of a master coppersmith; and his fifth son, George, became a surgeon, having as his master in that science the town barber, whose well-to-do widow he subsequently married. This George Handel was a pushing individual; possibly clever in his profession, and assuredly bent on getting on. At any rate, he made such use of his opportunities that distinction after distinction fell to him, including the supreme one of surgeon to a member of the Royal House of Saxony. Indefatigable German biographers tell us that with the duties of surgeon to Prince August were combined those of valet-de-chambre, but it is hardly to be supposed that George Handel brushed his royal patron's clothes, aired his shirts, and helped him to dress. The functions and designations of people about a German Court are a great mystery, sheltered by which we venture to doubt whether the father of our composer was ever called upon to do anything unbecoming his dignity as a man of science, which would hardly be compromised if, as perhaps was the case, he occasionally discharged the duties of the Prince's chiropodist. This Court official lived many years—thirty-nine, to be exact—with the widow of the town barber, and after her death, though then sixty-one years old, he took another wife in the person of Dorothea Taust, aged thirty-two. Dorothea was the daughter of a clergyman, to whose example and training she appears to have done much credit. If biographers speak the truth, she was the pattern of all virtue, gentle, submissive, pious, and in every way suited to make happy the desolated home of Surgeon George—George the Lucky, as he might well be called. Four children blessed this union, two boys and two girls. Of the boys, one died on the day of his birth; the other, made of sturdier stuff, defied the then existing arrangements for crushing out baby life, and lived on. His name was George Frederic, and upon him, jointly with his half-brother, Carl, a son of the first marriage, old George Handel rested his hopes of a perpetuated name and dignity. George Frederic came into existence on February 23, 1685.

Many things baffle us in this world of mysteries, and one of them is the apparently erratic way in which the gift of genius is distributed. Sometimes we see it a hereditary possession, handed down from father to son, as happened, under more or less modified conditions, with the Bachs; but oftener it surprises by appearing where no circumstances cause us to look for it. Of this Handel's case is a supreme example. We have seen that on his father's side no musical talent had existed, while history is entirely silent as to any such endowment in the family of his mother.

Yet George Frederic began to show the instinct of music before he came of years to understand what he did. His nursery delight was in toy drums and trumpets, which he banged and blew with a strange effect of unaccustomedness in the staid dwelling of his respectable father. Surgeon George, as may be supposed, dated on the son of his old age, and bore with equanimity the noises of all manner of instruments. There came a time, however, when the fond father began to ask himself whether this childish performance might not have a serious aspect. He had his own plans for the boy's future—plans that contemplated even greater social distinction for the Handel family than he himself had been able to secure. Onward and upward was old George's motto. Who could tell whether there might not be a patent of nobility somewhere in the future for the descendants of the Breslau coppersmith? So George Frederic was destined for the law, and doubtless, the paternal fancy, going forward into years its owner could not hope to see, created a brilliant destiny for the future jurist. Geheimrath von Haendel!—what music in the sound! Assured of such a dignity for his son, the Halle surgeon could go down to his grave and rest there in peace, conscious of a duty well discharged. But the duty must be set about at once, with a first care for the removal of all temptations to any other pursuit than that of the law. Perceiving this, Surgeon George issued an edict against drums and trumpets, and those dangerous toys were incontinently cleared out of the house. The old father was very thorough. Music must be kept from the boy at home, and he must be kept from music abroad. Those were the paternal orders, and we can fancy that the submissive Dorothea shed many a tear while causing them to be obeyed. Mothers being of small account in those days, no biographer has told us what Dorothea Handel thought of all this. Of one thing we may be sure—she felt for her child, though, perhaps, meekly bowing assent when her lord and master, pompously drawing himself up, remarked: "Music is an elegant art and a fine amusement; yet, if considered as an occupation, it has little dignity, having for its subject nothing better than mere pleasure and entertainment." Surgeon George may have thought that all was settled when his orders had been given about the boy. No one would dare to disobey them, and left unfed, the flame of music which had so soon blazed up within his son would die down. But in this he reckoned without the child himself. George Frederic had a will of his own, and was not to be robbed of his favourite amusement without a struggle. The model boy of the "Sandford and Merton" school would have submitted at once, with smug expressions of thankfulness for the wisdom which guided his early steps. Young Handel did nothing of the kind. He was unhappy without music, and music he would have, if not by hook, then by crook. Mainwaring, who published his "Life of Handel" two years after the master's death, and may have had his account at first hand, says: "He had found means to get a little clavichord privately conveyed to a room at the top of the house. To this room he constantly stole when the family was asleep. He had made some progress before music had been prohibited, and by his assiduous practice at the hours of rest, had made such farther advances as, tho' not attended to at that time, were no slight prognostics of his future greatness." All the biographers accept this clavichord story. Fétis puts it thus: "Moved by an irresistible instinct, young Handel, aided by a servant, succeeded in placing a little spinet in an upper room, and, although he knew not a note of music, persevering night studies, carried on while the family were reposing, enabled him to play upon that instrument." Schœlcher's account runs as follows: "He found means to procure a clavichord, or dumb-spinet (the strings were banded with strips of cloth, to deaden the sound), and to conceal it in a garret whither he went to play when all the household was asleep. This fact, incredible as it may appear, is positively affirmed by Mainwaring, and both Hawkins and Burney also attach credit to it. Although the clavichord was a sort of square box which was placed upon a table, we must at least suppose that either the nurse or the mother of the child was his accomplice, and that he had acquired certain ideas upon the subject before music was forbidden him. However that may have been, Nature is said to have been his first teacher. Without any guidance, finding out everything for himself, and merely by permitting his little fingers to wander over the keyboard, he produced harmonic combinations, and at seven years of age discovered that he knew how to play upon the spinet. If all this be not true, we must recognise in it one of those extraordinary fables in which the poetic imagination of the Middle Ages loved to conceal extraordinary truths." Lastly, Mr. Rockstro, writing in the full light of modern German research, adopts the story. He says: "By means of some friendly help, the nature of which has not transpired, he managed to obtain possession of an old clavichord. This he smuggled into an unoccupied garret constructed in the roof of the house, and here, beneath the storks' nests, he practised at night, when the rest of the family slept." The popular mind has always found some difficulty in accepting the tale, because it seemed to involve a double impossibility—first, smuggling an instrument of the harpsichord family into a house without detection; and next, playing upon it without being heard. But these difficulties disappear when we know that some spinets of that day were small enough to be carried under the arm, and that the wires were so muffled as to be scarcely audible when struck.

Surgeon George, sleeping the sleep of the just, and, in the garret above him, George Frederic pursuing music with inborn ardour through the hours of darkness! The picture is another illustration of man's impotence when he would turn aside the course of destiny, whose decrees the son began to work out while the father reposed. Of course, the nocturnal studies and their results could not be long concealed. Surgeon George was bound to hear of them, and much depended on the manner in which this should come about. The actual revelation was made under circumstances which believers in a personal Providence might well accept as specially arranged. Its story is as generally accepted by biographers as that of the clavichord, and told, from Mainwaring to Chrysander, with variation of detail only. It appears, according to this combined and accumulated authority, that Surgeon George was one day called upon to attend at the Court of a neighbouring Duke (Saxe-Weissenfels) where music was greatly encouraged. George Frederic, who probably knew of this, wished to accompany his father, but was refused. He did not, however, take the paternal "No" as final. It occurred to the ingenious child's brain that there was a means of almost forcing a "Yes," and so, when the carriage moved off in the slow, lumbering manner of seventeenth century vehicles, George Frederic ran after it. Along the streets of Halle, and out into the country the boy's little legs carried him, he panting, straining, and, no doubt, sobbing while the unconscious father jolted about on his cushions. At the first halting-place, Surgeon George set eyes upon his indomitable son, standing there hot, panting, and dusty after his long run. Of course an explosion of paternal wrath followed, but not even so gross a case of disobedience could keep the fires of anger burning long. "Since you are here, jump in"—these words or others like them, spoken, perhaps, with ill-concealed admiration for the boy's pluck, ended the struggle, and George Frederic went to Weissenfels. Accounts differ somewhat as to the incidents which took place on his arrival, but it is probable that the boy, necessarily left in some measure to himself, indulged his love for, and interest in, music without stint. We can fancy him roaming over the castle, touching all the instruments to which he could obtain access, associating with the Prince's musicians and being "all ears" at their rehearsals. According to one authority, some of these took the lad into the organ-loft of the chapel, where he was permitted to try his weak fingers on the keys. The Duke chancing to hear, demanded who made such music, whereupon one said "It is the little Handel from Halle." What followed may be told in Mainwaring's words: "After he (the Duke) had seen him and made all the enquiries which it was natural for a man of taste and discernment to make on such an occasion, he told his physician that every father must judge for himself in what manner to dispose of his children, but that, for his own part, he could not but consider it as a sort of crime against the public and posterity to rob the world of such a rising genius. The old Doctor still retained his prepossessions in favour of the Civil Law. Though he was convinced it was almost an act of necessity to yield to his son's inclinations (as it seemed an act of duty to yield to the Prince's advice and authority), yet it was not without the utmost reluctance that he brought himself to this resolution. He was sensible of the Prince's goodness in taking such notice of his son, and giving his opinion concerning the best method of education. But he begged leave humbly to represent to his Highness that though music was an elegant art and a fine amusement . . . whatever degree of eminence his son might arrive at in such a profession, he thought that a much less degree in many others would be preferable. The Prince could not agree with him in his notions of music as a profession, which, he said, were much too low and disparaging, as great excellence in any kind entitled men to great honour. And as to profit, he observed how much more likely he would be to succeed, if suffered to pursue the path that nature and Providence seemed to have marked out for him, than if he was forced into another track to which he had no such bias, nay, to which he had a direct aversion. He concluded with saying that he was far from recommending the study of music in exclusion of the languages or of the civil law, provided it was possible to reconcile them together. What he wished was that all of them might have fair play, that no violence might be used, but the boy be left at liberty to follow the natural bent of his faculties, whatever that might be. . . . The issue of their debate was this—not only a toleration was obtained for music, but consent for a master to be employed, who should forward and assist him in his advances on his return to Halle. At his departure from Weissenfels the Prince filled his pockets with money, and told him with a smile that, if he minded his studies, no encouragement should be wanting." The fulness with which Mainwaring reports the momentous interview which decided George Frederic's fate makes it reasonable to suppose that he had the particulars from Handel himself, who was present throughout, and drank in every word. Taking the account as authentic, therefore, we see how much of gratitude is due to the Duke of Saxe-Weissenfels for his interference, and the judicious manner in which his influence was exerted to turn the father from an unwise course. Counsel from a less exalted quarter would, no doubt, have been spurned by Surgeon George, but he could not resist a reigning Duke and a patron. At the touch of royalty the edifice of the old man's fancy melted away, and George Frederic came back from that most fortunate journey to Weissenfels free to make of himself what he could—free, also, to tell his father all about the spinet in the garret, and thus explain the secret of the ability which had charmed the ears of their friend at Court.

The immediate result of George Frederic's visit to Weissenfels was his entry upon a course of musical study under Zackau, organist of one of the Halle churches, and a musician of respectable attainments. But, in accordance with the plan sketched out by the Duke, young Handel laboured hard at the acquirement of general knowledge. There was still a possibility—visible to the father, if not to the son—that he would go over to jurisprudence, and no stone should be left unturned in preparation for that much desired event. In all branches of learning, it is said, the child made great progress, but advancement in music seemed to be made instinctively, under his master's zealous guidance. Zackau was not a genius himself; he was, in fact, nothing better than a studious, plodding German Capellmeister, who accumulated vast stores of technical knowledge and never knew how to turn them to best account. To his credit it must be said, however, that he discerned the qualities of Surgeon George's little son, and laid himself out earnestly for their development. He taught the boy to play upon the organ and harpsichord with astonishing skill, and put him through a regular course of instruction in harmony and composition. But let us hear Mainwaring on this matter: "Handel pleased him (Zackau) so much that he never thought he could do enough for him. The first object of his attention was to ground him thoroughly in the principles of harmony. His next care was to cultivate his imagination and form his taste. He had a large collection of Italian as well as German music; he showed him the different styles of different nations; the excellencies and defects of each particular author, and, that he might equally advance in the practical part, he frequently gave him subjects to work, and made him copy, and play, and compose in his stead. Thus he had more exercise and more experience than usually falls to the share of any learner at his years. Zackau was proud of a pupil who already began to attract the attention of persons who lived near Halle, or resorted thither from distant quarters. And he was glad of an assistant who, by his uncommon talents, was capable of supplying his place whenever he had an inclination to be absent, as he often was, from his love of company and a cheerful glass. It may seem strange to talk of an assistant at seven years of age, for he could not be more, if, indeed, he was quite so much when first he was committed to the care of this person. But it will appear much stranger that, by the time he was nine, he began to compose the church service for voices and instruments, and, from that time, actually did compose a service every week for three years successively." The "church service" referred to by Handel's earliest biographer is described by later writers as sometimes a church cantata, sometimes a sonata, or a composition for the organ, or an exercise on a canto fermo. We may take it that little Handel was kept hard at work, and that his genius, even at so early an age, produced astonishing results. Unhappily, no examples of the child's precocity remain to us. Burney speaks of a volume containing six Sonatas for two oboes and bass, which were brought to England by Lord Polworth, given to Wiedemann, an eminent flautist of the period, and shown by him to Handel, then a resident in this country. The master identified the works at once, and said: "I used to write like a devil in those days, and chiefly for the hautbois, which was my favourite instrument." This volume was seen by Burney in the royal library, but has since disappeared, Mr. Rockstro having vainly searched for it at Buckingham Palace. Another volume, containing a large number of transcriptions, is also known to have been brought to this country, and can be traced to the possession of a Lady Rivers in 1799. What has become of it since nobody can discover.

At the end of three years Zackau found out that his young pupil knew as much as he did himself, and, if some authorities may be credited, George Frederic knew well that Zackau had nothing more to teach. Handel's latest English biographer, Rockstro, has it that it was the boy who suggested the next step—namely, his removal to Berlin, where, of course, larger educational opportunities were available. The point is not of much importance, but we need not give Zackau's pupil credit for more knowledge than he possessed, and it does seem unlikely that George Frederic, who, in 1695, was but ten years old, could have formed any opinion about Berlin as a place of study. Mainwaring states that the decision to send him thither was arrived at after consultation, while Schœlcher mentions that the step was taken on the advice of Zackau. Either of these assertions is more probable than that the boy himself had anything to do with it. There is some reason to believe that Surgeon George gave his consent unwillingly. In his heart of hearts he still clung to the idea of a lawyer's son. The robe of the advocate remained, in his view, the true garment of honour. But the old man, though reluctant, was not obstinate, and in 1696 his wonderful boy was permitted to set out for the capital of the Brandenburg Electorate, thus entering definitely upon a musical career. One thinks of the aged father with some pity, as he saw the fading of the visions he had fondly called up, and bethought him that the hope of his declining years, instead of an honourable and dignified profession, had chosen one held by the world in little esteem. He did not, probably, comprehend the fact that nobody had any real choice in the matter. Music had marked George Frederic for her own. He was her bounden servant, and nothing could prevent the discharge of his obligation.

The choice of Berlin as the scene of young Handel's further development was undoubtedly wise, that city being then a great musical centre, thanks to the encouragement given to the art by the Elector and Electress—afterwards the first King and Queen of Prussia. Towards Berlin, musical artists set their faces from all parts of Europe, assured of encouragement and support. Our eleven-year-old boy found himself, therefore, in good company on arriving. Mainwaring states that he had a "friend and relation" at the Court of the Elector; but, whether or no, the prodigy from Halle had small difficulty in attracting notice within the Elector's musical circle, and even from the Elector himself. "Thus much is certain," writes Mainwaring, "that the little stranger had not been long at court before his abilities became known to the King, who frequently sent for him and made him large presents. Indeed, his Majesty, convinced of his singular endowments, and unwilling to lose the opportunity of patronising so rare a genius, had conceived a design of cultivating it at his own expense. His intention was to send him to Italy, where he might be formed under the best masters, and have opportunities of hearing and seeing all that was excellent in the kind." This purpose, as will more fully appear presently, was never carried out; but the Elector's intention shows how deep an impression the child's genius had made, and how likely it was that its effect upon men more competent to judge than a mere amateur would be even greater. Details of what transpired during George Frederic's residence in Berlin are, unfortunately, very meagre, but, such as they are, they have an interest which entitles them to fuller notice than is possible within the limits of the present paper.

(To be continued.)

THE MUSIC OF ANCIENT ROME AND ITS OPPONENT.

By J. F. ROWBOTHAM.

THERE is a law of nature which brings periodically into contact the large with the small, the supremely great with the supremely diminutive. In this way fortune has at last brought ancient Rome into collision with a journalist—two extremes of fancy, beyond which the mind is unable to travel either way. It may be safely asserted that Rome will survive the shock, although it can derive but little honour from so grotesque an encounter. The immediate cause which precipitated the collision was my recent essay on "The Early History of the Organ," with its numerous allusions to ancient Roman music. A writer in a contemporary of ours has taken these latter most unkindly, and indeed has intimated that he considers them a sort of personal insult to himself. He has passed through life hitherto, it appears, oblivious that ancient Rome once existed, and totally unconscious that any music was to be found therein. His surprise is therefore extreme to be told otherwise, and vents itself in a multitude of words.

His criticism of my essay takes the form of an earnest appeal for information. All is dark to him, he confesses, but he is very willing to grope his way about as best he may, if I will only start him in the right direction. He says I shall reveal "a new world" to his gaze if I will answer him certain questions which he indicates. "Mr. Rowbotham," he remarks, "is an excellent classical scholar. I," he adds, though not in so many words, "am not. I know nothing about the classics. I know nothing about ancient music. But I am very anxious to know. Will Mr. Rowbotham be so kind?" The task of helping those desirous to learn is always a pleasing one, more especially when they are so frank and ingenuous as is my kindly critic, who, by the bye, loads me with compliments on "the painstaking research" I have displayed in the essay at large, and only withholds them when my information has not been sufficiently full to please him. These compliments, unfortunately, I cannot reckon at a very high value, as the next minute he honestly confesses that he knows nothing at all about the subject.

Nero's musical ability is the first thing that troubles him. He cannot understand how such a tyrant could have been a good musician. The old saying, "Nero fiddled, while Rome burnt," he is very much dissatisfied with. He thinks there is a mistake somewhere, and that it ought rather to run, "Nero burnt, while Rome fiddled"; as, by this means, the unpleasant ascription of any musical ability to that monarch can be entirely got over. If I will but grant him this as the correct reading, he defies me to prove that Nero knew one note from another.

He next asks me urgently to reply to the four following questions:—

1. "In what sense did a Roman pantomime answer to a modern opera or melodrama?"
2. "What was the 'orchestra' used in Rome?"
3. "Of how many instruments did it consist, and of what genre were they?"
4. "What sort of a 'full band' was it in which Nero wanted the organ to take its place?"

The information he requires on all these points is to be so very exact that, not content with my naming the classical authors where it is to be found, he earnestly entreats me to give him "the chapter and also the verse." My friend evidently imagines that the classics are divided into chapters and verses like the Bible. But let me tell him that is not so. He knows no classics, it is true, but the merest schoolboy could have told him that the classics have their chapters, but no verses—none whatever.

The points above enumerated are those which will reveal "a new world" to my critic's gaze. It seems somewhat selfish, perhaps, that so much time and space should be devoted to dispelling the ignorance of one man; but the thirst for information is always a laudable one, and when the case is so desperate as that of my critic's, it must, at all costs, be satisfied.

First, as to the Nero difficulty. I will freely grant that my critic has made a very happy inversion of the old adage when he phrases it "Nero burnt, while Rome fiddled." I commend his ingenuity. But if he thinks he has at all shaken my historical accuracy thereby, I must tell him flatly that he is much mistaken. He knows no other passage bearing on the question than this old adage. I know several. Nero sang in the presence of thousands of spectators at the great theatre of Naples in the third year of his reign. From Naples he went to Greece, and sang at the principal theatres there. He entered into public competition with all comers at the Grecian games, of which there were four in number, the Isthmian, the Pythian, the Olympian, the Nemean, and several times received the prize (the above facts can all be found in the 20th chapter of Suetonius—there are no verses). Nero's favourite parts which he assumed as a singer were those of Orestes, Canace, Œdipus, Hercules Furens (his assumptions of these are described in the 21st chapter of Suetonius, and also in the Greek historian, Dion Cassius). Nero's diligence in improving his voice was so great that he had a singing-master or voice-trainer almost always by his side, one of whose duties was to observe the state of the atmosphere, for fear the delicate throat of the great amateur might suffer from a chill. With this singing-master he would also sit up till late in the night, practising his arias and roulades against the following day (Suetonius, chapter 20). Nero slept with plates of lead on his breast, to correct unsteadiness of breathing, and give him the power of sustaining his notes in equal volume (Suetonius, chapter 25). He would also abstain from food for days together, in order to benefit his voice; often denying himself fruit and sweet pastry, which are known to be prejudicial to singing. He could play the flute with the best players of his day, and was no mean performer on the trumpet (Suetonius again, and the chapter before last). He could play the lyre to perfection. He could likewise play the pandura—an instrument, I will be bound, my critic has never heard of in his life before. These facts, and a great many more which I have not the patience to put down, my friend will read in Suetonius, Dion Cassius, Lucian, Philostratus, Tacitus, Seneca, and Petronius, where he will be good enough to find the chapters and verses himself, for I have done enough for him.

Next to answer his four categorical questions.

Question 1. "In what sense did a Roman pantomime answer to a modern opera or melodrama?" In the sense that it was a musical play. Referring to my own words, I find that my critic has altered them considerably in his quotation, probably with a view of obtaining greater exactitude of reply. What I wrote was "The pantomime answered very much to what operas or melodramas do with us." There is a difference, and a considerable one. I made the comparison quite general; he makes it terribly particular. But no doubt he imagines it is all the same. For his benefit, then, and to show him what a pantomime really was, I cannot do better than translate the description of one from a Latin author. It is from Apuleius's "Golden Ass," and is inserted here for his special edification. "At the sound of the trumpets, the curtain rolled down" (another surprise for my friend. No doubt he will think it ought to have drawn up. But the chapter is the 29th in Apuleius—once more there are no verses), "and the stage was revealed to the eyes of the spectators. The scene was a wooden mountain, and a very high one, planted with shrubberies and green trees, from its top a fountain flowing, and real water was trickling down the side. A few kids were cropping the herbage, and a youth was shepherding them, dressed in the Phrygian style, with a golden diadem on his head. A beautiful boy was also on the stage, whom we knew to be Mercury from the little golden wings among his yellow hair, and the caduceus which he carried. He ran with a dancing step, and, carrying in his right hand an apple stuck with spangles, offered it to the shepherd, whose name was Paris, and announced to him in signs that Jupiter had entrusted him with the task of deciding who was the most beautiful of the goddesses, and that the apple was to be the prize of beauty. On his departure a girl of noble countenance entered, with sceptre and crown. This was Juno. Then another, who was Minerva, as her helmet told us. And yet another, who we knew was Venus. Her complexion was white and delicate, and she was lovely to look upon. And now the virgins, their attendants, came dancing in; but Juno was attended by Castor and Pollux, and by a band of stately matrons. Juno, to the modulations of the music, promised the shepherd that she would bestow such and such on him if he adjudged her the prize of beauty. Next came Minerva, making promises likewise; but two boys, Terror and Fear, danced with drawn swords around her, clashing their arms; and since it was renown in war which she promised, the pipes struck up the Dorian Mode, tantiveying in the manner of trumpets. And next came Venus sweetly smiling, amid the applause of all the spectators, and surrounded by a crowd of tender little girl-boys; and you would have thought them real Cupids, with their smooth fair faces, and little wings, and tiny arrows. They bore shining torches before Venus, as if she were going to consecrate a marriage. And virgins too in troops came dancing—the lovely Graces and the rosy Hours, scattering flowers and garlands, and soothing the queen of pleasure with the tresses of the Spring. Now then the flutes pealed out, and with a florid Lydian strain they charm the souls of the spectators, while Venus begins to step to Paris. The graceful undulations of her form, the flowing of her shape, the arching of her neck, and all in time to the delicate warbling of the flutes—can you wonder that the apple was her easy prize?" (Apuleius, chapters 29 and 30). Let us imagine a one-act opera, entitled "The prize of beauty, or the contest of the goddesses"; and a modern librettist would probably produce something very similar.

During the whole of the pantomime there was continuous music from first to last. The actors themselves, curiously enough, took no part in the singing—their action was dumb show (for these statements, apply to Calliachus, De Ludis Scenicis II., 754). The music was furnished by a chorus of singers and a band of instrumentalists standing on the stage, who were supplemented by a second band stationed in the orchestra (Calliachus again). While the chorus sang and the band played, the theme of the song being the narrative of the pantomime, the actors carried on their motions and gestures, endeavouring to express thereby the action of the narrative which the chorus was singing (Cassiodorus, I., Var. E, 51). The pantomimes were got up on the most stupendous scale. There were sometimes more people on the stage than in the theatre itself; for, what with the immense pageants of actors, and the great choruses of singers and instrumentalists, the stage was full (Seneca's 84th Epistle—unfortunately there are not even chapters in this Epistle, much less verses.) "The passages are full of singers," says an eye-witness, "the orchestra is thronged with trumpets, and every kind of pipe and musical instrument peals from the stage" (Seneca again, who saw with his own eyes the "new world" of which my illustrious critic utterly doubts the existence). No music in ancient Rome? Why, the idea is a monstrous one, and could only be the offspring of the most profound and benighted ignorance.

If my friend wants any more about the pantomimes—of which he first denies the existence and then asks me what they were—I can give it him. The pantomimes had overtures exactly as our operas have; they had instrumental interludes during pauses in the singing; and, finally, when they were of more than one act, they had entr'actes. For these facts he may look in Donatus, if he knows who Donatus is, and has anybody among his acquaintances who can translate the Latin.

Question 2. "What was the 'orchestra' used in Rome?" My friend deals with the orchestra as he deals with the pantomime. He begins by denying there was any orchestra at all, and then—suddenly assuming its existence—asks me if I can tell him something about it. The orchestra used in Rome consisted of lyres, flutes, pipes, trumpets, gongs, castanets, and cymbals. This is the statement of Calliachus, De Ludis Scenicis II.; Cassiodorus, De Musica; Calliachus, Ad Nonnium; Coelius; Salmasius; and Isidore, Origines III. I dislike being pedantic, but my excellent friend compels me, for the moment, to be so. "The lyres were of immense size and enormous power," says Calliachus, who particularly describes them. The flutes resembled in outward appearance a flageolet, being held in the same manner to the mouth. The pipes were bound with brass, were exceedingly powerful in tone, and were said, in the words of a Roman poet, to be "the rivals of the trumpet." The gongs were made of brass or copper, but afterwards of silver, and gave a rich sonorous sound when struck. "They clashed most pleasantly," says Cassiodorus, who, among others, describes their sound minutely. The castanets and cymbals I need not particularly allude to; but my enquiring friend can find a full account of them in Coelius, folio 1049, and Calliachus, Ad Nonnium, 18.

Question 3. "Of how many instruments did the orchestra consist, and of what genre were they?" My excellent friend knows nothing about Latin, but he surely knows a little about arithmetic. I have given him the instruments. Let him count them himself. "Of what genre were they?" Plainly enough—stringed instruments, wind instruments, and instruments of percussion. I hope this will be intelligible to my excellent friend.

Question 4. "What sort of a 'full band' was it, in which Nero wanted the organ to take its place?" "What sort of a full band?" Why, it was this sort of a full band—to use his uncouth way of putting it. It was the Roman orchestra, which I have lately described, on the large scale which Seneca, an eye-witness and frequent visitor to the theatres, has reported to us; when, what with the immense pageants of actors and the great choruses of singers and instrumentalists, the stage was full. "The passages were full of singers," he says, "the orchestra was thronged with trumpets, and every kind of pipe and musical instrument pealed from the stage."

This was "the sort of a full band." And now, having answered my excellent friend his very last question, I wish him adieu. I should strongly advise him not to write on any subject connected with music for the future, and particularly to leave Rome alone. But if he still desires to limp behind me, with a view of obtaining some stray crumbs of information, he had better take the remaining parts of my essay on "The Early History of the Organ," and go over them word by word. The authorities on which it is written are open to all men to read, and I have the greatest pleasure in furnishing him with the following list:—Constantine Porphyrogenitus, John Cantacuzene, Ammianus Marcellinus, Nicetas Choniates, Seneca, Tertullian, Juvenal, Theophanes, Photius, Joannes Malalas, Procopius, Theophylactus, Sigebertus Havercampus, Zosimus, Monachus Sangallensis, Monachus Engolismensis, Annales Mettenses, Adhelmus, and Eginhardus.

IN Sir John Stainer's Report on the Musical Departments in Training Colleges, recently issued, he especially dwells upon the increasing number of students who are prepared to play an instrument, the growth of really able female pianists being a highly interesting feature. Now, much as all music-lovers may rejoice at this proof of the rapid spread of the art, serious thinkers upon the subject might anxiously inquire whether there is not a great danger of the supply far exceeding the demand, presuming that all these young musicians hope to live solely by the exercise of their art, either as teachers or performers. Happily, however, there are now many situations where such an accomplishment may prove of the utmost value, and materially strengthen the claims of those who might otherwise find much difficulty in obtaining and retaining remunerative employment. The writer of the official Report, foreseeing this, speaks of "that most useful class, the schoolmaster-organist," and truly says that either ladies or gentlemen who keep scholastic establishments, and are good musicians, would be invaluable as performers or choir-trainers in a church or chapel with which they might be officially or otherwise connected. We would, however, go beyond this, and affirm that evidences of the desirability of the possession of musical powers in many positions of life are before us every day, as one example of which we quote the following advertisement, which lately appeared:—"To Vocalists.—Wanted, a good Reader to act as Nurse. Must be able to take a leading part in anthems, glees, &c. Salary, £30 a year, paid monthly, with board, lodging, washing, and two dresses annually." Of course there are many vocalists who are not nurses, and many nurses who are not vocalists; but we only refer to this in proof of our assertion that musical acquirements in the present day may often aid those who are seeking positions quite apart from the art. Within our own experience we could instance a lady who most ably fulfilled the duties of Secretary at a large boarding-house; and, to the delight of all the inmates, during the evening not only accompanied at sight any one who wished to sing, but occasionally played solos with much refinement and expression. Her services as Secretary were, we can truthfully state, fully appreciated; but that her musical talents cemented even more firmly her position in the establishment can scarcely be questioned.

READERS of the Reviews for October can hardly fail to have been struck by the unprecedentedly large proportion of musical articles. Dr. Stanford contributes a notice of Dr. Parry's "Judith" to the Fortnightly, Mr. Crowest discusses English Opera in the National Review, and Mr. J. F. Rowbotham falls foul of Wagner in the Nineteenth Century. Mr. Rowbotham's article is written in a style which affords an agreeable contrast to the shambling periods of many writers on musical subjects, but without wishing to pose as champions of Wagnerism, we are forced to pronounce that Mr. Rowbotham's indictment and conclusions are unsupported by the hard facts of the case. It is, to say the least of it, premature to declare that the "Wagner bubble" has burst, in the face of the unprecedented enthusiasm evinced at the recent Bayreuth Festival, and the solid success achieved by German Opera in New York. The issue is confused by the claims of those enragés Wagnerites who claim for the man and the critic the same degree of admiration that is freely accorded to the composer. This claim no sane person will ever admit. The recently published Wagner-Liszt correspondence is not calculated to hasten the apotheosis of the former in the minds of those who set store by the manly virtues. The character that emerges with credit is that of Liszt, not Wagner. Credit, indeed! Was there ever so unblushing a begging-letter writer, so fretful or exacting a correspondent as the author of "Lohengrin"? Then, again, Mr. Rowbotham has not much difficulty in exposing the absurdities and crudities of the philosophy which Wagner evolved from his misconception of Schopenhauer, or in poking fun at his poetry. But the kernel of the matter he leaves untouched. His title, quoted above, begs the question. The aggressive and fanatic Wagnerites may have dwindled in numbers, but the admirers of his music have incontestably increased and are still increasing.

At a time when public attention has been drawn, by a highly-placed musician in a high-class periodical, to the manifold short-comings and wickednesses of the English musical press, it is comforting to know, on the authority of our American correspondent, that there are critics across the Atlantic who do good, and have their worth in that respect fully recognised. It appears that the managers of the Worcester (Mass.) Musical Festival are not uniformly happy in selecting works for performance. Their default, we take it, has been pointed out on several occasions, but with mildness and in a half-hearted sort of way. "This year," writes our correspondent, "the criticisms were both more general and more outspoken, with the result that a local controversy was provoked from which reforms are to be hoped in the future." Here is a two-fold lesson. First, that criticisms should be outspoken. Strange as it may appear to some people, musical critics have within them the "milk of human kindness" and often shrink from uttering words which, however wholesome, would be disagreeable to others. But this is a weakness. Their duty is to be "outspoken," declaring their opinion with firmness and directness, which need never be inconsistent with courtesy. We get from the New England Worcester an example of the futility of beating about the bush and the usefulness of speaking out. The second lesson is that much good can be done to musical festivals by critics who are independent of local considerations and influences. Worcester will benefit by the "reviewers of the New York and Boston newspapers." In like manner has many an English festival gained by the advice of critics from London. It cannot be said, however, that they get many thanks. As a rule, the local journals blaze up, and wax very hot in outpouring sneers upon the "arrogant cockneys." But no matter, so long as London outspokenness excites a healthy local controversy.

DR. A. C. MACKENZIE has been requested by the Council of the Senate of Cambridge University to sanction an application by that body for a grace conferring upon him the honorary degree of Doctor in Music. This news will not surprise the public since it was certain to come sooner or later. No English University, having the power to confer musical degrees, could afford long to overlook the claims of a composer so able as Dr. Mackenzie, or those of a Professor whom his colleagues have elevated to the rank of Principal of the Royal Academy of Music. It was natural that the University of St. Andrew's should take the lead in conferring honorary distinction upon a Scottish musician, and it will be equally natural if Oxford should follow the course taken by Cambridge, and thus give to the writer of the "Rose of Sharon" a three-fold dignity. It would be superfluous to insist upon the fact that Dr. Mackenzie deserves all. His eminent ability, the single-mindedness of his public life, and the pure devotion with which he follows his art have long been recognised as worthy of honour. There can be no doubt that the Cambridge Senate will sanction the grace with unanimity, and feel proud to associate the name of Dr. Mackenzie with their ancient University. In conferring this distinction they themselves receive one.

So little is known in this country of the condition of music in Scandinavia that the fact of a musical newspaper being published in Denmark will probably surprise many of our readers. An enterprising publisher, Herr Henrik Hennings of Copenhagen, has just started a weekly journal, under the title of Reform, of which the second number lies before us. It is devoted to the theatre as well as to music. Nearly half the paper is occupied by a long article by Karl Gjellerup, entitled "The one thing needful," which is an earnest appeal for the production of Wagner's later works at Copenhagen. In addition to a considerable number of items of chiefly local interest, the paper also gives an account of a young Danish lady violinist, Fröken Frida Schytte, seventeen years of age, who has been studying under Massart at Paris, and from whom great things are expected. The Reform is excellently printed, and, in the interests of music in the north of Europe, we heartily wish the new comer long life and prosperity.

For the opening of the Shaftesbury Theatre, the play of "As you like it" was selected, and the music chosen, and the manner of its performance, indicated a peculiarity of taste which was neither reverent nor appropriate. The play began with Spoforth's "Hail, smiling morn," and, besides the usual songs by Dr. Arne, there was introduced, without rhyme or reason, one of his glees—"Which is the properest day to drink"—the nearest approach to a composition in the species of the "catch" that could probably be found. Bishop's "Foresters sound," and "What shall he have that killed the deer," the last-named only connected with the plot, were also given in the course of the play. The music, happily enough, was the feature of the performance, therefore the performance itself, considering the character of the music, is not likely to advance Shakespeare in public estimation, for "As you like it" was given in a sort of "go as you please" fashion.

THE Glasgow Exhibition has been a great success. There will be a large surplus of money. It has been proposed to devote that surplus to the advancement of art in Glasgow. This has been interpreted by many to mean the establishment of a picture gallery. Now as the attractive character of the music at the Exhibition has helped to make this surplus, the musicians of Glasgow are naturally anxious that at least a portion should be utilised for the purpose of establishing a Scottish Academy of Music in the City of the West. A little earnest and united effort on the part of those interested in the progress of music will doubtless effect the desired object. Scotland has already shown that painting is not the only art which might with advantage be successfully cultivated on its own ground. Now is the time for music.

BRISTOL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE capital city of the West celebrated its sixth Triennial Musical Festival on the 16th ult. and three following days. For the due success of this event the usual preparations were made on an adequate scale. As from the beginning in 1873, the Committee engaged the services of Sir Charles Hallé and his Manchester orchestra; a local chorus was trained by Mr. D. W. Rootham, and the following solo vocalists were secured:—Mesdames Albani, Anna Williams, Belle Cole, Trebelli, and Patey; Messrs. Lloyd, Banks, Watkin Mills, Worlock, and Santley, all of whom, with the exception of Madame Trebelli, absent through illness, made their appearance. I may say at once that the executive resources of the Festival were quite adequate. Though somewhat too loud in accompaniment, the orchestra did its independent work admirably; and the chorus, if not powerful, claimed credit for refinement, accuracy, and spirit to an unusual extent. Sir Charles Hallé, as Conductor, made few mistakes, while the soloists were heard at their best. So far, all was well. Bristol has never distinguished itself in the matter of new works, and, on this occasion, the Committee resolved to produce none at all. Concerning the wisdom of their course it is hard for a stranger to speak. In order to do so with any pretension to authority, one must have knowledge about the desires and taste of the local public, such as the Committee may be assumed to possess. I do not, therefore, question the managers' decision, however much, personally, I may have wished for the interest of a novelty. That an excellent choice was made from the existing répertoire no one will care to deny. It embraced things familiar and unfamiliar, English and foreign, classical and modern, all in fair proportion, and, generally speaking, with due regard to a representative capacity. Even thus far all was well. Programme and executants stood on an equal footing of suitability to the occasion. Yet, as will appear in due course, the result was not uniformly happy.

The Festival began on Tuesday morning, the 16th ult., with Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and that familiar work, its solos sung by Madame Albani, Miss Williams, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, assisted by Madame Goodwin, Madame Bailey, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Worlock, was rendered in a successful manner. On the orchestra nothing excited disquiet. The soloists were "safe," the band and chorus on sure ground, and only on looking round the auditorium did disheartening symptoms appear. There were vastly more empty places than one cared to see or than one could explain without assuming, against all evidence, that Mendelssohn's masterpiece had suddenly gone down in favour. "Elijah" is looked at on these occasions as a certain attraction, what, then, meant the ugly gaps in the audience? This was the question which many people, anxious for the success of the Festival, put to themselves dubiously. The evening Concert, at which a miscellaneous selection was performed, proved even more disheartening on the score of public patronage. This time there was, in some parts, a truly "beggarly array of empty benches," although the first Act of Gluck's unfamiliar "Iphigenia in Tauris" was performed, although Madame Albani sang, and Sir Charles Hallé's band played orchestral works by Beethoven ("Festival" Overture), Liszt ("Les Préludes"), Dvorák (Two "Legends"), and Mendelssohn ("Ruy Blas"). Onlookers not behind the scenes then began to suspect the existence of some special reason having little to do with the music and its performance. As regards the Concert itself, there is little that need be said. The Gluck selection, though very interesting to musicians, who seldom enjoy an opportunity of hearing the old master's music, appeared to make but little impression upon the audience generally. It was received without a welcome, there being, apparently, no perception of its significance in the development of modern art, and but little appreciation of its manifold, though sedate, not to say severe, beauties. The solos were taken by Madame Albani, Miss Marie Gane, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. W. Thomas, the lion's share falling to the prima donna, who gave the dramatic music of Iphigenia, and sang the beautiful air "O thou, that once my life didst save," in such a manner that her appearance in the part on the stage would be welcomed with unaccustomed anticipation of a special success. Mr. Watkin Mills, as the King of Tauris, seemed ill at ease, and made less effect in "Foreboding fears." The instrumental selections of the evening comprised, besides those already named, Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, played in his usual clear and artistic style by Sir Charles Hallé. Songs were sung by Madame Albani, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Watkin Mills, into the details of which it is quite needless to enter.

The second day's work opened with Cherubini's Mass in C, usually known as No. 4, and Dr. Mackenzie's "Rose of Sharon," then performed in Bristol, if I mistake not, for the first time. Nevertheless, the attendance was again unsatisfactory. Of those that were present it is impossible to speak without admiration of the patient interest they showed in the works set before them. The Mass occupied over an hour, and then, after an interval, came an Oratorio which is itself quite enough; but the Bristol amateurs sat out both, and maintained their attentive attitude to the very last. This says much for their intelligent appreciation of the "Rose of Sharon"; much, also, for the strength of the interest which that work is able to excite. Dr. Mackenzie, as thus represented, certainly won a triumph at Bristol, and may congratulate himself upon a valuable assurance of sustained life for his interesting and beautiful piece. Something of the good fortune enjoyed by the "Rose of Sharon" should be set down to a capital performance, in which all divisions of the executive force gained honour. The excellence of Madame Albani as the Sulamite—she never sang better—of Mr. Lloyd as the Beloved, and of Mr. Santley as Solomon, will be assumed on the strength of previous successes. Enough if I say that they gave unlimited satisfaction. The contralto solos were entrusted to Madame Belle Cole, who was not satisfactory, but may hardly therefore be blamed, since she undertook, at short notice, a task in the first instance assigned to Madame Trebelli. All praise was due to the orchestra, by whom the instrumental movements were given with grace, refinement, and expressive power, but the chorus deserved even more credit, if possible. Better singing of the elaborate choral music I have not heard, setting aside a certain lack of strength. Mr. Rootham's people, in point of fact, established their right, by this performance, to a place among the best choruses in England. Cherubini's Mass, so full of beauty, and so rich in delight to those who hear with cultured ears, went equally well, and excited, as always under such conditions, unrestrained admiration. To sum up, this morning's work was of true Festival rank and character, giving no cause for any feeling save pride and admiration. It should have been witnessed by a crowded audience. By far too many of the local amateurs stayed away in the evening, when it became necessary to make the Hall look respectable by a plentiful scattering of "paper." This was hardly expected, the assumption being that the "Romeo and Juliet" of Berlioz, if only on the strength of his "Faust," which is well known in Bristol, would prove an attraction. But, no; pipe as the Committee would the public declined to dance. Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Watkin Mills took the solos in the French composer's "Dramatic" Symphony, and the chorus again won golden opinions, especially in the dainty music of the earlier sections; but this was pre-eminently an opportunity for Sir Charles Hallé's orchestra, and right good use they made of it, playing throughout with a delicacy, precision, and perfection of ensemble that left very little to desire. It was evident that the orchestra knew the work well, and had performed it many times together. The famous "Love Scene" and the "Queen Mab" Scherzo, even as they most severely tested the players, so did they call forth the greatest admiration. With regard to the work as a whole, it is a question whether the noisy and heavy concluding part does not form an obstacle in the way of public favour, and were I not averse, on principle, to mutilation, I should distinctly recommend that it be omitted in performance. The audience were somewhat apathetic throughout "Romeo and Juliet," their only approach to a demonstration being made after the instrumental numbers above-named. The second part of this Concert was taken up by a miscellaneous selection comprising several for orchestra—the "Euryanthe" Overture, the Ballet music from Gounod's "Polyeucte," which seemed to be much enjoyed, and Wagner's "Homage March." A few operatic airs that need not detain us were also included.

The largest audience of the week gathered on Thursday morning, when Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" and Sullivan's "Golden Legend" were performed. Then, and only then, did Colston Hall put on a really Festival appearance. All its seats were occupied, and the depressing influence of empty places was entirely unfelt. For this the Committee had to thank the "Golden Legend," that unfailing "draw," especially as Mendelssohn's work seemed to attract little attention, and a considerable number of ticket-holders did not care to take their seats till the "Walpurgis Night" was drawing to a close. Nevertheless, Mendelssohn's music was finely performed, Mr. Santley—with whom were Mr. Lloyd and Madame Belle Cole—greatly distinguishing himself as the heathen priest, and singing with a vigour worthy of his best days. The chorus again gave much satisfaction, and the ensemble in "Come with torches" could hardly have been improved upon. I can use terms no less laudatory with reference to the "Golden Legend," which Sir Charles Hallé placed before a Festival public with much success. He had the correct tempi, for one thing, and many of the details upon which the composer insists when himself conducting were treated in Sir Arthur Sullivan's manner. In short, a better performance has rarely been heard. It placed another feather in the cap of the Bristol executive. The solos were in the hands of Madame Albani, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, each of whom, the contralto excepted, rose to the height of previous efforts in the same part; Madame Albani singing, if anything, better than on any former occasion. Madame Belle Cole may be commended for her delivery of "Slowly, slowly up the wall," especially as the hard, unsympathetic timbre of her voice was less conspicuous than usual. As a matter of course, the Bristol chorus won high honours in music which exactly suited its refinement and expressive power.

The attendance fell off again on Thursday evening, when the programme was entirely given up to miscellaneous selections. Songs were sung by Madame Albani, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley; Sir Charles Hallé played a Nocturne and Barcarolle, by Chopin, and the orchestral pieces included the "Pastoral" Symphony, Wagner's "Traume" and "Tannhäuser" March, Smetana's "Lustspiel" Overture, and Dvorák's Suite in D (Op. 39). These things may pass with bare mention, nor need I dwell upon the performance of "The Messiah," which took place on Friday morning, and brought the Festival to an end.

Though musically a success, the Bristol gathering of 1888 was beyond question a failure as regards public support. It is principally for those who are on the spot to find out the reasons and apply a remedy. There are usually wheels within wheels in such cases, and observers at a distance cannot be expected to see everything. But it is not difficult to make out that the Bristol amateurs are sharply divided on the question of bringing Sir Charles Hallé and his orchestra into the city, or of appointing Mr. George Riseley as Conductor, and generally calling upon local resources. About this point party feeling runs high—so high that when, on Thursday morning, Mr. Riseley took his seat at the organ, his friends gave him an "ovation" which utterly dwarfed the greeting bestowed upon anyone else. The quarrel being a domestic one, outsiders should not interfere, but may express a hope that the conflicting parties will first consider the welfare of the art within their city, and, meeting on that common ground, honestly try if they cannot, by mutual concession, arrange all differences. It is important, further, that there should be a new Hall, better adapted for musical purposes than the Colston, and far larger, so that the Committee may be able to lessen the present high charges without diminishing receipts. These matters will have to be considered before the meeting of 1891, otherwise the stability of the institution may greatly be doubted.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

THE Saturday Concerts opened on the 13th ult. with a programme containing two novelties, one from a native and one from a foreign pen. M. Chabrier is little more than a name to most English hearers, but those who have been fortunate enough to hear his opera "Le Roi malgré lui" are enthusiastic in their praises of its extraordinary brilliance and masterly orchestration. The rhapsody "España," now first heard in England, is hardly calculated to sustain this opinion, the themes which the composer has taken to illustrate being singularly devoid of the charm generally associated with Spanish tunes, while their elaboration is not remarkable for anything beyond noise. By his new Ballad-Overture, "The Dowry Dens o' Yarrow," Mr. Hamish MacCunn has undoubtedly enriched the répertoire of native orchestral works. Here is a writer who never hesitates, but plunges straight in medias res; who has got something to say, and when he has said it knows when to leave off. The Overture is full of the fougue de vingt ans, rich in local colour and brilliantly orchestrated, and, admirably performed by Mr. Manns, met with a very hearty reception. Mr. Fritz Hartvigson undertook the solo part in Liszt's Pianoforte Concerto (No. 1 in E flat) with considerable success, besides contributing a "Giga con variazioni," by Raff. Mdlle. Elvira Gambogi sang the "Jewel Song" ("Faust") with considerable neatness, and was heard to advantage in songs by Schumann and G. J. Bennett. Mozart's "Magic Flute" Overture and Beethoven's 1st Symphony were also included in the programme.

The second Concert of the present series happening to fall on the thirty-third anniversary of the first Crystal Palace Concert, Mr. Manns had contributed to the programme book an interesting prefatory note. By way of emphasizing the wonderful growth in the musical requirements of his audience, Mr. Manns gave the programme performed on that historic occasion, adding these significant remarks: "Within the last ten days I have played, by special request, Symphonies by Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, and Schumann, and I have also received a request for all the Symphonies by Beethoven in chronological order. This latter request has, up to date, been only so far complied with that the first five have been performed since last Saturday, but Nos. 6, 7, and 8, and the orchestral movements of No. 9, will be included in the programmes of next week."

Goldmark's Second Symphony, performed for the first time in England at this Concert, undoubtedly possesses the qualities claimed for it by the writer of the analytical notice in the programme book, of "highly coloured orchestration" and freedom from Wagnerian reminiscences. Whether it is equally free from other reminiscences is a very different question. Of ideas there is no lack, but the want of coherence between them gives to the whole the character of an ingenious musical mosaic. The bourgeois character which some fastidious critics professed to discover in Schubert's music is here in full force. Anything more out of keeping with the dignity of a Symphony than the ballad-like Trio of the third movement can with difficulty be imagined. And to make matters worse, the solo, which is written for the trumpet, was on this occasion entrusted to the cornet—an instrument which no player can purge of its ingrained vulgarity. For the rest, we have to notice in this work a predilection for tawdry clashing climaxes and disconcerting modulations. Dignity, repose, distinction are all alike wanting. M. Johannes Wolff, a new comer at these Concerts, fully justified the high anticipations formed of his capacity as a violinist—and this in spite of the rather unsatisfactory nature of the pieces in which he chose to exhibit his powers. M. Godard, known chiefly to English hearers as a writer of many graceful songs, is not heard to advantage in his "Concerto Romantique," a rather tedious production, with the exception of the third movement, a Canzonetta in B flat, a bewitching tune, most daintily harmonised, and played with the utmost charm of tone and expression by M. Wolff. Otherwise the liveliness and gaiety alluded to in the analytical programme seemed to us conspicuous by their absence. M. Wolff played later on two hackneyed show pieces, Vieuxtemps's "Rêverie" and Wieniawski's "Mazurka"—miscalled a polonaise in the programme book. In all these performances the executant displayed great delicacy of perception, richness of tone, and perfect intonation. We sincerely hope to have the chance of hearing M. Wolff again in works better calculated to test his higher qualities.

Madame Valleria, who was in good voice, contributed a graceful but diffuse Aria from Massenet's "Eve" and an exceedingly trivial ditty from "Salvator Rosa" (Gomez). A successful first appearance was made by Mr. Braxton Smith, the fortunate possessor of a most agreeable tenor voice, robust in quality and of sufficient range. In the Italian serenade from Sir Arthur Sullivan's incidental music to "The Merchant of Venice," and in Clay's familiar ballad "I'll sing thee songs of Araby," Mr. Braxton Smith was loudly, and what is more to the point, deservedly applauded. The Concert, which opened with a splendid performance of Weber's "Preciosa" Overture, was also noticeable for fine renderings of the Introduction to the third act of "Tannhäuser," and Sullivan's "Masque" music, already alluded to. In this the comic cadenza for the bassoon was played, with admirable aplomb, by Mr. Wootton.

RUSSIAN NATIONAL OPERA COMPANY.

It is much to be regretted that before Mr. Vladimir Lubimoff brought his Russian Opera Company to this country, or at any rate to the metropolis, he did not ascertain from some trustworthy sources the methods by which the confidence and support of the English public can alone be won. In this place we have only to deal with the appearances of his troupe in London, and it is not too much to say that a more disastrous series of mistakes was never made by the conductor of a serious musical enterprise. It may be that at the outset no theatre was available, but at the worst a more suitable concert-room could have been readily found than the Albert Hall, and it is at least possible that some recitals of the operas in the company's répertoire which have never been performed in London, would have proved acceptable at a time when there was little or nothing to divert attention. Even as it was, a considerable audience assembled to welcome the Russians on Monday, the 8th ult., but the entertainment presented was not calculated to give satisfaction even to those prepared to be easily pleased. A few selections from the works of Glinka were performed, and two orchestral pieces by the same composer were rendered by an indifferent band, and this constituted the Russian element in the programme. A few more items by miscellaneous composers were executed in more or less satisfactory fashion, but the most remarkable feature was the performance of a couple of pianoforte pieces by forty-eight young lady students of the Guildhall School of Music, on twenty-four grand pianofortes. One of the pieces played after this manner was Mr. Willem Coenen's clever "Caprice Concertant," originally written for sixteen hands on eight pianofortes. We believe this curious exhibition was intended to illustrate the method by which Mr. Rubinstein teaches the pianoforte in class at the St. Petersburg conservatorium, but the programme afforded no explanation, and consequently most of those present were completely mystified, as they were otherwise by the omissions, transpositions, and general derangement of the programme. The Concerts were announced to be continued for a week, but we believe they came to a premature conclusion.

The announcement that the company had secured the theatre in Great Queen Street, which had more than once changed its name and is for the future to be known as the Jodrell, was received with general satisfaction. Repeated postponements, however, had to be made, for which no explanation was forthcoming, and it was not until Monday, the 22nd ult., that the opening performance took place. The choice of Rubinstein's opera, "The Demon," for the purpose was very ill-advised. The work was not found to the taste of the public in 1881, when it was produced at Covent Garden with a strong cast, including Madame Albani, Madame Trebelli, and M. Lassalle. The romance of Lermantoff, on which it is founded, is taken in its turn from an old Caucasian legend. The operatic version may be described in a few words. The Demon visits the earth, and, after expressing his determination to work evil on all mankind, falls in love with Tamara, a beautiful Circassian. By his machinations her betrothed, Prince Sinodal, is slain by a band of Tartars, and Tamara retires to a nunnery. Here the Demon pursues her with his unholy passion, and in a state of terror she is about to yield when an angel of light intervenes and she falls dead, the usual apotheosis bringing the opera to a conclusion. It is obvious that this story admits of very poetic treatment, but the librettist has planned it clumsily and the characters are mere shadows entirely without interest. Similarly Rubinstein's music, though full of energy, lacks the true dramatic grip. The composer appears quite incapable of working up to a climax, and the purely lyrical portions of the score are by far the best. We may note the choruses of good and evil spirits in the prologue, treated somewhat in the oratorio style; the national tunes sung by Tamara and her maidens and by Prince Sinodal's followers, some excellent ensemble writing when the news arrives of the Prince's death, and a good deal of the lengthy duet between Tamara and her demon lover. All these portions, however, would be just as effective in a concert-room as in the opera itself, and the want of action makes the entire work heavy and monotonous. The company, which at the Albert Hall was stated to be under the direction of Mr. Alexandroff, and at the theatre under Mr. Vladimir Lubimoff, is an effective force collectively, though individually of course its members cannot compare with the greatest operatic artists of the present day. An exception, however, must be made in favour of Mr. Michael Winogradoff, who impersonated the demoniac hero. This performer has not only a baritone voice of great range and power, but he acts with the utmost intensity, and thoroughly identifies himself with the part. In his hands the Demon becomes a distinct creation, and we feel his malevolence and his unholy passion to be very real. Mdlle. Wieber was in no respect an ideal Tamara, but she sang tolerably well. Mr. Yumaschew (tenor) and Mr. Weissgoff (bass) were also efficient. Unfortunately, Mdlle. Ivanowa, who impersonated the Angel of Light, sang painfully out of tune. The chorus was well up to its work, though the voices are somewhat harsh. This last adjective applies with greater force to the orchestra, and Signor Truffi, who kept his forces well together, should endeavour also to secure more finish and delicacy. During its present engagement we hope to hear the Russian Company in some operas not yet heard in the metropolis.

SAVOY THEATRE.

On the 2nd ult. was produced at this house a new two-act Opera, by Mr. W. S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, entitled "The Yeomen of the Guard; or, the Merryman and his Maid." It was pretty well known before the event that Mr. Gilbert had determined to abandon the inverted method of his previous books and try his hand on the ordinary lines of English opera. Different people may have had varying ideas about the wisdom of this course, but the immediate result was to give the Savoy first night an added interest. Would the new departure succeed? Some answered in one way, some in another, and even the author and composer were anxious, not concerning the merit of their work perhaps, but as to how the public would take it. We may at once state that the public took it very well, charmed with the brightness and point of the dialogue, and the beauty of the lyrics, to many of which a quaint, old English flavour gave a subtle attraction. They were pleased also with an imposing set of the White Tower and adjacent buildings, with the dresses, which might have been made an archæological study of costume in Harry the Eighth's time, with the admirable stage work and the proficiency of the artists engaged. Then the subject of the drama had its points of great interest. An audience can always sympathise with the escape of a gallant prisoner from the attentions of the headsman, and enjoy the complications of a love story, which is certain to end in a matrimonial knot. They could laugh at Mr. George Grossmith as a moralising Fool of the Shakesperian type, and disconsolately in love withal; vastly enjoy the bright intelligence and coquettish ways of Miss Jessie Bond, who marries an "assistant tormenter" to help the man she loves; admire the grace and impulsiveness of Miss Ulmar, the Merryman's Maid, and applaud the honest and warmhearted Beefeater, Mr. Temple. Thus engaged, there was little time and less inclination to look curiously at the plot, which, truth to tell, is not a triumph of device. Mr. Gilbert is not the best conceivable inventor of stories that hang well together, and, in this case, he seems to have taken a leaf or two out of "Maritana," doing it, however, in a very open and straightforward manner. We do not so much object to this—though it may indicate some poverty of imagination—as we do to certain features of constructive arbitrariness, of which a good example is found in the blindfolding of Phæbe when she goes to marry Colonel Fairfax immediately before the hour appointed for his execution. Nearly all the future of the play at this point turns upon the fact that, though married, neither the husband nor the wife knows to whom. The complication is a good one, and fertile of incident, but the source whence it springs—the blindfolding of Phæbe—is purely arbitrary. There is no apparent reason why the girl should not see her husband of an hour, or why he should not look upon her uncovered face. But, when the Savoy curtain is up, who cares about this? Nobody! and the story runs smoothly on amid hearty applause.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's music may be pronounced without reserve the very best he has written in association with Mr. Gilbert. The reason why is not far to seek. In the "topsy-turvy" plays he had very little that was human to deal with. The characters were wildly whimsical creations, masquerading in the dress of common life, whereas the "Yeomen of the Guard" concerns itself with the joys and sorrows, the ups and downs of real men and women, moving amid scenes that shock no sense of probability. One can imagine how greatly the composer enjoyed, and how easily, by comparison, his sympathies were excited and the sources of his inspiration stirred to action. The result even affects the Overture, which, instead of being a pot-pourri, shapes itself in classic form, as becomes the dignity of the story it preludes. Sir Arthur Sullivan found himself called upon for illustrative music of many kinds, from a funeral march to a dance measure, but his work is uniformly happy—happy in its thoroughly appropriate and expressive melody, in the grace, delicacy, and high musical interest of the orchestral accompaniment, and in many examples of the versatility which changes from grave to gay, from lively to severe, with as much ease and naturalness as a child varies its moods, or as an April day alternates clouds and sunshine. Our readers are by this time familiar with the choicest pieces in the new opera—at least by name and repute, and we need not go through them. It is more important to recognise the general characteristics of the work, and, perhaps, to speculate whether we have not here a contribution towards a form of English opera which the public would willingly accept, yet which, nevertheless, would have high artistic merits. Herein lies the significance of the "Yeomen of the Guard" as we see it, and earnestly may music-lovers hope that the author and composer will do yet more to recommend and make authoritative the line they have taken.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE has made many efforts to establish on a firm basis a large choir for festival purposes. Hitherto one of the most considerable drawbacks has been the want of a suitable hall. That desideratum has recently been supplied in Hanley, the metropolis of the group of towns known as the Staffordshire Potteries; the new building, opened in the early days of the past month, will accommodate as many people as the Birmingham Town Hall; it is provided with a fine organ, which was originally built for the Saltaire Exhibition. Of the abundance of local material to form an exceptionally strong choir everybody has long been convinced; within a radius of four miles of the new hall at Hanley there are no less than nine choral societies in existence, at least two of these have a wide reputation, having taken prizes in all parts of the country.

Not without some difficulty could these societies be induced to enter into the scheme of a Festival which was formulated about eighteen months ago; but from the moment they had given in adhesion to the idea, there has been no drawback, no lukewarmness, nothing but commendable enthusiasm. A committee representing these various societies sought a guarantee fund of £250; and double that amount being forthcoming, it was not unnaturally thought that arrangements might be pushed forward. Dr. Swinerton Heap, of Birmingham—who for some years had been the Conductor of the senior Philharmonic Society of the district—was selected to officiate in the same responsible post at the Festival; a chorus-master being found in a local enthusiastic amateur, Mr. F. Mountford. Every member of the choir, 300 strong, underwent a voice and reading test. The Potteries being mid-way between Birmingham and Manchester is in a fortunate position as regards opportunity of collecting a really good orchestra together; all the leaders of Sir Charles Hallé's band were secured, the rank and file being obtained from the Midland capital and elsewhere. The Committee, seeing that the Festival was to some extent experimental, determined that it should not extend over one day. The "Elijah" was fixed upon for the morning Concert, the evening performance being of a miscellaneous character. The principals engaged were Madame Valleria, Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Henschel. Unfortunately a substitute had to be found for Madame Valleria at the last moment owing to serious indisposition. The Festival took place on Thursday, the 11th ult. The attendances were very encouraging, there being over 2,800 persons in the hall at the miscellaneous Concert. A very fine performance of the "Elijah" was given. The choir was well balanced, the voices being fresh and the tone admirable.

In the evening the choir was again heard in Mendelssohn's unfinished Opera of "Loreley," Gade's "Spring's Message," and in the March and Chorus from "Tannhäuser." The only novelty of the Festival was a Concert-Overture by Mr. Algernon Ashton, one of the Professors of the Royal College of Music, which was first publicly performed at Hanley. The Festival was a success, and the Executive Committee have been greatly encouraged thereby. Dr. Heap has undertaken to write a special Cantata for the next Festival, which is to take place two years hence, so as to avoid collision with Birmingham and Chester.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S LECTURE.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN, as President of the Midland Institute, delivered an inaugural address on the 20th ult. Sir Arthur's address, which was devoted to the history and influence of music, more particularly in this country, was listened to with manifest interest and approval by a crowded audience, and there can be no doubt that it will give a great impulse to the movement in favour of State-aided popular musical education, with a view not to performance, but to the proper understanding and appreciation of an art which exercises so great a moral influence upon the people. "Among the many advances of our country in the last half century, none," he said, "has been greater than that of music. Publications and performances are now so extraordinarily multiplied that the masterpieces—not only of the old composers, but of the most modern writers—are brought within the means of every one, more so probably than in any other country, and England has thus so far the chance of again assuming the position that she held many years ago, of being at the head of Europe as a musical country. She was once (as I believe the most Teutonic of German historians now allow) a long way in advance of other nations, yet how little is this known or acknowledged by ourselves. So far back as the year 1230 a piece of music composed by a monk of Reading (John of Fornsetewas his honoured name, and the MS. of his work is at the British Museum) was far in advance, both in tunefulness and expression, of anything else produced at that time. I allude to the celebrated piece in six vocal parts, "Sumer is icumin in," and observe that that pre-eminence implies many years—I might say centuries—of previous study and progress on the part of our countrymen. But we need not trust to implication only. Records exist to prove how diligently and enthusiastically music was pursued in England from the reign of King Alfred to the time of the Reformation. Here are a few facts. In 550 A.D. there was a great gathering and competition of harpists at Conway, —an early Eisteddfod. In 866 King Alfred instituted a professorship of music at Oxford, and there must have been concerted music in those Anglo-Saxon times, for in the British Museum is an old picture of a concert consisting of a six-string harp, a four-string fiddle, a trumpet, and a crooked horn. Curiously enough, this is, with the exception of the horn, exactly the same combination of instruments that we see nearly every Saturday night playing outside a London public-house. I have not noticed whether the background of the picture I allude to represents the corresponding locality of that period. Long before the Conquest three-part harmony was practised, and is spoken of by the chroniclers as the "custom of the country." Thomas à Becket, on his visit to France to negotiate the marriage of Henry II., took with him 250 boys, who sang in harmony of three parts, which is expressly recorded to have been "in the English manner, and till then unheard of in France." It is a satisfaction to know also that in those days musicians were well paid, for at the wedding of Edward I.'s daughter every King's minstrel received 40s., equal at least to £20 in these days. I will not go into the causes which, for nearly 200 years, made us lose that high position, and threw us into the hands of the illustrious foreigners, Handel, Haydn, Spohr, Mendelssohn (so long the favourite composers of the English), and of the Italian Opera, which exclusively occupied the attention of the fashionable classes, and, like a great car of Juggernaut, overrode and crushed all efforts made on behalf of native music. My belief is that this was largely due to the enthusiasm with which commerce was pursued, and to the extraordinary way in which religious and political struggles, and, later still, practical science, have absorbed our energies. We were content to buy our music, while we were making churches, steam-engines, railways, cotton-mills, constitutions, anti-Corn-Law Leagues, and Caucuses. . . . I am not apt to praise the foreigner at the expense of Englishmen, but we have a lesson to learn from both Germans and Frenchmen in this respect. I fear we must admit that even at present, in the mind of a true Briton, business, society, politics, and sport all come before art. Art is very well; we have no objection to pay for it, and to pay well; but we can only enjoy it if it interferes with none of these pet pleasures, and in consequence it has often to suffer." Sir Arthur Sullivan concluded by saying:—"I have endeavoured to show you how England was at one time in the foremost place among musical nations, and I would now only urge you to use all your efforts to restore her to that proud position. The means lie in education. We must be educated to appreciate, and appreciation must come before production. Give us intelligent and educated listeners, and we should produce composers and performers of corresponding worth. We want good listeners rather than indifferent performers, and with this little moral axiom, and with my warm thanks for the great compliment you have paid me in being yourselves such kind and attentive listeners, I will conclude."

MR. F. H. COWEN IN AUSTRALIA.

FROM private letters and public newspapers we learn that the musical mission which Mr. Cowen has undertaken in connection with the Melbourne Exhibition is bearing excellent fruit. The chorus and orchestra consist of 800 performers, and are, under their able Conductor, equal to the most difficult tasks. What is better still, the public seem to take the greatest delight in the best music, classical and modern, and Beethoven's Symphonies, Wagner's "Tannhäuser" and "Rienzi" Overtures, and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodies are among the favourite pieces of the répertoire. The classical and choral Concerts are, indeed, crowded every week, and at the latter the "Song of Thanksgiving," written by Mr. Cowen for the opening of the Exhibition, has already been performed three times, each time with increased favour.

The Daily Telegraph of Melbourne (August 24) speaks of one of the orchestral Concerts in the highest terms. Schubert's "Rosamunde" Overture and the Prelude from "Lohengrin" were given with the highest degree of perfection. The ballet music from "Le Prophète," by Meyerbeer, of whom Wagner said that he was only a "banker, to whom it occurred to write operas," and Gounod's "Marche Cortège," from "La Reine de Saba," were played in dashing and excellent style. The Minuet and finale from Haydn's Symphony in C, No. 7, were given with delightful effect, vigorously and yet tenderly. The sempiternal Gavotte from "Mignon" showed the large band playing with all the delicacy of a soloist. Mr. Cowen conducted with consummate ability, and his powers are every day being recognised not only by the watchful cognoscenti, but also by the increasingly large public, who find that they really like good orchestral music, splendidly given.

As with the Orchestral so with the Choral Concerts. Mr. Cowen has happily hit the taste and fancy of our colonial cousins, and is evidently doing work which cannot fail to have a great artistic influence. The first public grand Choral Concert in the evening drew together an immense audience, a proof that the public fully appreciate the advantage of hearing in its fullest form the large musical organisation of which Mr. Cowen forms the head. Many hundreds of people had to be turned away at the doors for want of room. The programme contained chiefly numbers already heard, and commenced with Mendelssohn's Overture to "Athalie," well played by the orchestra. Mr. Cowen's "Song of Thanksgiving" followed, and both chorus and orchestra seemed inspired by the great audience, and performed with a degree of enthusiastic spirit which merited the highest praise, and indirectly offering the most flattering compliment to the work itself. Every fresh hearing confirms the high opinion already expressed in the Colonies on this piece. The "Centennial Cantata," by Mr. H. J. King, was performed in a manner more advantageous to the work than on the opening day. It is pleasant to state that the repetition of the work proves its value. The chorus singing exhibited excellent vocal material, enhanced by the effect of Mr. Cowen's really masterly training. Mrs. Palmer, Madame Christian, Mr. Armes Beaumont, and Mr. Otto Fischer took the solo parts in Mr. King's Cantata, and showed good acquaintance with their parts and accurate vocal finish. Mr. Cowen directed the large mass of musicians with skilful ease and inspiring sympathy, and Mr. Peake was an efficient organist.

A twofold interest attached to the first performance in Australia of Mr. Cowen's Oratorio "Ruth," on September 6, at the Exhibition. It is a recent work (already given with great success in different parts of the world) of the accomplished Conductor at the Centennial Exhibition, and a highly important contribution to contemporary art, coming from the pen of one of the most distinguished English composers. His Excellency the Governor, Lady Loch, and suite were present, and the hall was crowded by a brilliant and representative audience. The performance began and ended with the National Anthem. The cast of characters was Ruth, Mrs. Palmer; Orpah, Miss Ellen Atkins; Naomi, Madame Christian; Boaz, Mr. Armes Beaumont; a Reaper and an Elder, Mr. F. H. Morton. At the close the Conductor, Mr. Cowen, was made the subject of a most graceful ovation on the part of the ladies of the choir, having hundreds of bouquets and wreaths thrown at him, half filling his box, and he had repeatedly to bow his thanks to the audience, who showed by enthusiastic applause that they endorsed the feeling of other critics in congratulating an eminent composer on a work of the highest merit.

Mr. Cowen also conducted, with great success, a Wagner Concert on September 8, and his choir have shown their high appreciation of his services by presenting him with an illuminated address containing views of the Exhibition and scenes from his Cantata "Sleeping Beauty." It is highly gratifying to find music so honoured in one of its best representatives.

OBITUARY.

JOHN ELLA died on the 2nd ult. He was born December 19, 1802. He was a pupil of Fétis, the historian and theorist, and began his musical career in the orchestra of the opera as a violin and viola player. In 1842 Mr. Ella founded the Musical Union, which he directed with marked success until his retirement, only a few years ago. The famous matinées of the Musical Union made chamber music fashionable in England, and prepared the way for the Monday and Saturday Concerts. At these meetings he first introduced the analytical programme. His title of professor was given in connection with his position as lecturer to the London Institution. Mr. Ella was acquainted with the majority of the great musicians of every nationality from Weber to Wagner, and counted among his acquaintance all the eminent men of a remarkable musical age. In his last days he was both deaf and blind, but neither his cheerful disposition nor his delight in hospitality deserted him. He died of repeated attacks of paralysis, but retained his mental powers almost to the end. He was a member of several learned and musical English and foreign societies, and had collected a valuable library (a large portion of which he presented to the South Kensington Museum) and an almost unique collection of autographs. The funeral took place at Brompton Cemetery on the 5th ult.

On Friday, September 28, at Highnam Court, Gloucestershire, Mr. T. GAMBIER-PARRY died suddenly of heart-disease, from which he was known to be suffering for years past. Mr. Parry, born in 1816, was educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge, was a Justice of the Peace and Deputy-Lieutenant for the County of Gloucester, and in 1850 filled the office of High Sheriff. He was the father of Dr. C. H. H. Parry, the composer. Mr. Parry was well known as a disciple of art, and wrote several books on the subject, his last being called "The Ministry of Art." He was a practical as well as a theoretical artist, and much of the painting in Ely and Gloucester Cathedrals is the work of his hand. Mr. Parry also built, endowed, and beautified by frescoes Highnam Church.

The death is announced of Mr. EDWIN BRAMMER, aged 46. He was at one time Organist at the Parish Church of Great Grimsby. He retired three years ago and went to reside at Diesbar, Elbe, for the benefit of his health; he died there, and was buried at the Südfriedhof, Leipzig, on September 23.

MR. ALOIS BROUSIL died at Glasgow on Friday, the 10th ult., of cancer, after a long and painful illness, at the age of 42. Mr. Brousil was a member of the celebrated Brousil family, and was Conductor at the Aquarium, Scarborough.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE musical season here is in full swing, but thus far it has not been productive of much in the way either of novelty or musical importance. The principal events of the month have been the appearance here of Sir Arthur Sullivan in the novel character of musical lecturer, in his capacity of President of the Midland Institute—the particulars of which will be found in another column—and the first production in Birmingham of Halévy's "La Juive," by the Carl Rosa Opera Company.

The Birmingham and Midland Musical Guild formally opened their season on the 6th ult. with a Lecture by the President (Mr. S. S. Stratton), and a Concert, to which several members contributed. Mr. Stratton's address consisted mainly of an exposition of the work and objects of the Guild, and dealt with the relations between members of the musical profession. In conclusion, the President spoke of the claims of music not only as an art but as a moral influence. The Mayor, who was present, having moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Stratton, an interesting musical performance followed, in which Madame Oscar Pollack and Mr. W. Evans (vocalists), and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. T. M. Abbott, Mr. Griffin, and Mr. J. Owen (instrumentalists) took part. Among the chief features of the Concert were Mendelssohn's D minor Trio, for pianoforte and strings; Mozart's Quartet in G minor, for the same combination; Piatti's Nocturne for violoncello, Raff's Valse Caprice for pianoforte solo, Benedict's Scena from "Cœur de Lion," and Denza's song, with violin obbligato, "Call me back." At the next meeting of the Guild, on the 30th ult., Mr. W. H. Cummings was to deliver a lecture on Nineteenth Century Music, with illustrations, assisted by his son, who has lately returned from the Leipzig Conservatoire.

Messrs. Harrison's opening Concert, on the 16th ult., was of the ordinary miscellaneous type, of which the guiding principle seems to be the creation of opportunities for the largest number of artists. On this occasion the list of executants was a long and imposing one, including, in the vocal department, the names of Madame Alwina Valleria, Mdle. Antoinette Trebelli, Mdle. Marie de Lido, Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mr. Henry Guy, and Mr. Barrington Foote; whilst the instrumental corps comprised two lady violinists, Miss Nettie Carpenter and Miss Geraldine Morgan; one solo violoncellist, M. E. de Munck; a solo pianist, M. Vladimir de Pachmann; and Herr Volkmer, Conductor and accompanist. The audience were very favourably impressed with the voice and execution of Mdle. de Lido, though her singing of the grand Scena "Robert toi que j'aime" was somewhat wanting in dramatic intensity; Madame Valleria, who was in better voice than on the previous occasion, sang Gounod's refined and expressive song "Until the day breaks," with appropriate feeling, and achieved, as usual, an easy popular success in "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "The harp that once thro' Tara's halls"; Mdle. Trebelli's flexible organ and excellent vocal training were displayed to advantage in Rossini's "Bel raggio," and a tuneful ballad "Stars love the night," by Tito Mattei; the fine rich voice, dramatic intelligence, and clear articulation of Madame Sterling produced a great effect in the old Scotch ballad "Up in the morning early"; Mr. Henry Guy was particularly effective in a love song by Löhr and Carey's "Sally in our Alley"; whilst Mr. Foote greatly delighted the audience by his singing of Molloy's "Fame, the Fiddler," and "Father O'Flynn." The instrumental concerted pieces were evidently regarded as mere stop-gaps, consisting as they did of single movements from different works not particularised in the programme. One of them was an Allegro from Haydn's Eighth Trio in E flat, and the other was the Andante and Variations from Mozart's G major Trio. Miss Nettie Carpenter roused the enthusiasm of the audience by her brilliant and spirited rendering of Sarasate's Fantasia on "Faust," and still more by her playing of a piquant and characteristic Mazurka by Zarzyski; M. de Munck's violoncello performance of Dünkler's "Fileuse" was warmly applauded; and M. de Pachmann won golden opinions in the Cavatina from Raff's Suite in D minor and Schumann's "Träumes-wirren" (Op. 12, No. 7).

The first Concert of the Festival Choral Society, which took place on the 18th ult., was devoted to Gounod's "Redemption," a work which has been too often heard since its first production at the Birmingham Festival of 1882 to stand in any need of introduction or commendation. The vocal principals were Madame Dotti, Miss Morley, Mr. Henry Piercy, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Robert Grice. Mr. C. W. Perkins presided at the organ, and Mr. Stockley conducted, and the chorus and band—the latter led by Messrs. T. M. Abbott and F. Ward—numbered some 450 performers. As the interest of the work is primarily choral and orchestral, it is satisfactory to be able to state that it had evidently been subjected to more than usually careful rehearsal, and the band and chorus were able to invest their share of the task with a certain expressiveness and dramatic feeling which is too often wanting in oratorio performance. Among the most effective of the choral numbers were the dramatic “Ha! Thou that dost declare,” “Unfold, ye portals everlasting,” and “The Word is flesh.” The band were equally at home in the “March to Calvary” and the graphic passages descriptive of the earthquake and other portentous phenomena incidental to the Crucifixion. Miss Morley, who possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of excellent quality, impressed the audience favourably in the two trios and the recitative “Why seek ye the living?” Messrs. Piercy and Brereton, as the two Narrators, were duly effective, and sang the Pentecost duet with great sweetness and finish. Mr. Grice, upon whom devolved the utterances of Jesus, though perhaps not in his best voice, was not wanting in dignity or declamatory effect. The Conductor, Mr. Stockley, met with an enthusiastic reception from the chorus, and his efforts were also warmly applauded by the audience.

The first of Madame Agnes Miller's three Chamber Concerts took place at the Masonic Hall on the 25th ult., when the bénéficiaire was assisted by Miss Emily Shinner and Miss Lucy Stone (violins), Miss Cecilia Gates (viola), and Miss Florence Hemmings (violinello). The executants were all in admirable form, and the selection was an attractive one, including Mozart's String Quartet in C major (the last of the six dedicated to Haydn), Mendelssohn's Duo Concertante Variations in D (Op. 17), for pianoforte and violinello, Bach's Double Concerto for two violins, Schumann's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat (Op. 47), and Beethoven's Pianoforte Sonata in F sharp (Op. 78), in which latter work Madame Miller's playing won general admiration. At the second Concert, on the 22nd inst., Beethoven's String Quartet in B flat (Op. 18, No. 6), Schumann's Pianoforte Trio in F major (Op. 80), and Brahms's Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in A will be the leading features of the programme.

The third annual Concert of Mr. and Madame Oscar Pollack is announced for the 20th inst., when Madame Pollack will be assisted in the vocal department by Mr. E. Levetus and Mr. Peacock; whilst the instrumentalists will include Herr Sück (violin), Mr. A. J. Priestley (violinello), Mr. T. E. Pountney (clarinet), and five pianists—viz., Miss Hiley, Miss Hargreave, Dr. C. Swinnerton Heap, Mr. T. Troman, and Mr. Oscar Pollack. Dr. Heap's Sonata for clarinet and pianoforte, Mendelssohn's “Meerestille” Overture and Wedding March, and Schumann's Air with Variations, for four hands on two pianofortes, are among the works announced for performance.

On the 22nd ult. the Carl Rosa Opera Company commenced a six-night season at the Theatre Royal, in the course of which they gave “Robert the Devil,” “Mignon,” “Carmen,” “Marriage of Figaro,” “Bohemian Girl,” and Halevy's “Jewess,” the latter for the first time in Birmingham. The return of Miss Gaylord to the company was warmly appreciated by the lady's many admirers; and the new prima donna, Miss Amanda Fabris, won golden opinions by the charm of her vocalisation, though her stage knowledge is still evidently limited. The production of “The Jewess” fell too late in the month for notice in this letter.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WANTED—a Band. During some time past a number of letters and paragraphs have appeared in the Dublin daily and weekly papers, all directing their fire at the vacant spot that ought to be occupied by the non-existent local band. The want of a really complete and competent orchestral band, says one, is the true and only reason why we have in Dublin no periodical musical festival, such as the musical centres of England can boast of. This is not quite an accurate statement, for the festival towns of England are obliged to supplement their bands on great occasions much as we do in Dublin. The expense of engaging instrumentalists from England to complete the orchestra of the Dublin Musical Society, another article showed, is “the rift within the lute,” which threatens to impose silence on that excellent and useful body, whose admirable performances, for many years, have been nearly all that there is of high-class music in Dublin. This, unhappily, is true. The Dublin Musical Society announced its third Concert for the present year to consist, for monetary reasons, wholly of unaccompanied vocal music. The announcement caused a little panic in our musical circles; but a special meeting of the members and supporters of the Society having guaranteed the necessary funds, the council rescinded the decision and a new programme was issued, embracing Handel's “Samson,” a miscellaneous selection, a full band, and Madame Nordica as principal vocalist. It is understood that Mr. Joseph Robinson intends to resign the bâton, which he has held with distinction for so many years, an event which we all hope may be averted. Concerts or other performances of music have been few since those noticed in your last issue. Mr. Ludwig's Concert of Irish Music, on the 20th ult., attracted a large and enthusiastic audience to the Leinster Hall. The programme was, in truth, an interesting one, including several of the less known and rarely heard songs from the Petrie and Bunting collections of Irish music. Mr. Ludwig deserves well of his country for bringing forward these old ballads, which were almost unknown, even to an Irish audience; as do also the eminent collectors who saved them from oblivion, and Dr. Villiers Stanford and others to whose arrangements they owe no little of their acceptance. I may instance as favourable examples “Ancient Lullaby,” sung by Miss Adelaide Mullen; “The Snowy-breasted Pearl,” sung by Mr. Henry Beaumont; “The Boys of Wexford” and “Lament on the Death of Owen Roe O'Neill,” sung by Mr. Ludwig, who imparted to the latter an amount of pathos as strong as an actual “Keen.” Miss Annie Layton sang some melodies of a more lively description, and Mr. K. Irwin conducted. The party have left for a tour in the United States. Concerts consisting exclusively of Irish music, in which the melancholy element is known to predominate so strongly, will perhaps be trying to our American cousins, but here the enthusiasm never flagged.

Some Church performances deserve to be mentioned. On “Requiem Sunday” (September 30) Cherubini's Requiem Mass in C minor was performed at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, with full orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Brendan Rogers; Haller's Requiem, with accompaniment of four trombones (a strange but effective combination with voices), at Rathgar Church, under Dr. Smith; and the same work, which is a favourite one here, at several City churches.

The Harvest Festival conducted by Mr. Collisson, Mus. B., at Rathfarnham Church, on the 14th ult., included selections from the “Creation,” “Messiah,” and “Athalie.”

The prospective arrangements for the present month are Beethoven's Mass in C, by the Dublin University Choral Society, under the direction of Sir Robert Stewart; Gounod's “Redemption,” by the St. Patrick's Oratorio Society, under Mr. Charles Marchant; Handel's “Samson,” by the Dublin Musical Society, under Mr. Joseph Robinson; the annual Festival of the Irish Society of St. Cecilia (the 22nd inst.); the Chamber Music Recitals at the Royal Dublin Society, for which Signor Papini is engaged; the visit of Mr. Augustus Harris's Italian Opera Company to the Gaiety Theatre, commencing on the 5th inst.; and Mr. Sullivan's Saturday Popular Concerts.

MUSIC IN DRESDEN.

(FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THAT the Saxons are less swayed by mere fashion than the English in their musical and dramatic proclivities, few who are familiar with Dresden will doubt; yet even the Teuton does not always bow down at the shrine of the highest talent, but is sometimes carried away by the “success,” which is said to succeed better than any other quality. The most popular baritone here in operas other than those of Wagner is a somewhat spasmodic singer, with an unmusical voice and method, and a restless dramatic presence, a combination of qualities which drives us for an equivalent to the French word "saccadé." The powerful voice and unflinching spirit of this gentleman are hardly sufficient to account for the lavish esteem in which he is held. A converse case is to be found in Fraulein Dörner, whose high soprano organ, literally unsurpassed on the operatic stage of the day for mellow, sympathetic ring, without a break for two octaves, and apparently trained by skilful professors, is condemned to comparative obscurity; and this, although the strong feeling for statuesque pose, which is now the subject of a special study in Saxony, finds a gifted exponent in Fraulein Dörner, who wants but a more expressive stage face to become an ideal Michaela ("Carmen") or Venus ("Tannhäuser"). The former work has been recently given here in its healthy and original form of an opera comique, with dialogue instead of recitative. The part of Don José was sung and acted to perfection by Herr Anton Erl, though neither Herr Bulss (Toréador) nor Frau Schuch (Carmen) were quite at home in their respective functions.

The Wagner cyclis is now completed, the climax being reached by Fraulein Malten's impressive reading of the part of Brünnhilde. In the part of Hagen, "the villain of the piece," Herr Decarli contributed a picturesque make-up, conscientious attention to by-play, and a rather rasping voice, invaluable for business such as that assigned by Wagner to Siegfried's murderer; but a less desirable organ for the lyric drama in general, resembling in this respect the preternatural thinness of Smeke, which marked him out as a heaven-born representative of that limited modicum of parts of which the apothecary in "Romeo and Juliet" is the type; but the rare aptitude for stage-business which the gifted Dresdener in question has inherited by nature and has ripened by close observation, cannot fail to command the attention of the spectators, irrespective of his singing.

It is to be regretted that so few of the visitors to Dresden, even those who make music their first aim, benefit by the Requiems which are performed on stated days in the Hofkirche. The Sunday Mass is always thronged; but so little publicity is given to the funeral services which occur on week days in honour of great departed kings or Kurfürsts, that the opportunity of hearing fine orchestral and choral music passes unnoticed. October 5 and 29, and one date towards the end of November (the exact day may be ascertained at the sacristy) are anniversaries thus celebrated. On the first-mentioned day the Cherubini Requiem was given. The fourteen-fold repetition in the concluding number of the same phrase of five notes will no doubt be set down by the informed hearer as a tour de force, and not to poverty of melodic invention; but apart from this, it does strike one that all the interest is concentrated on the orchestra. A noteworthy contrast is suggested by the juxtaposition of the Mozart Requiem with that of Cherubini; the former was played within a day or two of the latter as a Sunday service, and the scant respect paid to the clarinet by the great German master was brought into prominence by comparison. The two Requiems and the Beethoven Mass in C were given within eight days (a remarkable instance of activity when it is remembered that the church duty comes in addition to the rehearsal of four operas a week constantly varied). After an interval of twelve years, Marschner's opera "The Vampire" has been revived, and creates much interest among the admirers of "Hans Heiling" and "Der Templer und die Jüdin." Old German opera-goers will remember a lyric setting of the same repulsive subject by Lindpaintner. Marschner's version, which is strongly redolent of Weber, is superior to the latter, but inferior to his other two works above referred to.

A few words may be appended concerning the splendid performance of Gluck's opera "Iphigenia in Aulis," which was given in Dresden on the 20th ult. Not only was the rendering of Gluck's music almost perfect, but the acting of Fraulein Malten and of Herr Scheidemantel was something quite unique on the stage. That acting and singing combined can be brought to such perfection is a thing not to be forgotten by those who were so fortunate as to be present on that occasion. The singing of Herr Reise was very fine, and it is needless to say the orchestra, under the leadership of Herr Schuch, could not be surpassed.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

It was with no small interest that the Edinburgh public looked forward to the fulfilment of the promised week's opera under the management of Mr. Augustus Harris. As reported last month, the programme contained the "Huguenots," which formed one of the most attractive items of the series. Unfortunately, from the very outset, adverse circumstances manifested themselves by the indisposition of Miss McIntyre, who, being of Scottish birth, naturally excited the interest of the public. Signor Ravelli too was unable, through cold, to fulfil his engagements in some of the operas. Thus, in "Don Giovanni," Signor Caprile took the part of Don Ottavio for him. There was, however, much that deserves praise; take, for instance, the fact of Mdle. Ella Russell taking the part of Zerlina on the first night in "Don Giovanni," of Margaret in "Faust" (for Miss McIntyre, unable to appear); further, the part of Susanna in "Le Nozze di Figaro," the title-rôle in "Traviata" (substituted for the "Huguenots"), and, finally, on Saturday, of Astrifammante in the "Flauto Magico," in all of which parts she achieved brilliant successes. Madame Rolla, Mdles. Bauermeister and Des Vignes earned well-deserved applause in their respective parts, Mdle. Bauermeister particularly, as Papagena in the "Flauto Magico"; and the singing of Madame Rolla as Carmen was excellent. This last was the only opera in which Miss McIntyre appeared, her rôle being Michaela. Although still indisposed she consented to sing in that part rather than disappoint the public, and she was very well received. Signor d'Andrade as Figaro in the "Nozze" and as Papagena in the "Flauto Magico," Signor Runcio as Faust, and Signor Ravelli as Tamino gave adequate renderings of their respective parts, the greatest success being achieved by Signor d'Andrade. The choruses were often unsatisfactory, being generally unbalanced, and the orchestra suffered from want of proper rehearsals throughout. The hearty vocalisation of the prompter—forming a kind of eternal canon in unison or in the octave with the respective singers on the stage—might have been spared.

In the Music Hall, George Street, a Concert of great merit was given to a tolerably filled house on the afternoon of Saturday, the 20th ult., in the form of a Pianoforte Recital by Mr. Frederick Lamond. The most important items of the programme were:—Variations and Fugue on a theme of Handel (Op. 24), Brahms; Sonata (Op. 31), No. 3, E flat major, Beethoven; Fantasia "Wanderer" (Op. 15), Schubert; besides these, pieces of Chopin, Liszt, and Rubinstein, with the addition of "Zwei Clavierstücke," by the Concert-giver. This young artist has made wonderful strides since we heard him last, and it was notably in the Brahms and Schubert compositions that he excelled; the rendering of the latter was faultless. It was peculiar to watch the apathy with which the exquisitely intelligent variations of Brahms were received by the public, although both technically and artistically so beautifully presented. Beethoven shared the same fate. This can be understood more easily as it is just this very Sonata that is almost too often pitched upon by our virtuosi, who never seem to have given even a look into the programmes of their confrères who have preceded them. There was a certain lack of tenderness, a certain want of warmth and breadth, which made one think that the performer was, in some way or another, nervous, or not in good disposition for a Beethoven Sonata. However, in the succeeding numbers, and notably in the "Liebestraum," by Liszt, Mr. Lamond became so thoroughly himself, and, as has been said, continued to do wonders in the Schubert Fantasia, and later on in the Valse and Galop (from "Le Bal") by Rubinstein, that one could have wished to hear Beethoven at the end of the programme instead of at the beginning, in which case the whole treatment of the Sonata would, doubtless, have taken a totally different character. That the audience was gradually becoming aware of the merits of Mr. Lamond's playing, was expressed in the hearty applause that was given and that was so well deserved, "crescendo al fine."

Two weeks of Hungarian "Blue Band" music, commencing on the 8th ult., were essayed in Queen Street Hall, under the management of Mr. Johnson, with two performances daily, one at three and the other at eight o'clock. They were fairly successful; less so, however, the second week, on account of the Italian Opera being here at the same time.

An evening Concert of chamber music was given in the Queen Street Hall, on the 23rd ult., by the Fraser Quintet, which consists of five sisters, who, before a fair audience, gave a two hours' enjoyable entertainment. The programme, while containing a good many light items which would not task players of maturer years, included, among other things, a Pianoforte Trio (Mendelssohn), a String Quartet (Haydn), two Violin Solos, "Rêverie" (Vieuxtemps), and "Ungarisch" (Hauser). Miss Mabel Fraser, the leader of the party, and the little Miss Stella, aged 11, distinguished themselves as violinists, whilst Miss Ethel gained much applause as pianist, Miss Violet as vocalist, and Miss Ida as violoncellist.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE certificates awarded to candidates who had passed the local examinations in connection with the Royal Academy of Music were presented on Saturday afternoon, September 29, in the Glasgow Arts Institute, by the Principal, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. Sir John N. Cuthbertson, Chairman of the Glasgow School Board, presided, and after the presentation of the certificates Dr. Mackenzie delivered a short address. These testimonies on the part of the Royal Academy, Dr. Mackenzie said, in effect, were to be considered simply as guarantees of knowledge or proficiency required, and it was chiefly wished that they should be regarded as encouragements and incentives to further study in the art of music. A careful examination of the lists proved that many who failed to pass last year had been easily successful now, and he argued from this that a large proportion of those who found themselves this year unequal to the tests demanded, would find little difficulty in passing on a future occasion if they worked seriously with that end in view. It was also to be noted that while the number of candidates in Glasgow had very considerably increased, the percentage of passes was much higher there than it had ever been before. Dr. Mackenzie's address touched upon other interesting points in connection with these examinations, and with the subject of music generally, and it was highly appreciated by all who had the privilege of hearing it.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé gave a Concert of Chamber Music on the 10th ult., in the Queen's Rooms, in the presence of a numerous audience.

Miss Pauline Hofmann, a native of Glasgow, who has been studying the pianoforte for some years at Berlin and Munich, made her first appearance here in the rôle of solo pianist. The programme of this new and young aspirant for public honours in a walk now so fully occupied, was on the whole both interesting and judicious. It contained Weber's Concerto in C, first movement, as arranged for pianoforte, by Von Bülow, Beethoven's Sonata in C (Op. 53), and some lighter pieces from Chopin, Schubert, and others. The performances showed taste, intelligence, and skill, and generally were of much promise.

We had a week of Italian Opera, 6th to 13th ult., under the management of Mr. Augustus Harris, and with such a measure of response on the part of the Glasgow citizens as is likely to induce an early return by the company.

A lecture was delivered by Mr. W. A. Barrett, in the Glasgow Art Club, on the 15th ult., on the "Comic songs of England," and on the following evening Mr. Barrett, Mr. Augustus Harris, and Lieutenant Dan Godfrey, of H.M. Grenadier Guards, were the special guests of the Glasgow Society of Musicians.

The continued success of the International Exhibition has induced the Executive to keep it open for some weeks beyond the first specified time. The great show closes on the 10th inst., but whether its influence will be found for good or for evil as regards musical art is a question which is exercising the minds of not a few at the present time. Will the Choral Union scheme of Concerts, for instance, be benefited, or will it suffer from the superabundance we have had of very ordinary and commonplace music at the Exhibition? The military instrumental displays have been fairly up to the standard—not a very high one—we associate with such performances, but the Choral Concerts have been, with some exceptions, miserably poor and unrepresentative; and yet bad and good alike have attracted thousands.

The Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. W. T. Hoeck, made a highly creditable appearance at the Exhibition on September 28; the South Side Choral Union, under Mr. J. Bogue, sang there on the 4th ult.; and the Dumbarton Choral Union, Mr. J. Mitchell conducting, on the 11th ult. Among the organists further to be named as having performed on the Exhibition organ are Messrs. J. T. Pye, Henry Bretton, J. K. Strachan, J. E. Senior, Thomas Berry, and J. H. Hinton, of Glasgow; Mr. W. Agate, Paisley; and Mr. R. Machill Garth, Inverkip.

Mr. Frederick Lamond gave a Pianoforte Recital in St. Andrew's Hall on the 25th ult., it being his first appearance here since his début in his native city two years ago. Mr. Lamond's reception was of the most enthusiastic character.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE season's programme is at last beginning to unfold itself, and the burden of work will evidently devolve upon the forces of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society. The first Concert of the Society was held in their hall on the 2nd ult., under the direction of the veteran Conductor, Sir Charles Hallé, who was cordially welcomed on his re-appearance. The work for his band consisted of Mozart's Symphony (No. 5) in D, two light compositions of Dvorák, and two Overtures—Marschner's "Vampire" and Balfe's "Rochelle." The orchestra—with Mr. Willy Hess as the new leader—is almost identical with that of times past, and that to which Liverpool audiences have become accustomed. The performance was fully up to the usual high standard. Schumann's A minor Concerto found Sir Charles at the pianoforte, and his execution was as lucid and incisive as ever. The chorus sang two part-songs, by Benet and Leslie, which, being unaccompanied, served to indicate that the quality promises well for the large choral works which are set down for subsequent performance. The vocalists were Miss Laura Haworth and Mr. Edward Grime, both local artists, who earned very hearty commendation.

The prospective work of the Society includes a performance on the 6th inst. of "Iphigenia in Tauris," by Gluck, with Madame Albani and Messrs. Lloyd, Henschel, and Oswald as principals, and on December 18 "Samson" is to be given, with Mdlle. Trebelli, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. H. Piercy, and Mr. Bridson. For the eighth Concert, on January 22, Mr. Lloyd is again engaged, and Haydn's interesting Symphony "La Reine de France" will then be given. February 5 is to be the red letter day, on which Dr. Mackenzie's Jubilee Cantata, the "Dream of Jubal," composed specially for the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, is to be produced, and this event is being looked forward to with considerable interest. On March 12 Sullivan's "Prodigal Son" will be performed, the artists already engaged including Miss Thudichum, Miss Hilda Wilson, and Mr. Santley. The last Concert of the season will be devoted to Mr. Cowen's oratorio "Ruth," which, as already announced, is to have the benefit of the composer's conductorship, and the vocalists for this occasion comprise Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hope Glenn, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills.

For the remaining Concerts the following artists are already engaged:—Mesdames Néruda, Marian McKenzie, Valleria, Miss Marie Soldat, Miss Fanny Davies, and Herr Max Heinrich; and the pieces announced for performance include Beethoven's Symphonies, Nos. 1 and 7; Berlioz's "Symphonie Fantastique," Purcell's chorus "To the hills and the vales," and excerpts from Cowen's "Sleeping Beauty." Amongst other selections promised for the first time at these Concerts are an Italian Suite, "Roma," by Bizet;

SERENADE.

Words by HELEN MARION BURNSIDE.

Composed by CIRO PINSUTI.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Andantino tranquillo.
sostenuto.

SOPRANO.

ALTO.

TENOR.

BASS.

ACCOMP.
(ad lib.)Andantino tranquillo.pp e sostenuto.

depths . . of the din - gle, Blith - est of . . bird haunts in, bloom - la - den depths of the din - gle, Blith - est of bird haunts in bloom - la - den depths of the din - gle, Blith - est of bird haunts in bloom - la - den depths of the din - gle, Blith - est of bird haunts in bloom - la - den

f con anima.
trees, Oh! to be roam - ing with thee in the gloam - ing,

f con anima.
trees, Oh! to be roam - ing with thee in the gloam - ing,

trees, with thee in the gloam - ing,

trees, with thee in the gloam - ing,

f con anima. mf

mf with thee in the gloam - ing.

mf
with thee in the gloam - ing.

f con anima.
Oh! to be roam - ing with thee in the gloam - ing.

f con anima. p
Oh! to be roam - ing with thee in the gloam - ing. Love lives a f con anima. mf p

Love lives a life - time, love, love,

Love . . . lives . . . a life - - time, love, love,

Love, . . . love, love lives a life - time in life - time in mo - ments like these, love, love, love, . . . love, love lives a life - time in mo-ments like these!

love, . . . love, . . . love lives a life - time in mo-ments like these!

mo-ments like these, love lives a life - time in mo-ments like these!

love, love, love lives a life - time in mo-ments like these!

A night-in-gale sings in the syc - a - more's sha-dow, While ro-ses in

A night - in-gale sings in the syc - amore's sha-dow, While ro - ses in

A night - in-gale sings in the syc - amore's sha-dow, While ro - ses in

A night - in-gale sings in the syc - amore's sha - dow, While ro - ses in rap-ture cling close to the tree, . . . Lone-ly I lin-ger, and, muse . . in the rap - ture cling close to the tree, . . . Lone - ly I lin - ger, and muse in the rap - ture cling close to the tree, . . . Lone - ly I lin - ger, and muse in the rap - ture cling close to the tree, . . . Lone - ly I lin - ger, and muse in the

rit. pp a tempo.

mea-dow, Watch-ing, and wait-ing, and, long-ing for thee, . .

mea-dow, Watch - ing, and wait - ing, and long - ing for thee, . .

mea-dow, Watch - ing, and wait - ing, and long - ing for thee, . .

mea - dow, Watch - ing, and wait - ing, and long - ing for thee, . .

rit. pp a tempo.

mf con espress.

Ze - phyr is sigh - ing, the mo - ments are fly - ing,

mf con espress.

Ze - phyr is sigh - ing, the mo - ments are fly - ing,

mf dolce.

the mo - ments are fly - ing, Ze - phyr is mf dolce.

the mo - ments are fly - ing, Ze - phyr is mf con espress. dolce.

animato.cres.

The mo-ments are fly-ing: Come, O be-lov-ed, and wan-der with me.

lov-ed, Come, come, come, come, Come, O be-lov-ed, and wan-der with me.

lov-ed, and wan-der with me, and wan-der with me!.. and wan-der with me!.. and wan-der with me!.. and wan-der with me!..

REDUCED PRICES.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE
REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY
SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.

THREE SERIES (MUSIC AND WORDS), ONE SHILLING EACH;

Cloth gilt, 2s. Three Series, complete, cloth gilt, 4s.

Words only, each Series, 1½d.; or, complete, 4d.; cloth, 6d.

First Series, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1s.; or, in separate numbers, 1d. each.

SEPARATE NUMBERS, ONE PENNY EACH:—

FIRST SERIES.

- | | | | |
|----------------------------------|---------------------|------------------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. God rest you merry, gentlemen | Traditional. | 11. When I view the Mother | ... J. Barnby. |
| 2. The Manger Throne | Dr. Steggall. | 12. The seven joys of Mary | ... Traditional. |
| 3. A Virgin unspotted | Traditional. | 13. On the Birthday of the Lord... | Dr. Dykes. |
| 4. Come, ye lofty | Sir G. Elvey. | 14. What Child is this? | Old English. |
| 5. Come, tune your heart | ... Sir F. Ouseley. | 15. Glorious, beauteous, golden | Maria Tiddeman. |
| 6. The First Nowell | Traditional. | 16. Waken! Christian children | } S. C. Hamerton. |
| 7. Jesu, hail | J. Stainer. | 17. A Child this day is born | ... } Traditional. |
| 8. Good Christian men | German. | 18. Carol for Christmas Eve | ... Sir F. Ouseley. |
| 9. Sleep, holy Babe | Dr. Dykes. | 19. When Christ was born | ... A. H. Brown. |
| 10. Good King Wenceslas | ... Traditional. | 20. Christmas Morning Hymn | ... J. Barnby. |

SECOND SERIES.

- | | | | |
|------------------------------------|-------------------|-----------------------------------|------------------|
| 21. Carol for Christmas Eve | ... Traditional. | 33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed | } J. Barnby. |
| 22. Jesus in the Manger | H. Smart. | Virgin | |
| 23. The Holly and the Ivy | ... Old French. | 34. Christmas Song | ... Dr. Dykes. |
| 24. The Moon shone bright | ... Traditional. | 35. Jacob's Ladder... | ... Traditional. |
| 25. The Virgin and Child... | ... Dr. Steggall. | 36. The Story of the Shepherd | ... J. Barnby. |
| 26. The Incarnation | Traditional. | 37. The Wassail Song | ... Traditional. |
| 27. Christmas Day... | ... J. Stainer. | 38. In terrâ pax | ... Dr. Dykes. |
| 28. The Cherry Tree Carol | ... Traditional. | 39. Dives and Lazarus | ... Traditional. |
| 29. God's dear Son... | ... Traditional. | 40. From far away... | ... Dr. Dykes. |
| 30. Christmas Hymn | ... Sir J. Goss. | 41. Carol for Christmas Day | ... A. Sullivan. |
| 31. The Babe of Bethlehem | ... Traditional. | 42. The Child Jesus in the Garden | J. Stainer. |
| 32. In Bethlehem, that noble place | Sir F. Ouseley. | | |

THIRD SERIES.

- | | | | |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------|------------------------------------|---------------------|
| 43. What soul-inspiring music | ... Har. by J. S. | 56. Christmas Night | ... A. H. Brown. |
| 44. In the country nigh to Beth- | } G. Hine. | 57. The Christmas Celebration | ... E. Prout. |
| lehem... .. | | 58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day | ... A. H. Brown. |
| 45. We three Kings of Orient are | ... Har. by J. S. | 59. The Holy Well... | ... Har. by J. S. |
| 46. Emmanuel, God with us | ... H. Galsby. | 60. The Angel and the Shepherds | ... E. H. Thorne. |
| 47. New Prince, new pomp | ... Dr. Steggall. | 61. The Coventry Carol | ... Har. by J. S. |
| 48. A Babe is born | ... Har. by J. S. | 62. The Morning Star | ... Dr. Bridge. |
| 49. Come let us all sweet Carols | } F. Champneys. | 63. The Shepherds went their hasty | } J. F. Barnett. |
| sing | | way | |
| 50. Let music break on this blest | } J. B. Calkin. | 64. I saw three ships | ... Har. by J. S. |
| morn | | 65. Mountains bow your heads | ... W. H. Cummings. |
| 51. Carol for New Year's Day | ... A. H. Brown. | 66. Luther's Carol | ... J. Higgs. |
| 52. The Angel Gabriel | ... Har. by J. S. | 67. The Boy's Dream | ... W. H. Monk. |
| 53. The Shepherds amazed | ... A. H. Brown. | 68. Legends of the Infancy | ... Dr. Bridge. |
| 54. Noël! Noël! | ... Har. by J. S. | 69. The Black Decree | ... Traditional. |
| 55. I sing the birth... | ... G. C. Martin. | 70. For Christmas Day | ... Traditional. |

A Selection from the above (24) for Men's Voices, 2s.

Illustrated Edition (First and Second Series), handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding, 7s. 6d.

two Legenden in B flat minor and D major, Dvořák; Ballet music from Henry VIII., Saint-Saëns; "Kaisermarsch," "Träume," and "Walküren-Ritt," Wagner; and the following Overtures—"Ein Traum in der Christnacht," Hiller; "Lustspiel," Smetana; "Nurmahal," Spontini; and "Meistersinger," Wagner.

All this offers sufficient evidence to prove the vigorous existence of the Philharmonic Society, and it is only regrettable that they should now, almost literally, stand alone in the propagation of really high-class music in Liverpool. The Philharmonic Choral Society is defunct, and Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts are suspended. There is, moreover, little or nothing of importance to fill the gaps made by the cessation of these enterprises, and, beyond a probable increase in the number of ballad Concerts, there is small promise of any new venture being started.

A word of praise is, however, due to Mr. Alexander Phipps, a popular local musician, who has announced a series of eight Chamber Concerts, to be given in the Rotunda Lecture Hall. The first of these has already taken place, on the 8th ult., when Mr. Phipps was assisted by Miss Dora Charles (violin) and Mr. F. Weston (violinello), and as vocalists by Miss Adelaide Mullen, Madame Emilie Young, Mr. H. Beaumont, and Mr. J. Sauvage. The programme was well chosen and carefully executed.

Although we have lately had quite a surfeit of light opera, with "Esmeralda," "Falka," "Dorothy," "Olivette," and others, such as "Pepita" and "Manteaux Noirs," announced for early performance, we are still waiting for Mr. Augustus Harris to pay us the promised visit of his Italian Opera Company, which is now expected to take place during the current month.

The plans of the Liverpool Sunday Society are, as yet, in embryo, but it promises at least two interesting items in the Lecture on "Schumann," to be given by Mr. A. E. Rodewald, the energetic and popular Conductor of the People's orchestra, when Mr. Carl Rosa is to take the chair, and Mr. A. E. Isaac's reading of Sophocles' "Antigone," which is announced for the 2nd proximo.

At the second Philharmonic Concert, on the 23rd ult., Madame Néruda (Lady Hallé) received a warm welcome on the occasion of her first appearance here since her marriage with Sir Charles Hallé. The renowned and gifted lady performed Viotti's Concerto for Violin in A minor, and two detached pieces by Wieniawski. The vocalist was Mr. Max Heinrich, the American baritone, whose voice and style created a most favourable impression. The orchestral features of the Concert do not call for special comment, the programme including Beethoven's First Symphony, the Overtures to "Parisina" (Bennett), "Fra Diavolo" (Auber), and the ballet music from Saint-Saëns's opera "King Henry VIII." (first time).

At the Art Club Conversazione, on the 22nd ult., a programme of classical music was performed by Mr. W. Richter (solo pianist), M. Johannes Wolff (violin), Mr. Carl Fuchs (violinello), and Madame Marie Andersen (vocalist). Mr. Raphael Roche was the accompanist.

A special musical service was held in St. Peter's Pro-Cathedral, on Thursday evening, the 18th ult., when Gaul's Cantata "The Holy City," and a new and elaborate "Te Deum," by Mr. F. H. Burstall, the Cathedral Organist, were performed by an augmented choir of eighty voices, conducted by Mr. Burstall, and accompanied by Mr. C. Collins (organ) and Mr. H. Jarvis (harp).

At the usual monthly meeting of the Liverpool Musical Club, on the 20th ult., a paper was read on "Church Music" by Mr. H. S. Garrett, and subsequently an early work by the President of the Club—viz., Mr. F. H. Cowen's Quartet in C minor, for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violinello, was played by Messrs. Argent, H. Lawson, Theo. Lawson, and Ter Porten.

The Societa Armonica, an old established Amateur Orchestral Society, gave its eighty-first "Open Rehearsal" on Saturday evening, the 20th ult., in the Mount Street Institute. The vocalists were Miss Allan and Mr. W. H. Allan, and the orchestral pièce de resistance, Gade's Symphony (No. 3) in A minor.

The eleventh annual distribution of prizes to the successful competitors at the Trinity College Examinations took place on the 20th ult., in St. George's Hall.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MR. DE JONG's friends gathered around him in considerable number on Saturday, the 13th ult., quite ready to resume their pleasant musical evenings, eager to judge the quality of the orchestra collected for the winter, and not without interest in the strong party of soloists assembled to aid in properly inaugurating the season. Mdlle. de Lido and Madame Antoinette Sterling, with Messrs. Henry Guy and Barrington Foote sang their favourite songs, and agreeably diversified a programme enriched by the pianoforte solos of M. de Pachmann. Miss Geraldine Morgan needed only a broader tone to render her excellent execution of Wieniawski's Polonaise in A all that could be desired, while the violinello solos of M. de Munck were admirable examples of cantabile playing and refined phrasing. In several pieces—notably the "Der Freischütz" Overture—the capacity of the band was shown; and there is no doubt that, as the season progresses, the Conductor will so discipline his force as to render the orchestral efforts very enjoyable. For the second Concert Miss Annie Marriott, Madame Patey, Messrs. Sidney Tower and W. Bantock Pierpoint were secured, together with Herr Poznanski, as violinist, and our well-known English violincellist, Mr. E. Howell; but the 27th ult. was too late in the month to allow of our now recording the result of their efforts.

Sir Charles Hallé, in the afternoon of the 22nd ult., by a very interesting Pianoforte Recital, preluded the somewhat miscellaneous arrangements for the season made by the directors of the Gentlemen's Concerts. Orchestral performances (probably five) will be included in the subscription, together with some drawing-room Concerts (for which the room is very suitable), and the afternoon Recitals, which are sure to prove attractive.

Of his own Concerts, Sir Charles Hallé opened the thirty-first season on the 25th ult. Writing before the event, I can only express my conviction that the reception of our popular Conductor will be even warmer and more enthusiastic than usual, inasmuch as Lady Hallé's presence and assistance must very powerfully stimulate the excitement. We are all familiar with her interpretation of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, and can anticipate the grace with which she will render Wieniawski's "Legende" and "Mazurka" in G minor and major. That the vocalist selected for the opening Concert is Miss McIntyre may be taken as surety that she will be well received, and will deserve that reception, on her first appearance here.

At the first of the four Concerts given by the Vocal Society, under Dr. H. Watson, the chief item was Schubert's "Song of Miriam," a work in which the dramatic instinct is more apparent than the smoothness and polish of the vocal writing. Without a band the voices are apt, in places, to stand out somewhat angularly. A very lively and piquant chorus by Lewandowski, "A Chaffer's Wedding," was given for the first time; and several old glees and part-songs enlivened the after part of a popular programme.

It is hoped that Signor Risegari's admirable chamber music gatherings may be resumed this winter. They ought to be included in the scheme of the Concert Hall subscription; but Mr. Max Mayer's promise of the quartet party at his second Concert in January is gratifying, and should prove attractive. On the 18th Mr. Mayer, with the assistance of Mr. Bauerkeller, Mr. Karl Fuchs, and Mr. Spengel, enabled his friends to pass a pleasant evening. Mr. Mayer plays in the incisive and vigorous style of the lamented Mr. E. Hecht—long so popular here—with great firmness and brilliancy. Apparently the tone of the pianoforte was not too sympathetic, although very powerful.

MUSIC IN MONMOUTHSHIRE AND SOUTH WALES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE annual Conference of South Wales Tonic Sol-faists was held on Monday, the 8th ult., at the Vestry of Calvaria Chapel, Aberdare, Mr. W. T. Samuel, Swansea, President of the Society, occupying the chair. The afternoon Conference was held under the presidency of Mr. David Jenkins, M.B., in the Chapel. Mr. D. W. Lewis, Bryn-aman, read in Welsh a paper on "The cultivation of the voice," in which he sought to impress upon teachers of singing the necessity of a careful training of children's voices. Mr. W. T. Samuel having given "Practical illustrations of the Registers," Mr. Bonner gave a model lesson to a class of children on "Devices of teaching." In the evening, a miscellaneous programme, illustrative of the system, was gone through, Mr. Jenkin Howell presiding.

At the meeting, on the 8th ult., of the Abergavenny Choral Society, Mr. J. B. Walford presiding, it was decided to continue the work of the Society for another season. Mr. G. F. Howells was elected Conductor.

The Temperance Hall, Merthyr, which has been enlarged and renovated, was recently re-opened, and on Thursday, the 11th ult., an excellent Concert and entertainment was given by the pupils of the Higher Grade school, conducted by Mrs. Rogers, and assisted by the Merthyr Orchestral String Band and Miss P. Jones. A second Concert was given on the following evening.

Madame Patti-Nicolini gave a Concert at Swansea on the 11th ult., in aid of the local Hospital Fund, this being the fourth time she has rendered similar charitable service. The audience consisted of over 2,000 persons, and it is understood the net results will be nearly £1,000. The "Queen of Song" was accorded an enthusiastic welcome, and her singing was rapturously applauded. She was accompanied to the stage by Mr. Dillwyn, M.P. The programme was supported by Signor Nicolini, Signor Tito Mattei, Mr. W. Ganz, Signor Bonetti, Miss Georgina Ganz, Fräulein Kitty Berger, and Mr. Augustus Spalding (recitation).

The annual Concert of the Tredegar Choral Union, on the 18th ult., presented features of considerable interest, the programme comprising, in the first part, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," and in the second a varied selection of vocal and instrumental items. The artists engaged were Miss Julia Jones and Mr. Maldwyn Humphries. Mr. E. T. Roberts (Cardiff) conducted the band, and the choir was led by Mr. J. J. David.

A Concert, held at the Town Hall, Bridgend, on Tuesday evening, the 16th ult., was attended by H.R.H. Princess Mary, Duchess of Teck, H.S.H. the Duke of Teck, and the Earl and Countess of Dunraven. The royal party met with an ovation on entering the hall. The vocalists included Madame Williams-Penn, Pontypridd; Mr. Tom Williams, Pontypridd. The general arrangements were in the hands of the Rev. F. W. Edmonds, rector.

Dr. Joseph Parry, lecturer in music at the University College, Cardiff, has opened his classes.

An effort is being made with a view to hold the Eisteddfod of 1891 at Swansea.

MUSIC IN THE WEST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At Salisbury the musical season was opened by Mr. Augustus Aylward, who gave two grand Concerts at the Assembly Rooms, on the 12th ult. The performers were Miss Blanche Powell, Miss Helen Saunders, Mr. William Foxon, Mr. Richard Green, and Miss Selina Cocks (solo violin), all Silver Medalists from the Royal Academy of Music. The orchestra, which was the best and most complete that has been heard in the city for some time, performed in excellent style Beethoven's Overture to "Egmont," Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony, Mendelssohn's Wedding March, Suppé's Overture, "Banditenstreich," &c. The vocalists met with a most flattering reception, being recalled after nearly every song. Miss Cocks (pupil of Mr. Sainton) received a similar compliment for her clever and brilliant performance of De Beriot's "Andante and Rondo Russe," and Sainton's "Fantaisie Ecossaise." Mr. Augustus Aylward conducted.

We are happy to be able to announce a much more hopeful aspect of affairs regarding the Monday Popular Concerts in Bristol. Last month we were lamenting over the barren prospect that seemed to stretch itself before our disappointed view; this month we are rejoicing in the promise, so to speak, of both seed-time and harvest.

We understand that a deputation of influential gentlemen lately called upon Mr. George Riseley, who, at the Musical Soirée given by the Mayor of Bristol, in the Colston Hall, on the 11th of last June, offered his services as honorary conductor to the Monday Popular Concerts Society for three years, in order to urge him to fulfil his promise, even though the Society should not exist in the same form as before. The scheme proposed is as follows: That Mr. Riseley shall act entirely on his own responsibility in the revival of the meetings, relying upon sufficient pecuniary support being accorded to him by his fellow citizens, but that those who are interested in the movement shall be invited to contribute sums of half-a-guinea and upwards towards a fund of £1,000, to be used as necessity shall arise, for the continuance of the Concerts, should they fail to pay their way during the next three years, at the end of which time it is hoped that they may be able to stand firmly on their own ground. That there shall be a series of Orchestral Concerts, for the rendering of both classical and popular works, and also for those (by no means few in number) which come under both heads; and for the performance, at least once in the season, of a choral work of prominent merit and interest, to be selected from the writings of English composers. That novelties shall be included in the programmes in judicious moderation, and that from time to time leading musicians among our countrymen shall be invited to write a work expressly for these Concerts. That solo vocalists shall be engaged at each Concert, amongst whom will be numbered, as often as may be found practicable, those of undoubted eminence. It goes without saying that local forces will be utilised as much as possible for the orchestral part of the scheme, and perhaps, in years to come, with the increased facilities for training and development, the band, like the chorus, may be entirely drawn from our own city. It is also thought well to alter the prices of the tickets, and to have a number of shilling seats, which was the arrangement when the Concerts were first started, but was abolished in later years. It need only be added that the musical arrangements will be in the competent hands of Mr. Riseley, where we may safely leave them, though, with his willing assent to the whole plan, he kindly states his readiness to consult his supporters in the choice of works to be performed, and in any alterations which, as time goes on, may be desirable.

The first of Miss Lock's Concerts for the present season was given in the Victoria Rooms, Clifton, on the 23rd ult., before a numerous and appreciative audience. The executants were, as usual, Mr. Henry Hudson (violin), Mr. Gardner (viola), Mr. Pavey (violinello), and Miss Mary Lock (pianoforte). The programme opened with Mozart's melodious Quartet in A major, for pianoforte and strings; Chopin's Polonaise in C, for pianoforte and violinello; a pleasing and fanciful Romance of Svendsen's for violin, as well as Miss Lock's choice of three well-known numbers of Grieg's Albumblätter (Op. 28) gave great pleasure to the audience; but the chief interest was centred on the last item, which was a Trio for pianoforte, violin, and violinello, by Mlle. Cécile Chaminade, and for which the performers had evidently reserved their best efforts, with the result of an excellent and spirited rendering. We feel that this youthful writer has sent us a work bearing upon it the mark of genius, and we shall look forward with pleasure to hearing more compositions from the same pen. Mr. Frank May was the vocalist, and contributed three songs in a popular style, in which he was ably accompanied by Mr. Fulford.

On the 24th ult. the annual presentation of certificates in connection with the South Midland Section of the National Society of Professional Musicians took place at the Blind Asylum Lecture Hall, Bristol. The Mayor presided, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, principal of the Royal Academy of Music, distributed the prizes. Dr. Mackenzie said his first duty was to thank them for the manner in which they had received him, and for the words the Mayor had used towards him. That was by no means the first occasion on which he had assisted at a distribution of certificates given by the Society of Professional Musicians. At Manchester and Liverpool, a year or two ago, he had the opportunity of meeting many of its most active members, and of making personal acquaintance with the scope and inner working of the Association; and he was particularly happy when he congratulated that Society upon the result of its work in connection with these examinations. The field of work was large enough to admit of, nay, even to demand, the combined exertions of many. It was by concerted action and mutual goodwill only that they might hope to increase the quantity and improve the quality of the "blades of grass" in the field of music in Great Britain. The members of the Society and their friends dined in the evening at the Imperial Hotel, White Ladies Road.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, October 8.

THE thirty-first annual Festival of the Worcester County (Massachusetts) Musical Association took place on September 25, 26, 27, and 28. The Conductor was Carl Zerrahn, of Boston, who has been at the head of these Worcester County gatherings for twenty-two years; the chorus numbered nearly 500 voices, two-thirds from Worcester and the remainder from towns and villages in the vicinity. Boston sent the orchestra, which was an exceedingly capable one, composed for the greater part of members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which, under the direction of Wilhelm Gericke and the financial support of Mr. Higginson, has been brought to a degree of perfection that entitles it to be called one of the few really great orchestras in the world. There was a small multitude of solo singers, the principal ones being Madame Giulia Valda, Miss Emma Juch, Miss Hope Glenn, Max Alvary, Myrom W. Whitney, and D. M. Babcock. These singers were relied on for the more serious portion of the festival work, but none of them caused so much enthusiasm as Miss Marie Howe, the young soprano of Brattleboro', Vermont, whose exploits during a recent brief engagement at Kroll's Theatre in Berlin were much discussed in the music journals at the time. Miss Howe is a singer of the florid type, with one of those fresh flexible and high soprano voices which the United States seem to supply in greatest abundance of late years. She has talent of the most pronounced order within a narrow field, but her vocalisation is not finished, and all discriminating lovers of the old bel canto who heard her were glad to hear that her recent public performances were only in the nature of a temporary artistic outing, and that she is soon to return to her studies in Europe.

The popular interest called out by the festival was most astounding. On the 24th there were three rehearsals, and on each of the four festival days one rehearsal in the forenoon. To these rehearsals the public were admitted by ticket as if they were concerts. Adding them to the eight regular afternoon and evening Concerts it will be seen that the week offered fifteen entertainments. The large Mechanics' Hall was crowded at each of the Concerts and nearly every chair was occupied at the rehearsals. The total attendance was certainly not far short of 23,000, and, as has been the case for several years past, the proceeds were so large as to leave a handsome surplus in the hands of the Governing Board of the Society. The miscellaneous character of the Worcester Festivals has been commented on adversely for several years by the serious-minded music reviewers of the New York and Boston newspapers, but without effecting a change for the better. This year the criticisms were both more general and more outspoken, with the result that a local controversy was provoked from which reforms are to be hoped in the future. The grounds of one complaint will be apparent without argument to transatlantic readers when they are told that of the five works in the programme which employed the chorus two were "The Messiah" and Verdi's "Manzoni Requiem," both of which had been given three times previously within a comparatively recent period. Of the compositions newly studied for the occasion, one was Rossini's "Moses in Egypt," the second, Beethoven's "Praise of Music," and the third, Saint-Saëns's setting of Psalm xix., "The heavens declare." The last work was the most successful of the list in respect both of performance and public appreciation. It had never before been performed in this country, and the cognoscenti were delighted with its happy union of the old and the new, both in thought and manner. It inspired the chorus, solo singers, and instrumentalists to put forth their best efforts, and the forty-five minutes devoted to it were the most refreshing in the week of music. Why Rossini's old opera was revived it was impossible to explain, the more since the version used was that made nearly fifty years ago for the Boston Handel and Haydn Society, and had lain unused in the library of that venerable Society for exactly twenty years. This version, unlike that prepared by Mr. Arthur Matthison for the Sacred Harmonic Society, of London, thirteen or fourteen years ago, is based on Rossini's original score—that is to say, on the "Mosè in Egitto" of 1818 instead of the French "Moïse" of 1827. This latter version is much stronger in choral and ensemble numbers than the Italian score, Rossini having attempted to increase its dramatic forcefulness in deference to the taste of the Parisians formed by Gluck. It was only too evident, however, that no effort and no version can reconcile the taste and conviction of to-day with such a strange union of solemn thoughts and light-hearted melodies as the Italian master effected in this work.

The Worcester County Association was the first to introduce Robert Franz's edition of "The Messiah" in the States, although portions of it had previously been heard in Boston at Concerts of the Handel and Haydn Society, that Society having been largely instrumental in inducing Herr Franz to undertake his work of revising the score, and completing the accompaniments. Three years ago at the Worcester Festival the new score, which had just been tested at the Birmingham Festival, was used and followed implicitly, down to the assignment of the "divisions" in "He shall purify," "For unto us," and "His yoke is easy" to the solo quartet, and treating "He shall feed His flock" and "Come unto Him" as a soprano solo, keeping it all in the key of B flat. This year the first chorus was entirely omitted, the air being divided, as is usual, between contralto and soprano, and the quartet utilised only in the "For unto us" of the chorus numbers.

Only one Symphony was included in the programmes—namely, Spohr's "Consecration of Tones." Other numbers worthy of mention were two excerpts (the love duo and finale) from Cornelius's Opera "The Barber of Bagdad," Schubert's 23rd Psalm, for female voices (with orchestral accompaniment, the parts lent by Mr. Theodore Thomas, in place of the original accompaniment for pianoforte), two dainty French songs by A. Goring Thomas ("Midi au Village," and "Ma voisine," composed for and sung by Miss Marguerite Hall), Saint-Saëns's "Phaeton," and a Suite for grand orchestra, entitled "Italia," by Arthur Wild, a young Boston musician, recently returned from studies at Munich, and three or four standard Overtures.

The directors of the Cincinnati Festival Association announce the ninth Biennial Festival to be held in that city in May, 1890, with Mr. Theodore Thomas as Conductor. The principal choral works will be Berlioz's "Te Deum," Dvorák's "Stabat Mater," and Verdi's "Requiem."

HANDEL's rarely-heard Oratorio "Belshazzar" was performed in a highly commendable manner at the Assembly Hall, Mile End, on the 6th ult., by the orchestra and chorus of the Musical Association connected with the building. The prices of admission were such as the humblest amusement seeker could afford to pay, and the large building was not only crammed, but the packed audience listened with the most earnest attention to the music, affording in this respect an example to more fashionable gatherings at St. James's Hall. As the loudest applause of the evening was bestowed on the Symphony which follows the summoning of the wise men of Babylon, there seems little reason to doubt that the lighter symphonies of Haydn and Mozart would be welcomed by many to whom they are now as a sealed book, and who have to be content with the vulgar jingle provided for them in so-called music halls. The solos in "Belshazzar" received ample justice from Miss Marianne Fenna, Miss Helen d'Alton, Mr. John Probert, Mr. Charles H. Victor, and Mr. W. H. Brereton, and the Conductor, Mr. G. Day Winter, deserves great credit for the efficiency of the choir and band.

THE members of the St. George's Glee Union gave their 236th Consecutive Monthly Concert, in the Pimlico Rooms, Warwick Street, S.W., on the 5th ult., under the direction of Mr. Joseph Monday. The soloists were Madame Berta Foresta, Miss Louise Augarde, Miss Annie Wilson, Mr. Jules Bellingham, Mr. Percy Palmer, and Mr. Thurley Beale, whose rendering of a good selection of songs was highly appreciated. Mr. W. W. Harrison played two oboe solos very finely, and Miss Follitt contributed two pianoforte pieces. The chorus singing was very good throughout, and comprised the following part-songs: "The welcome home" (Haking), "O hush thee, my babe" (Sullivan), "The lass of Richmond Hill" (Leslie), "My true love hath my heart" (Smart), "You stole my love" (Macfarren), "Come, live with me" (Bennett), "The bells of St. Michael's tower" (Stewart), and "The Carnovale" (Rossini). Mr. F. R. Kinkee presided at the pianoforte.

On the 13th and 14th ult. the Harvest Festival Services were celebrated at West Hackney Parish Church. On the 13th ult., at a special Evensong, there was a full orchestra and an augmented choir of about 180 voices. These special evensongs, at which the works of some of the greatest composers of sacred music are given, have become an institution at West Hackney, which is highly appreciated. The Opening Voluntary was Handel's "Occasional" Overture, played by orchestra and organ. The service commenced with Processional Hymns, followed by a shortened form of service. Dr. H. W. Little's Magnificat was given for the first time with full orchestra. The Anthem was Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," played right through. The orchestra was led by Mr. Baynton, and the choruses were given with much precision and accuracy. Mr. F. L. Kett conducted, and Mr. Gibbons presided at the organ.

At the Examinations for Degrees in Music, held at Oxford on the 13th ult., the following satisfied the Examiners:—For the Degree of Mus. Doc.—A. King, Exeter College and Brighton. For the Degree of Mus. Bac.—A. S. Dale, Brasenose College and Rochester; C. E. Jolley, New College and Twickenham; D. E. L. Lillingston, B.A., Hertford College; D. D. Martyn, Keble College and Sladesbridge; H. E. Nichol, New College and Hull; A. M. Richardson, Keble College; W. E. Stevenson, New College and Croydon; E. T. Sweeting, New College and Fleetwood; W. E. Thomas, St. Edmund Hall and Bloxham. Examiners—Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley, Bart., D.Mus., M.A., Christ Church, Prof. Mus.; C. Hubert H. Parry, D.Mus., M.A., Exeter College, Chorus; J. F. Bridge, D.Mus., Queen's College.

In the March number of THE MUSICAL TIMES a long account of the correspondence of Wagner and Liszt, as published in the original tongue by Breitkopf and Härtel, was given. Shortly after the letters were translated by Mr. F. Hueffer and issued in two volumes by Messrs. H. Grevel and Co., of Covent Garden, so that English readers were placed in a position to become acquainted with the correspondence. The translations have made an agreeable addition to the musical library, and are highly valued as exhibiting in the most interesting way the natural characteristics of the two great men. When a new edition is called for it will be probably furnished with an index, which will greatly enhance the value of the book. Without it there is a difficulty in finding all the treasures that are contained within the pages.

THE first Concert of the season at the Princes' Hall was given, on the 8th ult., by Madame de Llana, a pianist of whose antecedents we are entirely ignorant. Her programme took the form of a Chamber Concert, the concerted works being Mendelssohn's Quartet in B minor (Op. 3) and Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata for pianoforte and violin, in the execution of which Madame de Llana was assisted by Messrs. Otto Bernhardt, W. H. Hann, and H. A. Brousil. Her solos included minor compositions by Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, and composers of lesser note, which she played in a fairly commendable manner, though neither in style nor technique did she display more than average ability. The vocalist was Mr. Iver McKay, whose songs were scarcely suitable to a high class Concert.

ON the evening of Saturday, the 20th ult., the first Bohemian "Ladies' Night" of the Epping Forest Musical Society took place in the handsome pavilion attached to the Royal Forest Hotel, Chingford. Major Alexander Gordon occupied the chair and Mr. Walter Latter, R.A.M., directed the music. Several local amateurs were supported by Messrs. Edward Dalzell, Alfred Moore, and T. E. Gatehouse (solo violin). The singing of the professional vocalists was of a high order, and the début of Miss Edith Doughty, a young violinist of fourteen summers, who played with Mr. Gatehouse Ersfeld's beautiful violin duet "Schlummerlied," was a marked success. Mrs. Elvin, a clever amateur pianist, and Mr. Latter shared the duties of accompanist, the Concert being much appreciated.

HARVEST Thanksgiving services were held at Holy Trinity Church, Little Queen Street, Holborn, on Friday evening, the 19th, and Sunday, the 21st ult. At the Friday evening service Garrett's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D were sung, and the Anthem was Stainer's "Ye shall dwell in the land." On Sunday morning the Te Deum and Jubilate were sung to Boyce in A, the Kyrie and Gloria being Garrett in D, and the Anthem was Barnby's "O Lord, how manifold." In the evening the same service and anthem were used as on Friday. The Choir was under the Conductorship of Mr. J. H. McGuire, the Choirmaster; and Miss Cope, the Organist of the Church, presided at the organ. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

THE regret that the operations of the Sacred Harmonic Society should not have met with all the support expected during the period of its reconstruction, is softened by the belief that the Society's work will not entirely cease. It rests with the shareholders to determine whether fewer Concerts during the season shall be given, or the whole thing be allowed to collapse. The change of the night of meeting was inconvenient to many of the old subscribers, and resulted in a heavy financial loss during the last season, so that the council have not felt themselves justified in making engagements for the coming months. Still, though it is not positively stated, there is a hope that the Society's name may be kept before the public, even if the Concerts to be given are reduced in number.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Peter's Church, Dulwich, took place on the 14th ult. The musical portion consisted of the following—Morning: Te Deum in F (Smart); Jubilate (Nares in F); Kyrie and Glorias, composed specially for this service by the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. A. F. Grainger; Anthem, "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer), solo by Mr. L. J. Langmead. In the Evening, "Cantate and Deus misereatur" (Bunnett in F); and Anthem, "Praise the Lord" (Hall), were given. At the conclusion of the service, the Hallelujah Chorus (Handel) was sung, followed by an Organ Recital by Mr. Bruce H. Steane, which included his own "March Jubilant," Moderato in F (Gade), and Cantilène Pastoral (Guilmant).

WE are informed that the arrangements of the Musical Association, which this month enters upon its fifteenth year of existence, include papers on various subjects by Messrs. Ridley Prentice, E. H. Turpin, Frederick Corder, Edgar F. Jacques, Arthur Hill, and D. J. Blaikley, while negotiations are pending with other gentlemen. The new session promises to fully equal any of its predecessors in interest and usefulness, although a perusal of past work would show this to be no easy task. The path of the Association is one untrodden by any other musical body, for its raison d'être is not in giving Concerts or in educating talent, but in investigating all subjects connected with music, especially those which in any way offer novel points for consideration.

THE customary Harvest Festival was celebrated at Beckenham Congregational Church on Sunday, September 30. The services, under the direction of the Organist, Mr. Edward A. Coombs, were fully choral, that in the morning being sung to Smart in F, with Barnby's "O Lord, how manifold," for the Anthem. The evening service was divided into two portions, the latter consisting entirely of musical numbers, vocal and instrumental. The ordinary Anthem was "While the earth remaineth," by Berthold Tours; the special Anthems were "Comfort ye" and the following two numbers from "The Messiah"; also a new setting of the hymn "Abide with me" as an Anthem, by Joseph Barnby. The organ solos were by Berthold Tours, Mendelssohn, and Sterndale Bennett.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO. have just issued a new Octavo Edition of Handel's "Joshua," edited by Mr. E. Prout, who has also written some additional orchestral accompaniments. The Oratorio contains some of the finest of the composer's choruses—"Ye sons of Israel," "To long posterity," "The Lord commands, and Joshua leads," "Glory to God," "We with redoubled rage return," and others, each of which possesses all the fascinations of thoroughly Handelian compositions of the kind which make them so attractive to choral societies. There are some beautiful solos, though many which were "old-fashioned" have been wisely omitted in the present edition, to make it suitable for performance, and there is no doubt that the publication will promote a revival of the Oratorio.

THE Harvest Festival at Christ Church, Woburn Square, W.C., took place on Thursday, the 18th ult., when the church was beautifully decorated. The choir, which was largely augmented, was conducted by Dr. Bridge, the Organist of Westminster Abbey. The music performed on this occasion was a fine Festival Service in G, by Dr. Bridge, the "Hallelujah Chorus," and a Motett, composed for the service, entitled "The Harvest of the Future," by Mr. Frank T. Lowden, the Organist and Choirmaster of Christ Church, which went well under the able guidance of Dr. Bridge. The treble solos were taken by two boys from the Abbey, the tenor by Mr. Ernest Smith, and the bass by Mr. H. Horscroft.

A CONCERT was given, on the 20th ult., to the guardians and inmates of the Islington Workhouse by Major Hale's choir of boys and girls, assisted by Miss Rosa Lonsdale, Mr. C. Odell, Mr. H. J. Dean (solo violin), Mr. W. H. Haynes (solo oboe), and Mr. B. B. Barrett (solo pianoforte). The choir sang some of Mr. Crowe's vocal waltzes, and part-songs by Mendelssohn and Kellner, in a very creditable manner, and a couple of duets by two of the children—viz., Miss and Master Maidment, were particularly well rendered. A special feature of the evening was the solo singing of Miss Rosa Lonsdale, who possesses a very clear and musical soprano voice and has evidently been well trained. Mr. B. B. Barrett conducted.

THE inaugural Concert in connection with the Wood Green Nightingales' Smoking Concerts was held at the Masonic Hall, Wood Green, on Thursday evening, the 4th ult. The programme included Servais's "Souvenir de Spa," solo for violoncello, admirably played by Mr. E. Woolhouse, and Mendelssohn's Variations Concertantes (Op. 17), duet for violoncello and pianoforte, by Messrs. E. Woolhouse and A. J. Hadrill; Benedict's "Rage, thou angry storm," and Gounod's "Vulcan's Song" being well sung by Mr. Walter Sycklemore. Recitations were given with much effect by Mr. E. L. Ebsworth, and the selection of glees rendered during the evening by the Unity Quartet was received with considerable applause.

SPECIAL Harvest Services were held in the Barbican Congregational Church, New North Road, N., on Sunday, September 30, when appropriate anthems by Barnby, Sydenham, and Wareing were sung. On the Monday following (the 1st ult.) a Concert of Sacred Music was given. The programme included a Cantata by Pattison, entitled "A Day with our Lord," and choruses and solos from the works of Handel and Haydn. The performers were Miss Crome, Mr. Alfred Probert, and Mr. Newbery. The accompaniments were played by Mr. T. Cowtan Edwards. The choir acquitted themselves very creditably. The Conductor was Mr. George H. Male, Organist of the church.

On the 11th ult., at Holy Trinity Church, Upper Tooting, Mendelssohn's "Come, let us sing," was sung by the united choirs of St. Leonard's Church, Streatham, and Holy Trinity Church, Upper Tooting, with an orchestra. Masters Steward and Simson were the treble soli (duet), the former taking the opening chorus, "Come, let us sing," and Mr. E. Bryant, the tenor. Mr. Charles T. Corne (Organist of St. Leonard's Church, Streatham) presided at the organ, Mr. Arnold Russell at the pianoforte, whilst Mr.

Henry Morley was first violin, and Mr. Alfred Physick (the Organist of the Church) conducted. The Magnificat was sung to Gadsby in C.

THE Harvest Festival was celebrated at St. Philip's, North Camberwell, on the 11th ult. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis was Eaton Fanning in C, and the Anthem "Sing praises to God" (Wareing). Beethoven's Hallelujah Chorus ("Mount of Olives") was also sung after the Blessing. Mr. Ernest F. P. Carrick, Organist and Choirmaster, St. Peter's, Walworth, presided at the organ, and Mr. Chas. O. M. Philips, Organist of St. Philip's, conducted. At the conclusion of the service an Organ Recital, including the "Storm" (Lemmings) and Postlude in D (Smart), was given by Mr. Carrick. The festival services were repeated on Sunday evening, the 14th ult.

THE excellent series of articles in Murray's Magazine, by Miss A. M. Wakefield, on the "Foundation Stones of English Music," which has already included essays on Church Music and Musicians, Madrigal Time, Henry Purcell, and National Melodies, deals in the October number with Music Competitions. While pointing out many things to be avoided, Miss Wakefield holds that the popular taste for music exists and deserves our heartiest support. "If there was no musical movement among our people, it might be another matter; but as there is, let us leave no stone unturned to elevate it." For the November number, an article on Carols is promised.

At a meeting of the Stewards of the Hereford Musical Festival, on the 11th ult., the Ven. Archdeacon Stanhope resigned his work as Secretary of the Festival in consequence of ill-health. The Executive Committee reported that the amount paid to the Charity was £831 19s. 7d. The total receipts amounted to £2,877 3s., the payments to £3,582 15s., leaving an adverse balance of £705 12s. The stewards guarantee deposits amounted to £1,120, and the Committee decided to return to each Steward the sum of £2. The customary votes of thanks terminated the proceedings.

THE prospectus of the Hampstead Popular Concerts of Chamber Music has just been issued. Six Concerts are to be held at the Vestry Hall, Haverstock Hill, on certain Friday evenings. The Heckmann Quartet has been engaged for the 30th inst. Mr. Gompertz and Herr Ludwig will be the leading violinists at the remaining Concerts. The pianists already engaged include Madame Mehlig, Miss Fanny Davies, Mr. Dannreuther, and Prof. C. Villiers Stanford. A series of interesting programmes has been drawn up, and there is no doubt but that the Concerts will be both interesting and attractive.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Andrew Undershaft was held on Wednesday, the 17th ult. The whole of the music was excellently rendered by the choirs of St. Andrew Undershaft and Spitalfields Church, with the choir boys of St. John-at-Hackney Grammar School—in all, about seventy-five voices. The Church Orchestral Society of twenty-one players, with organ (Organist, Mr. F. J. Yeatman, of Spitalfields Church), accompanied throughout, and Mr. W. M. Wait (Organist and Choirmaster of St. Andrew Undershaft) conducted.

THE Harvest Festival at Christ Church, Clapham, took place on Thursday, the 11th ult. Service began with a Processional Hymn; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, Stainer in B flat; and for the Anthem, a selection from the "Creation," admirably sung by the choir. The soloists, Master Bellett and Messrs. De Wint and Pitman, rendered the various solos allotted to them in a creditable manner. After the service a selection of music was given by Messrs. Gale, Way, De Wint, and Pitman. Mr. Gale presided at the organ, and Mr. Way conducted throughout the evening.

HARVEST Thanksgiving Services were held at St. James's Church, Camberwell, on Thursday evening, the 11th, and Sunday, the 14th ult. The music included Te Deum and Jubilate to Garrett in D; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis to Martin in B flat; the Anthems "Praise the Lord" (Hall), "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer), and "Fear not, O land" (Goss), and the Hallelujah Choruses from "The Messiah" and Beethoven's "Mount of Olives." Mr. Blackbee presided at the organ.

DR. BRADFORD'S Harvest Cantata was given at the Harvest Festival at St. Mark's, Myddelton Square, Clerkenwell, on the 11th ult., by an augmented choir of eighty voices; the composer conducted. The Canticles were Tours in F, and the Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah" was given at the conclusion of the service. Mr. Percy Bradford presided at the organ; Mr. W. Morrow, trumpet; and vocal solos were rendered by Master T. Clare and Mr. Alderson.

THE organ in St. John's Wood Presbyterian Church has recently been renovated and enlarged. The formal re-opening took place on the 17th ult., when Mr. F. G. Edwards (Organist and Choirmaster of the Church), under whose direction the alterations have been carried out, gave an Organ Recital, and the church choir gave excellent renderings of Purcell's "Rejoice in the Lord," Wesley's "Blessed be the God and Father," and Sullivan's "Lead, kindly Light."

THE Harvest Festival at St. Giles's-in-the-Fields was celebrated on Sunday, September 30. In the evening, the Anthem, "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Sir John Stainer), and the Chorus, "Glorious is Thy Name" (from Mozart's "Twelfth Mass"), were sung by the choir. At the conclusion of the service the Organist, Mr. F. C. Boyes, gave a Recital on the organ. Among the pieces performed were a March (Silas), an Andante (Smart), and the first Movement from the Fourth Concerto (Handel).

THE Harvest Thanksgiving Service of St. Matthias Church, Bethnal Green, took place on the 14th ult. The Service was J. T. Field in D, the Anthem after the third Collect was "Great is the Lord" (Sydenham), and after the Service "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer), concluding with Jackson's Te Deum, in which the whole congregation heartily joined. A short Organ Recital was given by the Organist, Mr. R. H. Tickle.

THE Harvest Thanksgiving Services at St. Luke's, West Kilburn, were held on Sunday, the 14th ult. The music in the morning included Sullivan in D, and "O give thanks," Sydenham. In the evening the Canticles were sung to Garrett's setting in E flat. The Anthem was Macfarren's "God said, Behold I have given you every herb." The voluntaries were played after the services by Mr. F. H. Stokes, F.C.O., who also directed the choir.

MR. C. E. MILLER gave a series of Organ Recitals on the Thursdays in October, at the church of St. Augustine and St. Faith, E.C. Pieces by Mendelssohn, Lemmens, Bach, Silas, Freyer, Mozart, Stainer, Tours, Schumann, Handel, Gade, Smart, Guilman, and other composers supplied the programmes. It is understood that the Recitals will be continued until further notice.

THE cause of music in America will doubtless be greatly aided by the publication of the Cleveland Musical Art Journal, published fortnightly in Cleveland, Ohio. The articles, original and selected, are good, those from English papers being duly acknowledged; and the manner in which the journal is conducted, as shown in the first twelve numbers, appears to be honest and earnest.

HARVEST Festival Services were celebrated on the 14th ult. at St. Stephen's, Clapham Park. The Anthems were "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer) and "Sing aloud unto God" (Olding). The Evening Service was a new setting in C of the Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur, by the Organist and Choirmaster of the Church, Mr. J. H. Olding.

MR. MURBY'S new and original Juvenile Fairy Cantata, entitled "Elsa; or, the imprisoned fairy," was given at the Brixton Hall, on the 29th ult., too late for detailed notice. It was supported by a large number of performers in fancy dresses. A second Cantata, "Queen I love you's five o'clock tea," was also given, under the direction of the composer.

ON Thursday, the 18th ult., a good performance of Weber's Harvest Cantata was given by the choir of St. Saviour's Church, St. George's Square, Pimlico, the soloists being Master James Coxall, Mr. E. L. Fredericks, and Mr. T. Davies. Mr. D. Woodhouse, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church, presided at the organ.

MR. G. AUGUSTUS HOLMES gave an Organ Recital in St. George's Church, Camberwell, on the 10th ult., with the following programme: Offertoire (Ch. Collin), Andante grazioso (Smart), Festal March (Elvey), Andante, varied (J. B. Calkin), Minuet in A (Kendal), Concluding Voluntary, "March in Scipio" (Handel).

MISS LYDIA DAVIS gave her annual Concert at St. Mark's Hall, Battersea Rise, on the 11th ult. She was assisted by Miss Sheldon-Smith, Madame Edwardes, Mrs. Shedden, Mr. Swinford, Mr. T. Maude, and Mr. Stanley West. The accompaniments and some solos were played by Miss Frances Davis.

MR. W. G. WOOD gave, on the 6th ult., at the Bow and Bromley Institute, an Organ Recital, when a new Toccata in D minor, composed by him, was encored. The vocalists who assisted were Miss Emily Davies and Mr. R. E. Miles. Mr. Victor Buziau was solo violinist, and the accompanist was Mr. Fountain Meen.

THE popularity of Dr. Bridge's Birmingham Cantata seems to be assured, performances of "Callirhoë" being already announced for Hull, Brighton, St. Leonards, Rochester, Islington, Cheltenham, Sunderland, Bath, Exeter, Manchester, Alderley, Maidstone, Kilburn, Ipswich, and the Bow and Bromley Institute during the coming season.

AT the Christmas term of the Royal College of Music forty-three new pupils entered, making a net increase of thirty-one, and raising the whole number to 250. The Director met the pupils in the Concert-room of the Alexandra House, and addressed to them a few words of advice and encouragement.

THE Harvest Festival at St. Luke's, Brompton Hospital, was held on the 18th ult., when a full choral service, with the Anthem "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer), was effectively rendered by the church choir, under the direction of the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. F. Gilbert Webb.

A HARVEST Thanksgiving Festival was held at Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill, on Saturday and Sunday, the 6th and 7th ult., under the conductorship of Dr. H. Walsmsley Little, Organist and Choirmaster of the same. Dr. C. J. Frost presided at the organ.

THE Annual Festival of the Guild of St. Luke was held in St. Paul's Cathedral on Thursday evening, the 18th ult. The musical portions of the service were rendered by the London Gregorian Choral Association, under the direction of Dr. Warwick Jordan, who presided at the organ.

HARVEST Festival services were held at St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, on Sunday, September 30, which were well rendered under the direction of the Organist, Mr. Stretton Swann. The Anthems were "O Lord, how manifold" (Barnby), and "Ye shall dwell in the land" (Stainer).

THE Service Calendar of St. John's, New Jersey, sets forth the services and hymns to be given at that church during the month, in a manner worthy of imitation in other "Choirs and places where they sing" as well at home as abroad.

IT is intended to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Royal Society of Musicians by a performance of Handel's "Messiah" in Westminster Abbey on the 29th inst.

MR. B. B. BARRETT has been appointed a Professor of the Organ and Pianoforte to the City School of Music.

REVIEWS.

The Nature of Harmony and Metre. By Moritz Hauptmann. Translated and Edited by W. E. Heathcote, M.A., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.
[Swann, Sonnenschein and Co.]

THE work of Moritz Hauptmann has hitherto only been known to those musicians who can add to their other accomplishments that of a knowledge of the German tongue. Those who believe in the mathematical side of music will be glad to know of its translation into English, especially as this is a tolerably faithful reproduction in another speech than that of the author's original thoughts. These, not dealing with poetry or poetical ideas, but implying statements of matters of accepted fact, can be as readily reduced to equivalent language in any tongue. Like most philosophical treatises on abstruse subjects, however, sometimes the phraseology is involved if not obscure; but this is a peculiarity which belongs to the author as much as to his translator. There is little need to enter into a full description of a work which has already been accepted in Germany as a classical contribution to musical literature. It is written after the style which is supposed to commend itself with peculiar force to the Teutonic mind. It deals with the subject of music from a standpoint that few care to attain, or to envy the position taken by those who climb to it. The statements made, being mathematically demonstrable, are practically unchallengeable. How far they are valuable in art is a matter which experience has already settled. With the so-called scientific basis of music, the greater number, if not the whole of the world-famed composers, had no acquaintance. Their music is none the less beautiful because of their ignorance. While the world lasts there will be scientific things done without any so-called scientific knowledge. The value of such labours as those of Moritz Hauptmann should not, however, be underrated because they are not likely to be generally accepted. Musicians there have been whose knowledge of the scientific structure of musical material has divested their work of much that was potentially beautiful. It is gratifying to know that music is a science as well as an art, but it is also humiliating to be forced to acknowledge that few abstract mathematicians have ever brightened the world with music constructed upon absolutely scientific principles. The world may be the better for this new addition to musical literature, but as it was no worse before its appearance the position of things remains unchanged. Taking the translation upon its own merits, it deserves some commendation. The simple question which forces itself forward, nevertheless, is this: Was the translation required, and will the English version add anything valuable to the library of the earnest student, or increase his practicable stock of knowledge? We confess our inability to answer this query affirmatively. We might go further and say that it is doubtful whether it has any practical value to the musical school at all. It is dialectic philosophy, similar to that propounded by Hegel, applied to musical matters, and expressed in phraseology far above the reach of those who only study the plain and simple language required for an ordinary musical education.

The work is divided into three broad sections:—1, Harmony; 2, Metre; 3, Metrical Harmony and Harmonic Metre. In the first part is shown the derivation of the triad from acoustics, the derivation of related keys and modulation in general. The second part deals with metre and rhythm, the one being treated as analogous to harmony, the other to melody. The translator, sometimes in doubt for an exact English expression, Germanises his English, and so sacrifices elegance of style to accuracy of description. Thus, in speaking of the second portion of the book, he says: "The metrical unit is shown to be a two-parted unity. This, as two-timed metre, is identified with the Octave (or Root) in harmony, then three-timed metre, which contains two overlapping metrical units, is identified with the Fifth, and four-timed, which is the last of the uncompounded metres, and includes the other two, with the Third. The four-timed metre is the metrical triad." "The last part of the book considers the union of metre and harmony; that is, harmony and melody in concrete combination with metre and rhythm. In this the few general principles that can be laid down regard only harmony and metre, for these elements are more fixed and determinate than melody and rhythm. Thus the metrical portion of dissonance is discussed, both of suspension and of the seventh chord. Also continued accent by syncopation is shown to correspond with the series of linked seventh chords." We have preferred to give the translator's own words concerning the analysis of the work, inasmuch as it will show at a glance his musical qualifications for the task he has set himself. Such an expression as "the key system stretching out, or in transit to dominant or subdominant" is a dictionary translation of "des tonartsystem nach der einen oder anderen Dominant-seite übergreifend." but the English, though in the main correct, shows no knowledge of music on the part of the translator. If he had said "Transition to the dominant and subdominant," musicians might have understood the sentence. When, however, as on page 32, we read "The minor-major key is in its subdominant and dominant chords of like structure with the minor, and, when continued further in both directions, must also lead to like—on the subdominant side to minor triads, on the dominant side to major. Therefore, for joining the limits of its system, either stretching out or closed, it can only contain the same chords as the system of the minor key; for in them the dominant chords alone have share," we feel that the complications of the original German are simplicity itself. We also are tempted to wish that the translator had either left the book alone, inasmuch as it is evident that his musical and linguistic attainments do not equally balance each other, or that he had allowed the musician to whom he alludes in the preface to revise much more of the musical phraseology.

Soft Voluntaries for the Organ. By George Calkin. Book XI. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

LIKE its ten predecessors, this set of pieces consists of six numbers, admirably adapted to the needs of organists who require "in" or "middle" voluntaries. In wealth of melody, the present book is scarcely equal to some of those which preceded it, but the finish and elegance of the style are just as noticeable as before.

Hail! Thou that art highly favoured. By Arthur Carnall. (Octavo Anthems, No. 326.) [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

CHOIRMASTERS will shortly be seeking for new Christmas Anthems, and they will do well to glance at this example. Its modern character may please some and displease others. The opening portion, illustrating the visit of the angel to Mary, is almost dramatic, but the concluding chorus, of a semi-fugal character, is at any rate thoroughly churchlike, and the peroration is very effective. The composer has more than average ability, and may be encouraged to persevere.

FOREIGN NOTES.

WAGNER'S "Götterdämmerung" was recently produced for the first time at the Berlin Royal Opera, under direction of its newly appointed Conductor, Herr Sucher, formerly of Hamburg. The entire "Nibelungen" Tetralogy is now at last to be produced, for the first time, on the leading operatic stage of Berlin, during the present month.

The Berlin Wagner Verein announces its first orchestral Concert of the season to take place on the 5th inst., when the programme will include, besides numerous fragments from the Bayreuth master's earlier works, the first performance here of the Overture to Peter Cornelius's comic opera "Der Barbier von Bagdad," a work which meets with an ever increasing interest on the part of German connoisseurs. Cornelius's opera was brought out some few weeks since at Prague, where it was enthusiastically received, a competent Viennese critic declaring it to be "the most genuinely German comic opera next to 'Die Meistersinger.'"

At the express desire of the young German Emperor, Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," after the recently-established Bayreuth model, is to be performed at Berlin, on January 27 next, the Emperor's birthday.

A special representation of Mozart's "Die Entführung aus dem Serail" (known to English audiences as "Il Seraglio," in the Italian version) was given on the 16th ult. at the Royal Opera of Berlin, this having been the one-hundredth anniversary of the first production here of this charming but, unfortunately, but little heard opera.

A number of new compositions from the pen of Heinrich Hofmann is to be first produced at a forthcoming Concert of the Berlin Liedertafel, amongst them an important choral work, with baritone solo, entitled "Harold's Brautfahrt," the performance of which is looked forward to with especial interest.

Handel's Oratorio "Judas Maccabæus" will be performed at the opening Concert of the present season by the Sternsche Gesangverein, of Berlin, when Herr Albert Niemann, the veteran tenor, will sing the part of Judas.

The existence of a posthumous "Oratorio," entitled "Via Crucis," by the late Franz Liszt, has been denied upon competent authority, the rumour having doubtless originated from the hitherto but little known fact that the great pianist-composer had written a number of choruses intended to accompany the various "stations" of the Saviour's progress to Calvary, as symbolised in the Catholic ritual.

Dr. Hans von Bülow has written to the German papers informing them that he has abandoned his project of issuing a pamphlet setting forth his views concerning the relative standpoint of old and new Wagnerians towards the Bayreuth establishment. "I am still vigorous enough," the eminent and versatile pianist-conductor adds, "to render positive service to musical art, without running the risk of stirring up ill-feeling amongst its professors."

The Leipzig Liszt-Verein, with an increased contingent of members, will resume its activity during the coming winter, both in the way of private meetings and public performances.

Anton Rubinstein has nearly completed a new opera, entitled "A Walpurgis Night," or its Russian equivalent, the libretto being written in that language. The pianist-composer is said to be actively engaged just now upon the final touches to the score of the new work.

Herr Bronsart von Schellendorff, the General-Intendant of the Weimar Hof-Theater, has just been elected to the important post of President of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein, in the room of the late Dr. Riedel. The election appears to meet with the cordial approval of all concerned.

A series of Concerts of Chamber Music is to be given during the approaching season at Brussels, under the auspices of Messrs. Schott, the well known music publishing firm. The Concerts will include a Beethoven Recital by Dr. Hans von Bülow, and other attractions.

Handel's Oratorio "Theodora" is to be performed, for the first time, by the Viennese Philharmonic Society (Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde), on the 18th inst.

M. Benjamin Godard, the well-known French composer, has completed an opera, entitled "Dante," which is to be first produced at the Opéra Comique during the approaching Paris Exhibition.

M. B. Godard's four-act opera "Jocelyn," previously performed at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, of Brussels, was brought out for the first time in Paris, at the Théâtre Lyrique, on the 13th ult., and achieved a moderate success.

M. Lamoureux' interesting orchestral Concerts were announced to be resumed at Paris on the 28th ult.

"Les Deux Nuits," a long neglected opera by Boieldieu, is to be revived at the Paris Opéra Comique, M. Jules Barbier having been entrusted with the revision of the original libretto.

A new symphonic work by the Maestro Giovanni Sgambati, to which he has given the title of Sinfonia Epithalame, has just been performed for the first time at Turin, and was received with enthusiastic applause by a numerous audience.

Wagner's C major Symphony, which is to be withdrawn from public performance at the close of the present year, will be included in the programmes of two consecutive Concerts at the Châtelet Theatre, of Paris, under the direction of M. Colonne.

Signor Sonzogno, the well-known Italian music publisher, has, it is stated, abandoned his projected series of Concerts, representative of Italian music, to be given, at his own risk, in connection with the forthcoming Paris Exhibition, in consequence of the vexatious conditions imposed upon his undertaking by the French authorities. It is added that the latter insisted, inter alia, upon the programmes of such Concerts being submitted to them at once—i.e., some eight months before the opening of the Exhibition. The statement seems scarcely credible, even though political feeling does, as we know, enter very largely into the artistic counsels of our neighbours across the Channel.

It is stated that Wagner's "Die Walküre" will very shortly be produced, in the Italian language, at the Teatro Argentina, of Rome. The work was first presented to the Roman public some years ago by a German company, under Herr Angelo Neumann.

Ponchielli's opera "Gioconda" was produced, for the first time, last month, at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, where it met with a decided success.

At the desire of the Italian Premier, Signor Maschironi, the well-known composer and conductor of the Teatro Apollo, of Rome, has lately been visiting Germany for the purpose of studying the general working and artistic management of the leading operatic stages of the Fatherland. The Maestro is said to have returned to his native country full of praise of the institutions with which he has become acquainted.

An opera "Edoardo Stuart," by the Maestro Cipriano Pontoglio, was recently performed with great success at Bergamo. The work had been originally produced some two years ago, at the Teatro Manzoni, of Milan, without attracting any attention, and has since been revised by its composer.

Signor Platania, the director of the Conservatorio at Naples, has just completed an opera entitled "Spartaco," the first performance of which is looked forward to with much interest in musical circles of the Sicilian capital.

Gluck's "Orpheus" was magnificently revived at the Costanzi, on the 20th ult., in Rome. Miss Hastreiter achieved a remarkable triumph as Orpheus, and the ensemble evoked an amount of enthusiasm which is very unusual in a Roman audience.

The German Opera at New York will, it is announced, resume its performances on the 28th inst., with Wagner's "Lohengrin," under the direction of Herr Anton Seidl.

The Royal Academy of Stockholm has just celebrated the centenary of its foundation, the festivities in connection with this event including a discourse delivered to the members by King Oscar II., on the subject of Music and Musicians in Sweden.

A monument to Heinrich Marschner, the composer of "Der Templer und die Jüdin," was unveiled last month at Zittau, his native town. Marschner died in 1861 at Hanover, where he had, for a number of years, occupied the post of Conductor at the Hof-Theater, and where also a statue was erected to him some years since.

On the 11th ult. the musical Societies of Vienna celebrated the centenary of the birth of Simon Sechter, one of the most important of modern contrapuntists, who, a native of Bohemia, had spent the greater part of his industrious life in the Austrian capital, and amongst whose numerous pupils may be mentioned such artists as Thalberg, Bruckner, Vieuxtemps, and Pauer. By special desire of the government, a selection of Sechter's compositions is to be performed shortly at all the leading churches of Vienna in commemoration of the anniversary.

Julius Lammers, for thirteen years one of the most highly esteemed Professors at the Royal Conservatorium of Leipzig, died at that town on September 20.

The death, by drowning, is announced, at Mâcon, of Joseph Schiffmacher, the much esteemed Parisian pianist, and fertile composer for his instrument. The deceased artist was born at Eschau, near Strasburg, in 1827.

Madame Casimir, née Marie Dubois, for many years an idolised cantatrice at the Paris Opéra Comique, where she created the part of Isabelle in Hérold's "Le Pré aux Clercs" some fifty-six years ago, died last month at Boulogne-sur-Seine, aged eighty-five.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE ORGAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In reading Mr. Rowbotham's exceedingly entertaining article in the October issue of your journal, it occurred to me that that gentleman had scarcely done justice to some of the early records of the application of the bellows in organ construction. At least I should be very glad if he were to tell me how to reconcile his conception of the inefficiency of the bellows prior to the tenth century with the following extract from St. Jerome's letter to Dardanus:—

"Primum omnium ad organum, eo quod majus esse his in sonitu et fortitudine nimia computantur clamoses, veniamus. De duabus elephantorum pellibus concavum conjungitur, et per quindecim fabrorum sufflatoria compressatur, per duodecim cicutas æreas in sonitum nimium quos in modum tonitruū concitat: ita ut per mille passuum spatia sine dubio sensibilibiter utique et amplius audiatur, sic apud Hebræos de organis, quæ ab Jerusalem, usque ad montem Oliveti et amplius, sonitu audiuntur, comprobatur."

Here we seem to have the description of a bellows, or something which took the place of the modern wind-chest, made by the joining of two elephant skins and "compressed" in order to drive air into the pipes by fifteen workmen. Such an apparatus cannot properly be identified in any way with "the simple household bellows which are employed to light fires to-day."—Yours very respectfully,

H. E. KREHBIEL.

New York, October 9, 1888.

THE ALLEGED STRIKE OF CHOIR BOYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—On page 536 of your last issue we find copied from an American exchange, with editorial comment, an item about an alleged strike in the choir of St. John's Parish in this city. The item first appeared in the Washington Post, of August 13, and we denied its statements in the Evening Star, of August 25. We enclose clippings, and by this mail send you the papers named entire with the articles marked.

"There is no truth in this statement, and, so far as we know, not a single fact or circumstance exists, or ever has existed, to give colour to its utterance. Repeated efforts have been made to secure from the editor of the Post a retraction or denial of the truth of the item in question, but so far without avail. In passing, it may be stated positively that the boys in St. John's choir are now better paid than those in most of the vested choirs in this country. Our boys are little gentlemen, well-behaved in church, and contented with their compensation."

It pains us that this calumny against the faithful members of our choir should have been carried across the Atlantic to find a place in your excellent journal, and the knowledge that its so wide circulation will subject us to unfriendly criticism by the musical public must be our excuse for attempting to correct the statements.

The absence, in England, of the Rev. W. A. Leonard, D.D., rector of the parish, since August 1, renders it impossible for us to obtain his signature to this letter, whose contents he would, doubtless, heartily approve.

We can hardly hope to secure the publication of this communication and clippings accompanying it, but if, in the interests of good discipline, you can set the matter right in your own way we will be very thankful.

Very respectfully,

J. M. E. MCKEE,

Priest in charge, St. John's Parish.

FRANCIS EDWARD CAMP, Organist.

WILLIAM H. DANIEL, Precentor.

Washington, D.C., U.S.A., September 17, 1888.

MUSICAL CHIMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In the most interesting article in last month's number entitled "The Three Choirs," it is stated that "Jeffries composed the tune to the chimes at Gloucester, a quaint and pleasant melody which has cheered many hearts." It may not be generally known that his melody is still played daily, though it was composed more than 200 years back. Hawkins in his "History of Music," Novello's Edition, Vol. II., p. 770, gives the notes in the key of B minor, it is really in C minor—

My present purpose in writing is to ask if there are other equally musical chimes of ancient origin to be heard in various parts of the kingdom. Perhaps some of your readers would be able and willing to give the information to—Yours obediently, CLOCK.

Gloucester, October 2, 1888.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

AUDI ALTERAM PARTEM.—We are much obliged for your letter, and are sorry not to be able to find room for it.

DIAPASON.—The matter is one which could be more successfully managed by the College of Organists, rather than by an appeal to the public or the profession.

REX.—Your suggestion is doubtless very good, but the matter is one which concerns the individual institution rather than the general public.

SEBASTIAN.—All that is known is given in the books to which you refer. Still, you might possibly find something new in the biographies of Schelcher or Mainwaring.

W. A. P.—We shall be happy to insert notices of interesting Concerts at all times, but it is impossible to find room for accounts of rehearsals.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ACLE, NORFOLK.—Two Organ Recitals were given in the Parish Church on Thursday, the 4th ult., by Mr. C. H. Duffield, Organist of St. John's Church, Timber Hill, Norwich. The programmes included selections from the works of Bach, Mendelssohn, Handel, Capocci, Calkin, Archer, Wely, &c.

BARNESLEY.—Mr. Alderman Wood has presented a new organ to the Baptist Chapel and provided all the necessary appliances. The instrument was opened by Mr. T. Wright (Organist of St. Thomas's Church, Worsbore Dale), his programme including pieces by Smart, Mendelssohn, Houseley, Weber, Dearle, and Scotson Clarke, which were well played. Miss Goodyear was the vocalist, and the chorus gave their selections well. Mr. B. G. Harris was leader of the choir.

BASINGSTOKE.—On September 30 the annual Harvest Festival Services were held in St. Michael's Parish Church. The services were fully choral, and at Evensong Smart's Anthem "The Lord hath done great things" was well rendered by the choir.—On the 7th ult. the annual Service in aid of the Cottage Hospital took place, at St. Michael's Church, in the afternoon. On this occasion the organ was supplemented by a portion of the Mechanics' Institute Band with excellent effect. The Anthem was "Sing ye praise" and "He counteth all your sorrows," from Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise. The musical arrangements were under the direction of Mr. W. H. Liddle, the Organist of St. Michael's.

BIRMINGHAM.—Mr. A. E. Daniel's Mass, "St. Michael," was performed at St. Michael's (R.C.) Church on the 7th ult. Mr. McTigue was Conductor and the organ accompaniments were played by the composer. The work displays a considerable amount of originality and scholarly writing. The Kyrie foreshadows the principal themes of the work; the Gloria starts in unison in Dorian mode; the Gratias Agimus is for treble and tenor (duet and chorus); the Qui Tollis for quartet; the Credo is in B flat with free contrapuntal writing in the organ part; there is a charming melody in A in the Benedictus for soprano and chorus; the Agnus Dei is sung first as a bass solo, then as a quartet; the Miserere is full; and an Adagio brings the Mass to an impressive end.

BISHOP'S STORTFORD.—A grand Evening Concert was given in the Great Hall, on the 16th ult., the vocalists being Madame Clara West, Miss Lottie West, Mr. Joseph Heald, and Mr. James Bayne. Solo violin, Miss Kate Chaplin; solo clarinet, Mr. H. Philpot; accompanist, Mr. Philip Sharpe.

BLACKBURN.—This town is now taking rapid strides in musical matters, and bids fair to obtain its proper position in the musical world of Lancashire. In the "good old days," when the late Henry Smart was Organist of the Parish Church, the excellent performances of Oratorio by the local Society were always looked forward to with great interest. The Principal Society in the town—the St. Cecilia—has for years done good work, and to it the townfolk are indebted for a hearing of such works as Lloyd's Andromeda, Dvorak's Spectre's Bride, Gade's Crusaders, &c. In January next Berlioz's Pastor is to be given with Miss Mary Davies, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley. Mr. Schiever is to lead the orchestra, which, as usual at these Concerts, is composed of well-known members of Sir Charles Hallé's Band. The Society's first Concert of the season was given on Thursday evening, the 4th ult., by members only, and consisted of part-songs, interspersed with a few ballads, &c. Leslie's "The angels' visit" was the gem of the evening, and was sung with great expression. By way of contrast, Fanning's "Miller's wooing" and "The Vikings" were included in the programme. Miss Jackson sang Sterndale Bennett's "May dew" most charmingly. Mr. J. H. Rooks, the Organist of the Parish Church, was the Conductor.

BOLTON.—On Saturday evening, the 20th ult., an Organ Recital was given at the Albert Hall. Mr. Mullineux, the borough Organist, had his forces strengthened by the celebrated choir of St. John's, Broughton, assisted by the Broughton Choral Union, with Miss Minnie Robotham, Mr. C. Harrop, and Mr. W. Parker. The first part of the programme consisted of a Cantata, The Harvest Home, written and composed by Mr. Mullineux. The second part of the programme was of a miscellaneous character, opening with the Overture "Alessandra Stradella" (Fiotow), followed by Barnby's part-song "Gather ye rosebuds," a charming Gavotte in B flat (Kluss), encored, and several other very interesting pieces.

CATFORD.—On Thursday, the 4th ult., at St. George's, Perry Hill, Sullivan's Festival Te Deum was sung as the Anthem. Mr. H. Grounds, the Organist, conducted; George Budd, Organist of St. Saviour's, Brockley, was the accompanist, playing in addition an Offertoire (Salomé) and a piece by Handel.

CHELMSFORD.—An Organ Recital, by Mr. F. R. Frye, Mus. B., F.C.O., was given at St. Mary's, on Wednesday evening, the 24th ult. The programme consisted of excerpts from Mendelssohn, Chipp, Handel, Chauvet, and Capocci.

CHELTONHAM.—The annual Harvest Festival Services at All Saints' Church were again remarkably hearty, and attended by overflowing congregations. The decorations were a most effective display of fruits and flowers, very artistically carried out. On Sunday, the 8th ult., at the High Celebration, a new and complete Communion Service, composed by the Vicar (the Rev. G. Gardner, Mus. Bac., Oxon.), was sung by a full choir. At Evensong Tallis's Responses were used. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis was Arnold in A. The Anthem, an excerpt from Elijah, opening with the Bass Recitative, "O Lord, Thou hast overthrown Thine enemies," taken very ably by Mr. R. E. Prior, of Cheltenham College, as was also the Youth's part, by Master Finlay, of All Saints' choir. This was followed by the grand chorus, "Thanks be to God," ably conducted by the Vicar. Amongst the hymns was No. 387, Hymns Ancient and Modern, "Lord of the Harvest," sung to a quaint old German carol, harmonised by the Rev. G. Gardner; and the concluding hymn was No. 235, Hymns Ancient and Modern, "O what the joy," sung to a soul-stirring setting by E. H. Thorne, taken from "The Hymnary."

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—Mr. F. Norman Adams gave his first Organ Recital at Trinity Church, on the 1st ult. He was assisted by Mrs. John B. Foster, Mr. Homer B. Hatch, and Mr. I. Daniel, who sang songs by H. Parker, Dudley Buck, and Handel. His programme was made up of extracts from Mozart, Spohr, Salomé, Handel, and Lefébure-Wély, and concluded with an Improvisation. These Recitals are given on the first Monday in each month during the winter.

DOVER.—The Harvest Festival at St. Bartholomew's Church was celebrated on Saturday, the 6th ult., when the musical portions of the services were rendered by the Choir and Organist of St. Stephen's, Lewisham, under the direction of the latter (Dr. Warwick Jordan). Mozart's Mass in B flat was sung at the mid-day service, with Hoyte's Introit "Like as the hart." The afternoon service was Gregorian, with Tours's Anthem "While the earth remaineth."

DUNDEE.—J. W. Turner's Opera Company visited Her Majesty's Theatre during the first week of October, giving performances of Fra Diavolo (twice), Il Trovatore (twice), Maritana, and The Bohemian Girl.—On the 6th ult. Sir Charles Hallé and Madame Néruda paid their annual visit to the town, and received an unusually enthusiastic reception. Sir Charles opened the Recital with Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata, and the programme included works by Mendelssohn, Schubert, Grieg, Vieuxtemps, and Gade.—The first of the series of Chamber Concerts, under the auspices of Messrs. Paterson, took place in the Gilfilan Hall on Thursday evening, the 18th ult., before a very thin audience. Mr. W. H. Cole's quartet party from Glasgow played Mozart's Quartet in F, No. 23, Beethoven's Serenade Trio, and a Quartet by Dittersdorf; Mr. S. C. Hirst gave a finished rendering of the "Moonlight" Sonata; and Mr. Cole and Mr. J. Walton gave violin and violoncello solos respectively. Mr. J. Stuart Moncur was the vocalist.

FOLKESTONE.—An Organ Recital was given at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, by Mr. J. H. Holloway, on the 18th ult. His programme was selected from the works of Handel, Field, Bach, A. Oake, Schubert, Wély, and Morandi.

HANLEY.—On the occasion of the Opening of the Victoria Hall and Organ, at the Town Hall, on the 5th ult., a Grand Organ Recital was given by Dr. A. L. Peace, Organist of the St. Andrew's Halls and Cathedral, Glasgow. The programme included the Overture to the "Occasional Oratorio" (Handel); Air with Variations, G major (Haydn); March, C major (Mozart); Prelude and Fugue, D major (J. S. Bach); Offertoire, D major (Giovanni Morandi); Selection from the Opera "Faust" (Gounod); Grand Dramatic Fantasia, "A Concert on a Lake, interrupted by a Thunderstorm" (Chevalier Sigismund Neukomm); Theme from the Opera "Sylvana," and the Rondo, E flat major (Weber); and the Overture, "William Tell" (Rossini). The programme was furnished with interesting notes, and the execution of the several pieces by the accomplished player gave the greatest possible pleasure to the large audience.

HARROW-ON-THE-HILL.—Mr. Herbert W. Whatmoor gave the first of a series of three Chamber Music Concerts on Thursday evening, the 4th ult., in the Public Hall, assisted by Messrs. Cave (violin), Trust (violinello), F. Whatmoor (pianoforte), and Mrs. Trust (vocalist). The programme included trios by Gade and Hummel; duet, violinello and pianoforte, Mendelssohn; and solos by Grieg, Handel, Rubinstein, &c.

HOVINGHAM.—The Musical Festival, on the 16th and 17th ult., which was a great success, concluded with Judas Maccabæus. The principals engaged were Misses Agnes Wilson, Gertrude Aylward, and Eleanor Rees, Messrs. Braxton Smith and Frangon Davies; and Messrs. Sutton and Eckener (violin), Emil Kreuz (viola), W. T. Barker (harp), Vivian and Chapman (Bute). Conductor, Rev. Canon Hudson.

HULME, MANCHESTER.—The Harvest Thanksgiving Services at St. Gabriel's was held on Sunday, the 21st ult. The choir fully sustained its reputation by its excellent rendering of a long and difficult programme. The band of the 9th (Queen's Royal) Lancers assisted at both the morning and evening services, and played several pieces, including the Stabat Mater (Rossini) and "The Lost Chord." Mr. Ernest E. Bedford, Organist of the Church, presided and played selected selections from Mendelssohn, Bach, Guilmant, Smart, Wély, &c.

KINGSWINFORD, DUDLEY.—The Harvest Festival was held in the Wesleyan Chapel on the 21st ult. The Anthems were Stainer's "Ye shall dwell in the land" and Sydenham's "Great is the Lord," which were effectively sung by the choir. Mr. J. Round presided at the organ. After the evening service an Organ Recital was given by Miss Bessie Taylor, the programme including selections from Mozart, Rossini, and Mendelssohn.

LEEDS.—Under the title of "Hours with the Great Composers," Dr. Spark gave, at the Victoria Hall, on the 6th ult., a musical entertainment consisting of a series of examples of the works of Mozart, selected evidently with a view of showing how singularly varied were the gifts and the moods of that illustrious composer. The Overture to the Opera Die Zauberflöte (The Magic Flute), as arranged by Mr. Best, of Liverpool, who seems to have transcribed from the score as much work as possible for the hands and the pedals at the same time, was the first item on the programme; the refined melody of the Symphony, F major—"Un Poco Adagio"—commended itself to every listener, as also did the animated passages and strikingly melodious effects of the motett for solo voices, chorus, and orchestra, "Splendete Te, Deus." The larghetto in D, from the Clarinet Quintet, was received with marked favour; and "The chimes for a clock," which Mozart, at six years of age, played on a pianoforte extempore, was as interesting in its way as were some of the best known excerpts from Don Giovanni, that formed a fitting finale to an interesting performance.

LEICESTER.—Mr. J. Addison Adcock's first popular Concert (third series) came off on Saturday, the 20th ult., at the Temperance Hall. Masters Dutton and Sexton, Westminster Abbey boys, and Mr. T. W. Page were the vocalists. Miss Norledge, Conservatorium of Music, Leipzig, was solo violinist; Mr. Tertius Rowlett and Mr. Walter W. Waddington, solo oboe and cornet respectively. Orchestral selections were played by Mr. Adcock's full band of 120 performers. Accompanists, Mr. J. Garner and Miss Newton. Leader, Mr. Mansfield.

LONDONDERRY.—An Organ Recital was given in St. Columba's Cathedral on Tuesday evening, the 16th ult., by Mr. D. C. Jones, Mus. Bac., F.C.O. The following was the programme:—Offertoire in E flat (Wély), Allegretto in B minor (Guilmant), Adagio (Beethoven), Marche Funèbre (Gigout), Adagio (Kalliwoda), Lied ohne Worte (Holzel), Andante (Weber), and March Cornelius (Mendelssohn). The vocalist was Mr. Bromley, who sang "O rest in the Lord" (Elijah) and "But the Lord is mindful" (St. Paul).

LUTON.—Christ Church Harvest Festival Services were held on Thursday, the 11th ult. At Evensong the Anthem "Fear not, O land" (Goss), and Bunnett's Service in A were effectively rendered by a choir of nearly sixty voices, under the direction of Mr. Hayward, precentor. The Rev. J. E. Turner, M.A., was the solo vocalist. Mr. A. J. Lambert presided at the organ, and at the end of the service played Marche Hongroise (Henselt), Marche Militaire (Gounod), and Hallelujah Chorus (Handel).

MOSSLEY.—On Monday evening, the 1st ult., Mr. Irvine Dearnaley, Organist of Ashton Parish Church, gave an Organ Recital upon the new organ in St. George's Parish Church. Miss Marjorie Eaton, of Ashton, sang the vocal solos in an excellent manner.

NORTH MIMMS, HERTS.—The Harvest Festival was celebrated at the Parish Church on Thursday, the 18th ult., when the musical portion of the service was well rendered by the choir. The Organist was Mr. J. C. Grange, the principal solos being taken by Miss Turner and Mr. Pulborow. The Anthem selected was "O praise the Lord for His goodness," by Garrett. The services were repeated on Sunday, the 21st ult. The church decorations were very tastefully carried out.

OLDHAM.—The winter session of the Springhead Congregational Sunday School Choral Union was opened on Tuesday evening, the 2nd ult. The performers were Miss Winnie Beaumont, Mrs. Morrell, and Mr. Byron Dewhurst; with Mr. W. Lawton as solo pianist and accompanist, and Mr. T. Birkenshaw as Conductor. The part-songs were given by forty members of Mr. Birkenshaw's class.—A very successful Organ Recital was given on Wednesday evening, the 17th ult., at Brunswick Wesleyan Chapel, Werneth, Oldham, by Mr. J. B. Thompson, of Ashton-under-Lyne. The programme included works by Guilmant, Beethoven, Turpin, Wély, Bach, Batiste, Morandi, Gounod, and Smart. The choir gave selections of sacred music during the evening.

RYDE, I.W.—Drusilla, a new Sacred Cantata for mixed voices, was performed on the 17th ult., for the first time, at the Town Hall, by a chorus and orchestra of about 100, under the personal conductorship of the compiler and composer, Mr. J. C. Beazley (of Ryde). The composer has shown considerable originality, method, and talent in his treatment of the themes, the words are well selected and written, and the chorals, "O God our help in ages past," "Thou hidden source of calm repose," and "The opening heavens," with the grand final chorus, are particularly striking and harmonious. The Cantata was well rendered, the choir and orchestra giving evidence of careful study. The principal vocalists were: Drusilla, Miss H. Fraser; Æmilus, high priest of Jupiter, Mr. Hodgson; Abner, Mr. F. Fowles. The applause was frequent, and the March to the Arena was redemanded.

SABDEN, NEAR WHALLEY, LANCASHIRE.—On Saturday, the 20th ult., Mr. Thomas Sharples gave his tenth annual Ballad Concert in the British School. The following took part: Miss Alma Hollowell, Gold Medalist, R.A.M., Miss Florence Hollowell, Mr. H. W. Varley, Mr. G. W. Nicholson, Miss Janie Hoyle (solo violin), 11 years of age, and Mr. Fred Myers, accompanist. The programme was excellent and gave great satisfaction.

ST. ALBAN'S, CHEETWOOD.—A performance of Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise was given on Tuesday, the 16th ult., by the members of the St. Alban's Musical Society, under the Conductorship of Mr. Douglas Hallett, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church. The solos were rendered by Miss Marie Hughes, Miss Norton, and Messrs. Veale and Crowe, all of whom sustained their parts admirably. The choruses were remarkable for depth of tone and the steadiness which was shown throughout in their rendering. Mr. F. Thorley, Organist and Choirmaster of St. James's, George Street, Manchester, assisted Mr. D. Hallett at the piano-forte in the Symphony to the Oratorio, arranged as a duet, and Miss Culleare with Mr. Hallett gave a piano-forte duet in the second part of the programme, which consisted of a miscellaneous selection.

SHERBORNE.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. G. E. Lyle, Organist of the Abbey, on the afternoon of Thursday, the 18th ult. The programme consisted of works by Ch. Collin, Braga, Handel, Arthur Page, G. E. Lyle, Lefebure-Wély, Beethoven, L. Lacombe, Mozart, J. Romano, and Mendelssohn. The Recital was repeated the same evening at eight o'clock.

SWANSCOMBE, KENT.—All Saints' Church Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held here on Sunday, the 7th ult., when the usual hymns from Ancient and Modern were sung, and special Psalms from the Cathedral Psalter. In the morning Smart's Te Deum in F was well rendered, as also Redhead's "Harvest Hymn." In the evening Bunnett's Service in F, with an anthem, "Lift up your heads," from Handel's Messiah, were given. Mr. T. H. Jarvis, Organist and Choirmaster, presided at the organ, and played some Voluntaries after the services.

TENBURY.—The thirty-second Anniversary Festival at St. Michael's College came to a successful termination on Saturday, the 6th ult., the octave of St. Michael's Day. Thursday, the 4th ult., was specially kept as Commemoration Day, Canon Howell Evans and the Rev. E. R. Hampden preaching the sermons on behalf of the objects for which the College was founded. After the evening service a Concert of vocal and instrumental music was given in the College Hall to an invited audience of about 120 ladies and gentlemen, including the Lord Lieutenant of Herefordshire, in which county a great part of the parish is situated. Good music of various ages and various countries was selected, and all was performed with a heartiness and careful finish which must have been very gratifying to the Sub-Warden (Rev. J. Hampton), whose untiring energy has directed the musical work of the College since its foundation. We have only to congratulate the Rev. Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, the founder, and to express our earnest hope that he may be spared many years to see the institution which he has placed in the neighbourhood flourishing and sending its alumni, as it has already done, to every quarter of the globe, to bear witness to the sound Church training they have received through his zeal and liberality and the excellent staff of teachers which he has provided.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—A fine performance of Mozart's Requiem Mass was given by the augmented choir of St. Augustine's Catholic Church on September 30, assisted by Mrs. Cullen, Mrs. Gates, Miss Rizean, Mr. Sidney Herbert, Mr. Alfred Boorman, and Mr. Conrad Formes. There was a large congregation, including many well-known local musicians who were no doubt eager to listen to a work which has seldom, if ever, been performed here. A selection from Rossini's Stabat Mater was given in the evening. Miss Annie Elliott was the Organist at both services.

WORTHING.—A Concert was given at the Assembly Rooms, on Thursday evening, the 4th ult., for the benefit of Mr. F. D. Carnell, Mus. Bac., formerly Organist of St. Botolph's Church, Heene. About three years ago Mr. Carnell was seized with paralysis of the spine, necessitating the relinquishment of his duties. A very promising career was intercepted by the attack, the effects of which have rendered him practically helpless. Those who kindly lent their aid included Mrs. Graham Coles, Mrs. Somers Scott, Mr. Hunt, Mr. E. Tucker, Mr. F. Carter, and Mr. H. W. Hall; Mrs. Coles and Mr. Hall undertaking the management of the entertainment. The accompaniments were shared by Mr. H. W. Hall and Mr. W. Binstead, Organist of Christ Church.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. W. Terence Jenkins, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's Church, Worcester.—Mr. Frederic Hodges, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Peter's Church, Ashtabula, Ohio.—Mr. T. Forward, to Walmer Parish Church.—Master Frank Harold Tonking, to Illogan Parish Church, Cornwall.—Mr. Thomas Lane, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John's, Higher Walton, near Warrington.—Mr. Edmund Rogers, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Michael's, Star Street, Paddington, W.—Mr. David J. Thomas, to Hanover Church, Regent Street, W.—Mr. Stretton Swann, Organist and Choirmaster to St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Alfred Constable, Choirmaster to Bromley Parish Church, East London.—Mr. Edmund Rogers, Choirmaster to Hanover Church, Regent Street, W.—Mr. Avalon Collard, Conductor to the Epsom Choral Society.—Mr. Byron Dewhurst (Bass), to Canterbury Cathedral.

CONTENTS.

	Page
A Festival Retrospect	649
Mr. Crowest on English Opera	650
The Great Composers—Handel	653
The Music of Ancient Rome and its Opponent	656
Occasional Notes	658
Bristol Festival	660
Crystal Palace	661
Russian National Opera Company	662
Savoy Theatre—"The Yeomen of the Guard"	662
North Staffordshire Festival	663
Sir Arthur Sullivan's Lecture	663
Mr. F. H. Cowen in Australia	664
Obituary	665
Music in America	677
Birmingham	665
Dublin	666
Dresden	666
Edinburgh	667
Glasgow and West of Scotland	668
Liverpool	668
Manchester	675
Monmouthshire and South Wales	675
The West	676
General News (London)	677
Reviews	680
Foreign Notes	681
Correspondence	682
Answers to Correspondents	683
General News (Country)	683
List of Music Published during the last Month	686

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Edition I., in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s.
Edition II., in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s.

Edition III., in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.

- I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.
- II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.
- III. In 32mo. Words only. 1½d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for "REVISED EDITION."

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the "Psalter," and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MISS ANNIE LAYTON (Contralto) requests that during her visit to America with Mr. Ludwig's Concert Party all communications respecting Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 4, Milner Street, Cadogan Square, S.W.

MR. THEODORE BARTH (Baritone)

(Professor of Singing, Kensington School of Music).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 12, Flanders Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick. Vacancies for Pupils.

MR. HENRY WEAVER (Bass),
69, Cambridge Street, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Knightsbridge. £12 per annum. Apply, by letter, to Mr. J. M. Ennis, 39, Pentonville Road, N.

APPRENTICE WANTED, to the Pianoforte, Organ, and Harmonium TUNING and REPAIRING. Premium and references required. One of the largest firms in the Midlands. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PEDALS TO PIANOS.—RUMMENS'S Original and only Mechanical Attachment. Easily applied to any Piano, without exception. Touch perfect. Every gradation of Tone obtainable up to a certain degree of loudness. Positively improves appearance of Pianos. Best value for money; cheaper than paying blowlst, and always ready for use. Write for full particulars, price list, and testimonials, Henry J. Rummens, 47, Church Road, Brixton, S.W. The profession and trade invited to apply for list. Pedal Piano Practice, 6d. per hour.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office not later than the 24th of each month.

DURING THE LAST MONTH

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Overture to Shakespeare's Comedy, "Twelfth Night." (Op. 40.) Full score, 12s.; string parts, 6s. 6d.; wind parts, 12s.

— Benedictus. From "Six Pieces for Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment." (Op. 37.) Full Score, 5s.; orchestral parts, 3s. 6d.

DALBY, THOMAS—(in G). The Office for the Holy Communion (with Benedictus and Agnus Dei). 1s.

GREY, C. J.—(in F). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

HAM, ALBERT—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

MORRISON, W.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

SCOTT, W.—Benedictus (No. 2), in Chant form. 3d.

TOWNSEND, HERBERT—"The Lord's Prayer." Two Settings in Monotone, with a simple Accompaniment for the Organ or Harmonium. 1s.

CARNALL, ARTHUR—"Hail! thou, that art highly favoured." Anthem for Christmas. (No. 326. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—"Let the words of my mouth." Anthem. For Soprano Solo and Chorus. (No. 328. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

HODGES, EDWARD, Mus. D., Cantab.—"I heard a voice from Heaven." Treble Solo, with Accompaniment for the Organ. 3d.

HOLLAND, THE HON. MRS. F.—"Stand up and bless the Lord." Full Anthem for a Thanksgiving Service. 3d.

NEWTON, W. F.—"I will sing of Thy power." Anthem. 3d.

BUNNETT, EDWARD, Mus. Doc., Cantab.—"Over hill, over dale." Part-song for four Voices. (Words from SHAKESPEARE.) 3d.

— Ten Christmas Carols. Complete, 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.

PEARCE, CHARLES W., Mus. Doc., Cantab.—"The Story of the Nativity." A Cycle of Carols for Christmas-tide, which may be sung in procession. The words by the Rev. A. C. LOWTH. 2d.; words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

LEWIS, G. H. SUNDERLAND.—Songs without Sense. No. 1. "Song of a School Rifle Corps." 6d.

MARKE-WOOD, A.—"The happy heart." A Four-part Song. Words written by T. DEKKER. 6d.

PEARSON, W. W.—"The Carrion Crow." Humorous Part-song for S.A.T.B. 3d.

BUNNETT, EDWARD, Mus. Doc., Cantab.—"The Streamlet." Song. 1s. 6d.

WILLIAMS-WILLIAMS, F.—"When Chloe sighs." Song in imitation of the style of Handel. 1s.

ANSON, ROSE.—Swing Song and Lullaby. Two short pieces for the Pianoforte. 2s.

BUNNETT, EDWARD, Mus. Doc., Cantab.—Two Pianoforte Pieces (Romance and Mazurka). 2s.

DE PACHMANN, MARGARET.—"Rêverie du Lac." For the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

TOLLEMACHE, W. J.—Songs without words. For Pianoforte and Violin, or Violoncello. No. 1 in A minor, No. 2 in E major. Each, 2s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS IN THE TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT. No. 600. "The treasures of the deep." ALFRED R. GAUL 12d.

BRIDGE, J. F., Mus. Doc.—"Callirhoë." 1s. 6d.

REDUCED PRICE:—

A DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS. Edited by Sir J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., and W. A. BARRETT, Mus. Bac. 7s. 6d.

ORGAN (Chamber Pipe), 8 feet 6 inches high. Elaborate front; 27 pedals, 5 stops; general swell; full sweet tone; nearly new. Suit village church. Lead 300 persons. £28 10s. Thoroughly good instrument. Organ, 21, Waltherton Road, Westbourne Park, London. Photo, six stamps.

M. R. C. WIGG FREDERICKS (Tenor), of the Trocadéro (Paris), Crystal Palace, and St. James's Hall Concerts. "Mr. Charles Fredericks has sung for me. I find he possesses a charming tenor voice of good compass and pure quality, which he uses to great advantage, particularly in oratorio music."—CH. GOUNOD.

EXTRACTS FROM PRESS NOTICES.

"Mr. Charles Fredericks enlisted the good opinion of a large audience by his pathetic rendering of 'Waft her, Angels' ('Jephtha'), and in response to general and prolonged applause, sang, 'Love in her eyes sits playing' ('Acis'), in a manner that reflected the greatest credit on his musical education."—Galignani's Messenger, Paris, April 25.

"'Deeper and deeper still' ('Jephtha') and 'Sound an alarm' ('Judas') were performed by the English tenor singer in a masterly and finished manner, being heartily and deservedly recalled after each performance."—Frankfurter Zeitung, April 30.

"'The Messiah' at the English Embassy Church, Paris. Mr. Fredericks' fine and sympathetic voice held the close attention of an appreciative audience."—Paris Morning News, April 28.

"Mr. Fredericks displayed a resonant voice and cultured style."—The Standard, September 14.

"The purity and fullness of his voice are well adapted to sacred festival work."—The Times, September 14.

"Mr. Fredericks possesses a remarkably clear and pleasing voice."—West Briton and Cornwall Advertiser, December 16.

"Mr. Fredericks created a strong and deep impression by his delicate, exquisite rendering of the air 'In native worth.' His voice is remarkably adapted to religious music, in which he has evidently obtained valuable experience, and his singing throughout bore the unmistakable stamp of artistic superiority."—Jersey Press, December 18.

"Mr. C. W. Fredericks, a highly-cultured tenor singer, met with a very favourable reception and was loudly applauded."—Western Mail, Cardiff, February 7.

"Mr. Fredericks sang Gounod's 'Lend me your aid,' in which he created a perfect sensation. We very much question whether a better rendering of the song is possible; at all events, such singing stamps him as an artist in the foremost ranks of the tenors of the day."—Lichfield Mercury, February 25.

"Mr. Fredericks displays a fine voice of considerable power and quality."—Troubridge Chronicle, March 26.

"Mr. Fredericks is an accomplished vocalist, and sustained his part with ability. The florid tenor air, 'Call forth thy powers,' was given with great vigour and precision."—Leamington Chronicle, April 8.

"Mr. Fredericks has a tenor voice of great compass and beautiful quality."—Scottish Border Advertiser, April 6.

"Mr. Fredericks proved himself the possessor of a tenor voice of beautiful quality and extensive range."—Birmingham and Aston Chronicle, June 5.

Address, Mr. C. WIGG FREDERICKS, Vicar Choral, Cathedral, Lichfield; or, 248, Trinity Road, Wandsworth, London, S.W. Telegraphic address, "Fredericks," Lichfield.

FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE TUNER and TONER WANTED, by a leading London Firm. Good salary offered to a skilful man. Apply, by letter, to Makers, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

BONNY KILMENY

CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

Words adapted from Hogg's "Queen's Wake."

MUSIC BY

HAMISH MACCUNN.

Vocal Score, paper covers, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.

Conductors of Choral Societies should see this highly interesting and beautiful work.

'It is not often that we have derived so much genuine pleasure from the perusal of a new work, as was the case with that at present before us.'—Newcastle Journal.

Edinburgh: PATERSON and SONS, 27, George Street.

NOW READY.

A LIST OF QUALIFIED MUSICIANS

HOLDING

BRITISH DEGREES OR DIPLOMAS

COMPILED FROM OFFICIAL SOURCES BY

JOHN WARRINER, Mus. B.

(TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN).

In this work are collected for the first time the names of all Graduates in Music of Universities in the British Isles, and those entitled to append to their names the letters: R.A.M., A.R.A.M., L.R.A.M.; F.C.O.; L.Mus., T.C.L.; A.R.C.M.; F., G., or L.T.S.C.; to which have been added the names of those who have received the degree of Mus. D. from the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Members and Associates of the Philharmonic Society of London. Its issue has been rendered advisable from the number of persons assuming titles more or less doubtful in character, or producing as "qualifications" Certificates intended for Students only.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence, from the COMPILER, De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.; or,

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. HENEAGE G. NEWSAM, Organist and Choirmaster, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Peterhead, Aberdeenshire, has a VACANCY for a gentlemanly Youth as ARTICLED PUPIL. Good Musical training; two-manual Organ; comfortable home; moderate premium. Address, 113, Queen Street, Peterhead.

TO PARENTS and GUARDIANS.—VACANCY for ARTICLED PUPIL, Musical Profession. Exceptional advantages. Apply, Rev. T. H. Spinney, M.A., Oxon., Fell. Coll. Organists, Newborough Vicarage, Burton-on-Trent.

MR. CHARLTON T. SPEER (Associate of and Professor of the Pianoforte at the Royal Academy of Music) has Vacancies for one or two Private Pupils. 24, Belsize Road, South Hampstead, N.W.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of St. Mary Magdalene, Taunton, requires a PUPIL ASSISTANT. Exceptional advantages. Fine three-manual organ by WILLIS. Full choral services. Preference given to ex-Cathedral boy or to a good Violinist. Must be thoroughly familiar with the Church service. 20, Crescent, Taunton.

A GENTLEMAN (Organist of a well-known Musical Church) who has been very successful as a Teacher of the Organ, Pianoforte, and Harmony, wishes to receive a few PUPILS in a first-class School or privately. Address, R. N., 4, George Street, Hanover Square, W.

MRS. ALFRED MORRIS, L.R.A.M., has a VACANCY for YOUNG LADY with good voice to train and bring out as Vocalist. Frequent Students' Concerts. Refined and comfortable home. Terms moderate. Resident foreign and English governesses for general education, if required. Address, Lulworth House, Caerleon.

YOUNG LADY, with good voice, WANTED, by a Professor of Music in the country, to train and bring out as a Concert Vocalist. Present pupil has engagements throughout the year. Comfortable home. Address, B. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSORS.—ORPHAN YOUTH (16) seeks EMPLOYMENT with good Professor, School, &c. Capital Pianist, good Organist, fair Violinist, first-class Theorist, successful Teacher. Excellent certificates. Address, care of Mus. Doc., 16, Speedwell Road, Birmingham.

REQUIRED, by a Young Lady, Royal Academy Training (Certificate), a DAILY ENGAGEMENT as PIANO-ORTE TEACHER in good School or College. Address, Miss A., Woodland House, Bound's Green, N.

ORCHESTRA.—A few GENTLEMEN REQUIRED to complete the occasional Orchestra at St. Cuthbert's, Earl's Court. Particulars as to services, &c., from Lieut.-Colonel Douglas, 83, Philbeach Gardens, S.W.

TUNER REQUIRED, a First-class steady and reliable Man. Must be able to regulate, &c. Must be of gentlemanly address; age from 25 to 35. State if married or single, and enclose photo if possible, which will be returned; also state age and how long in last place. Salary, £2 weekly; situation permanent. Apply by letter only, Bogg and Sons, 45 and 47, Stockport Road, Manchester.

AN experienced Country TUNER WANTED, wholly for out-door work. Permanent situation. High-class tuning and steady habits indispensable. Apply to Dale, Forty and Co., Musicians, Cheltenham.

TUNER.—WANTED, a good all-round PIANO-FORTE TUNER and REGULATOR, with fair knowledge of Harmonium and American Organ work; young single man preferred. Address, with full particulars, stating salary required, to Pigott and Co., 112, Grafton Street, Dublin.

TUNER.—WANTED, first-class, experienced TUNER, for outdoor work, London suburb. Unexceptionable references as to character absolutely necessary. Liberal and progressive salary. Permanent situation. Particulars to E. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO TUNER and REPAIRER.—Must be first-class man. Good reference indispensable. Accord, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

HIGH-CLASS PIANO TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED. Good character and address. Liberal salary. Alphonse Cary, Newbury.

WANTED, First-class PIANO-FORTE, HARMONIUM, and AMERICAN ORGAN TUNER and REGULATOR. Address, with references, to Paterson, Sons and Co., 152, Buchanan Street, Glasgow.

WANTED, a respectable Young Man as IM-PROVER. Must tune well. Apply, C. F. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an Experienced YOUNG LADY, as SALESWOMAN in a Music Warehouse in the South of Ireland. Must be well up in Sheet Music, Catalogues, and able to play well at sight. Apply, stating age, experience, and Salary expected, to B. C. Atkins, 3, St. Luke's Place, Cork.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER, partly disengaged. C., Wilson's Library, 24, Delancey Street, Camden Town.

SITUATION WANTED, as PIANO-FORTE TUNER, outdoor. Over twenty years' experience with Broadwood and Ramsden. F. Slocombe, 6, Providence Row, Leeds.

TUNER (fine) DISENGAGED, whole or part time. 15 years' experience. Good address. First class testimonials. London and suburbs only. Tuner, 10, Filmer Rd., Fulham.

SITUATION WANTED, as PIANO-FORTE TUNER. Blind. Has had good training. Can teach tuning. Good references. Charles Watkins, School for the Blind, Upper Avenue Road, St. John's Wood.

PARTIAL ENGAGEMENT WANTED, by a High-class PIANO-FORTE TUNER and REPAIRER. Experienced. A. A., 13, Oldfield Road, Stoke Newington, N.

WANTED, by Young Man, SITUATION as PIANO-FORTE TUNER. Able to prepare Pupils on the Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Pianoforte, Flute, &c. Address, Walteuf, 7, William Street, Darlington.

PIANO-FORTE TUNER.—WANTED, a SITUATION by a High-Class TUNER and REPAIRER. Apprenticed with Messrs. Brinsmead and Sons, London. Good references. Apply, G.A.G., 4, Mill Street, Barbourne, Worcester.

YOUNG LADY (21 to 25) REQUIRED, as ASSISTANT in a good MUSIC BUSINESS in the Country. She must be able to play the Pianoforte well (Singing desirable); must be of respectable family; good address and appearance; with business tact. A knowledge of the music trade not necessary. One who has been accustomed to some active business life preferred. Excellent home, with salary according to ability. Apply, X. Y. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, in January, at a Sea-side Boarding-School, a RESIDENT MUSIC-MASTER. Must be competent to read music at sight, and to prepare boys in harmony for the Cambridge Local Examinations, and also be willing to fill up time with English subjects. A good cricketer preferred, but not essential. References as to Christian character will be valued. State fully all subjects, age, and salary required, to L. M., Box 2, 913, Dale, Reynolds and Co.'s Advertising Offices, 24, Wellington Street, Strand, W.C.

CORRESPONDENT WANTED, for a LONDON MUSICAL PAPER, in the following places. Must be in sympathy with popular music in Churches and Chapels, Day and Sunday Schools, &c.:—London, N., ditto, S., ditto, E., ditto, W., Bristol and district, South Wales, North Wales, Liverpool and district, Manchester and district, West Riding, Leeds, Bradford, Potteries, Newcastle, Sheffield, Adelaide (S.A.), Cape Town, Birmingham and district, Leicester, Nottingham, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Brighton, Glasgow and district, Edinburgh, Dundee, Aberdeen, Inverness, Dublin, Belfast, Sydney (N.S.W.), Melbourne (Vic.), Toronto, and New Zealand. Applications to be addressed to Editor, care of Mr. C. Wilkes, 29, Ludgate Hill, London, E.C.

WANTED, ORGAN PRACTICE, three or four hours weekly. N. or N.W. preferred. Would give valuable services in Choir or pay moderate sum. W. E., 65, Fortress Road, N.W.

WANTED, a respectable MAN for the Paper Branch of a Country House. Y., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

MUSIC SALESMAN.—WANTED, a GENTLEMAN, for large city in Lancashire, with thorough knowledge of the Sheet Music Trade, and able to try over nicely. Good references and thorough business habits indispensable. Liberal salary. Send photo and full particulars to Quaver, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PEDAL PIANO WANTED. Easily lifted from Pedals preferred. Organist, St. Mark's, East Street, Walworth, S.E.

A YOUNG LADY, Professor of Music, residing near Baker Street, would like to meet with a Lady (Professional or otherwise) to share her home. Address, L. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, by a Young Lady (aged 19) a SITUATION in a MUSIC BUSINESS. One year's experience. Small salary. Address, Miss A. P., Saffron House, Alfred Street, St. Leonards.

SITUATION WANTED, by Young Man (27) in Pianoforte or Music Warehouse, as CLERK or SALESMAN, capable of taking the Management. Good Pianist and Organist. Life abstainer and non-smoker. Can give undeniable references. Address, K., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUTH (respectable) desires SITUATION in MUSIC SHOP. Good Pianist; willing to teach pupils. J. H. Magrath, 131, Palmerston Terrace, Jamaica Road, S.E.

A YOUNG MAN, having fourteen years' experience at Music Trade, requires a RE-ENGAGEMENT. Has a thorough knowledge of the catalogues, reads at sight, and is proficient at selling instruments. Unexceptional references. Address, G. F., 65, Mill Street, Liverpool.

W HITSUNTIDE and ANNIVERSARY MUSIC.

The Committee of the Pudsey and D.S.S. Union offer Prizes of £3, £2, and £1, for the composition of Psalm Tune with Chorus. Conditions, send stamped addressed envelope to Mr. Isaac Windsor, Bottom of Hammerton Field, Pudsey, near Leeds.

WANTED, a DOUBLE PEDAL HARP, in good condition. Address, Chr. Bachmann, Musicseller, Hanover Germany).

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., Post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing-Class Tutor, 14th edition, 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 18, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

BUSINESS for SALE.—A long-established MUSIC BUSINESS and TEACHING in a large town 50 miles from London, the present proprietor having been most successful in securing a large connection in teaching various instruments. The house is well situated, with elegant shop, plate-glass front, &c. Satisfactory reasons for relinquishing business. For particulars apply to H. Journet, 43, Tottenham Court Road, London, W.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned instrument, built by FORSTER and ANDREWS, Hull. 8 stops on great; 8 on swell. Open diapason, 16 ft. on pedal organ. Full particulars of W. White, Music Warehouse, Grantham.

ORGAN for SALE, suitable for Church or Gentleman's Mansion.—Two manuals, C to F, 25 stops; 8 on great, including CC; trumpet, 8 on swell, including 2 reeds and double diapason; 16 ft. tone on manual, and super octave and tremulant; 3 or pedal organ. Speaking front comprises open diapason, including two towers, which could be raised to suit height of building; polished pine case, of handsome design; 2 composition pedals to great, 2 to swell; concave and straight pedals, C to F, 30 notes. Would lead 1,500 people or more, and would stand in 9 ft. space, exclusive of pedals. Total number of pipes, 984. Price £275 or reasonable offer; as unforeseen circumstances have taken place part of money could remain. A. G. B., 34, Studholme Street, Asylum Road, S.E.

ORGAN, with three manuals (second-hand), by one of the best London makers. Six stops, full compass of pedals. Suitable for studio or practice. Price £70. Particulars of Henry Jones and Sons, Organ Factory, Fulham Road, South Kensington.

A FULL-SCALE CHURCH ORGAN, with two complete manuals, CC to G, 56 notes, 16 speaking stops all throughout, 3 couplers, 4 composition pedals, tremulant, &c., ready for immediate delivery. Particulars of Henry Jones and Sons, Fulham Road, South Kensington.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE.—Powerful toned instrument by BEVINGTON. Nine Stops, from Bourdon to Sesqui Altera. One Manual. Pedal Compass, CCC. Three Composition and a Swell Pedals. Pipes handsomely decorated. To be seen at the Congregational Chapel, High Street, Smethwick. Enquiries addressed to Mr. Cook, Chapel-keeper, Brewery Street, will receive attention, from whom also the keys of the Chapel can be obtained.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE (new). Price £250. Grand toned instrument. 17 ft. high, 10 ft. wide, 7 ft. deep. Pitchpine case. Suited for congregation of 800. Inspection invited. W. Samuel, 62, Montague Road, Dalston.

CHURCH ORGAN, with 2 manuals, 14 stops, and full-compass pedals, in perfectly sound condition, to be SOLD cheap, to make room for larger instrument. Particulars from Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

CHURCH ORGAN. Sweet tone. Two CC manuals and pedal Bourdon, 2½ octaves. £79. Space needed. Ingram, Burnard Place, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, W.

ORGAN, Two-manuals and pedals, 8 stops on great, 5 on swell, pedal Bourdon, and 2 couplers. Price £100. Several others—one, two, and three manuals—to be sold cheap. G. Field, 58, Erskine Street, Hulme, Manchester. Agent for W. Hill and Son, London.

FOR SALE, three-manual ORGAN. 21 stops. A fine-toned instrument. Handsome case, richly decorated pipes, &c. Price £170. Apply to the London Music Publishing Company (Limited), 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

TWO MANUALS, 12 stops, pedal bourdon. Fine tone; hand and foot blowers. Carved oak case. Suit small church, or excellent practice. £125. C. A., 177, Great Portland Street.

TO AMATEUR ORGAN BUILDERS.—A Six-foot BOURDON SOUND-BOARD, with Pipes and Action complete. Quite new, £5. 48, St. John's Villas, Upper Holloway.

ADVERTISER having two or three AMERICAN ORGANS of the best make for DISPOSAL, offers commission to any one to sell or introduce purchasers. Easy terms may be arranged. Instruments delivered new from the Makers. Particulars of H., 25, Falkland Road, London, N.

MANDOLINES, by VINACCIA and other Neapolitan makers. Pens and Strings. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W.

VIOLIN QUARTETTO for SALE—viz., two Violins (NICOLAUS AMATIUS Cremoniensis, Hieronimi filii Anton nepos a. 1675-1685); one Viola (ANTONIO STRADIVARIUS Cremoniensis, a. 1650); one Cello (by JOHANN GEORG THIRO, of Vienna, a. 1756). On view at Mr. Rudolf Miksch, K. K. Steuerbeamter, Prag-Smichov, Haus "Celna" (second floor).

A GENUINE NICOLAUS AMATI VIOLIN for SALE. Magnificent tone. Apply, Rev. T. H. Spinney, Newborough Vicarage, Burton-on-Trent.

ANCIENT CREMONA VIOLINS—D. MONTAGNANA, 1723, and J. GUARNERIO—of beautiful melody, in most perfect condition, to be sold privately. Address, F. Cella, 23, Hop Exchange, London, S.E.

MAYSON'S CELEBRATED VIOLINS (Oil Var-nished by Wood). Permanent classical film colours (amber). Finest modern art work on earth. From £5. Wood, Artist, Blindley Heath, Redhill.

THE "CARRODUS" VIOLINS (named by permission of J. T. Carrodus, Esq., the Eminent Violinist) are the very best modern fiddles. Remarkable beauty; exceptional workmanship; splendid tone; reasonable price. Through any Professor or Dealer. Testimonials and price lists from Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London, E.C.

VIOLINS, &c.COLLIN - MÉZIN À PARIS.

GEORGE WITHERS and CO.,

VIOLIN and BOW MAKERS and REPAIRERS,

51, ST. MARTIN'S LANE, LONDON,

Sole Agents.

VIOLIN STRINGS.—Finest Italian, three firsts, Post-free as sample, for thirteen stamps. Alphonse Cary, Newbury.

FINEST Italian VIOLIN STRINGS, by RUFFINI, of Naples. Guaranteed genuine. Sample String for 7, or 3 for 18 Stamps. Henry Marshall, 48, Rowena Crescent, Battersea, London.

THE "UNRIVALLED" ITALIAN VIOLIN STRINGS. To be had only of Mr. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W., on whose premises there is also a fine assortment of old Italian Violins. Price list on application.

ARNENTERON VIOLIN STRINGS.—The best that can be made. True, durable, properly gauged, pure tone, thoroughly reliable. A sample free on application. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, E.C.

TRY ETHERDYNE, the great Voice Strengtheners, and best Remedy known for Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Coughs, Bronchitis, &c. No Singer, once having used it, is ever afterwards without it. Numerous unsolicited testimonials. In bottles, 1s. 1d.; post-free for 1s. 3d. Sole Proprietor, W. Griffith, A. Mus. T.C.L., and Chemist, Dalton-in-Furness, Lancs.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.—Twenty Copies of the WOMAN of SAMARIA for SALE. In good condition. 1s. 9d. each. Abdy Williams, 11, Cathcart Road, S.W.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly's Organ Harmoniums are the "only instruments" of English manufacture that gained "any award" at the Dublin and Paris Exhibitions.

A liberal discount for Schools and Charitable Institutions. Three hundred Second-hand Pianofortes by the leading makers, at all times very cheap. New Pianos (warranted), in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minorities, London.

MESSRS. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.,

Invite an inspection of their unrivalled Collection of

OVER THREE HUNDREDOLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS,*AND DOUBLE-BASSES.Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS's celebrated BOWS.
The only Makers of theNEW QUEEN'S MODEL*PIANO AND AMERICAN ORGAN CHAIRS

From 25s.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSICor the Performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly
by experienced Workmen.

NEWLY REVISED AND ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.TO MUSICAL STUDENTS AND THE PROFESSION.*NEW PATENT TOUCH REGULATOR*FOR PIANOFORTES (UPRIGHTS ONLY)*INVENTED BY E. A. SYDENHAM.

This invention can be applied with the greatest advantage to either new Pianos which have a light touch or to Pianos in which the touch has become loose or almost worn out; it requires no fastening whatever, being simply laid on the Keys inside the Piano; it does not require the intervention of a Pianoforte Maker, but can be applied with the greatest ease by any one in about the space of one minute.

EXTRACTS FROM TESTIMONIALS.

"I do not doubt that Mr. Sydenham's New Touch Regulator will prove of great value to all Pianoforte Students who may make use of it."

"C. SWINNERTON HEAP, Mus. Doc."

"Will prove a boon to thousands of Piano Students."

"ARTHUR O'LEARY, Fellow of the R.A.M."

"I believe it will greatly help to strengthen both wrist and fingers."

"OSCAR BERINGER."

"75, New York Street, C.-on-M., Manchester."

"DEAR SIR.—I received the regulator this morning, and am highly pleased with it, as it has transformed an almost worthless Pianoforte into a very useful one for technical practice, indeed I am surprised at such a result from so simple a contrivance.—Yours sincerely,"

"Sept. 8, 1888."

"HERBERT YATES."

Price One Guinea (liberal discount to the profession).

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY and CO., Music
Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, W., undertake the REVISING,
PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS,
Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

THE OLD FIRM.P. CONACHER & CO.,Organ Builders,SPRINGWOOD WORKS,*HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,ORGAN BUILDERS,*PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1811.)

*Specifications and Estimates sent free.JAMES CONACHER AND SONS,*ORGAN BUILDERS,*BATH BUILDINGS, HUDDERSFIELD.

Gold Medal awarded, Bradford Technical School Exhibition, 1882.

*Specifications and Estimates free of charge.D'ALMAINE'S*PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 102 years.

ALFRED MONK, Organ Builder, Works and
Showrooms, 550, Holloway Road, London. Organs built to any dimension. The most valuable selection of high-class Stops, and complete and perfect in scales, at the most reasonable prices. Estimates sent free. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Inspection invited to view the Works and Organs in course of construction and the large stock of seasoned materials.

ORGANS FOR SALE OR HIRE ON EASY TERMS.

Second-hand two-manual Organ, 8 stops; ditto, 12 stops; ditto, 14 stops; ditto, 15 stops; six one-manual Organs.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New Attachment by Pneumatics. Very simple, and perfect touch. Wonderfully cheap. Write for full particulars and price lists. Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

F. C.O.—The "COLLEGE" PEDAL AMERICAN
ORGANS are the only instruments at which an Organist can find himself "at home." Prices, &c., of the Makers, Ed. Snell & Co., 32, Ledbury Road, Bayswater, W. Pedal Organs from £8 10s.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES AND THE PROFESSION.

SECOND-HAND STEINWAY FULL CONCERT
GRANDS.—A limited number of these celebrated Instruments, which have been in Concert use, will shortly be offered on exceptional terms to the Profession. Full particulars may be obtained on application to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, London, W.; or of their various Provincial Agents.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE
BANDS, PIANOFORTES, and HARMONIUMS supplied at wholesale prices, at J. MOORE'S, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, Post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the Army, Navy, and Rifle Corps.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c., 29, Minories, London. List for stamp.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.

2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN:

Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d., P.O.O. to

A. HEMSTOCK, Organist, Dias.

"Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."—

Musical Standard."Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY.

Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.

CONDUCTED BY

Mr. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music.
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY is prepared to provide Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glee, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c. Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading Vocalists and Orchestral Players will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY can supply First-class SOLO CHOIR BOYS, who are thoroughly trained in most of the Oratorios and Cantatas. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed. Dates are now being booked for November and December.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY provides Choir, Full Orchestra (first-class performers), and the principal singers for Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous Concerts, &c. All letters, telegrams, &c., should be addressed to Mr. H. Tuddenham,
304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

Mr. Stedman's Musical Agency

(Established for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),

12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

TO CONCERT-GIVERS AND ENTREPRENEURS GENERALLY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform Projectors of Concerts, Managers of Operas, Operettas, and Entrepreneurs generally that he is prepared to arrange for large or small parties of artists of all positions in the profession, and for Concert Tours. All details of management undertaken without the slightest trouble to those favouring Mr. Stedman with their wishes. Terms upon application.

TO THE CLERGY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform the Clergy that he has established a REGISTRY of ORGANISTS, CHOIRMEN, and CHORISTERS seeking APPOINTMENTS, which is open to their inspection, and they are invited either to call or to write stating their requirements. From his personal knowledge of the qualifications of Organists and Singers, Mr. Stedman is able to give the Clergy valuable information as a guide to selection.

CHURCH FESTIVALS arranged and carried out in all details.

CHOIR-BOYS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to supply good SOLO CHOIR-BOYS for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c.

MUSIC FOR BANQUETS, &c.

MR. STEDMAN undertakes the music (and all the necessary details) for Banquets of City Companies, Masonic Lodges, &c., at the shortest notice.

ORCHESTRAS AND CHOIRS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to provide CHOIRS and ORCHESTRAS for the performance of Oratorios and Cantatas.

MR. STEDMAN will be happy to advise his clients upon all professional matters, confidential or otherwise, either by letter or personally by previous appointment at his Offices, 12, Berners Street, London, W.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MUSICAL AGENCY,

AND AT PARIS AND NEW YORK.

Principal, W. SEXTON, Vicar-Choral, Westminster Abbey, and Principal of the English and Italian College of Music.

447, WEST STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station).

MR. SEXTON desires to inform his friends that his Agency is established for every requirement in the Musical Profession. For the sale or purchase of any Musical Business and Teaching connection, providing Vocal and Instrumental Masters in Colleges and Schools, and Musical Governesses; also Assistants and Tuners in Music Warehouses. He is personally acquainted with nearly all the Musical Profession in London, and is able to supply Artists at most moderate charges.

MR. SEXTON arranges CONCERTS of every description: Glee Parties; Miscellaneous, Ballad, Operatic, and Smoking Concerts; Music for Banquets; Garden Parties; Masonic Business. Tours arranged. Five Guinea Concerts in London, 20 items.

MR. SEXTON has an experienced BAND for Oratorios, Operas, Balls, and Dances; and supplies principal Vocalists for Oratorios, and Leaders in Chorus. Oratorios and Cantatas conducted. Choirs trained. Ladies' Choir of 12 voices.

MR. SEXTON provides CHOIRBOYS and CHOIRMEN for Choirs, as Soloists, Assistants at Church Services and Festivals, or Appointments. A Choir of 12 boys for Concerts. Clergy and Organists invited to apply for all requirements.

MR. SEXTON revises and corrects Authors' Manuscripts. Lithographic or printed copies supplied. Publishing completed at cheap rates. Music copied and transposed. Ancient music obtained.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

MR. SEXTON'S MUSIC-LENDING LIBRARY. Oratorios, Cantatas, Choruses, Part songs, and all description of Vocal Music and Band Parts lent on hire. Send for Catalogue.

MR. SEXTON teaches LADIES and BOYS SINGING and the PIANO-FORTE. Class for Choir Boys, Solo Singing, and Rudiments, on Saturdays. Choristers to Westminster Abbey and Londonderry Cathedral. Boys wanted for several Cathedral Appointments.

MR. SEXTON gives FINISHING LESSONS to Young ARTISTS with good voices, and good Engagements when efficient. Letters and telegrams, as above.

MR. PERCY WHYTE'S CONCERT COMPANY

(Season 1888-89).—Open to Engagements for Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, or Sacred and Secular Concerts. Mr. PERCY WHYTE, of the principal Liverpool and Provincial Concerts, has great pleasure in submitting to the notice of his patrons and the public the accompanying list of Artists, any of whom may be engaged singly or otherwise on the most reasonable terms. Concert Parties of any number of Artists may be made up from the undermentioned list of vocalists:—Miss FANNY BOUFFLEUR, Soprano (of the Liverpool, Manchester, Preston, and Southport Concerts); Miss HARRIETTE RUTHERFORD, Contralto (of the London, Liverpool, and Provincial Concerts); Mr. PERCY WHYTE, Tenor (of the Liverpool, Sheffield, Preston, and Southport Concerts); Mr. GEORGE PLATT, Baritone (of the Preston, Southport, and Leicester Concerts); Mr. FRANK WESTON, Solo Violoncello (of the Birmingham, Leeds, Newcastle, and Scarboro' Concerts); Mr. H. J. NICHOLLS, Buffo (of the Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Preston Concerts), Author and Composer of Operetta, "Figaro Junior," and the following original Buffo Songs, &c.: "Comparisons," "Le Jeune Français," "The Dry-land Sailors," "A Lullaby," "Blue Beard," "Blue Bottle," &c., &c.

Mr. PERCY WHYTE'S QUARTET—viz, Miss FANNY BOUFFLEUR, Miss HARRIETTE RUTHERFORD, Mr. E. J. MACREADY, and Mr. GEORGE PLATT. Mr. HUBERT WHITTINGHAM, Organist, Childwall Church, Liverpool, Accompanist.

The above Company having completed a most successful series of engagements at the following (among other) towns: Sheffield, Leicester, Barrow-in-Furness, Nantwich, Oldham, Mossley, Blackburn, Preston, Liverpool, &c., are now booking dates for the winter season. Full particulars, press opinions, and specimen programmes sent upon application to Mr. Percy Whyte, Laburnum Villa, Church Road, Stanley, Liverpool.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S CONCERT COMPANIES.—The following dates are already booked:—

1888.	December 17	Manchester.
August 23 ...	" 18	Oldham.
" 30 ...	" 22	Glasgow.
" 31 ...	" 29	Bolton.
September 4 ...		1889.
" 14 ...	January 5 ...	Bradford.
" 19 ...	" 12 ...	Manchester.
" 21 ...	" 26 ...	Leeds.
" 24 ...	" 29 ...	Darwen.
October 3 ...	February 2 ...	Bolton.
" 8 ...	" 5 ...	Dewsbury.
" 9 ...	" 9 ...	Preston.
" 13 ...	" 12 ...	Oldham.
" 16 ...	" 16 ...	Bury.
" 20 ...	" 23 ...	Manchester.
" 24 ...	March 1 ...	Liverpool.
November 2 ...	" 2 ...	Leeds.
" 10 ...	" 9 ...	Bradford.
" 17 ...	" 16 ...	Bolton.
December 1 ...	" 19 ...	Oldham.
" 11	" 23 ...	Bury.
" 15	" 30 ...	Preston.

Bookings in progress with Edinburgh, Dublin, Belfast, Newcastle, &c., &c.

Telegrams: Cantor, Liverpool. Letters: Church Street, Liverpool.

THE LIVERPOOL CONCERT PARTY.

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c.

Madame LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).

Miss ANNIE RICHARDSON (Contralto).

Mr. THOMAS BARLOW (Tenor).

Mr. EDWARD GRIME (Bass).

Masters C. and A. ROSS (Solo Pianist and Violinist).

Mr. R. D. RODGERS (Humorist). Miss RICHARDSON (Accompanist).

For particulars, terms, &c., address, Miss Richardson, 6, Abercromby Terrace, Liverpool.

JAMES RUSSELL AND CO.,

120, High Street, Oxford,

THE OXFORD CONCERT AGENTS,

Share, Commission, or Purchase. Vacant dates for October, November, and December.

MR. W. H. BURGON'S "OPERA COMPANY."

RECITALS in costume, from "Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," &c. Special programme: 1st part, Ballads, &c.; 2nd part, "Garden Scene," from "Faust." This highly successful entertainment is suitable either for Concert Hall or Theatre. For terms, &c., address, C. T. Johnson, 57, Berners Street, W.

MR. C. T. JOHNSON has Concert Parties booked for Whitechurch, November 13; Middlesbrough, 14; Oldham, 21; Burnley, 27; Accrington, 28; Stockton-on-Tees, December 18; Swindon, 19; Inverness, 25; Montrose, 28; Aberdeen, 29; Greenock, January 30. For Engagements en route, address, 57, Berners Street, W.

MADAME FLORENCE WYDFORD'S GRAND

EVENING CONCERT will take place at the Bridge House Hotel, London Bridge, S.E., on MONDAY, November 26. For engagements, address, 95, St. Paul's Road, Lorrimer Square, S.E.

TO CONCERT-GIVERS and others.—Madame and the Misses PORTER (the London Lady Quartet). Engagements: Autumn, Midlands; December, Bath, London, &c.; January, Sussex; February, Midlands, York-shire, Lancashire. A few vacant dates. Also Miss GERTIE (Solo Violinist and Leader) and Miss AMY (Solo Cellist) open to Engagements. 17, Formosa St., Maida Hill, W.

MUSIC FOR ADVENT.

ANTHEMS.

It is high time ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
When shades of night, Hymn ...	J. Barnby	2d.
O that I knew where I might find Him (St. Thomas's Day)
Sir W. Sterndale Bennett	3d.
Dies iræ, dies illæ ...	W. T. Best	3d.
Rejoice greatly ...	H. Gadsby	3d.
Prepare ye the way of the Lord ...	Dr. Garrett	3d.
Thou wilt keep Him in perfect peace ...	H. J. Gauntlett	3d.
The wilderness and the solitary place ...	Sir J. Goss	6d.
Blessed is He who cometh ...	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
When the Son of Man ...	Kent	4d.
Who is this that cometh? ...	Kent	6d.
Hosanna to the Son of David ...	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
Day of anger, day of mourning ("Dies iræ," from the Requiem)	Mozart	6d.
Rejoice in the Lord ...	S. Reay	1½d.
The night is far spent ...	Montem Smith	1½d.
Hosanna in the highest ...	Dr. Stainer	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord ...	John Redford	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion ...	Dr. H. Hiles	6d.
The grace of God that bringeth salvation ...	J. Barnby	1½d.
Thou Judge of quick and dead ...	S. S. Wesley	3d.
Hearken unto Me, My people ...	A. Sullivan	1½d.

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score and Vocal Parts.

THE BENEDICITE.

GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1 in F, No. 2 in E flat, No. 3 in G)	each	4d.
W. T. BEST ...	3d.
J. BARNBY ...	3d.
JOHN FOSTER ...	3d.
MONTM SMITH (two settings) ...	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings) ...	1½d.
REV. C. A. WICKES (two settings) ...	2d.
HENRY GADSBY ...	2d.
C. E. MILLER ...	2d.
DR. STAINER, R. DR. LACEY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS	1½d.
DR. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER ...	1½d.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH"

By SCHUMANN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

By REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

O LORD, THOU ART MY GOD. Four voices...	3d.
AND
IN THE BEGINNING. Four voices ...	3d.
COMPOSED BY
E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA

SET TO A QUADRUPE CHANT

BY

ALBERT WOOD.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS

By EDWARD H. BIRCH, Mus. BAC., OXON.

JESU! NATUS HODIE.

NEAR NAZARETH CITY.

Price Twopence; also,

MAGNIFICAT & NUNC DIMITTIS IN F.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS

ANTHEMS, SERVICES, &c.,

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST C. WINCHESTER,

Organist and Choirmaster, Christ Church, Southwark, London.

ANTHEM. "There were shepherds" (No. 21 of Series) ...	s. d.
ANTHEM. "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem" (No. 38) ...	0 3
TE DEUM. Service in F (No. 25) ...	0 3
TE DEUM. Chant Form (No. 6), 3d.; also Nos. 32, 36, & 46, each ...	0 2
BENEDICTUS (Nos. 9 & 10), 1½d. and 2d. each. JUBILATE ...	0 1½
COMMUNION SERVICE, complete (No. 41) ...	0 4
KYRIE ELEISON (two Settings), Doxologies and NICENE ...	0 2
CREED (No. 49) ...	0 2
AGNUS DEI (No. 27), 1½d. BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT ...	0 1½
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (No. 16) ...	0 3
OFFERTORY ANTHEM. "Be merciful" (No. 51) ...	0 1½
TALLIS'S FESTIVAL RESPONSES (as sung at Christ Church, Southwark) ...	0 1½
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in F (No. 34) ...	0 3
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Chant form (Nos. 17 and 48) ...	0 3
GRAND FESTIVAL MARCH for ORGAN ...	1 6

ALSO ADVENT MUSIC.

ANTHEM. "Blessed is He that cometh" (No. 28) ...	0 1½
ANTHEM. "The Lord is my Shepherd" (No. 50) ...	0 3
BENEDICTE (Nos. 8, 35, and 42) ...	each 0 2
PRECES and RESPONSES (special Settings for Advent)	0 1
GREGORIAN ARRANGEMENTS: Venite, 1d.; Te Deum, 1½d.; Benedictus, 1½d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 2d.;
Deus miseratur ...	0 1
THE LITANY (No. 39) ...	0 2
THREE SOFT VOLUNTARIES for ORGAN ...	1 0

WINCHESTER'S CHURCH

MUSIC SERIES consists of new and original ANTHEMS, MORNIN', EVENING, and COMMUNION SERVICES, HYMN TUNES, &c. (51 Nos. now issued). Bound Vols. of WINCHESTER'S CHURCH-MUSIC SERIES, Nos. 1 to 50, bound in cloth, gilt, red edges ... 4 0
Nos. 1 to 45, paper covers ... 3 0
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER,

Organist of St. Mary Magdalene, Worcester.

POPULAR, EASY, MELODIOUS, AND EFFECTIVE.

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. New. 2nd Ed. 4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-Fa Edition ...	3d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM. 3rd 1,000	3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR IN THE EAST. 11th Edition	4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 7th 1,000 ...	3d.
GLORY TO GOD. 7th Edition ...	3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN. 6th 1,000 ...	3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 7th Edition ...	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 18th Edition ...	3d.
(MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 9th 1,000 ...	3d.
TE DEUM IN F. 8th Edition ...	3d.
(MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. 15th Edition ...	4d.
These have been sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. 4th Edition	4d.
COMMUNION SERVICE. 2nd Edition ...	6d.
BENEDICTE. 2nd 1,000 ...	2d.
London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM. Easy, bright, and effective. 4th 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.
BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.

FESTIVAL ANTHEM. Suitable for any Festival or Special Service. Melodious and effective. 3rd 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.

PRaise THE LORD, O JERUSALEM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY

DAVID DAY.

Round us shines a glorious light. 2nd edition ...	2d.
By the same Composer.
Te Deum laudamus, Chantwise ...	2d.
Four original Kyrie Eleisons ...	5d.
Six original Hymn Tunes to favourite Hymns ...	4d.
EVENING SERVICES.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D ...	4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

ANTHEMS.

*In the beginning ...	... G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful ...	... J. Bach	3d.
Drop down, ye heavens ...	... J. Barnby	1½d.
Holy night ...	... J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God, that bringeth salvation ...	... J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice ...	... J. Barnby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings ...	... J. Barnby	3d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	... A. H. Brown	1½d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	... Giovanni Croce	1½d.
*Arise, shine, for thy light is come ...	... Sir Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem ...	... J. T. Field	1½d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion ...	... H. Gadsby	1½d.
Hail! Thou that art highly favoured ...	... Arthur Carnall	4d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings ...	... Sir J. Goss	1½d.
O sing to God (Noël), (Female Voices)	... Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël), (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	... Ch. Gounod	1½d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah")	... Handel	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem ...	... E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Sing, O heavens ...	... Kent	4d.
For unto us was born ...	... Sir G. A. Macfarren	3d.
While all things were in quiet silence	... Sir G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ...	... The Earl of Mar	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye people ...	... Mendelssohn	1½d.
Let our song of praise ...	... Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a child is born	... W. H. Monk	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord ...	... Vincent Novello	1½d.
Glory to God in the highest ...	... Pergolesi	1½d.
*Break forth into joy ...	... T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	... C. W. Smith	1½d.
The light hath shined ...	... E. Silas	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together ...	... Dr. Stainer	6d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings ...	... Dr. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts ...	... Dr. Stainer	1½d.
*The angel Gabriel was sent from God	... H. Smart	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word ...	... E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens ...	... B. Tours	1½d.
*This is the day which the Lord hath made	... J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined ...	... C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings ...	... Vittoria	1½d.
*Blessed be the Lord God of Israel ...	... Dr. S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*Glory be to God on high ...	... Dr. S. S. Wesley	2d.
*While Shepherds watched ...	... W. T. Best	1½d.
Behold, I bring ...	... Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
Behold, a star appeareth ...	... Niels W. Gade	4d.

Anthem marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.
Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score and Vocal Parts.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS AND CAROLS.

Adeste Fideles ("O come, all ye faithful")	Arr. by V. Novello	1½d.
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn	... W. H. Monk	1½d.
Hark! the herald angels sing ...	... J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
" " " " " "	... Dr. Ions	1½d.
" " " " " "	... Mendelssohn	1½d.
Now join we all with holy mirth	... J. Stainer	1d.
O come, all ye faithful ...	... J. Barnby	1½d.
Of the Father's love begotten ...	... Rev. J. B. Dykes	1½d.
See, the morning star ...	... Dr. E. G. Monk	1½d.
Shades of silent night ...	... Samuel Gee	1½d.
There were whisperings ...	... J. T. Cooper	1½d.
O come, all ye faithful ...	... Old Melody	1d.
Approach, all ye faithful ...	... J. Barnby	1d.
Christians, awake! ...	... Sir J. Goss	1d.
Hark! the hosts of heaven are singing	... Henry Smart	1d.
O come, new anthems let us sing	... H. J. Gauntlett	1d.
Hark! the heavens' sweet melody ...	... Sir J. Goss	1d.
O come, loud anthems let us sing	... S. S. Wesley	1d.
Christ is born, tell forth His fame	... Ch. Gounod	1d.
Come, ye nations, thankful own	... Sir G. Elvey	1d.
Hark! the Herald Angels sing ...	... Mendelssohn	1d.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

HAIL! THOU THAT ART
HIGHLY FAVOURED

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR CARNALL, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

Price Fourpence.

(No. 326. Novello's Octavo Anthems.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PART-SONGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

*A Christmas Madrigal ...	... T. Ions	1½d.
A New Year's Carol ...	... James Shaw	1½d.
A wreath for Christmas...	... Bartholomew	1½d.
Caput apri defero ...	... R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
Christmas ...	... G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
Come, let us be merry ...	... R. L. de Pearsall	1½d.
*Hollyberries ...	... Dr. Westbrook	1½d.
*In dulci júbilo ...	... R. L. de Pearsall	3d.
*New Year's song ...	... B. Tours	1½d.
*Oh the roast beef of Old England		1½d.
The Christmas fairies ...	... C. Goodban	1½d.
*The last night of the year ...	... A. Sullivan	1½d.
The waits ...	... Saville	1½d.
Up, brothers, up ...	... J. B. Calkin	1½d.

* These published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. and 1½d. each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGAN MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.

SIX ORGAN PIECES (Book V. of "Collec-	net.
tion of Organ Pieces") ...	s. d.
POSTLUDE ...	3 0
OFFERTOIRE ("The Modern Organist,"	Dr. Garrett 1 6
No. 9) ...
OFFERTORIUM (Four Organ Pieces, No. 2)	Léfebure-Wély 2 6
VOLUNTARY ...	J. Lemmens 2 6
	Sir Fred. Ouseley 2 6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MENDELSSOHN'S

SIX CHRISTMAS PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS MORN

A BIBLICAL PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THE REV. S. J. STONE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HENRY LESLIE.

Vocal Score, 8vo, 2s. 6d. Vocal Parts, 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS EVE

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR ALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS

Words by F. R. HAVERGAL

MUSIC BY

A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Carols for Christmastide

SET TO MUSIC

FOR LITTLE SINGERS

BY

GEORGE FOX.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TEN

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT

MUS. D., CANTAB.

Complete, in Wrapper, One Shilling.
Or, in separate Numbers, One Penny each.

Also, by the same Composer,

TWO PIANOFORTE PIECES

(ROMANCE AND MAZURKA)

Price Two Shillings net,

SONG, "THE STREAMLET"

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net,
AND

PART-SONG, "OVER HILL, OVER DALE"

Octavo, price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMAS.

WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN	J. T. FIELD	2d.
(In Excelsis Gloria)
WHAT CHILD IS THIS?	J. T. FIELD	2d.
SLEEP! HOLY BABE
CAROL FOR CHRISTMAS DAY

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS, &c., by VYVYAN WALLIS
POPHAM.
All my heart. Solo and Chorus	6d.
Christians, be thankful	3d.
While Shepherds (old Cornish Carol)	2d.
Offertory Sentences	6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THE BELL CAROL. Music by W. C. AINLEY,
Mus. B., Cantab. Price One Penny, from the COMPOSER, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

NEW CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

CHILD DIVINE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD.
Music by J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc. 2d.
JOY, YE PEOPLE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD,
M.A. Price 2d.IN SORROW AND IN WANT. Words by Archdeacon FARRAR. 3d.CHRISTMAS BELLS. A Four-part Song. Words from "In Memoriam," by ALFRED TENNYSON. 4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, "Behold, I bring you,"
"O praise the Lord." Glee, "Hurrah for merry Old Christmas."
By W. H. BIRCH, 5, Jesse Terrace, Reading.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS and GLEES.
O let my mouth be filled with praise	...	H. Wilcock	3d.
Great is the Lord	...	"	3d.
Blessed be the Lord...	...	"	3d.
Bless the Lord, O my soul (Tonic and Old Note)	...	Harper	2d.
Jehovah is my strength	" "	Mayland	2d.
O love the Lord	" "	"	2d.
Glees—The Village Choir...	...	H. Wilcock	3d.
Old Christmas has arrived again	...	"	2d.
Minster Bells	...	Mayland	2d.
Specimen Copy, One Penny each.
London: WILCOCK BROS., Moorgate Station Arcade, E.C.

Specimen Copy, One Penny each.

London: WILCOCK BROS., Moorgate Station Arcade, E.C.

FOR CHRISTMAS.—IN THE BEGINNING
WAS THE WORD. By WM. JOHNSON. Easy, full Anthem.
Price 2d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.IN THE DAYS OF HEROD THE KING.
Anthem for Christmas, by W. H. HOLLOWAY. Duet and Chorus.
Price Threepence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.ANTHEM.—O HOW AMIABLE ARE THY DWELLINGS. Suitable for opening services or general use.
Also Anthem, TRACH ME THY WAY. Short Morning Motett. For Cathedral or parish use. By W. H. WILSON. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co."An able composition, well suited to the season for which it is written, and free from difficulties that may cause uncertainty in performance."—Church Times.

There were Shepherds

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-halfpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THROUGH THE MIDNIGHT AIR

By F. W. DAWKINS

(Organist, St. James's, Hampton Hill).

Price 2d.; Words, 1s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

By E. BUNNETT, Mus. D., CANTAB.

Festival Anthems—

"I will magnify Thee." Four Voices. Octavo	3d.
"I was glad when they said unto me." Four Voices. Octavo	3d.
Te Deum in E. Octavo	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E. Octavo	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A. Octavo	3d.
Cantate and Deus misereatur in E. Octavo	3d.
Office of the Holy Communion. Octavo	9d.
"Ave Maria." Soprano Solo. Folio	net 1s. 6d.
"Amen." For Four Voices. (Card)	1d.

ORGAN MUSIC.

No. 1. Larghetto espressivo	net.
2. Andantino in G	1s.
3. Festal March	1s.
4. Andante religioso in E	6d.
5. Funeral March in C minor	1s.
6. Fantasia and Fugue in D	1s.

Or, the whole complete, 3s.

"Ave Maria." Arranged for the Organ	1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat	1s.
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ. For use between Offertory Sentences, &c.	2s.

And all other Works by the same Composer. Lists on application.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC. By Dr. E. J. CROW.

Te Deum and Jubilate in C	9d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	6d.
Cantate and Deus misereatur in G	8d.
Harvest Hymn. (6s. per 100)	1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SMALLWOOD'S (WM.) FESTAL AND GENERAL
ANTHEMS.

No. 1. THE LORD REIGNETH. Easter, Whitsuntide, or General.
2. THUS SAITH THE LORD, THE KING OF ISRAEL. Easter, Trinity, or General.
3. PRAISED BE THE LORD DAILY. Harvest, Easter, or Whitsuntide.
4. I WILL MAGNIFY THEE, O GOD, MY KING. Festival or General.
5. IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD. Christmas.
6. I WILL GIVE THANKS. Easter, Ascension, or General.
7. ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Harvest or General.

Price 2d. each.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

FOUR ANTHEMS

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS JACKSON.

IN THEE, O LORD. Price 4d.

O GOD, THOU ART MY GOD. Price 4d.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS. Price 4d.

O PRAISE THE LORD. Price 3d.

These Anthems will be found useful for Festival occasions, being bright, effective, and not difficult.

May be had from R. JACKSON, 23, Barker Street, Oldham.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES, complete, 4d.

Arranged in simple form for Parish Choirs, by C. CLAPHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE

SET TO ANCIENT MELODIES

BY THE

REV. THOMAS HELMORE. M.A.

Words, principally in imitation of the original, by the REV. J. M. NEALE, D.D.

18mo, Melody only	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	s.	d.
" " " in packets of 50	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	20	0
" Compressed Score	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	1	0
Folio, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	4	6
Words only	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	0	1½
" " in packets of 50	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	...	5	0

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG

A COLLECTION OF SACRED AND MORAL SONGS

With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 45 Illustrations, cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES & SONGS

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOLIDAY SONGS

Written by C. F. ALEXANDER

MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUVENILE ALBUM

EIGHT CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

(FOUR HANDS)

The Primo Part being generally within the Compass of Five Notes

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

(NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS, No. 26.)

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published, price 3s.
THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS. An Oratorio, by Dr. STATHAM. Ellesmere-Port, Chester.
 Liverpool: JAMES SMITH and SON, 76 and 74, Lord Street.
 London: CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond Street, W.

Just published.
THE HAPPY HEART. A Four-part Song.
 Words by T. DEKKER; the Music composed by A. MARKE-
 WOOD. Price 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HANDEL FESTIVAL SELECTION, 1888.

A few Copies of the Selection remaining from this year's Handel Festival may still be had.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NEW DRAMATIC ORATORIO

EZEKIEL

COMPOSED BY

R. MACHILL GARTH.

WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY THE

REV. C. R. LINTON.

Price 4s.; stiff boards, 4s. 6d.

Special terms for Choral and other Societies.

Score and Orchestral Parts may be had of the Publishers,
 LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALSO, BY THE SAME COMPOSER,

NEW FESTIVAL EVENING SERVICE

IN E FLAT.

Price 1s.; or, 8s. per dozen.

Now ready.

THE

RED CROSS KNIGHT

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

COMPOSED BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

(Op. 24.)

The Accompaniments arranged from the Full Score for HARMONIUM AND PIANOFORTE

BY THE COMPOSER.

Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.

	Net.
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song.) s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)
KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner...	2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song)	2 0
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)
THE ZINGARA	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)
THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford	2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq.	2 0
NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq.	2 0
THE LITTLE LASS O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition	2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook	2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE	2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition	0 2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition	0 2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 19th Edition	0 2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition	0 2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition	0 2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition	0 2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition	0 2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition	0 2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition	0 2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.)	0 3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDICOTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published)	6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published)	6d.
Humpty Dumpty	6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Jack and Jill	6d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)	6d.
Sobbing Quartet	3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song	4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song	4d.
Yule. Part-song	4d.
The Boy and the Bee	6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

New Humorous Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

BY

W. W. PEARSON.

THE CARRION CROW

AND

BEN BOWLEGS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HUMOROUS PART-SONG.

THE

THREE MERRY DWARFS

WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD.

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DICKORY, DICKORY, DOCK. Humorous Glee.
By ALFRED ALLEN. "The composer evinces considerable humour."—Saturday Review. Price 4d. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR PART-SONGS for CHRISTMAS

BY

WILLIAM J. YOUNG.

Hail! Merry Christmas	2nd thousand	2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	7th	3d.
Songs of praise the angels sang	7th	3d.
A Happy New Year	4th	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Manchester: HIME and ADDISON and WATSON and Co.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (26th thou.)... 2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)... 3d.		Welcome, young Spring!... 2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers... .. 2d.
Over the mountain side ... 3d.		The Dream of Home ... 2d.
Soul of living music ... 3d.		Summer and Winter ... 2d.
The Jäger Chorus	3d.	Departed Joys 2d.
The Stormy Petrel... ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep 1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Soldier, rest! 1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ... 3d.		Woods in Winter 1d.
The Oyster Dredgers	2d.	Autumn 1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (30th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	*The Ocean 3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (24th thou.) 3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked.*

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.) ... 2d.

—"Little Jack Horner" 4d.

(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)

Two-part Songs (s.c.)—"The Robin" 2d.

—"The Skylark" 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition. Popular Part-song.

THE RIVER FLOWETH STRONG, MY LOVE.

Music by ROLAND ROGERS, Mus. D. Price 4d. Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TO TAKE THE AIR A BONNIE LASS WAS WALKING.

A Madrigal for S.A.T.B. By W. WOLSTENHOLME, Mus. Bac, Oxon. Price 4d. Sol-fa 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Manchester: WATSON and Co.

Or of the COMPOSER, 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

Just published.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES

(A.T.B.B.)

GOOD MORROW

THE BRITISH GRENADIERS (ARRANGED)

By J. F. H. READ. Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HAROLD.—DRAMATIC CANTATA for SOLO VOICES and ORCHESTRA.

Founded on Lord Lytton's Historical Novel. The Poetry by the Rev. F. W. VERNHAM; the Music by J. F. H. READ. Performed at the Walthamstow Musical Festival for 1887. Price 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price.

THERE IS DEW FOR THE FLOW'RET.

Part-song by EATON FANING. Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND CHOIRBOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools.

Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs, For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

F. ST. JOHN LACY.

ANNABEL LEE. (Second Edition.) Ballad for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 4d. net.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING CO. (Limited), Great Marlboro' St.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA.

Barnby, J. (in E flat).....	8d.	Martin, George C. (in A).....	6d.
Bridge, Dr. J. F. (in G).....	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in A).....	6d.
Calkin, J. Baptist (in G).....	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in B flat).....	6d.
Fanning, Eaton (in C).....	6d.	Stanford, C. Villiers (in A).....	6d.
Gadsby, Henry (in C).....	6d.	Steggall, Dr. (in C).....	6d.
Lloyd, C. H. (in F).....	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in F).....	4d.
Mann, A. H., Dr. (in E).....	1s.	Tours, Berthold (in D).....	6d.
Martin, George C. (in C).....	6d.	Williams, C. L. (in F major).....	4d.
Wood, W. G. (in B flat).....	6d.

Cantate and Deus (in C), Dr. Steggall, 6d.

The above may also be performed either with strings and organ accompaniment or with organ only, when necessary.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY T. MEE PATTISON.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
	s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner. Cantata.....	2 6	6d.
" Curwen and Sons) Sol-fa (Published by Messrs.	—	—
The Lay of the Last Minstrel. Cantata.....	2 6	9d.
May-Day. Cantata.....	1 6	6d.
The Miracles of Christ. Sacred Cantata.....	2 0	9d.
London Cries. Popular School Cantata.....	2 0	6d.
Band parts of above Cantatas may be hired.
Thirteen Offertory Sentences.....	0 4	—
Six Kyries.....	0 2	—
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries.....	3 6	—

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY W. G. WOOD.

	s. d.
Three Canons for the Organ.....	net 2 0
Concert Fantasia and Fugue.....	2 0
Postlude in D.....	1 0
Allegro in C.....	1 0
Allegro (in the form of a Minuet).....	1 6
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F.....	0 3
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. For Voices, Organ, and Orchestra.....	net 0 6
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem, Anthem. For Festival or General use.....	net 0 4

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by ALFRED R. GAUL.

YULE TIDE. Carol for use in places of worship.....	3d.
BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. Anthem for the Season of Christmas.....	6d.
NO SHADOWS YONDER.....	2d.
FOR THREE O DEAR, DEAR COUNTRY ("Holy City").....	2d.
THINE IS THE KINGDOM ("Holy City").....	3d.
BLESSED ARE THE DEPARTED and WHY SHOULD'ST THOU FEAR THE BEAUTIFUL ANGEL DEATH, from the Passion Music, and specially adapted for use at Funeral Services.....	6d.
AVE MARIA ("Joan of Arc").....	3d.
WEDDING CHORAL MARCH ("Ruth.") Specially adapted for use at Weddings.....	4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY THE REV. H. H. WOODWARD, M.A., Mus. Bac.—The BENEDICTUS to Lengthened Chants (Six Settings), a medium between the Ordinary Chant and "Cathedral Service." Complete, 2d. Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS on an Ancient Theme, arranged for the Festivals of the Worcester Church Choral Association. Price 3d.

"Very effective."—Church Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

G. A. MACFARREN'S CANTATE DOMINO and DEUS MISEREATUR. For Voices in Unison and Organ. 8vo. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN KYRIES, with other Chants, 2d. Te Deum, with five Quadruple Chants, 2d. Arranged to meet the great want of simple melody for Parish Choirs or Congregational Singing, by C. CLAPHAM. London: PITMAN, Paternoster Row.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SPLENDOURS OF THY GLORY. Anthem or Choral Hymn for Advent or general use. Words by the Archbishop of CANTERBURY; Music by Rev. H. H. WOODWARD, M.A., Mus. Bac. Price 3d. WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

ST. ANDREW

A NEW MISSIONARY CANTATA

FOR CHOIR AND CONGREGATION

Dedicated to the Right Rev. W. WALSHAM HOW, D.D., LORD BISHOP OF WAKEFIELD,

and approved of by the Right Rev. R. C. BILLING, D.D., LORD BISHOP OF BEDFORD.

WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY THE

REV. W. FRAZER NASH, LL.B.,
Precentor of St. Andrew Undershaft, City.

MUSIC COMPOSED BY

W. M. WAIT,

Organist and Choirmaster of St. Andrew Undershaft, City.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

May be had from the Publishers, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; or, from the COMPOSER, 39, Median Road, Clapton, E.

Just published.

SACRED CANTATA

SAMUEL

The Words selected from Holy Scripture and from Hymns Ancient and Modern (by permission). The Music composed by LANGDON COLBORNE.

This work takes one hour in performance, and contains several well-known Hymns, intended to be sung by the choir and congregation.

Price 3s., paper; bound, 4s. Choruses only, 1s. Book of Words, 1d.

"The music of 'Samuel' is always thoughtful and graceful, and often a great deal more than either of these."—Musical World."If the plan of this Cantata can be followed (and Dr. Colborne's thoughtful and beautiful music may show that it is capable of being made artistic as well as didactic), the great question of Congregational music may find a solution in its frequent employment."—Morning Post."A fine piece of church music."—Standard."Choirs will be glad to have a work of this kind, as it is not by any means difficult."—Birmingham Post."Mr. Langdon Colborne has done well to produce a Cantata of the calibre of his 'Samuel'; and while a more ambitious work might have obtained for him praise among the few, this simple composition will do a great work in cultivating the love of good music among the many."—Musical Standard.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

IN THE KEY OF A

A PLAIN SETTING FOR CONGREGATIONAL USE

BY

W. DE M. SERGISON,

Organist of St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, S.W.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE NIGHT IS DEPARTING, 3rd Ed. (For Advent). "For unto us a Child is born," 17th Ed. "Glory to God," 4th Ed. (For Christmas). "O worship the Lord" (For Choral Festivals, &c.) Anthems by THOS. SMITH, 3s. each. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

Just published.

THE LORD'S PRAYER (Two Settings), in Monotone, with accompaniment for Organ or Harmonium. By HERBERT TOWNSEND. Folio. Price 1s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BERLIOZ'S TE DEUM. Op. 22. Performed at the Crystal Palace, April 18, 1885. Vocal Score, 2s. net. STANLEY LUCAS, WEBER and Co., 84, New Bond Street, London, W.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net, by GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RULES IN RHYMES AND ROUNDS, or Precept and Example combined in Easy Progressive Rounds. By J. POWELL METCALFE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW LEGITIMATE TEACHING METHOD.

GILHAM'S KEYBOARD INSTRUCTOR.

PATENTED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Price 2s. 6d.; Post-free, 2s. 9d.

HOW TO PLAY THE PIANO, ORGAN, OR HARMONIUM in the shortest time and easiest and simplest manner.

WALTER SCOTT, 24, Warwick Lane, London; and FELLING, Newcastle-on-Tyne, England.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants.
No. 9.	Limp cloth	...	s. d.
" 10.	Cloth boards	...	4 0
" 11.	Small edition	...	5 0
" 12.	Tonic Sol-fa	...	3 0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),

With Canticles and Anthems.

Pointed for Chanting for Congregational use ... I 3
(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to supplies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, 1s. 9d.; Treble, 16mo, 1s. Words only, 9d. and 6d.; paper, 4½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

THE HOME HYMN-BOOK.

Second Edition, with Music, 3s. 6d. Words only, 6d. and upwards.

Dr. G. C. MARTIN: "It is one of the very best collections existing."
Dr. F. R. BATES: "I have gone carefully through the book, and like it exceedingly."

Dr. J. C. BRIDGE: "An excellent collection, and the number of hymns suitable for children is a strong feature."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

No.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	s. d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Limp cloth	0 6
3.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns. Paper cover	0 4
4.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	...	0 3
5.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	0 4
6.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	5 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	3 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	4 0
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	4 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	1 6
11.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	2 0
12.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	2 0
13.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	2 6
14.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	3 0
15.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	3 0
16.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	10 6

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter, and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN or HARMONIUM. Composed by G. H. SWIFT. Six Books, 18s. each; 10 pieces in each Book. "This work should be in the hands of every lover of well-written Organ Music, being without doubt the finest collection of tuneful and effective Voluntaries ever published." ALPHONSE CARY, 47 and 48, Northbrook Street, Newbury; London Branch: 87, Oxford Street, W.

Fifth Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page, and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

1st and 2nd Series bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE CANTICLES and HYMNS of the CHURCH, pointed for Chanting, and set to appropriate Anglican Chants, Single and Double; together with Responses to the Commandments. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. G. OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK. This work contains a selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT BOOK. Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY and MONK'S PSALTER AND

CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authenticated by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d., with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
And PARKER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS,

and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RIVIÈRE & HAWKES'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

LANGEY, OTTO; SONATINA in D, for Violoncello and Pianoforte, easy but melodious for the Cello and brilliant for the Pianoforte. A favourite piece at School Concerts. Also arranged for either Violin, Viola, or Flute and Piano.) 2s. net.

LANGEY, OTTO; RESIGNATION, a sacred piece for Violin, with Pianoforte and Harmonium accompaniment. (Also arranged for Violoncello.) 1s. 6d. net.

LANGEY, OTTO; CHANT D'EGLISE. Duet for two Violins with Pianoforte and Harmonium ad lib. accompaniment; melodious and easy. 2s. net.

The complete list of our instructive music for Violin and other instruments sent free on application.

RIVIÈRE and HAWKES, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

HARMONY LESSONS. By C. A. TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction, Classes, and Tuition by Correspondence. Used at London Academy of Music. Price 1s. SCHOTT, 159, Regent Street, W., and AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.

An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts
for Pianoforte and Harmonium

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT

WILL BE PUBLISHED DURING THE MONTH.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.

AS PERFORMED BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL
CHORAL SOCIETY.

JOAN OF ARC

AN HISTORICAL AND DRAMATIC CANTATA

WORDS BY

FREDERICK ENOCH

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"An advance on the earlier work, 'The Holy City.' . . . The choruses are written with much knowledge of effect, and an 'Ave Maria,' and the final chorus of the 'Spirit Voices' may be named as really charming."—Athenæum.

"'Joan of Arc' is a work which is bound to be widely taken up, doubtless to attain which end the composer has employed but three soloists, and has given a more than usually large degree of importance to the choral work. . . . The 'Ave Maria' is singularly beautiful."—London Figaro.

"Obviously written with a special view to the requirements of choral societies, and likely to become highly popular."—Daily News.

"Calculated to delight performers and listeners, being full of melody and taking effects."—Referee.

"Must enhance the high reputation of its composer."—Liverpool Courier.

"The inspiration of a highly-refined musician. . . . The Cantata is even a more masterly and beautiful work than 'The Holy City.'"—Huddersfield Examiner.

"No more charming Cantata than 'Joan of Arc' could have been chosen. It abounds in delicious music. 'Here is not a tedious note in it.'"—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Chronicle.

"Gives the listener a vivid and realistic impression, its attractiveness being continuous instead of spasmodic."—Bradford Observer.

"The choruses are always effectively written—the solos are extremely melodious; deserves and will probably achieve, great popularity."—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Journal.

"It would not be surprising if it attained to even the almost phenomenal popularity of 'The Holy City'; contains a similar wealth of melody and effective part-writing."—Birmingham Daily Times.

"Reading the score convinces us that it is our townsman's greatest production. . . . Could have been originated by none but a born melodist."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"A distinct advance upon Mr. Gaul's previous work in cantata form. . . . A constant flow of exquisite melodies and effective choral writing."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"Now with matured experience and ripened scholarship he gives to the town which has received and welcomed his first triumphs his magnum opus, 'Joan of Arc.'"—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"The Cantata, from the first bar to the last, is rich in melody, beautiful harmonic combinations, and clever orchestration. The beautiful 'Ave Maria' is a splendid example of pure and fervent church music, but there are so many exquisite points of merit in Mr. Gaul's latest work that they hardly need detailing. Taking the work as a whole, it bids fair to become a great favourite with all choral societies."—Birmingham Weekly Post.

"A thoroughly melodious work, and should find favour with choral societies. It is not difficult to sing, and contains sufficient variety to keep up the interest to the end."—Manchester Guardian.

Price, paper covers, 2s. 6d.; ditto, boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100. (Ent. Sta. Hall.)

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW AND CHEAP EDITION IN PARTS

OF

BEETHOVEN'S WORKS

INTENDED FOR INSTRUCTION & PRACTICAL USE

(Orchestra transcribed for Pianoforte)

To be completed in twenty Volumes within two years.

Subscription price of each weekly part, net 1s. The Edition may also be had in monthly parts.

Subscriptions may be received by, and full particulars and prospectus obtained from

NOVELLO, EWER and Co., London and New York.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

CALLIRHOË

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS BY W. BARCLAY SQUIRE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 2s. 6d.; Paper Boards, 3s.; Cloth, 4s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. 6d. Vocal Parts, each 1s.

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 32s. 6d. Full Score, MS.

(Wind parts arranged for the Harmonium, in the Press.)

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The success of Dr. Bridge's Cantata is beyond dispute, and we shall probably hear much of it during the approaching season.

THE DAILY NEWS.

It ought to take very high rank among the popular cantatas of the modern repertory. In the provinces and among ordinary choral societies there is little doubt that "Callirhoë" will be in immediate demand, not only because the choral work is so sympathetic and effective, but also because it really needs the engagement of only two artists out of the usual quartet, the contralto having very little and the baritone nothing to do.

MORNING POST.

Will doubtless find a speedy welcome among choral societies.

THE STANDARD.

Dr. Bridge is anything but a Wagnerite; but he has escaped the shadow of the cloisters in all this exciting music which is perfectly modern in its free development and display of passion.

THE ATHENÆUM.

May be strongly recommended to the notice of choral societies, as certain to interest them and their audiences.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"Callirhoë" brings to light a native composer who has fancy and originality in addition to thorough knowledge of the technical means by which these inestimable gifts are calculated to yield artistic benefit.

THE GLOBE.

There can be little doubt that his new Cantata will, ere long, become popular in all parts of the country.

THE GUARDIAN.

Dr. Bridge's new composition will take high rank among his works, for he has written it with much knowledge of vocal and instrumental effect, and no small power of graphic delineation.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

I think "Callirhoë" should win success with choral societies, for it is fresh and fanciful, and it only needs two leading singers, a soprano and a tenor. Local talent might be utilised for the small contralto part.

SUNDAY TIMES.

"Callirhoë" was received with every sign of delight. The composer, who conducted, had a rapturous recall, and the choir, after singing his music con amore, cheered him with frantic warmth. It was a first-rate performance.

FIGARO.

The work is one of which the Westminster Abbey Organist should be proud.

MUSICAL WORLD.

Melodic charm and modern harmonic effects. The solos for the soprano are exceptionally pleasing.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WORKS BY

JOHN FARMER,

ORGANIST AT BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD, AND DIRECTOR OF THE HARROW MUSIC SCHOOL.

HARROW SCHOOL SONGS complete	s. d.
HARROW GLEE BOOK	3 0
NURSERY RHYMES. 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Sets each	1 0
CINDERELLA. Fairy Opera	3 0
CHRIST AND HIS SOLDIERS. Oratorio	3 0
Chorus parts	1 0
REQUIEM	2 0

JUST OUT.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO	3 0
For Men's Voices, with Solos—for The Mouse (Alto), The Frog (Tenor), The Rat (Bass), with an Accompaniment for String Instruments and Piano or for Piano alone.
Chorus parts	1 0
String parts	0 6
The same for Mixed Voices	3 0
(With Accompaniment for String Instruments.)
And also for Female Voices, ditto	3 0

AND ALL OTHER WORKS ARE PUBLISHED BY

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, BERNERS STREET, W.

ORSBORN & TUCKWOOD'S
POPULAR SHILLING PUBLICATIONS.

THE VESPER VOLUNTARIES.—"Containing short Melodies for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ, which by their variety will be useful for Church purposes as Offertory Music, Interludes, or Voluntaries, and will certainly be welcome for their effective grace and simplicity, demanding no special executive skill in their performance."—Saturday Review.

Book 1.—SIXTEEN VOLUNTARIES	By NICHOLAS HEINS
2.—FIFTEEN	J. E. NEWELL
3.—ELEVEN	W. HAYNES
4.—THIRTEEN	J. C. BEAZLEY
5.—THIRTEEN	A. J. GREENISH, Mus. Bac.
6.—TWELVE	ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac.
7.—THIRTEEN	ARTHUR GRAHAM
8.—TWELVE	E. BOGGETTI
9.—TWELVE	THEO. BONHEUR
10.—FIFTEEN	A. W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac.
11.—ELEVEN	F. F. ROGERS
12.—FIFTEEN	J. HORSPOOL
13.—TEN	ODOARDO RARRI
14.—TWELVE	JULES THERESE
15.—TWELVE	SEYMOUR SMITH
16.—TWELVE	FRANK MANLY
17.—FIFTEEN	J. E. NEWELL
18.—TWELVE	VERNON REY
19.—TEN	JULES THERESE
20.—TWELVE	KING HALL

Volumes 1, 2, and 3, containing six of the above numbers in each book, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. net. Post-free, 5s. 6d.

THE ORGANIST'S COMPANION. Containing Short Interludes, &c., for the Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ. Price 1s. net. By post, 1s. stamps.

Book 1.—INTERLUDES, VOLUNTARIES, &c.	By N. HEINS
" 2.—NINE VOLUNTARIES	ARTHUR GRAHAM
" 3.—FIFTEEN VOLUNTARIES	J. E. NEWELL

CATHEDRAL MARCH ALBUM.—For Organ.
1s. each net.

Book 1.—EIGHT ORIGINAL MARCHES.
" 2.—SEVEN

ORGAN.—THE MINSTER ECHOES. Original Voluntaries, with Pedal Obbligato, arranged from the Compositions of Popular Composers, by ARTHUR GRAHAM.

Book 1.—SIX VOLUNTARIES.	Book 7.—SEVEN VOLUNTARIES.
2.—SIX	8.—THREE
3.—FIVE	9.—NINE
4.—FIVE	10.—EIGHT
5.—SIX	11.—EIGHT
6.—FIVE	12.—SEVEN

Other Numbers in the Press.

Volumes 1 and 2, containing Six of the above Numbers, handsomely bound in Chocolate Cloth, 7s. 6d. net. By post, 8s.

TWO-PART SONGS. Arranged for Ladies' Voices. For the use of Schools and Classes. Price 3d. each. Complete, in neatly bound book, 1s. each net.

SONGS OF THE FAIRIES. By J. E. NEWELL.

1. Merry Elves	Words by Shakespeare.
2. Child of Earth	"
3. Forest Fairy	W. H. Bellamy.
4. Over hill, over dale	Shakespeare.
5. Oh! where do fairies hide their heads	T. Haynes Bayley.
6. The fairies' lullaby	Shakespeare.

THE COLLEGE SERIES. By A. W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac.

1. Stars of the summer night	Words by Longfellow.
2. Gentle Spring	"
3. Twilight	"
4. Curfew	"
5. It is not always May	"
6. The rainy day	"

TRIOS. THE CANTERBURY SERIES. By OSCAR VERNE. For use of Schools and Classes.

Price 3d. each; or, Six bound, 1s. net.

No. 1. Oh! by rivers	Oscar Verne	net 3d.
" 2. Little Celadine	"	" 3d.
" 3. Stars of the Summer night	"	" 3d.
" 4. Merry Elves	"	" 3d.
" 5. The Woodthrush	"	" 3d.
" 6. It is not always May	"	" 3d.

To be had of all Musicsellers, or from ORSBORN & TUCKWOOD, 64, Berners Street, W.

Just published.

HANDEL'S SAUL

WITH ADDITIONAL ACCOMPANIMENTS

BY

EBENEZER PROUT.

FULL SCORE (MANUSCRIPT).

Vocal Score, 8vo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d. cloth, 4s.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
First Violin...	6	0	Trumpets	1	0
Second Violin	6	0	Trombones (Alto & Tenor)	1	0
Viola	5	0	Trombone (Bass)	0	6
Violoncello and Bass	5	0	Drums	1	0
Flutes	3	0	Glockenspiel (Bells)	0	6
Oboes	4	6	Organ	6	0
Clarinets	4	0	Soprano	1	7½
Bassoons	4	6	Alto	1	7½
Double Bassoon	1	0	Tenor	1	6
Horns	2	6	Bass	1	6

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In preparing a New Edition for Concert use of Handel's "Saul," it is needless to say that considerable omissions had to be made in order to bring the work within a reasonable length. These have been, for the most part, those that were sanctioned by usage; but, in addition, two not very interesting songs ("Birth and fortune I despise" and "Your words, O king") have been cut out, while the symphony preceding the recitative, "The time at length is come," has been restored as a probably unique specimen of Handel's treatment of the full orchestra.

Musicians will be aware that the score of "Saul" is one of the fullest and richest of all Handel's works. The Editor has attempted, as far as possible, to preserve the original colouring. With this view the composer's trombone parts, curiously written in some places, have been retained exactly. The same is the case with the trumpets, excepting that a few passages have been modified, where Handel had written them impracticably high for modern players. But in no case has the Editor added one note for trumpets or trombones where the composer had not employed them.

The score of "Saul," alone among Handel's oratorios, contains full directions for the treatment of the organ, though the part is seldom written out. The Editor has endeavoured, as far as possible, to carry out these directions in filling up the part. In some cases, as in the symphony preceding the chorus, "Welcome, welcome, mighty king," the effect will be found peculiar; but for this, Handel, not the Editor, is responsible, as the indications here are most minute. In a few passages, in which there is an obligato part for the organ—e.g., in the chorus, "Mourn, Israel, mourn"—an arrangement for other instruments is given in small notes, which is intended for use if the oratorio is given in places where there is no organ.

The recitatives should be accompanied by the organ or pianoforte; but, at the desire of the publishers, an arrangement of the accompaniment for strings has also been given. In one instance only has the Editor allowed himself an alteration in the colouring. The recitative sung by the Ghost of Samuel is in this edition accompanied by the low notes of clarinets and bassoons. Purists may possibly object to this; but the Editor would urge, in extenuation, though not in justification, that he has merely carried a little further Handel's own idea of individualizing the spectre by the use of wind instruments. The bassoon parts, at the commencement of this scene, as well as the wind parts in the air "Infernal spirits," are Handel's own.

In this score all the original parts are indicated by "H" and all the additions by "P." In cases where something has been added to Handel's parts, both letters are prefixed. It has not been thought needful to do this with the trumpet parts, the alterations being confined to a very few notes. Here Handel's own passages have been retained, even though difficult, whenever at all practicable.

May this edition help to restore to its proper place in public esteem one of the finest of Handel's many neglected oratorios!

EBENEZER PROUT.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THEORY OF MUSIC

Specially prepared for Candidates for the various Local Examinations
By LOUISA GIBSON.

To meet the daily increasing demand for cheap TEXT BOOKS each part is now sold at the reduced price: paper, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

First Book (with addenda), Elements of Music;

Second Book, Triads, &c.;

Third Book, Chords of 7th to Counterpoint.

"It may safely be accepted as an authority."—The late Sir G. Macfarren."Real marvels of brevity and practical utility."—E. Aguilar, Esq.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOTICE TO BANDMASTERS.

LONDON BRASS BAND (AND MILITARY) JOURNAL. Grand Christmas and New Year's Double Numbers now ready, containing a splendid collection of Anthems, Glees, Marches, &c. Specimen Cornet part sent free by forwarding stamped directed envelope.

LONDON DRUM AND FIFE BAND JOURNAL. Three new numbers now ready. Either of the above can be mailed to any of the Colonies for 1d. Bandmasters in the Colonies should send their address for samples to be sent out.

R. DE LACY, 84, Holland Road, Brixton, London, S.W.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE
BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

JUDITH

OR, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH

AN ORATORIO

BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 5s.; Paper Boards, 6s.;
Cloth, 7s. 6d.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. 6d.

	s.	d.
First Violin...	7	0
Second Violin	6	6
Viola	6	6
Violoncello and Double Bass	9	6

IN THE PRESS.

Flutes.	Trumpets, 1 and 2.
Oboes.	" 3 and 4.
Clarinets.	Trombones, A. and T.
Bass Clarinet.	" Bass.
Bassoons.	Tuba.
Double Bassoons.	Drums.
Horns, 1 and 2.	Harp.
" 3 and 4.	Organ.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE TRAINING OF BOYS' VOICES

BY

STOCKS HAMMOND, F.S.A.

(A Lecture recently given before the Guild of Organists, London).

"The best work on the subject we have yet seen."—Daily News."Should be in the hands of every choirmaster."—Yorkshireman.

Price Threepence, from Messrs. A. HAMMOND and Co., 5, Vigo Street, London, W.; or the AUTHOR, Frizinghall, Bradford.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE MESSIAH

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 1 of NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD ORATORIOS & CANTATAS

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR GEORGE A. MACFARREN.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE CREATION

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 2 of NEW EDITION of STANDARD ORATORIOS and CANTATAS.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR G. A. MACFARREN.

*Prospectuses of Series gratis and Post-free.TWELVE TWO-PART SONGS

FOR LADIES' AND BOYS' VOICES,

with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Written, composed, and dedicated to Sir GEORGE A. MACFARREN by his Pupil, SINCLAIR DUNN.

Price 2d. each.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| No. 1. Come to the woodlands. | No. 7. Lovely Spring. |
| " 2. O come, let us sing. | " 8. Baby dear. |
| " 3. Where bluebells grow. | " 9. Marching along. |
| " 4. The Lily of the Valley. | " 10. Evening's Starlight. |
| " 5. The Snowdrop. | " 11. Rest in Thee. |
| " 6. Merry Maidens. | " 12. Where the roses bloom. |

Just published, 1s.

THE MUSIC CLASS; OR, SIGHT SINGER.

FOR THE USE OF SINGING CLASSES, CHOIRMASTERS, &c., BY SINCLAIR DUNN.

An easy, systematic course of instruction for teaching to read Music at Sight in a few lessons.

A large reduction for quantities.

SECOND EDITION. NOW READY.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat

BY

HAYDN GROVER

OF THE TEMPLE CHOIR, LONDON.

Sung in Westminster Abbey; the Temple Church; St. Stephen's, Westbourne Park; Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly, W.; also in several Provincial Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches.

The Musical Review, May 30, 1885, says:—"Mr. Haydn Grover has written a good Service, and has succeeded in his evident intention to give due effect to the varying expression of the words. The Gloria to the Magnificat is in unison with free organ accompaniment, the melody being bold and coming in with fine effect after the "verse" preceding. Mr. Grover has evidently profited by the traditions of the Temple Church, and has given us an Evening Service of sterling merit."

PRICE FOURPENCE.

JUST PUBLISHED. Price 3d.

THE ANGEL'S SONG

SACRED PART-SONG, WITH SOPRANO SOLO,

FOR CHRISTMAS,

COMPOSED BY

RICHARD HARVEY.LOVE'S GOLDEN DREAM. LINDSAY LENNOX.*LOVE'S GOLDEN DREAM (LINDSAY LENNOX).

This charming Song will be sung by Mr. SIMS REEVES during the coming Season. 2s. net. "A charming new waltz-song, sure to become popular, and will most probably become a rage this season. It is one of those pretty little morsels of which one does not tire in a hurry."—Northamptonshire Guardian.

MR. SIMS REEVES will sing LINDSAY LENNOX'S Popular Song LOVE'S GOLDEN DREAM during the coming Season. 2s. net.

PERFORMING EDITION.

THE MESSIAH

AN ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

HANDEL.

THE BAND PARTS from the Original Score, with the additions by MOZART.

The Bowing and Fingering marked by

ALFRED BURNETT.

The Instrumentation slightly amplified, and the whole Edited by

G. A. MACFARREN.

First Violin ...	3 o	Horns ...	...
Second Violin ...	3 o	Trumpets ...	...
Viola ...	3 o	Trombones, A.T.B. ...	...
Violoncello and Bass ...	3 o	Drums ...	...
Flutes ...	...	Treble ...	...
Oboes ...	...	Alto ...	...
Clarinets ...	...	Tenor ...	...
Bassoons ...	...	Bass ...	...

VOCAL SCORE, EDITED BY G. A. MACFARREN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ORGAN

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

This work has been designed to meet the wants of those Organists who have to play organs more or less incomplete. The whole of the pieces may be played, therefore, upon organs with two keyboards; many of them, by a little management, upon organs with only one. The pedal is, of course, indispensable. It has been the aim to make all the pieces thoroughly playable, and as easy as was consistent with their due effect.

Nos. 1 to 16 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

THE ORGAN JOURNAL

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

The pieces here provided are of moderate difficulty, may be played upon organs with two keyboards and pedals, and appear for the first time in any publication for the organ, almost without exception.

Nos. 1 to 8 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The book of the season."—Vienna News.SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The famous tenor's book is full of interest."—Dramatic Review."Mr. Sims Reeves is an admirable narrator."—Morning Advertiser."His name is familiar to the lips as household words."—Observer.SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The gifted artist can scarcely fail to interest the many legions of his admirers."—Sunday Times."The anecdotes are highly dramatic."—Entr'acte.

Just published. NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEM.

FOR UNTO YOU IS BORN THIS DAY. By

SINCLAIR DUNN. Melodious and easy. Price 3d.

EASY CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

Just published. Price 3d.

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR.—

Canon for Three Voices. By Rev. CHARLES R. WARD.

Just published. Price 3d. New Anthem for Christmas.

THIS DAY IS BORN. Composed by Sir GEORGE

MACFARREN.

New Christmas Anthem, now ready.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST. By

S. C. COOKE. For Parish Choirs. Full, easy, and effective.

Price 3d.

Just published. Price 4d. New Anthem for Christmas.

AND IT CAME TO PASS. By ARTHUR SIMMS,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Just published. New Anthem for Christmas.

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.

Composed by HARRY DANCEY. Price 3d.

SERVICES.—Te Deum in D, for the use of Parish

Choirs ... W. H. Draycott 3d.

Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie. Chant Form ... F. Austin 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 1, in D ... S. C. Cooke 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 2, in E flat ... S. C. Cooke 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 3, in D ... S. C. Cooke 4d.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G ... S. C. Ridley 4d.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, in Unison ... Harry Dancey 3d.

THE CHOIRBOY'S MANUAL, for rapidly

acquiring Sight Singing. By SINCLAIR DUNN. Price 2d.

LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY (LIMITED), 54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH ST., W.

REDUCED PRICES OF HOUSELEY AND MONK'S POINTED PSALTER.

					s.	d.
4to Edition, with Chants in Short Score					4	0
12mo Edition. Vocal parts				each	1	6
32mo Edition. Words only					0	9
Ditto.	Ditto,	with Proper Psalms			1	0

This pointing of the Psalter is authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORGAN SOLOS by IRVINE DEARNALEY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE ON "JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN."

3s. net.

VARIATIONS, FUGHETTA, AND CANON ON "AURELIA."
2s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADAPTED TO THE MODERN ORGAN

BY

A. L. PEACE.

Grand Dramatic Fantasia for the Organ

("A Concert on a Lake interrupted by a Thunderstorm")

BY

CHEVALIER SIGISMUND NEUKOMM.

Reduced price, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

INSCRIBED, BY PERMISSION, TO MADAME SCHUMANN.

THE CELEBRATED

LARGHETTO

FROM SCHUMANN'S B FLAT SYMPHONY

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY

W. LYLE BIGGS,

Organist of St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford.

Price 1s. 6d. net. Post-free from the ARRANGER, 8, Queen St., Oxford.

OFFERTOIRE

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

IVANHOE (Marche Héroïque), by ALFRED J. DYE.

Performed at the Promenade Concerts (Covent Garden) and by the Band of the Coldstream Guards. Piano Solo, Four Shillings; Piano Duet, Five Shillings. Additional Accompaniments (ad lib.) for 1st and 2nd Violins and Violoncello, 9d. each net. Orchestral and Military Band Parts lent gratis on application to the Composer.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOW TO LEARN TO PLAY THE PIANO

WELL. 4th Ed., 1s. "The Art of Playing at Sight," 1s., 4th Ed. "Little Difficulties in Playing Explained," 1s. "Rules of Simple Harmony," 3rd Ed., 1s. "Harmonium, and How to Play it," 1s. "How to Form and Train a Choir," 1s. "How to Tune your own Piano," 1s. THOS. SMITH, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

Third Edition, Revised.

IMMANUEL. A Sacred Cantata, composed by Dr. WILLIAM SPARK. Suitable for small Choral Societies, School Festivals, &c. Occupies in performance about one hour. Vocal Score, 2s.; Chorus Parts, 6d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Orchestral Parts for a small Band. For price and use of Full Score, &c., apply to the Publisher, JOHN HEYWOOD, Deansgate, Manchester.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"Altogether this composition of the Leeds borough organist reflects the greatest credit on his skill as a musician, and I doubt not, as it is tolerably easy of execution, that it will become extremely popular."—Musical Standard.

"The work is simple in so far as its execution lies within the power of those of modest vocal accomplishment; while at the same time it has a refinement and a dignity which can only be the result of careful elaboration, exhibiting as it does great artistic charm and sound musical scholarship."—Scotsman.

THE SECOND PART OF IMMANUEL is now in the press, and will probably be issued about Christmas by the publisher, JOHN HEYWOOD, Deansgate, Manchester; and 11, Paternoster Buildings, London.

Tenth Thousand. Dr. SPARK'S popular Anthem, suitable for loyal and festive occasions, BEHOLD, O GOD OUR DEFENDER. Royal 8vo. Price Threepence, Post-free.

TO TEACHERS, SCHOOLS, &c.

Price, complete, 2s. net; or, singly, each 6d. net.

SIX SHORT AND EASY PIECES, in Two Parts, for the Pianoforte, composed expressly for the use of Young Children, the compass for the right hand being within the octave, by

E. A. SYDENHAM.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"These charming little pieces . . . will insensibly lead forth the musical capabilities of young players."—Musical Times.

"Sufficiently excellent in scope and character to deserve warm approbation and achieve considerable success."—Leeds Mercury.

"Very graceful melodies."—Glasgow Herald.

"Little gems for little learners."—Northampton Mercury.

"Well calculated to advance the pupil by separate stages."—Dundee Advertiser.

"The melodies are graceful and delicate."—The Schoolmaster.

*A special reduction made to Teachers and Schools for quantities.

Address, COMPOSER, Florence Villa, Whittington Road,

Bowes Park, N.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TROIS MORCEAUX

POUR

PIANOFORTE

PAR

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

1. Petite Scène de Ballet. 2. Romance. 3. Scherzo.

Price Three Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS

FOR

VIOLONCELLO & PIANOFORTE.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE EACH.

FOUR MARCHES

COMPOSED BY

F. MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

TRANSCRIBED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

THIRTY MELODIES

COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

TEN TRANSCRIPTIONS

FROM

MENDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH"

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

TEN TRANSCRIPTIONS

FROM

GOUNOD'S "MORS ET VITA"

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

TWELVE SKETCHES

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

HUNGARIAN DANCES

TRANSCRIBED BY

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

TWELVE PIECES

COMPOSED BY

OLIVER KING.

SIX MORÇEAUX DE SALON

COMPOSED BY

JOACHIM RAFF.

SIX SONATAS

COMPOSED BY

ARCANGELO CORELLI

EDITED BY

ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

EIGHT

NATIONAL MELODIES

ARRANGED BY

SIEGFRIED JACOBY.

These Albums may also be had arranged for Violin and Pianoforte.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BEETHOVEN.—Complete works. Instructive and Practical Edition. Part I. Scotch Songs. Transcribed for Voice and Pianoforte	net	1 4
BOHLMANN, C. G.—Twenty Scandinavian Folk Songs. Easily arranged for Violoncello, or Violin and Pianoforte:— Book I., 4s.; Book II.	5	0
BRAHMS, J.—Concerto for Violin, Violoncello, and Orchestra. Op. 102. Full Score	net	40 0
—The same. For Violin, Violoncello, and Pianoforte....	30	0
—Gipsy Songs. For four mixed voices, with Pianoforte. Op. 103:— Score, 9s.; Vocal parts	each	3 0
—The same. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	10	0
Or, Pianoforte Solo	8	0
—Five Songs. For mixed Chorus. (A Capella.) Op. 104:— Score, 8s.; Vocal parts, complete	8	0
—Five Songs. For low voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Op. 105	8	0
—The same. For high voice	8	0
—Five Songs. For one voice, with Pianoforte accompaniment. High or low. Op. 106	8	0
—Five Songs. For one voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. High or low. Op. 107	8	0
BUSONI, F.—Bagatelle. Op. 28. For Violin and Pianoforte net	1	8
DANCLA, CH.—Serenade brillante. Op. 172. For Violin and Pianoforte	6	0
DAVIDOFF, CH.—Violoncello School	3	3
—Studies from Violoncello School, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	net	2 2
DVOŘÁK, A.—Quintet. Op. 81. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	24	0
—Four Songs. Op. 82. For a high or low voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	6	0
GLINKA, M.—Fantasie. For Orchestra. Full Score net	12	0
—Capriccio brillante, on Jota Aragonesa. For Orchestra. Full Score	12	0
—Two Soli:—No. 1. Die Lerche. Arranged for Violin, Viola, Flute Solo, and Harp	1	6
No. 2. Der Zweifel. Arranged for Violin and Viola Solo and Harp	1	6
GRIEG, E.—"In Autumn." Overture. For Orchestra. Op. 11. Full score, net 8s.; Strings, net 8s.; Wind parts	14	6
Arranged for pianoforte duet...	2	2
—Suite. In four Movements. Op. 46. For Orchestra:— Full score, net 8s.; Strings, net 7s. 6d.; Wind parts, net	9	0
Arranged for pianoforte solo or duet	each	1 8
—Lyrical Pieces. For Pianoforte. Book IV. Op. 47	1	8
—Elegische Melodien. Op. 34. Arr. for Pianoforte duet	1	1
—Four Songs. With Pianoforte Accompaniment. Op. 44. (German words)	1	8
HARTMANN, E.—"Ein Karnavalsfest." Ballet Divertimento. For Orchestra. Op. 32.—Full score and Parts	20	0
—"Aus der Ritterzeit." Second Symphony. For Orchestra. Op. 34. Full score and Parts	20	0
HAYDN.—Serenade. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet by H. Rupp	3	0
HEGNER, A.—Elegy. For Cello or Horn and Pianoforte	each	3 0
HOLM, A.—Fantasia and Variations. For Flute and Piano	6	0
KETTERER, E.—Marche Solennelle. For Pianoforte duet	4	6
KROSS, E.—Systematic Studies of Scales for Violin. Op. 18. Three books	each	3 6
LANGE-MÜLLER, P. E.—"Alhambra." Suite for Orchestra. Full Score	15	0
LASSEN, E.—Eighteen Songs. For Voice and Pianoforte. (English and German words.) High or low voice. Vol. I., net	4	0
—Ditto. High or low voice. Vol. II.	4	0
LISZT, F.—"Consolations." Arranged for Harp by E. Schuëcker	7	0
—Rhapsodie. No. 10. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	5	0
MALLING, J.—"Mascarade." March. For two Pianos	5	0
MOSZKOWSKI, M.—Cortège. For Orchestra. Op. 43:— Full score, net 8s.; Strings, net 4s.; Wind parts	12	6
—Polonaise and Guitarre. For Pianoforte. Op. 45. each net	1	8
—Guitarre. Arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte	1	8
MOZART.—Fantasia in F minor. Arranged for the Organ	1	8
PAGANINI, N.—Twenty-four Caprices. Perpetuum mobile and Duet for one Violin. For Violin Solo. Edited by E. Kross	net	2 0
POPPER, D.—Third Concerto. Op. 59. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	10	0
RAVINA, H.—"La Séduisante." Réverie. For Pianoforte	4	0
SCHYTTÉ, L.—Pantomim-s. Arranged for Orchestra:— Full score, net 14s.; Orchestral parts	net	20 0
—"Three Album Leaves." Op. 47. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	5	0
—"Le Soir." For Violoncello and Pianoforte...	3	0
THOMÉ, F.—Mazurka. Op. 31. For Pianoforte	5	0
—Orientale. Op. 33. For Pianoforte	4	0
—Fête champêtre. Op. 38. For Pianoforte	5	0
—Pizzicato. Op. 39. For Pianoforte	4	0
—The same. For Pianoforte and Violin or Violoncello	6	0
—Air de Ballet. Op. 77. For Pianoforte	4	0
—Ten Easy Pieces. For Pianoforte and Violin	each	1 0
TSCHAIKOWSKY, P.—Fourth Symphony. Op. 36. Full Score	net	20 0
—Pezzo Capriccioso. Op. 62. For Violoncello and Orchestra. Full Score	net	4 0
WAGNER, R.—"Träume." Arranged for Pianoforte	3	0
WINDING, A.—Quintet. For two Violins, two Violas, and Violoncello. Op. 23:— Score, net 6s.; Parts	net	8 0

Sold at half-price if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

				Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.					Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
T. ANDERTON.							FRANZ LISZT.
YULE TIDE...	..	..	..	1/6	2/0	3/0	THE THIRTEENTH PSALM ..	..	..	2/0	—	—	—
THE NORMAN BARON ..	..	..	..	1/0	1/6	—	C. H. LLOYD.
BEETHOVEN.							ANDROMEDA ..	..	..	3/0	3/6	5/0	—
THE PRAISE OF MUSIC ..	..	..	..	1/6	—	—	HERO AND LEANDER ..	..	..	1/6	—	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.							SONG OF BALDER ..	..	..	1/0	—	—	—
ROCK OF AGES (Latin and English words)	1/0	—	—				THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male voices)	1/6	—	—	—	—	—
CALLIRHOË ..	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			HAMISH MACCUNN.
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER ..	1/0	—	—	—	—	—
DUDLEY BUCK.							A. C. MACKENZIE.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA ..	..	3/0	3/6	5/0			ROSE OF SHARON ..	..	5/0	6/0	7/6	—	—
F. CORDER.							(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	..	3/0	3/6	4/6	—	—
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN ..	2/6	—	—				THE STORY OF SAYID ..	..	3/0	3/6	4/6	—	—
F. H. COWEN.							JASON ..	..	2/6	3/0	4/0	—	—
SLEEPING BEAUTY ..	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
RUTH ..	..	4/0	4/6	6/0			BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS ..	..	1/0	—	—	—	—
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—				JUDITH; or, THE REGENERATION OF	..	..	..	..	..	..
ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.							MANASSEH ..	..	5/0	6/0	7/6	—	—
SAINT LUDMILA ..	..	5/0	6/0	7/6			CIRO PINSUTI.
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE ..	..	3/0	3/6	5/0			PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—	—	—	—
A PATRIOTIC HYMN ..	..	1/6	—	—			E. PROUT.
STABAT MATER ..	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			THE RED CROSS KNIGHT ..	..	4/0	4/6	6/	—	—
HENRY FARMER.							(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	..	..	..	..	..	..
MASS IN B FLAT (Latin and English)	2/0	2/6	3/6				C. SAINT-SAËNS.
ROBERT FRANZ.							THE HEAVENS DECLARE ..	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
PRAISE YE THE LORD (PSALM 117) ..	1/0	—	—				SCHUMANN.
NIELS W. GADE.							THE MINSTREL'S CURSE ..	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
PSYCHE ..	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			THE KING'S SON ..	..	1/0	—	—	—	—
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	..	2/6	3/0	4/0			ALICE MARY SMITH.
F. GERNSHEIM.							(Mrs. Meadows White.)	..	..	..	..	..	..
SALAMIS (Male Voices) ..	..	1/6	—	—			SONG OF THE LITTLE BALTING	..	..	..	..	..	..
HERMANN GOETZ.							(Male Voices) ..	..	1/0	—	—	—	—
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—				THE RED KING (Male Voices) ..	..	1/0	—	—	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.							C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
THE REDEMPTION ..	..	5/0	6/0	7/6			THE REVENGE ..	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	..	5/0	6/0	7/6			(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
Ditto (French words) ..	..	8/4	—	—			J. STAINER.
Ditto (German words) ..	..	10/0	—	—			THE DAUGHTER OF JAIRUS ..	..	1/6	2/0	—	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE ..	2/6	—	—				(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)	..	2/0	2/6	4/0	—	—
MORS ET VITA ..	..	6/0	6/6	7/6			ST. MARY MAGDALEN ..	..	2/0	2/6	4/0	—	—
(Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	..	6/0	6/6	7/6			(Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
ADOLF JENSEN.							THE CRUCIFIXION ..	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
THE FEAST OF ADONIS ..	..	1/0	1/6	—			(Tonic Sol-fa, gd.)	..	1/6	—	—	—	—
							ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
							THE GOLDEN LEGEND ..	..	3/6	4/0	5/0	—	—
							(Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	..	3/6	4/0	5/0	—	—
							C. M. VON WEBER.
							IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—	—	—	—

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHARLES HALLÉ'S "PRACTICAL PIANOFORTE SCHOOL."

SECTION I.—"Elementary."

SECTION II.—"Easy."

SECTION III.—"Moderately Difficult."

SECTION IV.—"Difficult."

SECTION V.—"Very Difficult."

SECTION I.—"ELEMENTARY."

No.		s. d.	No.		s. d.
1.	PIANOFORTE TUTOR	4 0	7.	HUMMEL, J. N.—Romanza and Allegro	4 0
2.	HALLÉ, C.—Twelve Favourite Airs. Arranged by	4 0	8.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonatina in G	4 0
3.	EIGHT LITTLE PIECES. By various Composers	4 0	9.	HALLÉ, C.—Three Old French Melodies Arranged by	4 0
4.	HUNTEN, F.—Six Little Airs	4 0	10.	HUNTEN, F.—Andante, Allegretto, and Rondo	4 0
5.	CZERNY, C.—Ten Melodious and Progressive Studies	4 0	11.	HUMMEL, J. N.—Rondo in C	4 0
6.	KALKBRENNER, F., and KUHLAU, F.—Two Airs with Variations	4 0	12.	STEIBELT, D.—Sonata in C	4 0

SECTION II.—"EASY."

1.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in C, Op. 36, No. 1	4 0	16.	SCHUMANN, R.—Six Album Leaves (first selection)	4 0
2.	MOZART, W. A.—Andante con Variazioni, Allegretto and Rondo	4 0	17.	CLEMENTI, M.—Three Monferrinas, Op. 49	4 0
3.	DUSSEK, J. L.—Allegro, Andante, and Rondo alla Turca	4 0	18.	DUSSEK, J. L.—Sonatina in F, Op. 20, No. 3	4 0
4.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonatina in F	4 0	19.	MOZART, W. A.—Sonata in C	4 0
5.	CZERNY, C.—Rondo Grazioso in C major	4 0	20.	HILLER, F.—Three Album Leaves	4 0
6.	HELLER, S.—Andantino and Capriccio	4 0	21.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Variations on "Nel cor piu non" in G	4 0
7.	CLEMENTI, M.—Three Valses in F, C, and G	4 0	22.	HELLER, S.—Rondino in G	4 0
8.	HILLER, F.—Sonatina in F, Op. 196	4 0	23.	KUHLAU, F.—Andantino and Polacca in F	4 0
9.	DUSSEK, J. L.—Sonata in G, Op. 20, No. 1	4 0	24.	HILLER, F.—Suite (Gavotte, Chorale, and Gigue), Op. 197	4 0
10.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in G, Op. 36, No. 2	4 0	25.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in G minor, Op. 49, No. 1	4 0
11.	DIABELLI, A.—Two Rondos in A minor and F major, Op. 153	4 0	26.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in F, Op. 36, No. 4	4 0
12.	KUHLAU, F.—Sonatina in C, Op. 20, No. 1	4 0	27.	MOZART, W. A.—Rondo in D	4 0
13.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in G, Op. 49, No. 2	4 0	28.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in E flat, Op. 37, No. 1	4 0
14.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in C, Op. 36, No. 3	4 0	29.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Swiss Air, with Variations, in F	4 0
15.	RIES, F.—Romanza and Rondo Brillante, Op. 86	4 0	30.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonatina in D, Op. 36, No. 6	4 0

SECTION III.—"MODERATELY DIFFICULT."

1.	SCALES in all the Major and Minor Keys, and Chromatic Scales	4 0	16.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in G major, Op. 14, No. 2	5 0
2.	DUSSEK, J. L.—Sonata in A major, Op. 20, No. 4	4 0	17.	FELD, J.—Two Nocturnes	4 0
3.	HUNTEN, F.—Rondeletto in C major	4 0	18.	REINECKE, C.—Scherzo, Hunting Song and Toccatina, from Op. 77	4 0
4.	HAYDN, J.—Sonata in G major	4 0	19.	CLEMENTI, M.—Rondo in D major, from Op. 39	4 0
5.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Rondo in C major, Op. 51, No. 1	4 0	20.	HELLER, S.—Three Melodies	4 0
6.	SCHUMANN, R.—Six Album Leaves (second selection)	4 0	21.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Rondo in G major, Op. 51, No. 2	4 0
7.	MOZART, W. A.—Sonata in C major	5 0	22.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—"The Rivulet"	4 0
8.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Air, with Variations, in G major	4 0	23.	BACH, J. S.—Prelude, Aria, and Courante	4 0
9.	HUMMEL, J. N.—Rondo Villageois, in C major, Op. 122	4 0	24.	HAYDN, J.—Sonata in E flat	5 0
10.	CLEMENTI, M.—Sonata in E flat major, Op. 20	4 0	25.	HUMMEL, J. N.—"La Cattedrale" from Op. 107	4 0
11.	BERTINI, H.—Four Characteristic Pieces, from Op. 29 & 32	4 0	26.	HANDL, G. F.—"The Harmonious Blacksmith"	4 0
12.	BACH, J. S.—Two Minuets and Two Gavottes	4 0	27.	MOZART, W. A.—Sonata in A major	5 0
13.	MOZART, W. A.—Sonata in F major	5 0	28.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Four Songs without Words	4 0
14.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Andante con Variazioni, Minuetto and Rondo, from Op. 3	4 0	29.	DUSSEK, J. L.—Andantino and Allegro in G, from Op. 39	4 0
15.	SCHUBERT, F.—Twelve Valses	4 0	30.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonatina in G major, from Op. 79	5 0

SECTION IV.—"DIFFICULT."

1.	HUMMEL, J. N.—Rondo in E flat, Op. 11	4 0	23.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Polacca in E, Op. 72	4 0
2.	SCHUMANN, R.—Four Characteristic Pieces, from Op. 124	4 0	24.	SCARLATTI, D.—Three Sonatas in C minor, D, and E	4 0
3.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Andante in F major	4 0	25.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in C sharp minor, Op. 27, No. 1 ("Moonlight")	5 0
4.	BACH, J. S.—Two Preludes and Fugues, from "Das Wohltemperirte Clavier"	4 0	26.	SCHUMANN, R.—"Humoreske," Op. 20 (1st movement)	4 0
5.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Rondo Brillante in E flat, Op. 62	5 0	27.	MOZART, HANDEL, and BACH.—Three Giges	5 0
6.	SCHUBERT, F.—Impromptu in A flat, Op. 142, No. 2	4 0	28.	MEYER, CH.—"Étude de Concert" in E	4 0
7.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata Pathétique, Op. 13	6 0	29.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Rondo à Capriccio, Op. 129	5 0
8.	SCARLATTI, D.—Three Studies, in F, C, and A	4 0	30.	SCHUBERT, F.—Andante, with Variations, in C major	4 0
9.	HELLER, S.—Arabesque in C major, and Eglogue in A major	4 0	31.	CHOPIN, F.—Two Nocturnes in F sharp, Op. 15, and D flat, Op. 27	4 0
10.	CLEMENTI, M.—Lento Patecio and Presto, from Sonata in F sharp minor	4 0	32.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Two Characteristic Pieces in A major and E major, Op. 7	5 0
11.	CHOPIN, F.—Two Nocturnes in E flat major and F minor	4 0	33.	RHEINBERGER, JOS.—"Wanderer's Song," Toccatina, and Hunting Piece	4 0
12.	MEYER, CH.—Andantino Grazioso and Scherzo, from Op. 31	4 0	34.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—"L'Invitation à la Valse," Rondo Brillante, Op. 65	4 0
13.	BACH, J. S.—Præambulum, Air, Passepied, and Gigue	5 0	35.	SCHUMANN, R.—Two Nachtstücke in F major and D flat major, from Op. 23	4 0
14.	HELLER, S.—Tarantelle in A flat major, Op. 85, No. 2	4 0	36.	BACH, J. S.—Two Preludes and Fugues in C sharp major and C sharp minor, from "Das Wohltemperirte Clavier"	5 0
15.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Grand Sonata, with Funeral March, Op. 26	6 0	37.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in F sharp major, Op. 78	4 0
16.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Andante and Rondo Capriccioso, Op. 14	4 0	38.	CLEMENTI, M.—Toccatina in B flat major	4 0
17.	HEISELT, A.—Nocturne in G flat, Op. 13	4 0	39.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Tarantella in E minor, from Sonata, Op. 70	4 0
18.	SCHUMANN, R.—Three Impromptus, in A major, E minor, and E major, Op. 99	4 0	40.	CHOPIN, F.—Berceuse in D flat major, Op. 57	4 0
19.	CHOPIN, F.—Impromptu in A flat, Op. 29	4 0
20.	TAUBERT, G.—"La Campanella," Op. 41	4 0
21.	HELLER, S.—Tarantelle in F minor, Op. 66	4 0
22.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Prelude and Fugue in D, from Op. 35	4 0

SECTION V.—"VERY DIFFICULT."

1.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata in A flat, Op. 110	6 0	15.	SCHUMANN, R.—Two Caprices in C and E, from Op. 5	4 0
2.	SCHUMANN, R.—Two Phantasie-Stücke, from Op. 12	4 0	16.	BACH, J. S.—Prelude and Fugue in A minor	5 0
3.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Andante and Rondo, from Grand Sonata in D minor, Op. 49	6 0	17.	CHOPIN, F.—Impromptu in G flat, Op. 51	4 0
4.	HELLER, S.—La Chasse, Study in E flat, Op. 29	4 0	18.	LISZT, A.—Three Hungarian Airs	4 0
5.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Sonata, Les Adieux, l'Absence, et le Retour, Op. 81	6 0	19.	HEISELT, A.—"Thanksgiving after a Storm," Study in A flat	4 0
6.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Presto Scherzando in F sharp minor	4 0	20.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Grand Sonata in C minor, Op. 111	6 0
7.	CHOPIN, F.—Two Studies, in E and G flat, from Op. 10	4 0	21.	CHOPIN, F.—Barcarolle in F sharp, Op. 60	5 0
8.	WEBER, C. M. VON.—Momento Capriccioso in B flat, Op. 12	4 0	22.	SCHUMANN, R.—Toccatina in C major, Op. 7	5 0
9.	BACH, J. S.—Fantasia Chromatica in D minor	5 0	23.	KESSLER, J. C.—Two Studies in B minor and C major, from Op. 20	5 0
10.	HEISELT, A.—Romanza and Study in F sharp, Op. 2	4 0	24.	CHOPIN, F.—Grand Polonaise in A flat, Op. 53	5 0
11.	CHOPIN, F.—Scherzo in B flat minor, Op. 31	5 0	25.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Grand Sonata in B flat, Op. 106, First Part	6 0
12.	SCHUMANN, R.—Romanza in D minor, Op. 32	4 0	26.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Grand Sonata in B flat, Op. 106, Second Part	6 0
13.	MENDELSSOHN, F.—Capriccio in F sharp minor, Op. 5	5 0
14.	BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—Grand Sonata in E major, Op. 109	6 0

THE END.

* The title "Very Difficult" is not meant to convey the idea that this Section will provide pieces of the extreme difficulty suited to exceptional cases only (this being beyond the scope of a "School"); it is by taxing in a high degree the general Student's intellectual faculties as well as their mechanical powers that the works included will be found "very difficult" to play well.

Catalogues and all particulars may be had from all the principal Musicsellers in the United Kingdom and the Colonies. And FORSYTH BROTHERS, London and Manchester.

RUDALL, CARTE & CO.

Having completed Rebuilding their Factory, the increased accommodation and greater conveniences will enable MESSRS. RUDALL, CARTE & Co. to execute orders for all kinds of Wood and Brass Wind Instruments with much greater despatch.

Repairs of Brass and Wood-Wind Instruments.
MESSRS. RUDALL, CARTE & Co., in addition to doing what may be necessary to their own goods, are willing to Repair the Instruments of any other Makers. Having great facilities for doing Repairs of all kinds, they can undertake to do them well, reasonably, and without unnecessary delay.

23, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W

HIGHEST AWARDS FOR UPRIGHT PIANOS
1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1885, 1886.

CHALLEN AND SON,

Makers to H.R.H. Prince Albert Victor of Wales.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

"I have inspected the Upright Pianofortes of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON, and have much pleasure in giving my unqualified approval of them.

"I consider that, for purity of tone, touch, and good workmanship, they will favourably compete with Upright Pianos made by any other English firm, and superior to most of those of foreign manufacture. Their cheapness should also bring them within the reach of everyone.

"April, 1888.

"FREDERIC H. COWEN."

PRICE LISTS POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

HIGHEST AWARD, GOLD MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885.

J. & J. HOPKINSON'S

NEW MODEL

IRON-FRAMED PIANOFORTES

Entire Iron Casting, covering Wrest Plank, Full Trichord, Check Action, Brass Bridge.
In handsome Cases in Rosewood, Walnut, and Black and Gold.

40, 45, 50, 60 GUINEAS AND UPWARDS.

NEW "MODEL" PIANETTE

7 Octaves, Check Action, Trichord Tenor and Treble, Panel Front, Trusses, Iron Plates; Height, 3 feet 7 inches; Width, 4 feet 6 inches.

In American Walnut or Oak, 25 Gns. | In elegant Burr Walnut, with Fluted
In Rosewood or Walnut, 28 Guineas. | Silk Back, 32 Guineas.

In Black and Gold, 30 Guineas.

Price Lists, Photos., and full particulars on application to

J. & J. HOPKINSON, 95, New Bond Street, W.

AWARDS—London, 1886; Liverpool, 1887; Adelaide, 1887.

THE SPOHR ADJUSTABLE CHIN-HOLDER FOR VIOLINS.

The New Patent (1888) possesses the following advantages of all other Chin-Rests:—

- No Clamps to injure the Violin or break the Edges.
- Can be fixed exactly over the Tail-piece.
- Is absolutely secure and comfortable, and can be readily attached to the oldest and most fragile Violin without the possibility of injury.
- Can be adjusted to any angle or height.

BERTHOLD TOURS, Esq., writes:—

"I consider it a most important and valuable help to Violin Players, and shall take every opportunity to recommend it."

Prices, 3/6, 5/-, 7/6, and 21/-

THE VIOLINISTS' ANTI-RESIN

Instantaneously cleanses the Wood and Hair of the Bow, and entirely prevents the whistling of the Strings.

PRICE 6d. PER BOTTLE.

ITALIAN VIOLIN STRINGS

(UNEQUALLED FOR DURABILITY AND TONE.)

THREE FIRSTS (E) Post-free (as sample) for 13 Stamps.

ONCE TRIED, ALWAYS USED.

THE CELEBRATED ANDREA VERINI VIOLINS.

PRICE FIVE GUINEAS.

"The finest New Violins ever sold at the price."

"VIOLON D'ARTISTE." BAPTISTE-NICLAUS, Paris.

PRICE SEVEN GUINEAS.

The best New Violin made. Comparison invited.

FREE TRIAL.—The above Violins may be had on approval.

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES.

FOR ORGAN OR HARMONIUM. Composed by G. H. SWIFT.

Six Books, 1s. each; 10 pieces in each Book.

"This work should be in the hands of every lover of well-written Organ Music, being without doubt the finest collection of easy, tuneful, and effective Voluntaries ever published."

ALPHONSE CARY, NEWBURY & LONDON.

CHAPPELL'S PIANOS

From 16 to 135 Gs.

On the One, Two, or Three Years System
OF HIRE AND PURCHASE.

Also a large assortment of New & Second-hand Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Erard, and Bechstein, at greatly reduced prices.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

Agent for Clough & Warren's Organs and Alexandre Harmoniums.

50, NEW BOND STREET, AND 15, POULTRY.

And of all the principal Musicsellers.

ORGANISTS AND ORGAN STUDENTS.

f, f, mf, p. DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON! p, mf, f, ff.

ALL the above modifications of Tone are obtainable by AINSWORTH'S PATENT ACTIONS and ORGAN PEDALS in combination with any Pianoforte. They are the ONLY ONES whereby you may PLEASANTLY (not by mere monotonous sounds) acquire or maintain proficiency as an Organist.

AINSWORTH'S NEW PATENT MODIFYING ACTION and ORGAN PEDALS may now be inspected in combination with a Pianoforte almost everywhere. Where it is not convenient to inspect, they may be had through any Dealer or Professional Gentleman on approval. They are positively the

ONLY ONES POSSESSING REAL MERIT.

Owing to improved machinery and large demand, AINSWORTH'S prices defy competition. PRICE from 24 4s.

On receipt of trade or professional card you will receive list and liberal terms.

Second-hand List issued Monthly. Very low prices.

Address—AINSWORTH'S (Patent Piano & Organ Combination Works), Brinscall, Chorley, England.

N.B.—Works two minutes' walk from Brinscall Station. Inspection allowed to intending customers.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 550.—Vol. 29.
Registered for transmission abroad.

DECEMBER 1, 1888.

Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY, ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Mr. BARNEY.

Sullivan's THE GOLDEN LEGEND, on SATURDAY AFTERNOON, December 15, at 3. Artists: Madame NORDICA, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, Mr. HENRY POPE, and Mr. HENSCHEL. Organist, Mr. HODGE. Band and Chorus, 1,000. Prices: 7s. 6d., 6s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 2s.

Handel's MESSIAH, on TUESDAY, January 1, at 8. Artists: Madame ALBANI, Madame PATEY, Mr. CHARLES BANKS, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS. Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

EXCHANGE HALL, BLACKBURN.

THE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY'S SECOND CONCERT.

THE MESSIAH

Will be rendered on WEDNESDAY, December 19, 1888.

BAND AND CHORUS OF TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY.

PRINCIPALS:

Miss SAGER,
Miss GREENWOOD,
Mr. BARTON MCGUCKIN,
AND Signor FOLI.

Conductor, Mr. TATTERSALL, Professor of Music, Organist at St. Peter's, Blackburn.

BOURNEMOUTH PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

President: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Vice-President: J. MORANT, Esq.

Conductor, Signor G. D. LA CAMERA.

TWO GRAND PERFORMANCES OF

HANDEL'S

MESSIAH

WILL BE GIVEN IN THE

NEW TOWN HALL, BOURNEMOUTH,

On WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 19, at 3 and 8 o'clock.

Madame WILSON-OSMAN.

Madame PATEY.

Mr. PHILIP NEWBURY.

Mr. W. H. BRERETON.

Band and Chorus of 250 Performers.

Leader Mr. B. M. CARRODUS.

MORNING: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Reserved Seats, 5s. and 3s. 6d.; Unreserved, 2s.

EVENING: Stalls, 5s.; Reserved, 3s. 6d.; Unreserved, 2s. and 1s.

Tickets and Plan at Slade and Wood's Music Stores, Bright and Son's Library, The Arcade.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIO CONCERTS.

CONDUCTOR: Dr. MACKENZIE.

THE season will consist of SIX CONCERTS to be given at ST. JAMES'S HALL. On December 6, JUDITH; December 18, MESSIAH; January 23, 1889, ELIJAH; February 26, THE DREAM OF JUBAL, &c.; March 19, THE LIGHT OF ASIA; April 9, SAUL.

JUDITH, by C. H. PARRY, Thursday Evening, December 6 (for the first time in London). Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Madame PATEY, Mr. LLOYD, and Mr. PLUNKET GREENE. Conductor, Dr. MACKENZIE.

THE MESSIAH, Tuesday Evening, December 18. Mrs. HUTCHINSON, Madame ANTOINETTE STERLING, Mr. LLOYD, and Mr. SANTLEY. Conductor, Dr. MACKENZIE.

NOVELLO'S ORATORIO CONCERTS.—Prices of admission to each Concert: Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Balcony, 5s.; Admission, 2s. 6d. Subscriptions for the Six Concerts: Stalls, £2 12s. 6d. Subscribers' names received by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W., and 80 and 81, Queen Street, Cheap-side, E.C.; the usual Agents; and by Basil Tree (Austin's ticket office), St. James's Hall, Piccadilly.

GRESHAM HALL, BRIXTON.—Messrs. HANN'S CHAMBER CONCERTS (Third Series). Third and last Concert, December 12, 1888, 8 p.m. Programme:—Quartet in F, No. 82 (Op. 77), Haydn; Sonata in A, No. 17, Pianoforte and Violin, Mozart; Sextet in B flat (Op. 18), Brahms; Violoncello Solos.

MENDELSSOHN SCHOLARSHIP, founded in honour of the memory of Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy, for the education of musical Students of both sexes. A Scholarship of the value of £80 per annum, subject to renewal, is now VACANT. Candidates between the ages of 16 and 21, being single and natives of or domiciled in Great Britain or Ireland, should apply in writing (enclosing testimonials and certificate of birth) to the Hon. Secretary (address as below), on or before December 15 next. In awarding the Scholarship, preference will be given to talent in composition, specimens of which should be sent with the applications. Copies of the rules may be had from the Hon. Secretary,
JULIAN MARSHALL, 13, Belsize Avenue, N.W.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL for GIRLS (Limited), 6, Upper Baker Street, Regent's Park.—Head Music Mistress, Miss Macirone, late Professor of Royal Academy of Music. Fee, three guineas per term. Children from 8 to 13 allowed to begin and continue for two guineas per term. Pupils not in the School pay an entrance fee of one guinea. The fees payable in advance. Pupils wishing to join Violin Class under Mlle. Gabrielle Vaillant to send in their names to Miss Macirone.
F. J. HOLLAND, Chairman.

UNIVERSITY OF TRINITY COLLEGE, TORONTO.

(THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND UNIVERSITY OF UPPER CANADA.)

The next ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS for the Degree of BACHELOR OF MUSIC will be held simultaneously in TORONTO and LONDON in Easter week, 1889. Women are admissible to these Examinations.

For particulars apply to REV. E. K. KENDALL, D.C.L., Registrar for England, Southsea.

MR. ABDY WILLIAMS' AMATEUR ORCHESTRA will meet on WEDNESDAY EVENINGS, at Messrs. Angelo's School of Arms, 32, St. James's Street, S.W., commencing on WEDNESDAY, January 16, 1889. Subscription, One guinea for twelve meetings. Full particulars on application at 11, Cathcart Road, S.W.

THE ÆOLIAN QUARTET (Messrs. W. H. SHINER, S. B. INCE, W. A. DUNN, and A. H. FAIRBAIRN), for Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. For terms, Mr. A. H. Fairbairn, 14, Combe Road, Sydenham, S.E. Mr. A. H. Fairbairn (Baritone-Bass) can be engaged separately, or with the above.

STRING QUARTETS.—SECOND VIOLIN and TENOR (Professional or good Amateur) invited to take part in the above, one afternoon every fortnight, in Kensington. Music provided. Address, Violinist, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME ANNIE ALBU (Soprano).

Concerts and Oratorio, address, 10, Albert Terrace, Blackpool.

MISS JULIE ALBU (Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Jenny Lind-Goldschmidt).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 4, Elgin Avenue, Westbourne Pk.

MADAME BAILEY (Soprano),

59, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).

Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS AMY CARTER (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, and Lessons, 83, Marylands Road, Maida Vale, W.

MISS EFFIE CLEMENTS (Soprano).

Own address, 36, Albion Street, Hyde Park; or, Mr. Alfred Moul, 26, Old Bond Street.

MISS CONWAY (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Cantatas, &c., address, 53, Robert Street, Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS ELEANOR FALKNER (Soprano)

(Of St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts),

2, Grafton St., Gower St., London, and Snow Hill, Wolverhampton.

MADAME FARRAR-HYDE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Grafton Place, Ashton-under-Lyne; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick Street, Regent Street, W.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano),

84, Mansfield Road, Haverstock Hill, London.

MISS LEVINA FERRARI (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c., 8, Boscobel Gardens, Regent's Park, N.W.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)

(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, formerly her Assistant Professor; Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS DOROTHY GARTHE (Soprano or Mezzo).

For Concerts and At Homes, address, 10, Upper George Street, Bryanston Square, W.

MISS EDITH GOLDSMITH (Soprano).

For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 188, Camden Road, N.W.

MADAME MINNIE GWYNNE (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, address, 18, St. Stephen's Avenue, Uxbridge Road, W.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, and Cantatas, address, 2, Brighton Terrace, Cornbrook Park, Old Trafford, Manchester.

MISS KATHERINE JAMES (Soprano or Mezzo).

Address, 13, Horsford Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano).

R.A.M. Hon. Cert. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Asaph.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano),

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano),MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto),

80, Addison Street, Nottingham.

MISS M. LISTER NEWMAN (Soprano)

(Silver Medalist, R.A.M., July, 1887; Certificate, July, 1888)

Accepts Engagements for Concerts in December and January. Address, Hollowgate, Barnsley, Yorkshire.

MISS JESSIE PALMER (Soprano)

(Of Crystal Palace Concerts).

Address, Mr. W. B. Healey, 10A, Warwick St., Regent St., W.

MADAME PROBERT-GOODWIN (Soprano),

Oratorio, Cantata, or Ballad Concerts. Arundel House, Woodfield Rd., Redland, Bristol; or, 44, Tressilian Rd., St. John's, London, S.E.

MISS ELLIOT RICHARDS (Soprano).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 9, Oakley Street, Northampton.

MISS MARION STEAD (Soprano).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, care of W. S. Child, Esq., Hon. Sec., Musical Society, York. Press notices.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)

(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker)

Is open to engagements for Oratorio, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. Address, Beverley House, Barnes, Surrey.

MISS EMILY TAYLOR (Soprano)

(Pupil of late J. B. Welch and Miss Bessie Cox).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 158, Ladbroke Grove Road, W.

MADAME CLARA WEST (Soprano),MISS LOTTIE WEST (Contralto),

Beethoven Villa, King Edward Road, Hackney.

MISS MINNIE WILLIAMSON (Soprano).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., for vacant dates, press notices, &c., address, St. Owen Street, Hereford.

MISS BERTHA BALL, R.A.M. (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 55, Breakspear Road, St. John's, S.E.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)

(Medalist, R.A.M.).

For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c., 6, Lordship Park, Stoke Newington. Press notices sent on application.

MISS LOUISA BOWMONT (Contralto)

(Principal of St. Peter's, Manchester).

For Oratorio, Operatic or Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 51, Mercer Street, Hulme, Manchester; or, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, Strand, London.

MISS AMY BROOKES (Contralto)

(Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 7, Mount Preston, Leeds; or, 31, Torrington Square, W.

MISS MARION BURKE (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, At Homes, &c. 39, Scylla Road, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MISS NELLIE CLOUDESLEY (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Crayford, Atherton Road, Forest Gate.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Ballad or Miscellaneous Concerts, and Banquets, own address, 88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.; or, W. Sexton, Esq., 447, West Strand, W.C.

MISS DEWS (Contralto),

4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS CONSTANCE DIESELDORFF (Contralto)

(Pupil of Miss Mary Willis and Signor Vannuccini, of Florence).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Dorchester House, Lawrie Park Gardens, Sydenham.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto),

Gold Medalist, L.A.M., 1888; First-class Society of Arts, &c. Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., for terms and vacant dates, 3, Holford St., W.C.

MISS GORSE (Contralto).

(Gold Medalist.)

Wordsworth Road, Small Heath, Birmingham.

MISS VAN HEDDEGHEM (Contralto)

(Of the Promenade Concerts, Covent Garden, and Crystal Palace Concerts).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 84, Upper Kennington Lane, S.E.

MISS MARY HUTTON (Contralto).

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 28, King's Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS FANNIE LYMN (Contralto),

4, Mansfield Grove, Nottingham.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE (Contralto)

(Licentiate Royal Academy).

Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 10, Springfield Road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MISS KATE MILNER (Contralto).

For Oratorio, Operatic, or Ballad Concerts, Lessons, &c., 21, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park.

MADAME NELMES (Contralto)

(Of the Bristol Musical Festival Concerts, &c.).

N. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.; or, Derby Villa, Clifton Wood, Clifton, Bristol.

MISS SARAH SANDERSON (Contralto).

For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c. Press opinions and vacant dates, address, 4, Casson Gate, Rochdale.

MISS HAMILTON SMITH (Contralto)

(Gold Medalist).

Concerts, Lessons. Also Guitar and Mandolin. 13, Dorchester Place, Blandford Square, W.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)

(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby, and Assistant Professor in her Academy; also Professor in the Hyde Park Academy of Music).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Principal Tenor),

Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. ALFRED CONSTABLE

(Choirmaster and Principal Tenor, Bromley Parish Church).

For Concerts, &c., 18, St. German's Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

MR. E. GEERE (Tenor).

Concerts, Dinners, &c. 141, Bridge Road, Battersea Park, S.W.

MR. GREGORY HAST

(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square),

MADAME GREGORY HAST

(Pianist).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballad Concerts, &c., 9, Shipka Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. WALTER HOWGATE

(Principal Tenor, Salisbury Cathedral).

For Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 8, Harcourt Terrace, Salisbury.

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Eaton Lodge, Commercial Road, Peckham, S.E.

"GRAND CONCERT.—Maid of Astolat.—Mr. James carried off the lion's share in honours, distinguishing himself beyond doubt in the grand scena, 'O, my queen.' This vocalist thoroughly grasped the dramatic nature of this section of the work, and gave it with power and undoubted skill."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"CONCERT, STAFFORD PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY (Conductor, Dr. Heap).—Ancient Mariner.—Mr. Lloyd James sang the air 'The Harbour Bay' with magnificent effect, and in such a way as to augur well for his future success."—Staffordshire Advertiser.

MR. W. H. LOWE (Tenor).

At liberty for Oratorios and Concerts. Address, 17, Blythe Villas, Blythe Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. J. MELLOR (Tenor),

Eccleshill, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WALTER PHILLIPS (Tenor), Medalist.

For Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic, address, 255, Junction Road, N.

MR. JOHN JAMES SIMPSON (Solo Tenor)

(Ripon Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor),

St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

Address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. DEAN TROTTER (Tenor)

(Exeter Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 11, Pelsloe Park, Exeter.

MR. HENRY BAILEY (Baritone).

Address, 15, Pasley Road, Manor Place, Walworth, S.E.

MR. CLIFFORD HEATH (Baritone).

For Concerts, Receptions, and At Homes in London or country. Address, 22, Manor Place, Paddington, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, &c. Lessons in voice production. Address, Handel Villa, Thornton Heath, London.

MR. W. J. INESON (Baritone).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.; Quartet also provided. Address, The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. EDWARD MILLS (Baritone)

(E. M. Chesham).

For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., 17, Morval Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR M. SHORE, R.C.M. (Baritone)

(Pupil of Signori Alberto Visetti and Franco Novara).

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Has vacancies for pupils for Singing and Violin. 13, Hammersmith Road, Kensington, W.

MR. JAMES B. SMITH (Baritone)

(Peterborough Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 4, Princes Villas, Park Road, Peterborough.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)

(Gold Medalist and Certificate R.A.M.).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, Banquets, or Operatic Work. The Poplars, Dartford.

MR. LUCAS WILLIAMS (Baritone).

Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., address, 9, Upper Woburn Place, W.C.

MR. S. J. BISHOP (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Southwell.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Bass),

Teacher of Singing, 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. FREDERIC W. DALBY (Bass)

(Lincoln Cathedral).

For Oratorios, Concerts, Dinners, &c., address, 4, Norman Place, Lincoln.

MR. R. HILCOTT (Solo Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 13, Marchmont Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass),

Cheapside, Worksop, Notts.; or, H. Tuddenham, 304, Regent St., W.

MR. FRANK MAY (Bass)

And the London Oratorio and Ballad Union, under his direction. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 14, Hanover Street, W. Telegraphic address, "Iolas, London."

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass),

20, Bishop's Road, W.; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 104, Warwick Street, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass),

51, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. ROUTLEDGE SMITH (Bass).

Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, Bush Hill Park, Enfield.

The Press says: "Mr. Routledge Smith's voice is full, rich, and deep, and his execution is admirable."

MR. WESTBY SOMERSET (Bass).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c., 11, Trafalgar Square, Augustus Street, Brook's Bar, Manchester.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN (Bass)

(Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. S. WINTERBOTTOM (Bass).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Mossley, near Manchester.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncello).

For Concerts, Drawing-Room Matinées and Soirées, &c.; also Chamber Music Instrumental Party, Newport House, West Bromwich, near Birmingham.

MR. GEO. W. W. STEAD (Oboe and Cor Anglais).

For Oratorios and Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., 29, Trinity House, Bath Terrace, London, S.E.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano). Engaged: November 1, Alexandria; 2, Alva; 5, Hull; 7, Retford; 8, Glasgow Exhibition; 28, Bury ("Hereward"); December 11, Whitby ("Preciosa"); 19, Hereford; 22, Uppermill ("Messiah"); 26, Hugglescote; 28, Brighouse ("Ancient Mariner" and "Last Judgment"). Address, Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire, and Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS ALMA HALLOWELL (Soprano), Medalist

R.A.M., pupil of Signor Manuel Garcia, and Miss FLORENCE HALLOWELL (Contralto) can accept Engagements, Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Miscellaneous Concerts. Address, Barkisland, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MISS HATTIE HICKLING (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 30, Pepys Road South, New Cross, S.E., where she desires letters respecting Concert engagements, Oratorios, &c., or pupils, to be addressed.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano) is now booking

Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Address, Nottingham.

MISS JULIA JONES (Soprano) begs that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., will be addressed to 4, St. Thomas Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS EDITH LUKE (Soprano), Associate Gold

Medal, L.A.M. Engaged: November 24, People's Palace; December 3, Camberwell. Address, 8, Melbourne Sq., Brixton, S.W.

MISS EDITH MARRIOTT (Soprano) begs to notify her CHANGE OF ADDRESS to Oaklands, Parsons Green, S.W., where she desires letters respecting Concert Engagements or Pupils to be addressed; or, to Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed 44, Alexandra Road, London, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS CHADWICK, R.A.M. (Contralto), begs to announce her REMOVAL to 2, Coppice Street, Werneth, Oldham, late 53, Henshaw Street.

MISS CAMELIA PAGE (Contralto), accepts engagements for Concerts, At Homes, Banquets. Address, 60, Reighton Road, Upper Clapton, N.

MADAME and MR. D. SUTTON SHEPLEY

(Gentleman of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace), Contralto and Bass, request all communications to be addressed to 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, London, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR CASTINGS (Principal Tenor,

Hereford Cathedral) engaged: October 5, Malvern, Ballads; 15, Cardiff, Ballads; 18, Ledbury, Ballads; 31, Cardiff, Morning Concert, "Hymn of Praise"; Evening, "Hymn of Praise"; November 1, Cardiff, Ballads; 15, Hereford, Morning Concert; Newport, Evening, Ballads; 22, Cinderford, Sacred Selections; 27, Hereford, Ballads; 29, Abergavenny, Ballads; December 3, Hereford, "Samuel"; 11, Grimsby, "Callirhoë"; 19, Hereford, "12th Mass." Engagements pending with Nottingham, Newport, Kingston, and others. For terms, vacant dates, press criticisms, address, Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. G. BANKS (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Concerts, &c., be addressed to The Cathedral, Hereford.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Mdm. Adelaide Mullen) on tour in America with Mr. Ludwig, return end of January. Business communications to Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.; or, to Mr. Beaumont, care of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 21, East 17th Street, New York.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Scottish Tenor). "Mr. Dunn's rendering of 'Thou shalt break them' was the most finely sung piece of the whole evening." Address, 62, Berners St., W.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral. Engaged: Bishop's Stortford, "Messiah"; Chesham, "May Queen"; Southampton, "Last Judgment"; Brentwood, "Judas"; Chelsea, "Last Judgment"; Northampton, Sacred; Croydon, Ballads; Cambridge, Ballads; Wycombe, "Lobgesang"; Tottenham, Ballads; City, Ballads; Hornsey, "Last Judgment"; Maidenhead, "Lobgesang"; Dulwich, Ballads; Finchley, "Joan of Arc"; Nottingham, "Messiah." Address, 47, Croxsted Road, West Dulwich; or, The Cathedral.

MR. JAMES GAWTHROP (Tenor), Gentleman of Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's, begs that all communications be addressed to 34, Priory Park Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. HOLBERRY HAGYARD. Engaged: Stanstead, November 22 (Ballads); Guildford, 28 ("Elijah"); December 4, Bedford ("Light of the World"); 6, Holmfirth ("St. Paul"); 7, Cambridge; 11, Llanelly ("St. Paul"); 13, Diss ("Holy City"); 18, Braintree ("Messiah"); 19, Gainsboro' ("Judas"); 20, St. Ives ("Judas"). 1889: Stockport ("Messiah"); St. Neots (Ballads); Leeds ("Creation"); Bury ("St. Paul"); Huddersfield ("Messiah"). At liberty on Boxing Day and New Year's Day. Address, Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Engagements may be addressed to his residence, 23, Endlesham Road, Balham, London, S.W.

MR. LLOYD JAMES (Tenor), having taken up his residence in London, is at liberty for Concerts and Oratorios. Address, Eaton Lodge, Commercial Road, Peckham, S.E.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM (Tenor) of St. Paul's Cathedral, is booking Engagements for Oratorios and Concerts. The following are booked for the present month: "Creation," Belfast; "Last Judgment," St. Paul's Cathedral; "Hymn of Praise," Marylebone Church; "Golden Legend," Leamington; "Messiah," Kettering; "Messiah," Maidstone; Ballads, Chelsea; "Creation," Surbiton; "Creation," Ulverston; Oratorio Selections, Kendal; "Creation," Richmond; "Messiah," Ealing, Dean, &c. For vacant dates, address as above; or, Grovedale, Parsons Green, S.W.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM can provide SOLO CHOIRBOYS, trained by himself, for Advent performances of Spohr's "Last Judgment" or Church Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c. Efficiency guaranteed. Address, as above.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., be sent to his new address, 481, Manchester Road, Bradford.

MR. S. THORNBOROUGH (Tenor). Répertoire: "Andromeda," "Redemption," "Elijah," "Creation," "Messiah," "Judas Maccabeus," Rossini's "Stabat Mater," "Acis and Galatea," Masses, &c. Address, 17, Tennyson Street, Upper Brook Street, Manchester, and 125, Montague Street, Blackburn.

MR. PERCY PALMER (Tenor) desires that all Communications for Engagements be addressed to his residence, 7, Peterboro' Villas, Fulham; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. RICHARD R. WILSON (Tenor) is again at liberty for Oratorio, Ballad, and other Concerts. For terms and particulars, address, Grange Road, West Hartlepool.

MR. A. FOWLES (Baritone) is open for Oratorios, Operatic Selections, and Ballad Concerts. For terms, Press notices, &c., address, care of Mr. Sexton, 447, West Strand.

MR. ROBERT GRICE (Baritone), St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, begs to announce that he is at liberty to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad and Miscellaneous Concerts, &c., and has already booked Engagements at the following places: Leicester ("Stabat Mater"); Twickenham (Ballads); Huddersfield ("Elijah"); Highbury (Ballads); Peckham (Ballads); Freemasons' Hall (Ballads); Camden Town (Ballads); Camberwell ("St. Mary Magdalen" and "Crusaders"); Oxford ("Daniel"); New Cross (Ballads); Birmingham (Subscription Concerts); Hornsey (Ballads); Ilkeston ("Creation"); Bournemouth ("Rose of Sharon"); Bradford ("Light of the World"); Leicester (Ballads); Bury, Lancs. ("Here-ward"); Belfast ("Creation"); City ("Last Judgment"); Kentish Town (Ballads); High Wycombe (Sacred Selection); Hebden Bridge ("Messiah"); Melton Mowbray (Selections); Northampton ("Elijah"); Glasgow ("Messiah"); Banbury (Ballads); Brockley ("Fall of Babylon"); Highbury (Berlioz's "Faust"); Cheltenham ("Stabat Mater" and "Saul"); Finsbury Choral ("St. Mary Magdalen" and "Bride of Dunkerron"); West Bromwich ("Golden Legend"); Bradford (Ballads), &c. For references and terms, address, 8, Ringcroft Street, Holloway, N.; or, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) accepts Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, Dinners, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, Professor of Singing and Baritone Vocalist, begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 151, Sloane Street, Belgravia, S.W., where all future communications regarding Concerts, At Homes, or Pupils should be addressed.

MR. F. W. PARTRIDGE (Baritone), Associate of the Royal College of Music, can accept engagements for Oratorios and Concerts as Vocalist or Accompanist. Address, 2, St. George's Villa, Beckenham.

MR. J. BROWNING (Principal Bass), Leeds Parish Church. December Engagements: 1, Sheffield ("Acis and Galatea"); 3, Armley; 4, Leeds ("Last Judgment"); 17, Bromley ("Messiah"); 18, Ripon ("Creation"); 25 and 26, Farsley; 30, Pudsey ("Messiah"). Others pending. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address as above.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH, of the Manchester and Provincial Concerts, and Solo Bass, Parish Church, Burnley, is open for Oratorios, &c. Press notices, &c., on application. 56, Curzon Street, Burnley.

MR. THOMAS KEMPTON (Bass), of St. Paul's Cathedral. Engagements booked for the current month: City (Ballads); Peckham (Ballads); Brockley ("Creation"); Plumstead (Ballads); City ("Last Judgment"); Croydon (Ballads); Bermondsey Town Hall ("Messiah"); St. Leonard's ("Last Judgment"); Exeter ("Joshua"); Forest Gate ("Messiah"); Reading (Selection, "Acis"); Liverpool ("Messiah"); Highgate ("Samson"); Chalk Farm (Ballads); City (Ballads). 67, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N. B.—Quartet parties provided for Oratorio, Ballads, and Classical Concerts, Church Festivals, Masonic Banquets, &c., &c. Also a String Quartet; Leader, Mr. Gibson.

MR. W. BELL KEMPTON (Bass), of St. George's Chapel and H.M. Private Chapel, Windsor Castle, for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Quartet Party provided. For terms, address St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.

MR. and MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Mezzo-Soprano). Oratorio and Concert Parties provided. On tour in Scotland in January. For dates and Press notices, address, Willow Lodge, Leeds.

MISS NELLIE LEVEY (Vocalist and Guitarrist), having returned from the Continent, has resumed her teachings and engagements. Address, by letter, 12, Red Lion Square, Holborn.

MDLLE. ZARA, L.C.M., will sing for Organ Recitals and Charity Concerts. No expenses. 1, Flanders Road, Bedford Park.

MR. J. COCKERILL, Harpist, of the Orchestra of Mr. Stockley, and the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, accepts Engagements for Solos, or Oratorios, Cantatas, &c. Address, 147, Brighton Road, Spark Brook, Birmingham.

SIGNOR NICOLA COVIELLO (the Popular Cornet Soloist, Royal Italian Opera, Promenade Concerts, &c.) is now booking Concert engagements (London, suburbs, and provinces). Immensely successful at Promenade Concerts with "The Lost Chord," Levy's "Whirlwind," &c. 5, Sudbourne Road, Brixton.

OBOE and COR ANGLAIS.—A Gentleman is open for Engagements at Concerts, &c. Terms, 10s. 6d., including one rehearsal. Address, H. E., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WALTER THOMAS BARKER, A.R.A. Music, Harpist, 49, Ebury Street, Belgravia, S.W. Open for engagements, At Homes, Receptions, Orchestral, &c.

THE EDINBURGH PROFESSIONAL ORCHESTRA (Third Season) have booked engagements for Oratorios, Cantatas, and Orchestral Concerts in nearly all parts of Scotland. For vacant dates, terms, &c., apply, the Secretary, Mr. James Macgowan, 5, Broughton Place, Edinburgh. Any number of performers, from String Quintet to Full Orchestra.

TO CONCERT-GIVERS and others.—MADAME and the MISSES PORTER (The London Lady Quartet). Engagements: November—Southampton, Southsea, and District; December—Bath, London, &c.; January—Sussex; February—Midlands, Yorkshire, Lancashire; March—Newcastle-on-Tyne and District. A few vacant dates. 17, Formosa Street, Maida Hill, W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY begs to notify that his address is now 4, HENRY ROAD, FINSBURY PARK, N.; or, Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

J. EDWARD HAMBLETON (Violoncellist) begs to announce his REMOVAL to 121, Albany Street, N.W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

A MATEURS desirous of QUARTET, QUINTET, TRIO, or DUET PRACTICE with professional players, on moderate terms, should communicate with A.R.A.M., 21, Mornington Road, N.W.

MR. CHARLES FRY'S RECITALS: MERCHANT OF VENICE (with Sullivan's Music), ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS, PRECIOUSA, &c. Elocution Lessons: Croydon Conservatoire (Mondays); Hampstead Conservatoire (Wednesdays). Private Lessons. Belmont, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Park, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, City), teaches the ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, &c. 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING. Mr. FREDERICK BIRCH receives PUPILS at 221, Temple Chambers, E.C.; and at 4, Downs Road, Clapton.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS.—MUS. DOC., OXON., MUS. D., DUBLIN, MUS. BAC., Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and London; Cambridge Preliminary Mus. B. (including the 1st in the 1st Class two years); Oxford 1st Mus. Bac., 1888; L.R.A.M. (London), 1888; Local R.A.M. "With Honours," 1888; N.S.P.M. 1888, F.G.O. 1888, F.C.O., A.C.O., Toronto (one Doc. and 21 in 1st, 2nd, and Final Bac., several 1st Class, 1888). More than 280 Certificates, Degrees, &c., have been gained by DR. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won the GOLD MEDALS for excellence in Harmony, Counterpoint, and Plan or Design at Manchester in 1885, 1886, and 1887. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Musical Compositions by Post to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory, &c., given at own or pupil's residence, or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Organ lessons. For terms, address, Willersley House, Wellington Road, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 1, Berners Street, W.

BETTINA (Honorary Associate of the St. Cecilia Academy of Rome, and Diplômée Pupil of Henselt, St. Petersburg) gives LESSONS in the METHOD and TECHNIQUE of the latter. Address, Miss Bettina Walker, 25, York Place, Portman Square, W.

MR. W. BLAKELEY, Mus. Bac., Trin. Coll., Tor. Candidates successfully prepared by Post for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. 23, Gillespie Crescent, Edinburgh.

MR. EDWARD BROMELL (Professor, London Academy of Music) gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally and by correspondence. Classes' Compositions revised. 16, Meynell Road, South Hackney, E.

MR. ARTHUR CARNALL, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, &c., by Post. 9, Avington Grove, Penge, S.E.

DR. CROW, of Ripon Cathedral, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, &c., by Correspondence.

MR. JOHN GREIG, M.A., Mus. Bac., F.C.O. (passed Exam. for Mus. Doc., Oxon., 1887), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and FUGUE by CORRESPONDENCE. Coached successfully for final Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1886. Address, 7, Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations by Post. Address, Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: L.Mus. T.C.L. (including candidate with highest number of marks), and A.Mus., T.C.L., July, 1888; F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1888; F.Gld.O., 1888; Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887, First, Second, and Final Examinations, with First on List in Final; and 1888, several First Class; A.R.C.M., 1887; Senior Local R.A.M. and T.C.L. in Honours. Terms very moderate. Address, Cobham, Surrey.

MR. HERBERT T. LEWIS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives POSTAL LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. MSS. revised. Address, Byars Road, Glasgow.

DR. M. J. MONK (Oxon.), F.C.O., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, INSTRUMENTATION, &c., by Post, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. 20, Marlborough Road, Banbury.

MR. HENRY PIGGOTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS by Post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and other branches of the THEORY of MUSIC. Candidates prepared for Musical Examinations. Terms moderate. Alton, Hants.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., taught personally or by Post. Terms moderate. 6, East Chapel Street, Mayfair, W.; or, Haldon, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, F.C.O., F.Gld. O., L.Mus., prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Forty-two Degrees, Diplomas, and other Honours, including Mus. Bac., F.C.O., A.C.O., F.Gld. O., and L.Mus., have been gained by DR. TAYLOR'S Pupils during the past Three Years. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES Harmony, Counterpoint, Acoustics, &c., by Correspondence. Latest Successes: Mus. Bac., Final, Cantab., 1886; A.C.O., L.R.A.M., and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1887 and 1888, First, Second, and Final, all in First Class, &c.—Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), gives LESSONS in HARMONY COUNTERPOINT, INSTRUMENTATION, CANON, and FUGUE by Correspondence, and prepares Candidates for University and other Musical Examinations. Address, Dr. Wareing, 76, Bristol Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

LESSONS by CORRESPONDENCE in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Dr. BRADFORD'S System—"Per scripta in absentia." Address, 50, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

THOROUGH PREPARATION for C.O. Examination required, with use of Organ for practice, in return for services as Sub or Assistant-Organist. Advertiser has had considerable experience, and could take a full choral service. Used to a three-manual. City, W. or S.W. Organist, 3, Park Place, Snell's Park, Edmonton.

TO PROFESSORS of MUSIC, Teachers in Colleges and Schools, &c., wishing to learn the Tonic Sol-fa System. A Course of Nine Lessons will be given at 9, Warwick Lane, London, E.C., from Thursday, December 27, to Saturday, January 5, from 3.30 to 5 p.m. Teacher, Mr. L. C. VENABLES. Attention will be directed to the Art of Teaching, and a class of children will be present on one or more days. Fee, 10s.; single lessons, 1s. 6d.

PIANOFORTE and HARMONY LESSONS by a LADY (L.Mus. T.C.L.); also a small Class for the practice of Chamber Music. Licentiate, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

A LADY LICENTIATE (Artist) of the Royal Academy wishes additional PUPILS. 12 lessons, 3 guineas. Concerts, At Homes, and Schools attended. Elyod, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY DESIRES additional PUPILS for PIANO and HARMONY. Holder of Senior Certificates, R.A.M. and Trin. Coll., and First Class Society of Arts. Schools attended. Terms moderate. Miss Scott, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1 Berners Street, W.

SHEFFIELD SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.—WHITSUNTIDE, 1889.—The Committee invite contributions of original Tunes (with or without words) suitable for Children's gatherings. A Bonus will be given for each selected tune. To be sent in before January 1, 1889, to Mr. C. B. Hobbs, 53, Brunswick Street, Sheffield.

WHITSUNTIDE and ANNIVERSARY MUSIC. The Committee of the Pudsey and D.S.S. Union offer Prizes of £3, £2, and £1, for the composition of Psalm Tune with Chorus. Conditions, send stamped addressed envelope to Mr. Isaac Windsor, Bottom of Hammerton Field, Pudsey, near Leeds.

IN REPLY TO VARIOUS ENQUIRIES, the Libretto of the COMIC CANTATA, advertised in the Musical Times for November, has been negotiated. Any applications respecting similar work, embracing Musical Sketches, &c. (which must come from principals only), may be addressed to, "Rex," Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WORDS for SONGS.—SELECTIONS sent on APPROVAL to Composers who are open to purchase same. Moderate terms. A. V., Abercarn, Portland Road, South Norwood.

ORGAN PRACTICE, tubular pneumatic; three manuals; independent pedals; terms and specification on application. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

ORGAN PRACTICE (in the City). One shilling per hour, upon a complete instrument. Three manuals and independent pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis, 29, Minories. ORGAN and PIANO Lessons by Mrs. ELIZABETH STIRLING.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE and LESSONS.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 2s. one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles St., Camberwell New Rd.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

December 4, 1888.—Dr. C. W. PEARCE, F.C.O., will read a Paper on "Modern Treatment of Ancient Ecclesiastical Melodies," to commence at 8 o'clock.

January	8, 1889	...	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	9	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	10	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	11	...	Diploma Distribution.
"	15	...	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	16	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	17	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	18	...	Diploma Distribution.
February	5	...	Lecture.
March	5	...	Lecture.
April	2	...	Lecture.
"	29	...	Annual College Dinner.
May	7	...	Lecture.
June	4	...	Lecture.
July	16	...	F.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	17, 18	...	F.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	19	...	Diploma Distribution.
"	23	...	A.C.O. Examination (Paper Work).
"	24, 25	...	A.C.O. Examination (Organ Playing).
"	26	...	Diploma Distribution.
"	30	...	Annual General Meeting.

Candidates' Names for the forthcoming Examinations should be sent in on or before January 1.

Further arrangements and particulars will be duly announced.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

95, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depot, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

MUSIC COPIED and Drawn from the Full Score, with proper Cues for Engraving; also Songs or other Pieces Transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC legibly TRANPOSED or COPIED, at 6d. per folio manuscript page. Copyist, 20, St. Michael's Road, Wallington, Surrey.

CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS.—VACANCIES at Choir School of St. Mary Magdalene's, Paddington, for SONS of GENTLEMEN. Trial of Voices, December 17. Successful Candidates boarded and educated free, or greatly reduced terms. Apply, at once, to A. H. Godfrey, 10, Delamere Street, Paddington, W.

CHOIR BOYS WANTED, for St. Thomas's, Regent Street, capable of singing solos and reading fairly at sight. Stipend, £12. Letters, stating age and abilities, to A. H. Crowest, 11, Myddleton Square.

YOUNG LADY, with good voice, WANTED, by a Professor of Music in the country, to train and bring out as a Concert Vocalist. Good home. Present pupil has engagements throughout the year. Address, B. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWO ALTOS, one TENOR, and one BASS WANTED, for Grosvenor Church, South Audley St., W. Salary, £10. Apply to Rev. Foster Elliott, 64, Mount St., Grosvenor Sq., W.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Augustine's, Honor Oak Park. Salary, £15. Must be good reader. Address, Ernest E. Vinen, St. John's, Southwark, S.E.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Luke's, Redcliffe Square, S.W. Salary, £12. Apply, by letter, to R. T., 60, Barclay Road, S.W.

ALTO and TENOR WANTED, West-End Church. Choral Service; Surpliced Choir. Salary, £10 to £15 per annum. Three Testimonials (copies), to Organist, 8, Sheldon St., Paddington.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.—There is a VACANCY in the College of Vicars-Choral or Minor Canons of Chichester Cathedral, and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral are desirous of receiving applications for the vacant office. Applications to be sent in before December 20, to Sir Robert Raper, Chapter Clerk, Chichester, who will supply all necessary particulars. It is to be understood that no travelling expenses will be allowed to candidates, whether attending on request or otherwise.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL.—There is a VACANCY for a LAY CLERK (Tenor voice). Age under 30. Apply at once to the Rev. The Precentor, Chester.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, for St. Stephen's, Walbrook, E.C. Must be Communicants and good readers. Stipend, £10. Address, with full particulars, H. J. White, 28, Sheen Park, Richmond, Surrey.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, for Choir of St. Peter's, Regent Square, Gray's Inn Road. Communicants. Anglican Music. £8 a year. Address, Vicar, 1A, Russell Square, W.C.

TENOR REQUIRED, at St. Mary Abchurch, Abchurch Lane, City. £12 per annum. Must read well from tenor cleff. Services, Sunday, at 11 and 3. Rehearsal, Thursday Evening, at 8. Apply, December 3, 6 to 7 p.m., or December 4, 8.30 to 9.30.

SUNDAY DUTY.—Good ENGAGEMENT required by LADY (Soprano). Trained R.A.M. Experienced. Excellent Reader and Soloist. Excellent testimonials and references. Address, Soprano, care of Mr. Wallis, Stationer, Brixton Road, S.W.

ORGANIST WANTED, after Christmas, for Linden Grove Congregational Church, Peckham Rye. Salary, £20 per annum. Apply, by letter, with testimonials, to Mr. R. Pater-son, 5, The Norlands, East Dulwich Road, S.E.

ST. DAVID'S COLLEGE, Lampeter.—ORGAN EXHIBITION.—The Examination for the above will be held on January 16, 1889. The holder will be required to enter at once upon the duties of Organist in the College Chapel. He must matriculate, and pass in due course the examinations for the degree of B.A. For particulars apply to Professor Culley, M.A.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (disengaged) desires immediate ENGAGEMENT. Church or chapel near station W. or S.W. Anglican service. Would deputise. Moderate salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (32) requires CHURCH APPOINTMENT in London, or northern suburb. Experienced. Excellent references. Disengaged. C. P., 12, Buckingham Road, Wood Green, N.

MR. R. E. PARKER, Organist and Music-master, St. Michael's School, Westgate-on-Sea; late Assistant-Organist, All Saints', Margaret St., will be DISENGAGED at Christmas. Excellent testimonials. Address, St. Michael's, Westgate-on-Sea.

THE ORGANIST of a leading N.W. Church will be DISENGAGED at Christmas; accustomed to Cathedral, Anglican, and Gregorian Services, Organ Recitals, &c. Highly recommended by the Rev. Bonavia Hunt, Mus. Doc., Warden of Trinity Coll. Lon.; and Gordon Saunders, Esq., Mus. Doc. Address, Blewett Faulk, 30, Manley Terrace, Kennington Park, S.E.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT-ORGANIST. Four years' experience (three years under an L.R.A.M., F.C.O.); excellent testimonials. Apply, H. A. J., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks an ENGAGEMENT, or as ASSISTANT. Small salary. Address, F. W. H., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST is open to a HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT during Christmas Vacation. London preferred, although immaterial. Address, Organum, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COLONIAL.—ORGANIST, PIANIST, and CONDUCTOR (Orchestral and Choral), of first-class position, wishes to hear of an APPOINTMENT in America or the Colonies. Is a Bachelor of Music; communicant; married. Address, Pythagoras, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, the position of ORGANIST in a country or suburban church, S.E. of London. Used to a full choral service and has had good experience. First-rate testimonials and references. Address, T. D. A., Messrs. Novello and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and TONER WANTED. A permanent situation and good salary offered to a thoroughly competent man. Apply, by letter, stating experience, &c., to Toner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO TUNERS.—WANTED, for permanent employ, by a Country House, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER. Address V., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED, for town; permanent engagement. State full particulars in first letter. Lenex, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, immediately, a good TUNER and REPAIRER of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Apply, stating age, salary, references, and enclosing photo., Yorkshire, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FINE TUNER WANTED. Apply to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (competent and respectable) WANTED, for a first-class Provincial House. Apply with references and photo. to S. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a Good PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR. Must understand American Organs and Harmoniums, and will be required to repair Melodeons, Concertinas, &c., efficiently. Permanent place for a steady man. Apply, giving full particulars, to S. S. Eades, Music Warehouse, 16, Bridge Street West, Middlesbrough.

GOOD PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. Address, with photo. and copies of testimonials, Cramer, Wood and Co., Dublin.

WANTED, in West of England, a Young Man as competent PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR. Address, W. Brunt and Sons, Bristol.

WANTED, SITUATION by good sound TUNER and REGULATOR; well up in Organs and Harmoniums. Aged 25. Address, Tetrachord, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT.

Good character for steadiness and ability. Harmoniums or American Organs. Address, L. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ASSISTANT MUSIC-MASTER.—Mr. J. W.

POTTER, Organist and Music-master at Loretto School, Musselburgh, requires an ASSISTANT. Small Salary, with board and rooms. Good opportunity for acquiring experience in Teaching and in Oratorio and Cathedral music. Fine Choir of seventy voices. The position will only be given to one who can play the Violin well, and take a plain Service. Cello playing an additional recommendation. Only suitable applications will be answered.

WANTED, in a good Private School in Yorkshire, a thoroughly efficient MUSIC GOVERNESS (Resident). Must hold certificates from some Musical Institution of repute and be able to prepare pupils for the R.A.M. Examinations. Preference given to one able to teach singing. Apply, stating salary required, to E., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL, Warminster.—

REQUIRED, by January 17, a MASTER, to Teach Pianoforte. A good performer and sound musician essential. Salary, £50, with board and lodging. Ample time allowed for private tuition. Full particulars to and from the Head Master.

MR. G. H. GREGORY, Mus. Bac., F.C.O.,

Organist of Boston Parish Church, Lincolnshire, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Fine organ, choral services, and other great advantages. Premium required. Apply, as above.

DR. BRADFORD (of London and Brighton) has a

VACANCY for a Resident ARTICLED PUPIL. Moderate terms for one able to take plain Service. Address, 50, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. CHARLTON T. SPEER (Associate of and Professor of the Pianoforte at the Royal Academy of Music) has Vacancies for one or two Private Pupils. 24, Belsize Road, South Hampstead, N.W.

PIANO SALESMAN and BOOKKEEPER.—

WANTED, a first-class Man, aged about 30. Large Establishment in Lancashire. Practical experience in the business absolutely necessary. Salary to commence at £3 weekly. Particulars and photo. to Presto, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNER REQUIRED, in Established MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS. With or without knowledge. Or would sell choice of two shops. Part cash could remain. T. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNER, MUSIC PUBLISHING.—Small Business. Money to be put into it, and a MAN WANTED to work the business. Music, care of Mr. Beeching, Stationer, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

PIANO REPAIRER WANTED, at once. Must be a thoroughly good workman, steady, and reliable. Good situation to suitable man. Bezan's Music Warehouse, Leamington.

WANTED, an Experienced YOUNG LADY, as

SALESWOMAN in a Music Warehouse in the South of Ireland. Must be well up in Sheet Music, Catalogues, and able to play well at sight. Apply, stating age, experience, and Salary expected, to B. C. Atkins, 3, St. Luke's Place, Cork.

THE MUSIC COUNTER.—A Man of good experience WANTED, for a Country Music Shop. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A VA-

CANCY will shortly occur in a large business in the North of England for a Young Man to learn TUNING and the General Routine of a MUSIC BUSINESS. Candidates must be of good character, sharp and active, and able to try a piano. Address, Q. X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG LADY, holding R.A.M. Certificates for

Theory and Piano, is open to an ENGAGEMENT, daily or otherwise, in a School. Can accept a moderate remuneration. Address L. S. R., care of F. J. Pape, 5, New Bridge Street, London, E.C.

AS MUSIC-MASTER in a College or Grammar

School after Christmas. Advertiser has held similar appointments. Testimonials and references on application. Address, T. Y., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL GOVERNESS.—WANTED, SITU-

ATION. Thorough Singing, Harmony, and Piano. References to Rev. H. G. J. Clements, M.A., Vicar of Sidmouth, and H. A. Harding, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Sidmouth. Address, Musicus, Camden, Sidmouth.

YOUNG LADY desires SITUATION in MUSIC

BUSINESS To live indoors. Good musician. Town or country. B. M. S., 6, Mervan Road, Brixton, S.W.

A RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, by a Young

Lady, in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Eighteen years' experience. Address, Nita, 131, Walton Street, Oxford.

YOUNG MAN desires SITUATION in MUSIC

SHOP. Good Pianist; Tuner; well up in Sheet Music. T. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SITUATION WANTED, by Young Man (27), in a

Music or Pianoforte Warehouse, as CLERK, SALESMAN, or MANAGER. Good Pianist and Organist. Life abstainer and non-smoker. Can give undeniable references. Address, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO and MUSIC SALESMAN open to an ENGAGEMENT. Shows off well. Successful in sales. Good appearance and address. Aged 32. Height, 5 ft. 11 in. Would not object to travel. Edward, 20, Daniel Street, Bath.

WANTED, post as ASSISTANT in MUSIC

HOUSE. Organist; teaches organ, piano, and harmony. Salary nominal. References. Breve, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, by a Youth, aged 18 years, a SITU-ATION as IMPROVER in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Can tune very well, and has a slight knowledge of repairs. Y. Z., 2, Cedar Villas, Princes Road, Richmond, Surrey.

TO MUSIC WAREHOUSES.—Advertiser seeks post where he could act as SALESMAN, TUNER, &c. Pianist and Organist. Town or country. Address, W. G., 11, Moore Street, Cadogan Square, S.W.

WANTED, after Christmas, SITUATION in MUSIC BUSINESS or WAREHOUSE. Certificates R.A.M. and T.C.L. Would assist with books. Good references. Fanny Sargent, 21, Bridge Street, Chepstow.

A PROFESSOR of SINGING wishes to PUR-

CHASE a TEACHING CONNECTION in or near London. Address, X. Y. Z., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC and Small INSTRUMENT BUSINESS, in busy locality in large Manufacturing Town, for SALE. Stock and Fittings from £200 to £300. Excellent opening for energetic Man. Address, No. 101, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FOR SALE.—TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, built for present owner, the metal pipes supplied by an eminent French builder, of Paris; burnished tin front, decorated towers, ebonised case, pedals radiating. Gt. Organ: open diapason, dulciana, lieblichgedackt, stopt diapason, principal, fifteenth, and prepared for two more 8-ft. stops. Concave Swell: quintaton 16-ft. tone, violon, keraulophon, prestant, waldflöte, harmonia piccolo, mixture, corneopane, hautbois and bassoon, vox humana. Pedal Organ: 16-ft. tone bourdon and principal 8-ft. Couplers: Swell to Great sup. oct., Swell to Great, Swell to Pedal, Great to Pedal; 3 composition pedals to Swell Organ, 3 ditto to Great Organ. For further particulars, apply to Mr. G. Rider, 36, Earl's Court Gardens, South Kensington, S.W.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three-manuals, CC to G;

pedal, CCC to F; great, 8 stops; swell, 6; choir, 4; pedal, 4. All the woodwork by SCHÜTZ. The remaining stops by HILL and TELFORD. Spotted metal throughout. Perfect organ for chamber or small church. Price £250. Apply to A. Gray, Crowthorne, Wokingham.

CC ORGAN for SALE. Price low. Three manuals and pedals, 31 stops, 3 reeds. Apply to G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Poplar, E.

ORGAN.—2 manuals, 15 stops, pedal open diapason.

Must sell to make room. £65. Ingram, Burnard Place, Eden Grove, Holloway, N.

ORGAN, 2-manual, 12 stops, for SALE. Excellent condition. £100. Long credit to a church if necessary. Garner, 1, Hastings Street, Burton Crescent.

ORGAN.—A fine-toned modern Two-manual

ORGAN for SALE. Contains 16 stops, full couplers composition pedals, tremulant, &c. Front pipes handsomely decorated. Price £250. Full particulars on application, Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

ONE-MANUAL ORGAN, by BEVINGTON, for SALE. In good condition. Low price. Vicar, Mogerhanger, Sandy.

CC ORGAN for SALE.—Very cheap. 3 manuals,

31 stops, 3 reeds, and 2 stops on pedals. Fine quality of tone. Apply G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Poplar, E.

ON SALE, the ORGAN in the Unitarian Church,

Swansea, to make room for a large new instrument; two manuals, 13 stops, splendid mahogany case, gilt pipes. Price, where it stands, £40. Apply to P. Conacher and Co., Organ Builders, Springwood Works, Huddersfield.

TWO-MANUAL ORGANS, suitable for Drawing-room, &c., similar to shown in the recent Exhibition, Manchester. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Builders to Her Majesty, Central Organ Works, Manchester, S.W. Specifications for Church or Chapel Organs on application.

TWO-MANUAL Church, Chancel, or Chamber

ORGAN. 10 ft. high, 18 stops; including hautboy, clarinet, gamba, bourdon, &c., full compass pedals. Handsomely decorated speaking front. Splendid toned instrument; perfect order. Lead about 800 persons. Price £130. Portion could remain, as owner removing. Seen and tried by appointment (evening preferred). Z., 21, Walerton Road, Westbourne Park, London.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION, &c., AND FOR THE GRANTING OF CERTIFICATES AND DIPLOMAS IN MUSIC.—INST. 1872.

PRESIDENT: THE EARL OF ABERDEEN.

THE next Students' Orchestral Concert will take place on Monday, December 17, at Princes' Hall, Piccadilly, at Eight o'clock. Conductor, Mr. George Mount. Tickets may be obtained at the Hall, or from the Secretary at the College.

LENT TERM COMMENCES JANUARY 14.

The following is a list of Subjects and Professors: Harmony, Counterpoint, Form and Orchestration, Composition, Musical Acoustics, Pianoforte, Organ, Figured Bass Playing, Transposition, Solo Singing, the Art of Pianoforte Accompaniment, Violin, Violoncello, Double Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Harp, Horn, Orchestral Class, Musical History, Sight Singing, Choral Class, Vocal and Aural Physiology, Voice Production, Elocution, French, German, and Italian.

Professors Higgs, Hunt, Saunders, Turner, and Turpin, MM. Bambridge, Barrett, Beuthin, Bolton, Carrodus, B. Carrodus, Cole, Corder, Dubrucq, Dunn, Farinelli, Charles Fry, Gibson, Goodworth, Hovelacque, Lazarus, Lockwood, Malsch, Mann, Mount, Nappi, Ogbourne, Pearce, Pinney, Radcliff, Reynolds, Semple, Stone, Szczepanowski, Jas. Turpin, Tyler, Visetti, Wells, Willing, Woolhouse.

There are Evening as well as Day Classes.

Prospectus and all particulars can be obtained from the Secretary.

By order of the Academical Board.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

NOW READY.

CROWN 8vo, 570 PP., CLOTH.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION

OF

WORDS

OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

LONDON & NEW YORK
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILL BE ISSUED IMMEDIATELY.

FREDERICK CHOPIN

AS A MAN AND MUSICIAN

BY

FREDERICK NIECKS.

"Ce beau génie est moins un musicien qu'une âme qui se rend sensible."—H. DE BALZAC.

TWO VOLUMES.

PRICE TWENTY-FIVE SHILLINGS.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

REDUCED PRICE.

SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

A DICTIONARY

OF MUSICAL TERMS

EDITED BY

SIR J. STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc.,

Magd. Coll., Oxford,

AND

W. A. BARRETT, Mus. BAC.

St. Mary's Hall, Oxford.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

OVERTURE

TO SHAKESPEARE'S COMEDY

TWELFTH NIGHT

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 40.)

FULL SCORE, TWELVE SHILLINGS.

STRING PARTS, 6s. 6d.; WIND PARTS, 12s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

PLAYED BY M. VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN.

RÊVERIE DU LAC

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

MARGARET DE PACHMANN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

DECEMBER 1, 1888.

THE ROYAL SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

THE occasion of the performance of "The Messiah" on the 29th ult., in Westminster Abbey, on behalf of the funds of the Royal Society of Musicians, is a fitting opportunity to call attention to the work done by the Society during the period of its existence of a century and a half, and if possible to offer suggestions for its improvement. The story of its foundation has been often told, and is as often interesting, containing as it does an element of romance mingled with the active principles of benevolence. The late John Parry, the father of the famous entertainer and pianist, who was treasurer to the fund for many years, wrote a brief historical sketch of the institution, in which he states that its original was purely accidental. A German oboe player of the name of Kijth came to England, and his abilities being high above the common he was much sought after. He was engaged at two or three private parties in one evening, besides the customary engagements. Unfortunately he was very improvident. Then followed neglect of his family, loss of self-respect, and a miserable death in a wretched garret, his children totally unprovided for.

Two of these children, interesting and handsome boys, as they were driving milch asses, were noticed by Michael Christian Festing, who with Weidemann the violinist, and Vincent the oboe player, was talking at the door of the Orange Coffee House in the Haymarket.

Festing consulted with his friend Dr. Greene, then Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, and supported by many friends in and out of the profession, the Royal Society of Musicians was established on April 19, 1738, on a satisfactory foundation. It is not necessary to trace the progress of the Society through its various stages, but a short list of the many famous musicians who have worked in its interests will show how warmly the idea was taken up, and how energetically all laboured to place the institution upon a firm basis. The names of Arne, Beard, Boyce, Henry Carey, Corfe, Bernard Gates, Dr. Greene, Galliard, Handel, Hayes, Jackson of Exeter, Leveridge, Pepusch, Stanley (the blind organist), Smith (Handel's amanuensis), Dr. Worgan, Weidemann, Vincent, and others, appear among the founders. In later time we find among the roll such famous names as Baidon, Dr. Burney, Baumgarten, Dr. Nares, Dr. Dupuis, Dr. Cooke, Dr. Hague, S. Webbe, S. Paxton, R. J. S. Stevens, Dr. Calcott, Mackintosh (the famous bassoon player), Griesbach, W. Hawes, John Parry, Sir Henry Bishop, Horsley, Griffin, Cipriani Potter, Sterndale Bennett, Anderson, Charles Neate, John Ella, Sir John Goss, and other eminent musicians prominently identified with the history of native art.

The Society was formally incorporated in 1739, when the members—over two hundred—executed a deed of trust which was enrolled in the Court of Chancery. This deed provides rules and regulations for membership, guidance, and other matters relative to the management of the fund. In 1789, fifty years after the first establishment, King George III. granted the Society a Charter of Incorporation, by virtue of which the business is managed by a body of governors and a court of assistants. The king further showed his interest in the Society by presenting it in 1804 with a sum of 500 guineas when the funds were low. Handel, who was one of the original members, bequeathed a legacy of £1,000 to the Society, and further sums were obtained from legacies and donations by Signora Storace, Crossdill, Knyvett, and others. Besides these, the large sum of £16,000 was added to the account after the Handel Commemorations in Westminster Abbey in 1785, 1786, and 1787. The performance in the Abbey, directed by Dr. Bridge, and in which Madame Albani, Madame Patey, Mr. Harper Kearton, Mr. Hilton, and Mr. Brereton took part, Mr. Carrodus was the principal violin, and Mr. C. S. Jekyll was the Organist, is therefore not the first which has contributed to the benefit of the Society. "The Messiah," however, has not been given in its entirety in the Abbey for more than fifty years, the last occasion being in obedience to the command of King William IV., for the benefit of the same charity.

The Society derives its income from donations from the public, subscriptions and donations from the subscribers and members, and the interest (about £2,500) from its funded property, accumulated through bequests from former members and others. Its distribution is managed on the most economical scale, and on the plan which called forth the commendation of Dr. Burney. "There is no lucrative employment belonging to the Society, excepting small salaries to the secretary and collector, so that the whole produce of benefits and subscriptions is net, and clear of all deductions or drawbacks." With the Society is now incorporated the Royal Society of Female Musicians, instituted in 1839. It was more or less an antagonistic body, which for over a quarter of a century considerably weakened the operations of the older Society. The amalgamation of the two bodies in 1866 was possibly effected without any radical change in the terms of the charter, or without anything more than a wider reading of the rules and regulations. At the time of the framing of those rules there were probably no female musicians before the public; but the junction of the two Societies has been attended with satisfactory results. The like spirit which brought about the union might be exercised to place the Society before the public in an aspect which should enlist, if not command, a greater amount of support.

To those outside of its operations it would seem to require further justification for its appeal to the public at all. The style and title of the body are at variance with its known plans of procedure. It is called the Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain, but its published lists of members show few, if any, names of musicians belonging to other towns than London. This is one of the remediable weaknesses of the Royal Society. The Society appeals to the public for assistance "in providing for the maintenance of the widows and orphans, and solacing the declining years of its poorer members and their families, who, in old age—having worked hard, oftentimes ill-paid—had been precluded and disabled from continuing the stern struggle for employment." The public has most generously responded, and would doubtless do more if the Society would extend its operations. At present it is a most valuable insurance society, whose constant care is to look after those who have bought their way into its fold. The cost of entering the Society is very frequently prohibitive to young musicians just entering into life. The amount of self-sacrifice necessary for the purpose of fulfilling the requirements is advantageous in young unformed characters, no doubt, but the young beginner has not always the command of a sufficient number of engagements to enable him to exercise the necessary economy. Until quite recently the Society spent no part of its income upon other than its own members, but the present treasurer upon his appointment distinguished his accession to office by loosening the hard-and-fast rule which prohibited benevolence beyond its former boundaries. What is now wanted is a complete extension of this principle by the establishment of a benevolent fund in connection with the Society. This, with the admission of provincial musicians to its benefits and privileges, would command the wider sympathies of the public at large. The Society having all the machinery at work, and the prestige of an ancient and honourable history, might be well able to undertake the formation of a benevolent institution. A Society that is more comprehensive in design, and more liberal in its method of working—one which should not only be good to those who have earned the right to its support, but to those who have been unable to qualify themselves for its full benefits, and one which should be able to succour the distressed even though they hold no claim over the Society beyond that of its charitable consideration—is one of the needs of the present day. If the Royal Society of Musicians does not think the matter within the compass of its attainments, the probability is that the goodwill of the public will be diverted from it towards some other body which should fulfil the requirements of the age.

THE GREAT COMPOSERS.

By JOSEPH BENNETT.

No. XXVII.—HANDEL (continued from page 657.)

LATER biographers than Mainwaring agree in adopting that writer's account of young Handel at the Electoral Court of Berlin. The story is meagre at the best, but it is all we have, and there is nothing to do save make the most of it. One thing is clear enough—that the little boy from Halle was a phenomenon even in that focus of seventeenth century art, otherwise Buononcini, proud and haughty man as he was—Italian musicians could be proud and haughty in those, for them, golden days—would never have condescended to treat him with the honours of a rival, and prepare for him a pitfall into which he was expected to drop and be no more seen. All the world knows how Buononcini wrote a harpsichord piece so full of difficulty that the sanguine composer deemed it quite beyond our little lad's powers. So did the Philistines think, when they bound Samson in the house of Delilah, that they had him safe, and the jaw bone of an ass need no more be feared. But the Hebrew Hercules snapped the ropes of Gaza like pack-thread, and the wonder-boy from the old Saxon town rattled away with Buononcini's chromatics as though they were, literally, child's play. Says Mainwaring: "When he (Buononcini) found that he, whom he had regarded as a mere child, treated this formidable composition as a mere trifle, not only executing it at sight, but with a degree of accuracy, truth, and expression hardly to be expected even from repeated practice—then, indeed, he began to see him in another light and to talk of him in another tone." If the Italian master had, like Hamlet, a prophetic soul, it may be that then also vague sensations of future rivalry troubled his mind—dim foreshadowings of a struggle regarding which an unsympathetic clergyman would exclaim:—

"Strange such difference should be Twixt Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee!"

Little Handel's relations with Ariosti were of a different character, though the musical monk, as a favourite at the Elector's court, had no less reason than Buononcini to resent the advent of a possible rival. But Ariosti possessed a sweet temper and a modest nature, being the opposite in this respect of his countryman. Such a man would take naturally to a clever and interesting child. Mainwaring says: "His fondness for Handel commenced at his first coming to Berlin, and continued to the time of his leaving it. He would often take him on his knee, and make him play on his harpsichord for an hour together, equally pleased and surprised with the extraordinary proficiency of so young a person. . . . The kindness of Attilio (Ariosti) was not thrown away; as he was always welcome, he never lost any opportunity of being with him, or of learning from him all that a person of his age and experience was capable of showing him." George Frederic was destined to come very near Ariosti in after times, but not in the hostile relationship which made Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee the battle-cries of conflicting London society. While all this went on, something like a crisis in the youthful fortunes of our hero was preparing. The Elector of Brandenburg showed far too great and ominous an interest in the young gentleman from Halle. Frederic the First, as he was to be, looked upon artists much as his immediate successor, the greater Frederic, looked upon tall men. When he found one he kept him, and it was very certain that if the Elector paid for George Frederic's education in Italy, as he offered to do, the musician would ever after be a sort of fixture at the Court. The potentate's proposal seems to have been formally made, and was as formally considered by Handel's friends, some of whom, Mainwaring tells us, were disposed to jump at it as the making of the lad's fortune. We can hardly blame them, because at that time an artist without a patron, whose praises he sang, and to whose amusement he ministered, was in a very bad state indeed. And what better patron could there be than the Brandenburg Elector—the masterful person who made himself King of Prussia, and astonished the ecclesiastical old fogies of that day by putting on the crown with his own hands? "Others," says Mainwaring, "who better understood the temper and spirit of the court of Berlin, thought this a matter of nice speculation and cautious debate. For they well knew that, if he entered the King's (Elector's) service, he must remain in it, whether he liked it or not; that if he continued to please it would be a reason for not parting with him, and that if he happened to displease his ruin would be the certain consequence." These cautious counsellors got the upper hand, and it was resolved—Surgeon George concurring, we doubt not—that the dangerous favours of the great man at Berlin should be declined with thanks. But refusal itself was dangerous. The small tyrants who ruled over Germany in that day were arbitrary in inverse proportion to their size, and it was a mortal offence to evade their gracious favours. However, young Handel's father ran the risk, pleading that "as he himself was now grown old, and could not expect to have him (his son) long with him, he humbly hoped the King would forgive his desire to decline the offer which had been made him by order of his Majesty." The experienced surgeon did not wait to see the result of his answer. He pretty well knew the ways and manners of the Serenities who lorded it in the land, and felt assured that Elector Frederic was quite capable of instructing his police to keep George Frederic within their clutches. So, with some trepidation we may be certain, the boy was hurried out of the Brandenburg territory into the comparative security of his native town. The incident thus closed. Likely enough the Elector swore a little when he heard of the Hegira, and possibly ordered somebody to be flogged vicariously, anyhow he disappears out of the story.

Surgeon George's plea that he could not hope to see much of his son was more urgent than the old man could have suspected. Even then Death dogged his footsteps, and within a few months was near enough to lay upon him its chilling hand. There came an end to all his loves and ambitions on February 11, 1697. Thenceforth considerations about the upward march of the Handel family troubled him no more. But the wife and mother lived on, and under her care George Frederic, whom we must now call Handel, further pursued his studies, attending to his general as well as musical education. He entered the University of his native town, and for twelve months held the post of Organist at the Schloss-und-Domkirche—an important position. Of this period but faint records remain, while some even of them are disputed. Our readers would thank us little were we to enter upon a dry-as-dust investigation, especially as it is so easy to assume that the born musician improved every opportunity of gaining experience in his art, and, with characteristic shrewdness, lost no chance of fitting himself for the battle of life which lay before him.

It was not to be expected that Halle would long retain the ardent spirit to which it had given birth. "He had heard," says Mainwaring, "so high a character of the singers and composers of Italy, that his thoughts ran much on a journey into that country. But this project required a longer purse than he was as yet provided with, and was therefore suspended till such time as it could be compassed without hazard or inconvenience." There is nothing wonderful in Handel's longing looks towards Italy, which then held undisputed place as the first of musical nations, and, as probably the lad reflected, had produced not only Buononcini and Ariosti, but a host of composers and virtuosi then overrunning Germany, favoured of Princes and Courts. There, the youth may have thought, the secret of success could alone be found, and while young Sebastian Bach had not an idea of going beyond the horizon of his native place, Handel was only prevented by a scantily furnished purse from flying south with the autumn swallows. But if he could not get so far as the "land of song," he was bound to make a move somewhere. The mother of the family had but a widow's portion; there were other children to support, and Handel was fast growing to manhood. Neither his self-respect nor the circumstances of the household permitted him to stay at home, so, in 1703, two years after his would-be patron at Berlin had crowned himself first King of Prussia, Handel packed up his personal belongings and went out into the wide world, where, like John Bunyan's Pilgrim, he "lighted on a certain place." Not, however, to sleep and dream. Hamburg, even in 1703, was a busy town, as such things were then understood. In the same sense, moreover, it was a wealthy town, and the old burghers did not see why they, as members of a self-governing community, should not have art and artists about them as well as the ruling Serenities, their neighbours. The opera was just then flourishing in Hamburg, and the young man from Halle was naturally attracted to it. There, if anywhere, he might hope to make a beginning of his life's task. How it came about we cannot tell, but Handel had no difficulty in obtaining a place in the orchestra, where he occupied the humble position of ripieno violin. Schœlcher finds it necessary to account for the acceptance by his hero of so lowly a post, and imagines that vanity had more to do with it than modesty. "The young man of eighteen reserved to himself the satisfaction of enjoying the general surprise when his capacities should be discovered." In support of this idea he quotes a passage from Handel's Hamburg friend, Mattheson:—"At first he played the violon d'ripieno in the orchestra of the opera house, and he acted the part of a man who did not know how to count five, for he was naturally prone to dry humour." It is, of course, possible that Handel ventured upon the clumsy practical joke of pretending to be half a fool; whether it is probable we account as quite another matter. We think better of a man whose character for honesty and straightforwardness, especially in things of art, is proverbial. The chances are that, having to earn his bread, he took the first post open to him, and, it may be, jestingly contrasted his position with that to which his talents accredited him. Such a man could not long remain playing a ripieno fiddle, and Mattheson goes on to tell us: "But the harpsichordist being absent, he allowed himself to be persuaded to replace him, and proved himself to be a great master, to the astonishment of everybody, except myself, who had often heard him in private." Handel was now the right man in the right place.

A word or two about Johann Mattheson, native of Hamburg, musical prodigy, organist, operatic tenor, composer, musical historian, the writer of many books, and secretary to the English envoy in the old Free City. When Handel went to Hamburg this Admirable Crichton was first tenor at the Opera House, and the two young men (Mattheson was senior by four years), thus thrown together, became intimate friends. If the tenor showed himself a little condescending to the future composer we can hardly blame him. He had a position in the town, and could place many things in Handel's way at a time when help was most needed. "I introduced him," Mattheson writes, "to many houses where he played music, which procured for him many pupils. He dined often with my father, whose table was open to him; he taught me then a little counterpoint, whilst I, on my side, was very useful to him in dramatic style." But if Mattheson somewhat patronised his junior, Handel had the good sense not to see it, and the young fellows got on very well together, at all events for a time. That must have been a merry journey they made to Lubeck in August, 1703, encountering a poulterer on board the boat, and having fun, subsequently, with "Becker, the pastrycook's son," who blew the bellows for them at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. What the poulterer did or said, and how the pastrycook's son amused them, we shall never know, but Mattheson, writing long after, was assured that Handel would "laugh in his sleeve" when he read their names. The two friends went to Lubeck because Mattheson had been invited to succeed the famous organist, Dietrich Buxtehude, at the church above-named. Buxtehude was still living, but had grown old and desired to see a worthy man safely installed in his place before being called away. "The place of organist to this church," writes Spitta in his "Life of Bach," "was one of the best in all Germany. At the beginning of the eighteenth century it was worth 709 marks; the office of receiver, which was combined with it, brought in 226 marks, and there were besides various fees and perquisites. The organ was of considerable compass, and, as it would seem, tasteful in construction, with fifty-four stops to three manuals and pedals." The Lubeck organ seat was clearly a place of 'vantage, and it may be that Handel, knowing himself a much better performer than Mattheson, had some hopes of succeeding to it when he agreed to accompany his friend. But both were taken aback on learning the conditions attached to the appointment. It seems to have been a rule that the incoming organist should marry the daughter of his immediate predecessor.

Buxtehude himself submitted to this strange custom when, in 1668, he espoused Anna Margaretha, daughter of Tunder, whom he replaced, and now, having six girls of his own, he was not indisposed to make his successor bend his neck to the same matrimonial yoke. Mattheson, however, and still less Handel, then only eighteen years old, had slight inclination towards wedded bliss, especially as Buxtehude's eldest daughter, another Anna Margaretha, was his senior by twelve years. So he politely declined the post, together with the lady. Spitta writes: "His comrade of eighteen, who from his previous training was peculiarly fitted for the place, had even less inclination for it, even if he had had no other prospect in view. So they satisfied themselves with music, and those pleasures which the citizens felt bound to offer invited guests and distinguished artists, and 'after many proofs of respect and the enjoyment of many entertainments' they withdrew from Lubeck." It is satisfactory to know that poor, rejected Anna Margaretha was not despised by Schieferdecker, another candidate for the post. He gallantly wedded that mature maiden, and entered into possession of his father-in-law's honours and emoluments. Two years after Handel's visit to Lubeck, a vigorous young man tramped up from remote Thuringia to see and hear Buxtehude, to be so fascinated as to outrun his leave from the organ seat at the New Church in Arnstadt and to get into trouble thereby. His name was John Sebastian Bach.

On returning to Hamburg, and during the months when the opera house was closed, Handel busied himself with composition; producing the German "Passion Music," the score of which, after being long lost, curiously turned up in Berlin, and in 1860 was published by the German Handel Society. This was first performed on Good Friday, 1704. Mattheson savagely criticised it in one of his later works, but access to the music itself makes us no longer dependent upon him for an opinion. It may be asked why Handel's bosom friend turned upon him. The answer is that the demon of jealousy, bane of artistic intercourse, entered into Mattheson, whom his writings show to have been one of the most egotistical of men. On one occasion jealousy even brought about an open rupture and a literal passage of arms. The circumstance happened in this wise: Mattheson had composed an opera entitled "Cleopatra" for the Hamburg stage, and himself performed the part of Antony, whose death long before the end of the piece left his representative disengaged during a portion of the evening. Under these circumstances it appears Mattheson had been accustomed to change his dress, and preside at the harpsichord. But at a particular performance the composer of "Cleopatra" did not have things his own way. He duly appeared in the orchestra, and, we may fancy, bustled to the harpsichord with the fussiness natural to such a character. But the sturdy Saxon who was there before him had, just then, no intention whatever to vacate the seat. His motto, like that of President McMahon, was "J'y suis, j'y reste," and remain he did, to the bitter mortification of his pretentious friend. Why did Handel show himself thus obstinate? We take the answer from Mr. Rockstro: "Handel had, quite certainly, made a like concession to Mattheson's vanity on former occasions, and would probably have done so again, had no deeper sense of provocation existed; but a comparison of collateral dates shows that, at this particular moment, he was excessively annoyed at Mattheson's interference with his position at the house of the English Resident." The long and short of the matter is, that Handel had given the Resident's son lessons on the harpsichord, and that Mattheson, becoming Secretary of the Legation, took the duty upon himself, causing his friend's dismissal. Handel naturally resented the act, and "paid out" Mattheson in the manner above narrated. When the performance of "Cleopatra" ended there was a scene. Mattheson rated his friend soundly on the way out of the theatre, and, when in the street, gave him, as soundly, a box on the ear. It may be that the choleric Saxon was not deficient in repartee, and had angered his opponent past endurance; but the blow was given, and, of course, out flew swords. What possibilities were at stake during the next few moments! Had Handel perished in that unseemly brawl, the world would never have known his power, and his name, by this time, would have been forgotten. Now, however, we can measure the peril of the conflict to the art of which one of the combatants was destined to be an illustrious ornament and a potent minister. A classic poet, telling the story of such an encounter, would have brought all the benignant deities of Olympus, Apollo at their head, to save the life of the child of song. But the seventeenth century was a prosaic age, and, with entire propriety, Handel was preserved by a big metal button, against which the sword of his adversary struck and broke. Happy metal button! for its sake all metal buttons should be held sacred to the muses. Mainwaring states that the weapon impinged upon the score of Mattheson's own opera, but then he also says that the irate composer of "Cleopatra" was guilty of an attempted assassination: "As they were coming out of the orchestra, he made a push at him with a sword," &c. Mattheson indignantly denied the story, and there is no reason to believe that the fight was other than a fair one, blade to blade. Besides, had Mattheson proved so treacherous, is it likely that Handel would speedily have made up the quarrel, and, before the month was out, have dined amicably with his quondam antagonist?

We shall now see Handel as a composer of opera. At the very moment when he skirmished with Mattheson in front of the theatre, his desk contained the score of a completed work, "Almira." This had been put in rehearsal, and was brought out on January 8, 1705, as the result of a commission from the director of the opera-house. "Almira, Queen of Castile; or, the Vicissitudes of Royalty," ran for thirty nights, and if any one wishes to look for a reason in the music the German Handel Society enables him to do it, a score, in Mattheson's handwriting, having been discovered in Berlin some years ago, and since published. "Almira" must have proved a dreary affair, with its poor stilted story and its medley of German and Italian songs. But it contains some beautiful music, notably the delicious Sarabande performed at the Handel Festival of 1888, in order that the public might be made acquainted with the original of the favourite air in "Rinaldo," "Lascia ch'io pianga." The young master composed three other operas for the Hamburg theatre—"Nero," "Florinda," and "Daphne." These, unhappily, have not yet come back to the light out of the darkness wherein their predecessor so long dwelt.

It was eminently desirable that the young Saxon should make, as soon as possible, the visit to Italy which, for want of funds, had been previously deferred. In view of this the special providence that had put a metal button exactly in the way of Mattheson's sword provided a deus ex machina in the person of a member of the princely family of the Medici—brother, in point of fact, to the Tuscan Grand Duke. We may wonder what could have brought this exalted gentleman from his home in the sunny South to the shore of the inhospitable North Sea; but there he was, and, all unconscious of the fact, he had a work to do of no small musical importance. The Tuscan Prince, true to the traditions of his illustrious race, took much interest in art and artists, and was not long in becoming acquainted with Handel. He lamented, as was patriotic, that the young master knew nothing of Italy, and very little of Italian artists, and he exerted all his influence in persuading him to make the journey. According to Mainwaring, the musician combated the arguments and statements of the Prince with much spirit. When the Tuscan vaunted the compositions of his native country, the Saxon professed he could see little in them. When he declared that in no country was every branch of music cultivated with so much care as in Italy, the reply was that he (Handel) was at a loss to conceive how such great culture could be followed by so little fruit. Nothing daunted by these rebuffs, the Prince kept "pegging away," and even offered to bear the costs of Handel's travel. The master declined with thanks; none the less, however, was he moved to undertake the journey at his own charge, and having, in 1706, saved up a sum, according to Mainwaring, of 200 ducats, he left Hamburg with his face turned to the south. Christmas was spent at Halle under the maternal roof, and he reached Florence in January, 1707. These are Chrysander's dates; but Schœlcher takes him to Italy six months earlier, and nearly every biographer of the master differs more or less from every other as to time. Without going into these particulars here, we will simply say that the painstaking research of Chrysander makes his statements more trustworthy than those of any other writer on the subject. We take it, therefore, that Handel entered upon his Italian career at the date last named.

(To be continued.)

LES FOLIES D'ESPAGNE: A STUDY.

By FR. NIECKS.

To the thoughtful, history is of all kinds of reading the most attractive—they prefer it to fiction. To the critical, it is also the most irritating—they detect the fiction in the history. It has been said of universal history that it must be a mirror in which is seen in distinct outlines the sum of the historical knowledge of the time: that it is a work which cannot be brought to a close as long as man's spirit of inquiry discovers new mines of knowledge; having, on the contrary, from time to time to be recreated, and continuing to present ever new views, ever more enlightened judgments. Applying this standard to musical history, we cannot avoid the depressing and humiliating confession that the musico-historical knowledge of the time would not make an imposing show were a mirror held up to it. Enormous additions have no doubt been made to our stock of knowledge; compared, however, with what has yet to be added, they are mere trifles. Nevertheless, if our authors of musical histories would collect, sift, and judiciously comment upon the materials furnished by specialists—setting forth plainly what we do know and what we do not know—they would do useful work. But this they rarely condescend to do; they prefer to pose as omniscient sages, to recount fables and enunciate surmises with the air of recorders of the eternal verities, and to envelop the lacunæ which even fables and surmises fail to fill in a mist of copious magniloquence. He who, after a thorough investigation of a subject, tells me that nothing is known about it, adds to my knowledge; he who, with or without previous investigation, tells me something that is not known about it, adds to my ignorance. However great a boon an honestly-written general history of music is, musico-historical students are better employed in the investigations of matters of detail. What I place here before the reader is a very slight contribution of this kind, which, I hope, will not prove altogether unworthy of his attention.

The history of dances is still full of obscurities. And yet it is of the greatest importance; for dances play leading parts in the development of our art, especially in that of instrumental music, and by no means unimportant ones in the highly-advanced state of the instrumental music of our own time. The desideratum would be a complete history of each—its birth, growth, vicissitudes of fortune, &c.; in short, its rise, decline, and fall. But to accomplish such a feat is perhaps impossible in any case. It is certain that I am unable to accomplish it in the present one. My unsatisfactory attempt may, however, induce others to supply what will make up for my deficiencies.

The Folie (or Folies) d'Espagne, called in Italian Follia (or Follie), and in Spanish and Portuguese Folia (or Folias—with the accent on the "i" in these three languages), is generally thought to be a dance of Spanish origin. Trustworthy evidence, however, shows that this is not the case. In A. J. D. Cuncha's Portuguese and English dictionary we read of the Folia: "A sort of mad dance used in Portugal, by a great number of people with a confused noise, whence it took its name; as being so like folly." The same definition is given in D. Jose da Lacerda's large new Portuguese dictionary. "A kind of merry Portuguese and Spanish dance with castanets," says M. Seone in his Spanish dictionary. Turning from these modern books, and going back 250 years, we find in Lorenzo Franciosini Fiorentino's "Vocabulario español" (Rome, 1638) the following definition: "A well-known Portuguese tune which is played on the guitar" (Un suono Portuguese assai nolo, ch' si suona con chitarra); and in the companion volume, the "Vocabulario italiano e spagnuolo," the following more complete description: "A Spanish; or, to be more exact, Portuguese dance, which is danced with a certain vivacity and fire, making gestures that awaken voluptuousness, mostly seen danced by expert Spanish women" (Ballo spagnuolo, o per dir meglio Portuguese, che si balla con certa vivacità, e brio, facendo gesti, che svegliano lussuria, massime vedendolo ballare a spagnuole pratiche). With such evidence before us we may, I think, safely assume that the Folia was of Portuguese origin, but became soon naturalised in Spain. The sequel will show that it was through the Spaniards that the dance got into vogue in other parts of Europe, a fact irrefutably testified, moreover, by the name Folies d'Espagne.

The question as to the character of the Folia is much more difficult to answer than that as to its nationality. In fact, many descriptions of the character of the music are based on one popular specimen, which seems to fill the whole field of vision of the majority of the writers on this subject. The most common definition is "A dance [or "merry dance"] with castanets." Lichtenthal tells us in his "Dizionario della musica" (1836) that the music of this dance, with castanets, is a simple melody in 3-4 time, consisting of two parts of eight bars each, and being, when repeated, executed with variations. He further tells us that the dance was intended for a single person, was formerly (anticamente) much in use in Spain, where it was invented, but that in his time it was no longer à la mode. J. G. Walther, in his "Musikalisches Lexikon" (1732), says only:

"Folie d'Espagne is the known Spanish dance which is executed by a single person." Johann Mattheson (1681-1764) classes* the Folies d'Espagne as belonging to the Sarabande species, and remarks that, seriously speaking, they are very far indeed from being follies, there being more in such an old melody, which has only a compass of a minor (diminished) fourth, than in all morris dances (Mohren-Tänzen) that have ever been invented. But from what Mattheson says it is clear that he had in his mind that one specimen popular in his time, and already alluded to. And this specimen Lichtenthal had, no doubt, likewise in view, although this melody would be more correctly described as consisting of one part of sixteen bars than as consisting of two parts of eight bars. It will, therefore, be advisable to ignore these descriptions for the present, and to rest satisfied till later on with the above-quoted definition from Fiorentino's "Vocabulario," "A Spanish; or, to be more exact, Portuguese dance, which is danced with a certain vivacity and fire," &c.

The earliest traces of the Folia which I have been able to discover are to be found in two Italian musical works published like Fiorentino's "Vocabulario" in the first half of the seventeenth century. The earlier of the two works is Girolamo Frescobaldi's first book of "Toccate e Partite d'intavolatura di Cimbalo" (1615),† which contains Partite sopra Folia.‡ "Partita" is an old word for what we nowadays call "variation." The historian Ambros says of Frescobaldi's partite on favourite dance tunes that they are of the nature of contrapuntal studies (not real variations), from which the theme, which is supposed to be known and therefore need not appear at the head, peeps out at all corners. This remark, however, is less true of the Partite sopra Folia than of others of Frescobaldi's partite. For, though the composer does not give the plain original form of the theme, he seems to have retained the general outlines of it. I look upon the comparatively simple first partita (Parte prima, in 3-1 time) as a scholarly—i.e., already somewhat ornate—presentation of the theme; and on the more florid second partita (Seconda parte, in 3-2 time) as a variation (a French musician of the olden time would have said a double) of the former. At any rate, both partite—each of which consists of two repeated halves of eight bars—correspond in regard to their fundamental harmonic, melodic, and rhythmic features. For our purpose it will suffice if I quote only the first partita. The original is noted on fourteen lines—on a staff of six for the right hand, and on one of eight lines for the left. Printer and reader will thank me, I have no doubt, for transcribing it here on two five-lined staves, and, moreover, in 3-2 instead of 3-1 time. The tonality of the piece (the mixture of mediæval and modern) and the composer's part-writing offer enticing opportunities for discussion, but we are not concerned with these matters on this occasion.

No. 1.

GIROLAMO FRESCOBALDI.

* See his "Kern melodischer Wissenschaft" and "Der vollkommene Kapellmeister" (respectively of 1737 and 1739).

† There is also an edition of 1637, with a different title-page. Fétis mentions also an edition of 1627. The strange story of the first edition—with its different issues of 58, 68, and 94 pages, in 1615 and 1616 (presumably to satisfy the curiosity of the public or the impatience of the composer as far as the progress of the engravers admitted)—is told by Fr. X. Haberl in the "Kirchenmusikalisches Jahrbuch" of 1887. Frescobaldi's dedication is dated December 22, 1614.

‡ In the index the word is spelt in the Italian manner, Follia.

A few years after Frescobaldi's work there appeared at Milan Ambrosio Colonna's "Intavolatura di Cithara Spagnola," which was published, according to Hawkins, Fétis, Becker, &c., in 1627; but, according to Herr W. Tappert, in 1620 and 1637. The last-mentioned authority says that this work contains "Folie ed altre arie alla Spagnola." In Hawkins's "History of Music" we read that it contains "many airs—viz., Passacalli tam simplices quam Passegiati, Chiacone, Zaravande, Folias, Spagnolette, Pavagnilie, Arie, Monache, Passe-mezzi, Romanesche, Corrente, Gagliarda, Toccata, Nizarda, Sinfonia, Baletto, Capriccio, and Canzonette." I should have liked to make the reader acquainted with the Folias of this publication, but have not succeeded in getting sight of Colonna's work, although I have looked out for it in many libraries in this and other countries; now, however, I am on the trail of the game. Hawkins's knowledge, too, seems to have been second-hand; at least, he mentions Mersenne in this connection.

My next specimen of a Folia is from Giovanni Enrico Schmelzer's "Arie per il Balletto à Cavallo." The equestrian ballet for which this music was written was performed in 1667, on the occasion of the marriage of Leopold I., Emperor of Germany. The title of the ballet runs as follows: "Sieg-Streit desz Luftt und Wassers. Freuden-Fest zu Pferd zu dem Glorwürdigsten Beyläger Beeder Kayserlichen Majestäten Leopoldi desz Ersten," &c. (Wienn, Anno 1667.) There are five pieces: a Corrente, Giga, Follia, Allemanda, and Sarabanda. Above the piece which interests us here we read: "Follia per nuovo ingresso de i saltatori, e altre operazioni de Cavalli. Con Trombe e Timpani." I shall quote only the melody of the Folia. In the original notation there are bars only after every six crotchets, the signature is C₃, and the notes are lozenge-shaped.

No. 2.

JOHANN HEINRICH SCHMELZER.

Besides the above-mentioned Folias, I know only one other, and that is the one already repeatedly alluded to, which enjoyed for a long time an extraordinary popularity. Now let us see what information we can get about this air. Hawkins, in a foot-note to his mention of Colonna's Folias, writes: "The Folia is so particularly of Spanish original, that in music-books it is frequently called Follia di Spagna. Grassineau has given a very silly description of it, styling it a particular sort of air called Fardinal's Ground, which mistake is thus to be accounted for: about the year 1690 there resided at the court of Hanover, in quality of concert-master, a musician named Farinelli. Corelli being then at Hanover, Farinelli gave him a ground to compose on; and the divisions, to the number of twenty-four, make the twelfth of his solos, termed Follia.* Corelli had the practice of the Spanish musicians in his eye, the Follia di Spagna being nothing else than a certain number of airs in different measures composed on a ground bass. Vivaldi also has composed a sonata consisting of divisions on the same ground, and called it Follia. See his Sonatas for two violins and a bass opera prima." Hawkins alludes once more to Corelli's Follia and Farinelli's ground on another page of his "History of Music," saying of the latter that it "was composed by Farinelli, uncle of the famous singer Carlo Broschi Farinelli, and composer, violinist, and concert-master at Hanover about the year 1684. He was ennobled by the King of Denmark, and was by King George I. appointed his resident at Venice." Dr. Chrysander (G. F. Händel, Vol. I., p. 357, of German edition) shall now give us his version of the tale: "Farinelli, who about this time [1681] made a journey to Copenhagen and was knighted by the King, has not published any larger works, perhaps never wrote any; his strength lay in dances and suchlike gaieties [Munterkeiten]. A little dance, which did not even belong to him, but is of Spanish origin, called Follia—i.e., Folly—carried his name farthest; his merit in the matter was that he used the simple notes for his instrument as a theme for improvisation [um darüber zu phantasiren]. In England the piece was therefore called 'Farinelli's Ground,' and satirical and drinking songs were sung to it (for instance, Tom d'Urfey's 'Joy to great Cæsar.' See 'The Guardian,' 1713, No. 67). . . . Later on several English and Italian musicians wrote variations on this little melody; the whole of such a piece was called Folies, musical fantasias. The most important ones are those by Corelli and Vivaldi. Corelli was a friend of the Hanoverian concert-master, one of the first violinists of his age, and in the course of his travels in Germany made a stay of considerable length at Hanover. . . . With the coming into vogue of this melody is connected a circumstance of general interest. Not till Farinelli's time, consequently chiefly through him, did the Spanish dance find admission into Germany, and was then numbered among the follies of fashion. We see this clearly from the old Hamburg opera, 'Die grossmüthige Thalestris oder letzte Königin der Amazonen.' [the composer of which was Johann Philipp Förtsch], of 1690. Here Postel [the librettist] introduces the fool 'in a coat of the latest fashion,' and makes him say, 'What is nowadays to please all the fashionable people must, as a rule, be Les Folies d'Espagne. The Folly is now coming into such vogue that everybody wishes to adorn himself with it, in dancing, playing, and singing. To make myself agreeable in all matters, I will for once join in the Spanish folly. Holla laquais! Apporte la Guitarre.' A servant brings a guitar. He plays on it the Folies d'Espagne, and afterwards sings the following words to it, 'Lass Schönste lass doch dein Hertze bewegen,' &c.—

No. 3.

FARINEL'S GROUND.*

Both Hawkins's and Chrysander's accounts contain statements which seem to me purely conjectural. Of Farinelli almost nothing is known—neither his Christian name nor the dates of his birth and death. Our information about him amounts to little more than a few contemporary allusions to his playing and position at Hanover. Corelli's early life too lies in obscurity. It has been said by some that before going to Germany he was the rival of Lully in Paris, others have doubted this. His stay in Munich is generally accepted as a fact. As to his visit to Hanover and his friendship with Farinelli, I am not aware that any documentary evidence exists. However, be this as it may, in 1681 Corelli was settled in Rome. Perhaps Farinelli's friendship was invented for the sake of getting, as it were, a pedigree for Corelli's "Follia." One might even ask, without laying one's self open to the accusation of unreasonableness, whether the dance-tune in question really came from Spain, although this is probable enough. Still, the sole evidence of that fact is the "d'Espagne" in the name. An amusing example of putting the cart before the horse is furnished by Czerwinski in his "Brevier der Tanzkunst" (1879): "The first [!] composition of this dance by Corelli delighted the Spaniards to such a degree that it made 'perfect fools' of them." This explanation of the name reminds one of the once much cultivated style of imaginative etymology. However greatly Corelli may have contributed to the spreading of the popularity of the tune, he certainly was not the first in the field. His "XII Suonate a violino e violone o cembalo" (Op. 5), the twelfth of which, entitled "Follia," consists of the air given below, with twenty-two variations, were not published till 1700.

* This is wrong. Corelli's composition consists only of twenty-three numbers—of what we call a theme with twenty-two variations, and people in the olden time called a bass with twenty-three divisions.

* The above is taken from Hawkins's "History of Music," and is probably identical with the version said to be given in "The Division Violin," the first edition of which appeared in 1684. It would be interesting to know whether Farinelli's Ground made its first printed English appearance in this publication; and if it did, in which edition.

Franz M. Böhme gives in the second volume (p. 54) of his "Geschichte des Tanzes in Deutschland," the melody of a Folie d'Espagne, and says that it was a great favourite at the beginning of the seventeenth and up to the eighteenth century. This melody is no other than Farinelli's Ground, being note for note identical with it, only written in B minor and 3-2 time. As to his dates, I doubt the correctness of the first, and the incorrectness of the second will be proved by the rest of this article. The earliest appearance in print of the Folies d'Espagne I have come across is in Jean Henri d'Anglebert's "Pièces de Claveçin," which were published in 1689, and contain a number of variations on this air. The latter deserves to be quoted on account of its slightly different form. But in transcribing it I shall make use of the bass clef on the fourth instead of on the third line, and leave out the twenty-four graces of the right hand, and the one of the left.

No. 5. JEAN HENRI D'ANGLEBERT.

On July 24 of the year 1689, in which D'Anglebert published his "Pièces de Claveçin," Madame de Sévigné wrote to her daughter, Madame de Grignan, about a gentleman as follows: "Il danse ces belles chaconnes, les folies d'Espagne, mais surtout les passepieds avec sa femme, d'une perfection, d'un agrément qui ne se peut représenter." We have already seen that the Folies d'Espagne had about this time become the fashion in Germany as a dance tune and song. By the way, the fact that the Germans called it Folies d'Espagne, and not Folia or Follia, seems to show that they got it from France, and not from Spain directly, or through Italy. This is also the opinion of Dr. Spitta, who, in passing, makes some interesting remarks on this melody in the "Vierteljahrsschrift für Musikwissenschaft" (1885, pp. 76-78), mentioning, for instance, variations on this theme for clavier, which he saw in C. Grimm's "Tabulaturbuch" of 1698. But as the subject of his discussion was popular songs, he turned his attention chiefly to the utilisation of the melody for vocal purposes. "I know more than half-a-dozen French sets of words," he writes, "and yet this is certainly only a small part of those which exist. During the first half of the eighteenth century La Folie d'Espagne occupied in the favour of the playing and singing world the place which in the second half was held by the minuet of Exaudet." Dr. Spitta quotes French words sung to our air, which were also known in Germany. And he points out a German poem ("Du strenge Flavia, ist kein Erbarmen da") written to the melody about 1697 by Neumeister. This thus wedded poem became in the first half of the eighteenth century one of the most popular and hackneyed household songs. From Sulzer's "Theorie der schönen Künste und Wissenschaften," published in 1778, we learn that the Folie d'Espagne, "a dance of a serious kind for one person," had gone out of fashion on the stage.

In a manuscript at Copenhagen, of 1702, the Tablature Book of Charlotte Trollsens, we recognise our old friend's disguised name in "Le Voli de spang." Antonio Vivaldi's Follia appeared thirty-seven years after Corelli's—namely, in 1737 (that is to say, if the French edition mentioned by Fétis is the first)—and is No. 12 of Op. 1, "Douze trios pour deux violons et violoncelle." Both Domenico Scarlatti and C. Ph. Em. Bach wrote variations on Les Folies d'Espagne.* J. S. Bach makes use of the melody in his Bauern-Cantate, which he wrote in 1742 (see Aria in B minor, "Unser lieber Kammerherr," Vol. XXIX., p. 183, of edition of the German Bach Society; or, Samuel Reay's English adaptation, "The Peasants' Cantata," p. 14, "Drink our host's good health"). I found the melody also in the first book of "Les Amusements du Parnasse. Méthode courte et facile pour apprendre à toucher le claveçin. Avec les plus jolis airs à la mode, où les doigts sont chiffrés pour les commençans," by Mr. Corrette, organist of the Grands Jésuites. Fétis, who says that Corrette was organist at the great Paris College of the Jesuits of the Rue Saint-Antoine in 1758, does not mention this work. The compositions and instructive works he does mention were published in the years 1771-1783. As a teacher Corrette was so little successful that the musicians in Paris called his pupils les anachorètes (les ânes à Corrette). His version of our melody need not be quoted or discussed, as it has no features that call for such a distinction. To come to this century, there is in one of J. Friedr. Reichardt's Liederspiele ("Liebe und Treue," 1804) a Pomeranian popular song which, according to Herr Tappert, is an unmistakable imitation of the Folia. The last item of my enumeration shall be Liszt's "Rhapsodie espagnole" (Folie d'Espagne et Jota aragonesa).

By this time the reader will be tired of the subject, and may think that the outcome of my facts and discussions is unsatisfactory. If this is really the case I shall not quarrel with him on that account, for I feel and think as he does. To complete the history of the Folia we require more early (seventeenth century) examples, and, above all, further particulars about the practice of the dance in Portugal and Spain. Are there no notices, descriptive and other, of the dance in Portuguese and Spanish books? Are there no Folias in Portuguese and Spanish collections of dances and popular songs? In Mariano Soriano-Fuertes's "Historia de la Musica española" (1855-59) we read of various Spanish dances, but nothing of the Folia. As a dance, the Folia was not much practised out of Portugal and Spain. It did not become naturalised in France and Germany as some other southern dances. And if the Folia was danced at all in England, it must have been to a very limited extent. Even the difficulties of the name remain unsolved. Chrysander's explanation of its plural form is one that naturally suggests itself, but the frequent occurrence of the singular form militates against the acceptance of the explanation. But incomplete as this study is, it has the merit of concentrating what others and myself have found out about that curious phenomenon in the history of our art called the Folia, Follia, or Folies d'Espagne.

* The twelve variations by C. Ph. Em. Bach were printed (posthumously, I think) by Hofmeister, of Leipzig, and also at Vienna. As to Scarlatti's composition, C. F. Weitzmann ("Geschichte des Clavier-spiels," 1863, page 20) is my authority. I do not know in which collection of his works it is to be found.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

THERE are many traditional customs connected with the observance of Christmas, and music is associated with several of them. Not to speak of Carols, which are asserted to be purely Christian in origin, and which offer one of the purest of the musical pleasures of the season, there are the folk-songs, dances, and legendary practices derived from a high antiquity, songs preserved in the observances of the play of the hobby-horse, mumming, and other customs, and there are the Waits. More than one of these customs tell of the influence of the various effects of mental, religious, and social stages through which the people have passed. The practice of decorating churches and houses with holly, ivy, and mistletoe is a direct legacy of Druidical origin. The burning of the "Yule log" is even of higher antiquity, as it was probably derived from our Aryan ancestors, and, like the lighting of fires on Midsummer eve, has reference to the worship of the Sun. The June or mid-summer bonfires are still called Bel-tane in the northern parts of England, and Walpurgis-nacht in Germany. The mince-pie, and the good cheer at Christmas, and the Wassail Song, are inheritances from the Danes and Saxons. The mummers can trace their prototypes in the pageants of mediæval times, and to the Church mysteries and moralities. The equality which was at one time strictly observed at this season was doubtless a Christian prompting. All men were equal in the eyes of the Almighty, and at this time of the year, when all were especially rejoicing in their common salvation, there was no distinction of persons.

Then opened wide the baron's hall
To vassal, tenant, serf, and all;
Power laid his rod aside
And ceremony doffed his pride.
The heir with roses in his shoes,
That night might village partner choose.
The lord, undergating, share
The vulgar game of "post and pair,"
All hailed with uncontrolled delight,
And general voice, the happy night,
That to the cottage as the crown
Brought tidings of Salvation down.

The carrying home of the holly and mistletoe was celebrated in the music and singing. The bringing in the boar's-head was accompanied by carols, and the Wassail or Drinkheil customs had their traditional musical ditties. A Wassail or Wassel song, printed by Ritson in his "Antient Songs," from the collection of Antony à Wood, to the tune of "Gallants, come away," was until quite recently sung by the wassailers of Staffordshire and Warwickshire on their rounds. A carol, "Here we come a-wassailing," will be familiar to those who know the collection of Stainer and Bramley. It is not unlikely that the custom of singing "The Wren Song," which at one time was observed in Ireland on Boxing Day, is a relic of Druidism. The young men used to decorate themselves with ribbons of various colours, and carry a furze bush to which a live wren was secured, and with this they perambulated the town or village, singing the subjoined lines to various tunes, according to the locality. One which was in use near to Cork ran thus:—

The wren, the wren is the king of all birds on Saint Ste - phen's day. He was caught in the furze, Al - though he's lit - tle, his fa - mi - ly's great, Then pray, kind gentlefolks, give him a treat, the wren, the wren, the wren.

Those interested in the ecclesiastical origin of popular melodies will notice that this melody is in the Dorian mode like many others of undoubtedly ancient character.

A writer in Hone's "Year-book" (p. 804), in describing the custom alluded to above, says: "Instantly, when the song was sung, in the true spirit of Irish hospitality, open flew the gates; and the little 'king of all birds,' entering with his attendants, found the trate (as the rhyme and the national accent would have it) prepared for him." A like custom was at one time also observed in Germany, and there is a parallel to it in the "Chelidonising," or swallow singing among the ancient Greeks. There are numbers of other musical customs still observed at the time of Christmas which can boast of a high antiquity, and which for the most part have been transmitted unchanged in their forms to posterity.

The best known Christmas music is that which is called "The Waits." It is a custom which of all others has been most modified and influenced by outside pressure so that it has lost its original shape and intention.

The institution probably dates only from the fifteenth century, when it was the custom of kings, nobles, and wealthy cities to support bands of musicians in connection with the night-watch. At certain periods of the year the Waits accompanied the watch upon their rounds, halting at certain places to perform some piece of music for the solace and comfort of the peaceful citizens.

The term "Waits," which is never used in the singular form, was applied to the whole set of wind instruments which were played by the musicians, as well as to the music they played, and to the musicians themselves. The custom originated, it is supposed, among the minstrels attached to the Court of some king or noble. Their duty was to keep watch and ward, to call the hours in the manner which was observed by the watchmen in the streets, and to perform other tasks proper to their office. From the Courts of kings and nobles it extended to wealthy cities, then to guilds within the cities, and when it was no longer protected by official sanction, it was undertaken by licensed and unlicensed musicians, who traded upon the sympathies and sentiments awakened at the season of Christmas. The method of chanting or intoning the announcements made by watchmen has formed the theme of musical treatment by many composers, native and foreign. Many, sure of the emotional effect the sounds produce, like Meyerbeer in the "Huguenots," Wagner in the "Meistersinger," Mendelssohn in his "Son and Stranger," not to mention the lighter works of Purcell, Dibdin, Cherry, Bishop, Webbe, and other Englishmen, have introduced the traditional melodies in catches, operas, glees, and choruses in use in their days. The employment of these regular intonations points to an artistic origin. The institution of organised companies of players may have suggested to the musicians the desirability of some arrangement of recognised melodies. Rymer, in his work called "Fœdera," tells of certain companies of Waits who played tunes according to the hours in the discharge of their duties. Among others of a regular company belonging to the famous city of Exeter, as far back as the year 1400, "that nyghtelye, from Mychelmas to Shreve Thorsdaye, pipeth the watch within this Courte fower tymes, in the somer nyghtes iii tymes, and maketh bon gayte at every chambere-dore and offyce, as well for feare of pyckeres and pillers."

There were also officers called "yeoman waights," whose duties and privileges are further described by the same writer, and a clue as to the origin of the term is afforded by the fact that the officer was called upon to "wait and watch" in attendance upon those who were to be installed Knights of the Bath "in the chappelle," and that he was rewarded for the exercise of this office with the fee of all the "watchinge clothing that the Knyght shall wear upon him."

In the famous traditional history of Dr. Faustus we find the word used to describe a musical instrument. "Lastly was heard by Faustus all manner of instruments of musick—as organs, clarigolds, lutes, viols, citterns, waits, hornpipes, anomes, harps, and all manner of other instruments of musick."

The waits were doubtless a sort of coarse-voiced oboe, and the hornpipe—also called cornepipe, a redundant translation of the Latin word cornu—was the ancestor of the instrument now known, in an improved form, as the cor anglais, or corno inglese. The anomes was also a wind instrument, the precise operation of which is not known. The word "waits" was occasionally employed in speaking of a single instrument. Dr. Busby, in his "Dictionary of Music," states: "From the instruments, its signification was, after a time, transferred to the performers themselves, who being in the habit of parading the streets at night with their music, occasioned the name to be applied generally to all musicians who followed a similar practice."

The name, as has been already shown, was given first to the officers who were in waiting and watching. They were the Waits. When it became the custom to accompany the officers of the watch with players upon musical instruments, the players were the musicians of the Waits, and afterwards the Waits themselves. Their instruments were the instruments of the Waits, and subsequently "the Waits" alone.

When the office was a recognised institution in ancient times, those who held the appointments were often men of considerable skill. The father of the great English musician, Orlando Gibbons, who died in 1625, was one of the town waits of the city of Cambridge; and it has yet to be cleared whether Gibbons was or was not, in his capacity as musician to the king, one of the then representatives of the ancient Waits usually belonging to royal or lordly establishments. It is now known that some of the more wealthy colleges at Oxford or Cambridge had their Waits, or companies of musicians who performed at dinner time. The College of Christ Church, in Oxford, founded by Cardinal Wolsey, and originally called "Cardinal College," must have at one time supported a body of musicians of this character, as may be inferred from the fact that a few years back, in opening an old chest which had long lain among the disregarded lumber belonging to the college, a set of wind instruments of various sizes, ornamented with silver, and bearing plates of the same metal, upon which the arms of the college had been engraved, was discovered. There were no mouth-pieces attached to the instruments, because then, as now, it was probably the custom for the players to keep their reeds in their own possession separated from the instruments except when in immediate use.

The Waits were a recognised institution in Scotland in the sixteenth century and later. The magistrates of Edinburgh in the year 1607 engaged one John Orley to provide five musicians "with chalmes and howboyis," to traverse the town in the morning "and ilk day at none to blaw ane certaine space upoun any part of the stepill the bailleis plesis, and as he plesis; betuix sex and sevnyn houris at even to pas playing and blawing with his said parties betuix the Castel-hill and the Nether-bow." Robert Murie was named "one of the good tounes waits or hoyeboyes," with a salary in 1694, when it appears he had with him three associate "hoyeboyes." Down to the middle of the last century the Waits in Scotland are spoken of as making a joyous "noise" with trumpets, hautboyes, kettle-drums, &c. A noise in Shakespeare's time meant a band of music. The allusion to "Sneak's noise" in "Romeo and Juliet" is thus explained, as is also the passage in the Psalms—translated in the reign of King James I.—"God is gone up with a merry noise, and the Lord with the sound of the trump." The term "noise" was also synonymous with "waits" in olden time. It carries the same significance in the present. One of the accredited musicians of olden time in Scotland was the town "Sueschour," or drummer who occasionally accompanied the Waits. The "swash" was the drum. Shakespeare's term "Swash-buckler" probably meant one who made a great din on empty pretence, and he refers to the braggart Parolles in "All's well that ends well" as "Good Tom 'Drum.'"

Three centuries ago minstrels were also under the patronage of the Corporation of Glasgow. They were clothed in blue coats, and wore badges provided at the expense of the city. "A remnant of this custom, still popularly called Waits, existed until recently, and may still exist, in the magistrates annually granting a kind of certificate or diploma to a few musicians, generally blind men of respectable character, who perambulate the streets of the city during the night and morning, for about three weeks or a month previous to New Year's Day, in most cases performing on violins the slow soothing airs peculiar to a portion of the old Scottish melodies, and in the solemn silence of repose the effect is very fine. At the commencement of the New Year these men call at the houses of the inhabitants, and presenting their credentials receive a small subscription," much after the manner observed by their unlicensed brethren of the South. It is not at all improbable when the spirit of economy seized the various corporations who had formerly supported the Waits, and they were disbanded, that they carried on their practices tolerated if not sanctioned by the authorities, and extending their labours to all times of the day and night, became the street musicians in various localities. Their abilities were at the command of those who, to augment festivity, desired to have a little music. There is a curious paper in The Tatler (No. 222) which shows that their melodious services were enlisted by young men to perform serenades before the houses of their lady-loves:—

"Whereas, by letters from Nottingham, we have advice that the young ladies of that place complain for want of sleep, by reason of certain riotous lovers, who for this last summer have very much infested the streets of the eminent city with violins and bass-voils between the hours of twelve and four in the morning."

It goes on to say that the practice has existed in other places, and explains or accounts for it by saying—"For as the custom prevails at present, there is scarce a young man of any fashion who does not make love with the town music; the Waits often help him through his love-making." Shakesperian readers will remember a like practice adopted by Thurio in "Two Gentlemen of Verona." This is, perhaps, the last mention of recognised engagements for the Waits. Since that day they perform on their own responsibility and at their own risk.

At one time the Waits of the metropolis were regularly licensed by the Company of Musicians of London, and by the burgesses of Westminster. In London the office of Director of the Waits was to be purchased, and in Westminster it was an appointment under the control of the High Constable and the Court of Burgesses. The appointment was maintainable at law, for we learn from Chambers's "Book of Days" (Vol. II. p. 743) that "in the year 1820 the matter formed the subject of a police inquiry, and so brought it under public notice in a singular way. A Mr. Clay had been the official leader of the Waits at Westminster, and on his death Mr. Monro obtained the post. Having employed a number of persons in different parts of the City and Liberties of Westminster to serenade the inhabitants, trusting to their liberality at Christmas as a remuneration, he was surprised to find that other persons were, unauthorised, assuming the right of playing at night, and making applications to the inhabitants for Christmas boxes. Sir R. Baker, the police magistrate, promised to aid Mr. Monro in the assertion of his claims, and the result, in several police cases, showed that there really was this vested right to charm the ears of the citizens of Westminster with nocturnal music." Whether this law still holds good cannot now be said. If it were possible to control the vagaries of those itinerant minstrels who in city or suburb disturb with irritating extracts from the repertory of the music-hall and the tap-room the peace-expecting and rest-desiring inhabitants, perhaps the sentiment which surrounds the performance of the Waits might have a substantial basis. At all events, something might be done to mark the progress of art in such matters, so as to show our contemporaries and to bequeath to posterity something better than is now offered in this form of Christmas music.

SOME years back there was an essay on "Music and the Art of Dress." Its influence is now only exerting itself. The combination of technical terms relating to "Music and Dressmaking" forms a new epoch in musical criticism. A contemporary, in recording the "At Home" of an Art Society recently, said "Some excellent piano and violin solos were also contributed, and went far to enhance a most genial and pleasant evening. There were some strikingly pretty costumes present, notably that of a lady in a long dress of faillé in the delicate new shade of capucine claire. Madame Zimmeri appeared in black, with a panache of cardinal ostrich feathers, and a fan to match; and another costume of cream and gold was quite noisy with the ropes of large bead trimmings with which it was decorated." While the notice of the opening of a Bohemian Club, at which rich persons are invited to hear musical artists perform for nothing, gives the following interesting notice of a portion of the entertainment. "Miss Lucille Saunders opened the Concert with one of Hope Temple's latest songs, and looked very striking in a white net dress, nearly covered with white jet. Madame Belle Cole was much applauded for her beautiful rendering of 'Sognai,' by Schira, and wore a superb white satin gown, with a huge fan of white feathers. Mrs. Stanley Stubbs looked most picturesque in bronze-green plush, with a front of pale pink lisse. Tiny Baby Berkley (in a pink silk sacque) had her little recitation about 'What they do at the springs.' Miss Whitacre wore a capital platform dress of yellow silk, which looked very telling, as the top of the arch was draped with amber silk curtains. She was much applauded for a florid operatic air." Here is a new field for the music critic. When a work is dull, and copy must be made, an inventory of the furniture and a description of the decorations might be introduced with advantage. One drawback only will present itself. The critic will have to show some knowledge of the subject on which he is called upon to write. He need not know anything of music, but woe befall him if by erroneous descriptions he fails to show that he has served his apprenticeship to a milliner.

OUR American correspondent, referring to the Worcester (Mass.) Musical Festival in the letter which appeared last month, gave a striking illustration of the thirst for novelties which, largely encouraged by the press, seems to be growing upon audiences, whether on this or that side of the Atlantic. It probably exists in America to a larger extent than here, for reasons which may be found in the greater excitability and restlessness of the people; but it has got hold of the English public in some measure, and we are learning to estimate the value of a prospectus not so much by the character of the works it promises as by the number of those which are new. It seems that a section of the Worcester public complained because in the programme of their Festival were Handel's "Messiah" and Verdi's "Requiem," both of which were objected to for the reason that they had been given three times within a recent period. We are far from saying that any works, however excellent, should receive attention to the neglect of others that are worthy of it; but there is a principle underlying the Worcester grumble which needs careful watching, or we shall by and bye find ourselves like children who, having had ten minutes with a toy, throw it aside and cry after another. A restless craving for the excitement of novelty must have a deadly effect upon music. It renders comparatively useless the finest works—those which should be to our musical pabulum what bread is to the food of the body—and it places the least worthy on the level of the best, in so far as both serve only for a passing gratification. Moreover, it promotes in musical amateurs the flippancy and superficiality which never fail to distinguish the man who has skimmed many books, but read none. A true work of art, like a good book, should be mastered and made part of one's self.

THERE was an interesting function at Cambridge a fortnight ago, when the University Professor, Dr. Villiers Stanford, and the Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, received the degree of Doctor of Music honoris causâ. As usual, on such occasion, the Public Orator presented each gentleman to the Vice-Chancellor, at the same time pronouncing a Latin eulogy of his works and gifts. After going through the roll of Dr. Stanford's achievements, Dr. Sandys referred to his position as Director of the Cambridge University Musical Society, sonorously adding, "Apollinis Musagetæ minister, qui Musarum et Gratiarum comitumque vocalium choro stipatus, majestate manus modo silentium imperat, modo admirabilem carminum concentum elicit." In similar fashion did the Public Orator sketch the leading facts of Dr. Mackenzie's career, laying stress upon his teaching of music in Edinburgh for fourteen years in order to be free to devote himself at last to the higher forms of musical composition alone—

Nam "vatem egregium, cui non sit publica vena,
Cui nihil expositum soleat deducere, nec qui
Communi feriat carmen triviale moneta, . . .
Anxietate carens animus facit."

That the musical public generally have approved the action of the Senate in this matter goes without saying. Indeed, the wonder is that Dr. Stanford did not receive the honour long ago, having regard to his intimate connection with the University and the work he has done within its boundaries. If Cambridge is to bestow honorary musical degrees at all, she cannot do better than take the leaders of musical activity as recipients, and of that class both Dr. Mackenzie and Dr. Stanford are excellent representatives.

THERE is something to be said even for evil things in this extremely mixed world. A visitation of cholera or typhoid, for example, generally brings about a good deal of cleanliness and improved drainage. In like manner the press "interviewer" has his uses, and there are occasions—we grant they are rare—when he stands forth in convincing disproof of the fact that the scheme of creation involves anything absolutely and entirely evil. But the "interviewer" requires a good deal of watching, and, just now, cautious people are wanting to know the rights of what seems a pretty little game. Let us suppose that a young lady of sixteen comes to England from Timbuctoo, and appears at a Concert without exciting any particular remark. This is a common procedure, though Timbuctoo is not in every case the place of departure. Some days after the début, which led to nothing in particular, a public journal appears with a column-long "interview," and we are regaled with the conversation of the ambitious African, and a sketch of her features. Yet some days, and another newspaper follows suit, giving us a second conversational column, with all the details over again. Naturally the public want to know how this is done, and why. They are themselves unconscious of any burning interest in the lady from Timbuctoo, and the question is whether the editors concerned have really persuaded themselves that such an interest exists. It may, of course, be suggested that a "consideration" has passed, and that the conversational columns are only advertisements of a disingenuous nature. But the British press can hardly have sunk so low. The chances are that our astute friend the interviewer has been "coming it" over his unsophisticated chief.

THE Athenæum, in noticing the performance of "Joshua" by the Borough of Hackney Choral Association, alludes to "what may be called the renaissance of antiquarian music, which commenced with the formation of the Bach Choir twelve years ago."

The "new birth" had already taken place when the Bach Society was formed, that body itself being one of the results of the revival. The "renaissance" dates back for nearly twenty years with the formation of the Oratorio Concerts. The domain of oratorio at that time was chiefly occupied by the Sacred Harmonic Society, who, as "A Short History of Cheap Music" tells us on page 104, had shown little inclination to undertake the production of new works until it was proved that such novelties were attractive and remunerative. At the first performance of the Oratorio Concerts on February 5, 1869, Handel's "Jephtha" was given. In 1870, Bach's "Passions Musik" was revived, and among the other works which followed were "Belshazzar" in 1872, "Theodora" in 1873. "Esther" and "Susanna" were brought out at the Alexandra Palace as a natural sequence of the interest in the renaissance of antiquarian music, all before the Bach Society had any hand in the matter. In fact, it is doubtful whether the publication of the works in a cheap form has not had more to do with the matter, by making the performances possible, than the sentimental interest attached to the work of the Society distinguished by our contemporary.

THE upper floor of a music warehouse not far from Oxford Street had been let for the purpose of an agency for servants. A projecting board announced the character of the business to the passers by. When the "agency" came to an end, the board remained, and the shop-boy utilised it by pasting slips upon it relative to the goods sold in the shop. He did not cover the whole surface, so that the announcement read as follows:—"Mandolines, guitars, violins, male and female servants, and all other kinds of musical instruments." There are still some shop-boys endowed with genius.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

WE do not suppose the change of style of the Royal Albert Hall Choral Society will affect it in any sense with the public, but it was cheerful to note that its popularity has at any rate not diminished, for the immense building was well filled at the first Concert, on the 7th ult., though the programme consisted of works which have been allowed to fall into some neglect of recent years by our larger societies. If our memory serves us, Mozart's Requiem had been given only once in the metropolis during the past decade. Its revival was therefore welcome to musicians, and in some respects the performance was surpassingly fine. The magnificent "Dies iræ" and the fugal numbers were given with wonderful majesty and power, and the quality of tone was simply perfect. The soloists, however, were far from satisfactory. Individually, Madame Albani, Madame Scalchi, Mr. Lloyd, and Signor Del Puente are artists of the first rank, but the ensemble was singularly defective, and the vocalist last-named was quite unequal to the task laid upon him. In Rossini's "Stabat Mater," which followed, there was more to call for praise. A finer rendering of "Cujus Animam" than that afforded by Mr. Lloyd we have never heard, and Madame Albani's splendid voice told well in the "Inflammatus." On the 28th ult. the Society gave a performance of Mr. Cowen's "Ruth," just too late for notice in our present issue.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

GRIEG's Concert-Overture "In Autumn," which was heard for the first time at the Palace on October 27, is full of charming snatches of melody and quaint surprises, but as a whole fails to impress the hearer to anything like the same extent as his songs and less ambitious instrumental music. It is scrappy and wanting in continuity. The Scena for two female voices, female chorus, and orchestra (Op. 20), "At the cloister gate," is a sombre but interesting work, somewhat marred by a conventional Finale, indifferently rendered by the chorus, and overweighted by the organ. The bulk of the declamation fell to Miss Anna Williams, who entered thoroughly into the spirit of the situation, and was in all respects admirable. The interlocutor was Miss Marie Curran, for whom the contralto part proved too low.

Yet another novelty was Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus," a re-arrangement for small orchestra of one of the six violin pieces recently published. This unpretentious composition is in the author's happiest vein, and keeps up to the close an unbroken flow of suave and genial melody. The audience would have gladly heard the piece repeated, and Dr. Mackenzie, in answer to a hearty call, bowed his acknowledgments from the gallery. Mr. J. F. Barnett's Offertoire for organ, a very pleasing and straightforward composition, was also cordially received. Mr. Lloyd contributed the "Preislied" in his usual artistic fashion, and the Concert wound up with a fine performance of the "Lobgesang," in which the vocalists already mentioned took part, and the Crystal Palace choir gave a very fair account of itself. The symphonic movements with which the work opens were played by Mr. Manns with the greatest delicacy and spirit.

A very meritorious novelty from the pen of a native composer was forthcoming at the Concert of the 3rd ult., in the shape of Mr. Gadsby's new Festal Symphony (MS.) in D major. The work is of a varied and elaborate character, the last movement in particular being noticeable for a lavish display of orchestral devices. The opening movement is, on a first hearing, the most impressive. But, as we have said at the outset, there is much excellent workmanship and constructive ingenuity displayed in the new work, which met with a very warm feeling from the audience.

Except for the mysterious and poetic Coda of the fifth piece, the new Schubert Waltzes proved rather disappointing. They are tuneful and flowing, but, with the exception we have just named, call for no special comment. Mdle. Douilly, the vocalist on this occasion, sang Hérold's Cavatina "Jours de mon enfance," and Miss Marie Douglas played the violin obligato very creditably.

Mdlle. Janotha played Mendelssohn's G minor Piano-forte Concerto (No. 1) in her usual brilliant but somewhat unequal fashion, taking the last movement at an outrageously rapid pace, and later on won and accepted an encore for Chopin's Scherzo in B minor. The feature of the Concert, however, was the truly noble performance of the second "Leonora" Overture, which dwarfed all the other pieces in the programme into comparative or, in some cases, absolute insignificance. Saint-Saëns's clever Ballet airs from "Etienne Marcel" concluded the Concert.

Two clever young people made their first appearance at the Palace on the 10th ult., in the persons of Miss Ethel and Master Harold Bauer. But it is permissible to express the regret that they were so ambitious in the choice of their pieces. Both were a little overweighted, the pianist by Saint-Saëns's Piano-forte Concerto (No. 2, in G minor), and the violinist by Vieuxtemps's showy, but invertebrate, Fantasia appassionata. Mr. and Mrs. Henschel were the vocalists. The programme also included the Vorspiel to "Parsifal," Wotan's "Abschied" and the "Feuerzauber" from the "Walküre," and the "Tannhäuser" Overture. But the orchestra were heard to the greatest advantage in Haydn's B flat Symphony (No. 9 of the Salomon set), which opened the Concert.

The continued popularity of "The Golden Legend" was evidenced by the very large audience which assembled on the afternoon of the 17th ult. Taken all round, the performance was an exceedingly good one. The short notice at which Miss Spada had undertaken the rôle of Elsie exempts the critic from the necessity of any detailed comment upon her performance. Madame Belle Cole was fairly efficient, though unduly tremulous at times, as Ursula; Mr. Lloyd excellent as ever as the Prince; Mr. Andrew Black displayed an excellent baritone voice as the Forester; while Mr. Barrington Foote proved fully a match in every respect for the part of Lucifer. The choir sang better than they have done for some time past.

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

THE exceptionally large gathering in St. James's Hall, on the 12th ult., in spite of forbidding weather, augured well for the success of Mr. Arthur Chappell's season. It is not the custom on these occasions to give any special significance to the programme, and with one exception the items were of a thoroughly familiar character. Of all string quartets, that of Beethoven in C (Op. 59, No. 3) may be regarded as the most popular, and a magnificent performance, with the usual artists—Madame Néruda, Mr. Ries, Mr. Straus, and Mr. Piatti—at once aroused the enthusiasm of the audience. The only other concerted work was Schumann's Trio in D minor (Op. 63), which has gradually grown into favour as it has become more and more understood. Miss Fanny Davies gave a good performance of Beethoven's Variations in E flat, on a theme from the "Eroica" Symphony. The three pieces for violin, by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, from the set of six recently published as Op. 37, had been played once before at one of Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts, also by Madame Néruda. The composer modestly speaks of them as a "small contribution to violin music," but, so far as we know, no more charming additions have been made to the repertory of the violinist for a considerable time. The numbers played at this Concert were the Benedictus, the Berceuse, and the Saltarello, and the audience by its persistent applause showed plainly that it would have welcomed one or two more examples. But the order had apparently gone forth that there were to be no encores, and the judicially-minded rejoiced at so sensible a departure from ordinary custom. Miss Liza Lehmann sang in her most pleasing manner the song "Willst du dein Herz mir schenken," which was attributed to Bach in one part of the book and to Giovannini in another. She also introduced two piquant little songs from her own pen, the first of which, "Oh, tell me, nightingale," made a very favourable impression.

Of the first Saturday programme there is really nothing to say, the selections being wholly familiar, while the crowded audience showed that it had by no means become weary of such works as Mendelssohn's Quintet in B flat (Op. 87), Brahms's Sonata in A, for pianoforte and violin (Op. 100), and Beethoven's Trio in D (Op. 70, No. 1). Sir Charles Hallé had a warm reception, and was heard at his best in Chopin's Nocturne in E and the Barcarolle in F sharp. Miss Lehmann was again the vocalist, her selections calling for no remark.

For a similar reason there is scarcely anything to be said concerning the second Monday Concert, on the 10th ult. Spohr's Melodious Quartet in A (Op. 93) and Haydn's Trio in G have been heard frequently, but many Quartets of Spohr and many Trios of Haydn wait for a hearing. Both works were, of course, rendered to perfection, with Lady Hallé as leader. Mdle. Janotha gave a spirited rendering of Mendelssohn's Fantasia in F sharp minor (Op. 28), and joined with Signor Piatti in Chopin's Sonata in G minor, for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 65). The Concert was attended by a large audience, and appeared to be thoroughly appreciated.

The next two Concerts, and the last we can notice this month, demand more than merely formal record, as the programme of each included an important addition to the repertory. That of Saturday, the 24th ult., contained Dvorák's Quintet in A, for pianoforte and strings (Op. 81). This was first performed in London at Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts last summer, and was noticed in the June number of THE MUSICAL TIMES. A further hearing serves to confirm in the fullest manner the remarks then made. The Quintet, which we now learn is one of Dvorák's latest compositions and not a recent publication of an early effort, is certainly one of his most fresh and genial works. We still think the patchy form of the slow movement is a disadvantage, though the themes themselves are of great beauty; but of the other three sections there cannot be two opinions. Music so thoroughly original and yet so free from all sense of labour must needs fascinate the most ordinary hearers, and we shall expect to find this Quintet tolerably often in Mr. Chappell's programmes. It was of course splendidly interpreted by Sir Charles Hallé, Madame Néruda, and their usual fellow artists. The rest of the instrumental programme consisted of Mozart's Quartet in B flat, No. 3;

Beethoven's Sonata in D (Op. 10, No. 3); and Schubert's Rondo in B minor (Op. 70), for pianoforte and violin. Madame Bertha Moore sang with exquisite taste songs by Sullivan, Grieg, and Bennett.

Even a more interesting novelty was brought forward on the following Monday. When it was announced only a few weeks ago that Brahms had completed a series of "Gipsy Songs" for four voices, with pianoforte accompaniment, one naturally wondered whether the same light touch and delicate fancy apparent in the charming "Liebeslieder Walzer" would characterise the new productions. Doubts are now at an end, and the "Gipsy Songs" are fairly launched on the sea of popular favour. They are not as might be supposed adaptations of existing Magyar tunes, but are wholly original, and in some of them it must be confessed the gipsy element is not very apparent. But all are in 2-4 measure, and the use of irregular rhythms and syncopations may be supposed to give consistency to the title of the cyclus. As abstract music they are as piquant, melodious, and sparkling as the composer could well make them. We shall not hazard an opinion as to which are the best of the set of eleven Lieder. Indeed, the standard of merit proclaimed in the first song is evenly maintained throughout. The verses are all of an amatory nature, and were originally written in Hungarian, by Hugo Conrat, but were set to music in a German translation. An English version which appeared in the Concert-book, is for the most part arrant nonsense, and another should be forthwith provided. The songs were rendered to perfection by Mrs. Henschel, Miss Lena Little, Mr. Shakespeare, and Mr. Henschel, with Miss Fanny Davies at the pianoforte, and were received with enthusiasm by the crowded audience. It was rather a trying ordeal for Miss Margaret Wild, a new pianist, to follow and conclude the Concert. The young lady has been a pupil of Madame Schumann for two years, and her rendering of Chopin's Scherzo in B flat minor showed that she has greatly profited by her teaching. We shall doubtless have an early opportunity of speaking more particularly as to her ability. A magnificent performance of Schubert's Quartet in D minor was another feature of the Concert.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

UNDETERRED by the indifference of the public towards his enterprise, Mr. Henschel has commenced a third series of Concerts under somewhat changed conditions. It is understood that he now relies entirely on himself, or, in other words, that he has not asked for any further guarantee from his former supporters. This of course only increases our respect for his courage and zeal in a good cause. But he has also made some important concessions to the public, the final result of which cannot yet be gauged, though the outlook is certainly not unpromising. The lowered prices have brought in a large increase of subscribers, and the gratuitous distribution of the programmes is a great boon to those who, having paid a shilling for their places, found their outlay exactly doubled by the purchase of a book of analysis. So far all is well, but it cannot be too strongly impressed on Mr. Henschel that the one great condition of success is excellence of performance. Music lovers are far more critical than formerly and will not accept second rate wares at any price. It is necessary to emphasize this fact at once, because at the first of the present Concerts, on Tuesday, the 20th ult., there was not wholly unqualified ground for contentment. Nothing could have been better than the selection of the programme. Though it consisted wholly of orchestral music there was plenty of variety, and every item was of the highest excellence in its way. Opening with Wagner's gloomy but impressive "Faust" Overture, contrast was at once afforded by Beethoven's animated Symphony in A (No. 7) which followed. But the rendering of neither of these works can be described as satisfactory. That of Wagner's piece was tame and perfunctory, and the first three movements of the Symphony were played in somewhat coarse and slovenly fashion. In the Finale the orchestra seemed to pull itself together, and for the first time fully deserved the applause it received. The improvement was maintained in the Ballet Air in G from Schubert's "Rosamunde," and Schumann's Overture, Scherzo, and Finale (Op. 52); but by far the best performance was that of a Suite by Grieg, from the music to a dramatic poem by Ibsen entitled "Peer Gynt." This little work was first written for the pianoforte, and in its new form it is almost certain to become popular. It is in four brief movements, all of them full of the composer's individuality, while the orchestration is remarkable for its daintiness and piquancy. The light and delicate handling of this music by the band proved that the material at Mr. Henschel's disposal is capable of excellent results, and the rest lies with himself.

HERR WALDEMAR MEYER'S CONCERTS.

It has become almost a fashion of late years for violinists who win fame here as executants of morceaux de salon to resort to the expensive expedient of giving Orchestral Concerts on their own account, in order to demonstrate their capacity for greater things. Whether the speculation is in the end a profitable one is more than we dare take upon ourselves to assert. Obviously it does not bring an instant return for the investment of capital, since the audiences at these Concerts are invariably either very meagre or made up of friends, the majority of whom do not pay for their seats. Still the undertaking constitutes an undeniably good advertisement, especially if the enterprising virtuoso who spends his money on a good hall and an adequate orchestra can also contrive to secure as Conductor some popular musician who knows how to make up an interesting programme, and will perhaps contribute some novelty from his own pen to impart a piquant flavour to the combination. These considerations being kept in view, it must be admitted that Herr Waldemar Meyer, who gave the first of two Orchestral Concerts at St. James's Hall, on the 22nd ult., has gone the right way to work to achieve his object. Herr Meyer is of course not altogether a stranger here to the higher tasks of his art; among other things, he played a Concerto by Vieuxtemps at one of the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts in October last year. Still, down to the present he had not been heard in such works as the Mendelssohn and the Brahms Concertos, both of which he performed on the occasion above referred to. The self-imposed test was in every way conclusive. By his vigorous and fiery interpretation of Brahms's Concerto, by his admirable technical facility and purity of style, and by the clearness and intelligence of his performance generally, Herr Waldemar Meyer proved himself a worthy pupil of Joachim and an artist of decidedly superior merit. In addition to the Concertos, Herr Meyer played with orchestra the well-known "Suite de Pièces" (No. 3, Op. 34), by Franz Ries, displaying a broad resonant tone in the Adagio, and rattling off the final movement, a Moto perpetuo, with rare brilliancy. That he won hearty applause throughout the evening may go without saying. The Conductor was Professor C. Villiers Stanford, who had a competent orchestra (led by Mr. A. Burnett) under his command. Dr. Stanford's own contribution—a brand-new Overture, entitled "Queen of the Seas," composed for the Tercenary of the defeat of the Spanish Armada—is left in store for Herr Meyer's second Concert, on the 12th inst.; but at that under notice he secured a satisfactory performance of Mozart's Symphony in D (No. 1), Beethoven's "Namensfeier" Overture, and Hamish MacCunn's picturesque and impressive Ballad-Overture "The Dowie Dens o' Yarrow."

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

THE increasing interest taken in music by our civic authorities is a welcome sign of the times. On Saturday, the 17th ult., the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress attended a Concert in the large hall of the City of London School, the occasion being the inauguration of a new orchestra for the use of the students of the Guildhall School of Music. The force employed consisted of no fewer than 108 performers, and notwithstanding this large number the precision maintained throughout was worthy of much praise, a large proportion of which is due to Mr. Weist Hill, who must have taken infinite pains at rehearsal to secure such good results. The pieces played were Meyerbeer's Overture to "Struensee," the first movement of Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, and the Overture to

"Fra Diavolo." Equally worthy of favour were the efforts of some of the soloists. Miss Jeanne Levine, who essayed Vieuxtemps's Violin Concerto in E, displayed technical gifts that can only be characterised as remarkable. She mastered the immense difficulties of the work with apparent ease, and we hope she will shortly be in possession of a better instrument. The rendering of Mendelssohn's Scena "Infelice," by Miss Annie Swinfen, was another highly commendable achievement, and words of encouragement may be bestowed on Miss Amy Sargent (soprano), Miss Carrie Curnow (contralto), Mr. W. H. Wheeler (tenor), and Mr. F. Casano (violincellist). There is so much merit in a Largo from an Orchestral Suite in G minor, by Miss Edith Sweptstone, that we should have liked to hear the entire work. At the close of the Concert Certificates of Merit were presented by the Lady Mayoress.

THE MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

On the 5th ult. Mr. Ridley Prentice read a paper on "Brotherhood's Technicon: the necessity of a systematic and scientific training of the muscles of the hand and arm for pianoforte playing." Mr. Prentice said that the demands made by composers upon the executive abilities of players constituted an ever increasing quantity, and that students are consequently obliged to devote more and more time to mere technical study. The chief effect of a regular course of gymnastic exercises on the Technicon was an increased power of control over the motions of the fingers, and thus a greater command of the finer gradations of tone, such as could not possibly be gained at the keyboard. At the conclusion of his paper Mr. Prentice explained the Technicon, and exhibited the various exercises upon it.

Mr. Walter Pye (of St. Mary's Hospital), Mr. T. L. Southgate, and several other gentlemen took part in the discussion which ensued.

FINSBURY CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

ONCE again it has fallen to the lot of a suburban society to introduce an important festival work to London for the first time. Dr. F. J. Bridge's Birmingham Cantata "Callirhoë" was promptly taken up by the above-named Society, and performed under the composer's direction at the Holloway Hall on the 22nd ult. We dealt fully with the work in our notice of the Birmingham Festival and but few additional remarks are required. Perhaps the most striking feature in "Callirhoë" is the facility displayed by the composer in the dramatic style. Though a large proportion of the work is purely lyrical, whenever a dramatic situation is approached Dr. Bridge deals with it as one to the manner born. We may instance the breaking out of the plague among the people of Calydon, and the tragic deaths of the two leading characters, the musical illustration of these episodes being as appropriate as if the composer had been long engaged in writing for the operatic stage. Despite the defects to which we have already called attention, the merits of "Callirhoë" are so considerable, and its effectiveness from the popular standpoint so unquestionable, that its position is assured for some time to come. Dr. Bridge could not have desired a better rendering of his work than he obtained from the Finsbury Society. Nearly 300 in number, the choralists must own an unusually large proportion of fine voices, for the body of tone produced is splendid, and the high quality of the singing generally reflects very great credit on the Conductor, Mr. C. J. Dale. The choruses in "Callirhoë" were given with the utmost verve and spirit, and Dr. Bridge's description of the singing as "faultless" was scarcely an exaggeration. The soloists were Miss Anna Williams, Madame Belle Cole, and Mr. Banks. The first-named lady rendered the leading part with much energy, and was fully equal to the demands made by the somewhat trying music. Mr. Banks was, as usual, very unequal. Sometimes he was scarcely audible, while at others he gave his naturally fine voice fair play, and made an effect in proportion. Madame Belle Cole was commendable in the small part of the Priestess. The first part of the Concert was occupied by Sterndale Bennett's "The Woman of Samaria," to which also full justice was rendered, the soloists being the same, with the addition of Mr. W. H. Brereton. There was an overflowing attendance, and the Society appears to be in a highly prosperous condition.

BOROUGH OF HACKNEY CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

EVER ready to bring to notice works new and old which are neglected by other societies, the Association over which Mr. E. Prout so ably presides commenced its present season on the 19th ult. at the Shoreditch Town Hall, with a revival of Handel's "Joshua." There seems to be some doubt as to when and where performances of this work have been given during the past half century, but for practical purposes it may be regarded as quite unknown except as to a few numbers. Further, while almost every other oratorio of Handel has been revived experimentally within the last fifteen years, "Joshua" has been severely left alone until the present occasion. This neglect can only be ascribed to mere chance, for there are few of the composer's works more calculated to please a popular audience. "Joshua" is Handel's last Oratorio but four. It saw the light in 1747, a year after "Judas Maccabæus," and its successors were "Solomon," "Susanna," "Theodora," and "Jephtha." The libretto is by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Morell, who was a master in the art of writing stilted and high-flown verse more noteworthy for sound than sense. In order to afford variety he has mingled with the exploits of the Israelitish leader some love passages between Othniel, the first of the Judges, and Achsah, Joshua's daughter. But whether his lines are warlike or amatory they are equally ridiculous, and as the Hackney Society's programme mildly puts it, are "in some places so absurd as to excite a smile." We do not suppose, however, that the silliness of the book has had much to do with the neglect of the Oratorio. Singularly enough, in Germany "Joshua" is by no means infrequently heard. It is well adapted for festival performances, its bright airs and vigorous choruses being for the most part in Handel's most animated style. Indeed the latter are only surpassed in "Israel," "Solomon," and "The Messiah," and the two which are singled out for performance at Handel Festivals, "Ye sons of Israel" and "Glory to God," are equalled by some of the other choral numbers. The edition used at Shoreditch was that of the German Handel Society, in which, among other corrections, the genuine second part of the soprano air, "Hark, 'tis the linnet," appears for the first time. The additional accompaniments written by Mr. E. Prout are alike scholarly and modest. We have no sympathy with those who would keep Handel's works on the shelf because they cannot be performed precisely as the composer left them; but the necessary editing should be done with knowledge and reverence, and Mr. Prout has brought both qualifications to bear on his task. It remains only to speak of the performance, in which there was much worthy of praise. If the sopranos had been equal to the other sections of the choir the rendering of the choruses would have called for unqualified commendation. The efforts of the soloists, Miss Annie Marriot, Mr. Gawthrop, Miss Hilda Wilson, and Mr. Brereton, were very praiseworthy, considering that the Handelian style of vocalisation is not so much cultivated as formerly. In the unfortunate absence of an organ or a pianoforte, the recitatives were accompanied by the strings, which was on the whole the best course under the circumstances.

MR. WILLIAM NICHOLL'S CONCERT.

VOCALISTS who give Concerts are too prone to make their programmes consist mainly of an unmeaning string of feeble ballads, but Mr. W. Nicholl is an honourable exception to this rule. The higher ground which he takes was fully maintained at his Chamber Concert at the Princes' Hall, on the 1st ult. The principal item in the scheme was Grieg's cycle of songs, "Reminiscences from Mountain and Fjord" (Op. 44). This consists of six numbers, sufficiently varied to be acceptable at one hearing, though all more or less pervaded by a certain melancholy, characteristic of the dark, true, and tender north. Mr. Nicholl sang them with much expression and feeling, but we think they would be more effective if taken by a tenor and a soprano in alternation. The Euterpe Quartet, consisting of the Concert-giver and Messrs. Arthur Thompson, Arthur Oswald, and B. H. Grove, made its first appearance, and sang some German and English part-songs. The ensemble was scarcely satisfactory, but further practice together will no doubt result in the desired improvement. Among the other artists who took part in the Concert were Miss Lucy Riley, who played some violin solos exceedingly well; Miss Louise Phillips, and Madame Fasset. Miss Mary Carmichael was, as usual, a model accompanist.

OBITUARY.

THE sudden death, on the 6th ult., of heart disease, in the sixty-seventh year of his age, of MR. JOSEPH MAAS, the father of the much lamented tenor Joseph Maas, and himself a vocalist at one time, will be noted with regret by many. He leaves a widow, one son, and four daughters to mourn his loss.

Among the names of the departed during the past month must now be added that of M. ANTOINE DE CHOUDENS, the music publisher, in his sixty-third year. He made the fortune of his firm by the purchase of Gounod's "Faust." He was the grandson of Pacini—Rossini's publisher—and began life in the very humble capacity of a night clerk in the Post Office, and was but little known in the musical world until 1859, when M. Carvalho induced him to buy the score of "Faust," which had already been produced at the Opera. The remarkable success of the work brought fame to its composer and fortune to its publisher.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE first production here of Halévy's "Jewess" by the Carl Rosa Opera Company, which took place on the last Saturday of October, fell too late in the month for notice in my last; but an event of such musical interest and importance must not be passed over in silence. Since its first production under the composer's direction, in Paris, in 1835, the opera has been heard in most of the larger Continental cities; but it is still a novelty in the English provinces, and Mr. Carl Rosa's adaptation, moreover, presents several new features which seem likely to assist its popularity in this country. It would be impossible, in the limits of this notice, to deal adequately with so elaborate a production, or describe in detail the changes and modifications which have been made in the original version; but it may be stated generally that Mr. Grist's libretto is not only an abridgment of that of M. Scribe, but in many respects a much less morbid, harrowing, and extravagant drama, though I think Mr. Carl Rosa showed a wise discretion in abandoning, after the first representation, the "happy ending" which the English librettist had provided. The plot, it will be remembered, hinges upon the guilty passion of the Christian Prince Leopold for the beautiful Jewess Rachel, whose love he has won in the disguise of one of her father's craftsmen. But Rachel is only the adopted daughter of the goldsmith Eleazar, her real father being a Roman patrician named Brogni, who, after the death of his wife and the supposed death of his child in the siege of Rome, has entered the church and won his way to the cardinalate. At Constance the beautiful Rachel, who has been carried off and educated as his daughter by the Jew Eleazar, attracts the attention and kindles the passion of the young Prince Leopold, who, though possessed of a charming and devoted wife in the Princess Eudocia, imperils his soul for the love of the beautiful Jewess. The catastrophe to which this guilty intrigue naturally tends is precipitated by the wifely affection of Eudocia, in commissioning from Eleazar a costly jewelled chain for presentation to her husband on his victory over the Hussites. Eudocia has just placed the collar about the Prince's neck, when Rachel, who has accompanied her father to the ceremony, recognises in the Prince her lover and betrayer. Instantly tearing the jewel from his breast, she indignantly denounces him for his perfidy. How Rachel afterwards relents, and saves her false lover from the death which awaits a recreant Christian, by taking all the blame upon herself, finally expiating her love in view of the audience in a cauldron of boiling oil, must be gathered from the book or witnessed in representation. It may be said generally that the work is strong in such popular recommendations as melody, pageantry, and dramatic interest. With all its grandeur, and at times even sternness, the music is never wanting in rhythmical charm or tuneful grace, though it seldom attains the definite melodic beauty of Meyerbeer's later operas, with which it presents many points of affinity. There is no lack of local and mediæval colour in the opera and the Jewish character of the Passover music contrasts effectively with the Christian ecclesiastical harmonies in the church scene and the stern numbers of the Cardinal's anathema in the third act, which is emphasised with trombones and tremulous roll of drums. The concerted music generally is admirable, and the Finale to the second act especially so. The work was capitally staged, alike as to costumes and scenery, and the performance altogether left little to be desired. Miss Moody made a charming Rachel, but excelled rather in grace, pathos, and tenderness than in tragic force. The Eudocia of Miss Amanda Fabris was a bright and pleasing assumption, and Mr. McGuckin acquitted himself of the exceedingly trying part of Eleazar with great skill and effect.

Mr. Stockley's opening Concert, on the 15th ult., was of a somewhat lighter and more popular quality than the majority of these entertainments, which appeal primarily to the educated music-lover and are generally rich in high-class orchestral novelties. On the present occasion there were only two works that could be called new here, and neither of these belong to the first order of excellence, whilst some of the old works brought forward, such as Beethoven's First Symphony and Mendelssohn's Overture to the "Midsummer Night's Dream," might be considered trite for habitual concert-goers. Gounod's "Saltarello," however, had not been heard here before, and its strongly marked character, its gorgeous colouring, and its restless tarantula spirit impressed the audience very favourably. Rheinberger's Organ Concerto in F major (Op. 137), with accompaniment for strings and three horns, was the occasion of a triumph for the new Town Hall organist, Mr. C. W. Perkins, whose masterly performance on the solo instrument won him rounds of applause. The work itself is clever and melodious rather than great, but it affords admirable scope for the technique of an accomplished organist, and Mr. Perkins fully satisfied its requirements. A selection from the Ballet Music from M. Ambroise Thomas's "Hamlet" proved a dainty and fanciful suite of movements charmingly rendered. In the absence of Madame Nordica, who was unable to arrive in time from the United States to fulfil her engagement, Madame Belle Cole made her first appearance in Birmingham at this Concert and won golden opinions by the rich pure quality of her contralto voice. She sang the recitative and air "Or, là, sull onda," from Mercadante's "Il Giuramento," an air from Weber's "Abu Hassan," and last, but not least, a tasteful setting by Mr. Alfred H. Pease of Kingsley's lines "What joy is in the fisher's life." Mr. Grice was effective in the old song of Benedict, "Rage, thou angry storm," and a new and dainty song, "Phyllida," by Dr. Wareing.

It is to be regretted that the efforts of the Birmingham and Midland Musical Guild to popularise classical Chamber Music here have not proved more successful yet, but there was nothing to complain of in the attendance at the Lecture by Mr. Cummings, which took place under the auspices of the Guild on October 31. The subject of the discourse was "Nineteenth Century Music," including a sketch of musical progress in England during the period in question.

On the 17th ult. Mr. Charles Lunn gave his last annual pupils' Concert in the Masonic Hall. On former occasions the Mayor has placed the Town Hall at his disposal for these entertainments, conditional on the proceeds being devoted to some charitable object; but the Corporation building this time was wanted for more important objects; and Mr. Lunn, having to find a room at his own expense, declines to continue the series.

The annual Concert of Mr. and Madame Pollack on the 20th ult., though somewhat wanting in novelty, was of a more than usually interesting and popular character, as was attested by the magnitude of the attendance and the warmth of the applause. The vocalists were Madame Pollack (who possesses a sweet contralto voice), Mr. Levetus (tenor), and Mr. H. Peacock (baritone). Madame Pollack, accompanied by the composer, Dr. Swinnerton Heap, was especially effective in a refined and musicianly setting of Newman's hymn "Lead, kindly Light."

At Madame Agnes Miller's first Chamber Concert, on the 22nd ult., the bénéficiaire was assisted by the ladies of the celebrated Shinner String Quartet, and the novelty of the evening was Brahms's latest Sonata for pianoforte and violin, which was admirably played by Miss Emily Shinner and Madame Miller, and enthusiastically received. Other features of interest were Beethoven's Quartet in B flat (Op. 18, No. 6), Schumann's Trio in F (Op. 80), and Mendelssohn's four Variations Sérieuses in D minor, in which Madame Miller was heard at her best.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

WHILE opera is played in Dublin nearly all other musical work seems to be suspended, so that my record for the beginning of November is but an account of the visit of Mr. Augustus Harris's Italian Opera Company to the Gaiety Theatre (5th to 17th ult.). Mr. Harris issued a most attractive list of artists and prospectus of works to be performed, and it is pleasant to be able to say that he kept strict faith with the public. The works performed during the fortnight of the engagement were: "Faust" (twice), "Ernani" (twice), "Carmen," "Les Huguenots," "Lohengrin," "Il Flauto Magico," "Aida" (twice), "Don Giovanni," and "La Traviata." The principal vocalists were Mesdames Ella Russell, Rolla, MacIntyre, Desvignes, Scalchi, Lablache, and Bauermeister; MM. Ravelli, Runcio, Caprile, De Anna, D'Andrade, Foli, Miranda, Abramoff, Winogradow, Ciampi, &c. With a catalogue of such capability, it is not surprising that on the repetition of "Faust" a complete change of the principals was presented, the interpreters in the first performance being Mesdames Russell, Desvignes, and Lablache; MM. Ravelli, D'Andrade, and Foli; while in the second we had Mesdames MacIntyre, Scalchi, and Bauermeister, with Messrs. Runcio, Winogradow, and Abramoff. The performances of "Ernani," with Mesdames Rolla and De Vernet, and Signor de Anna (facile princeps as Don Carlos) still left the reserve of principals unexhausted, for in "Don Giovanni" Mlle. Alameda and Mr. Valentine Smith were brought to the front. The new prime donne, Misses Russell and MacIntyre, were enthusiastically received, and Signor d'Andrade, who also comes here for the first time, lost no time in establishing his title to popular favour; while the capabilities of M. Winogradow of the Russian Opera, both in acting and vocalisation, were readily recognised. Of the novelties or revivals, the production of "Aida" and "Les Huguenots" were each praiseworthy; that of "Lohengrin" was decidedly inferior. The "Band and Chorus from the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden," were not altogether satisfactory, the former not comparing favourably with that directed here by Mr. Goossens for the Carl Rosa Opera in September; and the latter being no better than the average Italian opera chorus we are fain to put up with. Signor Arditi conducted, and Mr. Harris personally superintended the arrangements.

Two afternoon Concerts, by the artists of Mr. Harris's Italian Opera Company, were given in the Leinster Hall on the 10th and 17th ult., in which nearly all the principal vocalists above-mentioned took part. Some duets for violin and pianoforte between Signors Contin and Romili gave a pleasant variety to the performances, which were largely attended.

The annual Concert for the Dublin Typographical Benevolent Fund took place in the Rotunda on the 10th ult. The vocalists were Mrs. Scott-Fennell, Miss Harris, Miss L. A. Hackett, Miss Bayley; Messrs. Weldon, J. F. Jones, C. Kelly, and Signor Abramoff. Dr. Joze conducted, and the band of the 11th Hussars performed some selections during the evening.

The first Chamber Music Recital for the season, under the auspices of the Royal Dublin Society, took place in the theatre of the Society, Kildare Street, on the 10th ult., the executants being Signor Papini (first violin), Mr. Newman (second violin), Herr Lauer (viola), Herr Rudersdorf (violoncello), and Signor Esposito (pianoforte). The Recital opened, traditionally, with Haydn's "Emperor" Quartet, the performance of which left absolutely nothing to be desired. Grieg's Sonata in F (Op. 8), for pianoforte and violin, was admirably played by Signors Esposito and Papini; and Beethoven's E flat Quartet (Op. 16), for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violoncello, brought a most delightful performance to a close. These Recitals will be continued every Monday, at three and five o'clock alternately, during the season.

Gounod's "Redemption" was performed by St. Patrick's Oratorio Society, on the evening of the 20th ult., at St. Patrick's Cathedral. The principal parts were ably sustained by Miss Carlotta Elliot, Mrs. Walter Bapty, Mr. Drummond Hamilton, and Mr. Charles Kelly. The choruses, considering the comparatively small number of executants, were remarkable for fulness of tone and precision of attack, and the accompaniments were played by Mr. Charles Marchant (Organist of the Cathedral and Conductor of the Oratorio Society) with his usual taste and ability. Trumpets, cymbals, and drums were added to the organ accompaniment.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

On the 1st ult. Mr. Franklin Peterson, before a very large audience, delivered the first of a series of twenty Lectures on "The History of Music," in the Hall of the Charlotte Square Institution.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé (Madame Néruda) paid us their yearly visit on the 3rd ult., when, in the Music Hall, they gave a Recital of the following works:—Sonata in C major, Waldstein, Op. 53 (Beethoven); Nocturne in E (Op. 62, No. 2); and Barcarolle in F sharp, Op. 60 (Chopin), were the pianoforte solos. Duets—Concerto for violin, in G minor, Op. 26 (Max Bruch); Sonata for pianoforte and violin, in B flat, Op. 59 (Gade); and Rondo Brillante in B minor (Schubert). Violin solos—three numbers from Op. 37 (Benedictus, Berceuse, and Saltarello), by Mackenzie. Gade and Mackenzie's compositions were played for the first time here, and were enthusiastically received. Madame Néruda, in a graceful and finished style, brought forward the merits of Dr. Mackenzie's three pieces, of which No. 2, the Berceuse, might be singled out for special praise. The Saltarello awakened a demand for an encore, which was cordially complied with. Of the rendering of the other above-named pieces the programme contained, it is needless to say much. Suffice it to mention that Sir Charles Hallé gave, as an encore after Chopin's Barcarolle, a Norwegian March by E. Grieg.

The next Concert on the list took place on the 6th ult., also in the Music Hall. Artists—Madame Antoinette Sterling, Mlle. Marie de Lido, Messrs. Henry Guy and Barrington Foote, vocalists; Miss Geraldine Morgan, violin; M. de Munck, violoncello; M. Vladimir de Pachmann, pianoforte; and Herr Alois Volkmer as Conductor. There were nineteen pieces in all, vocal and instrumental, on the programme, and to this were added ten encores, which a large and insatiable Scottish audience insisted upon having into the bargain, so that as to quantity there could not possibly be anything left to be wished for. The names of Tosti, Hope Temple, Löhr, Moir, Blumenthal, Molloy, Carey, Balfe, &c., gave the main tone as to the répertoire of the vocalists.

The instrumental pieces were well played by M. de Pachmann, M. de Munck, Miss Morgan, and Herr Volkmer, who was an excellent accompanist.

The first of two Chamber Concerts by the Heckmann Quartet took place, on the 9th ult., in the Queen Street Hall. Beethoven's String Quartet (Op. 95); a Duo in A major (Op. 62), F. Schubert, arranged for quartet, and dedicated to Robert Heckmann by A. Wilhelm; the variations from Schubert's great D minor String Quartet; and the second movement from Schumann's A major String Quartet made up a very enjoyable suite de pièces. They were rendered with that wonted vigour and excellent ensemble that have made this quartet party deservedly famous. The Finale, "Al Saltarello," from the G minor Quartet by E. Grieg, would probably be much more effective as an orchestral piece than as a quartet. Mr. Albert B. Bach was the vocalist of the evening.

On the 15th ult. the Society of Musicians had their second Meeting, when the President, Mr. Otto Schweizer, read a Paper on Franz Schubert, in which he particularly dwelt on the great merits of this composer as a songwriter. The difference between art-songs and folk-songs was minutely explained and practically illustrated. Schubert's life and his instrumental compositions were touched upon at some length, and vocal and instrumental illustrations were supplied by Messrs. Kirkhope, Kerpen (vocalists); Townsend (pianoforte), Waddell (violin), J. McNeill (violin-cello), B flat Trio; Peterson and Dace, Pianoforte Duet, "Deutsche Tänze," with Schumann's comments upon the same read by the lecturer. Mr. George Lichtenstein occupied the chair. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the President for his Lecture.

At a Recital given in the Music Hall on Saturday afternoon, the 17th ult., Madame Essipoff, the celebrated Russian pianist, created a furor. She played the Liszt Rhapsody (No. 12), Rubinstein's F minor Barcarolle, Gluck's Aria, Paderewski's Légende, Mendelssohn's Prelude in F minor (followed by the Fugue in the same key), a Mazurka of Leschetizky and another by Chopin, besides two Waltzes of the latter, and Schumann's Fantasia (Op. 17), of which she omitted the third and crowning movement. The new compositions introduced by Madame Essipoff, by Paderewski, Schütt, and Leschetizky, were very acceptable, as much for their own merits as for the manner in which they were presented.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW AND THE WEST OF SCOTLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE complete prospectus of the fifteenth series of choral and orchestral Concerts, under the management of the Glasgow Choral Union, was issued on the 9th ult. The names of the principal vocal and instrumental artists engaged had been previously announced, as also the list of the choral works to be performed, and these particulars were given in the October number of THE MUSICAL TIMES. We have now the details of the orchestral works to be produced. These comprise the following important compositions—namely, Symphonies: Beethoven, No. 2, in D, and No. 4, in B flat; Brahms, No. 2, in D; Schubert, No. 10, in C; Schumann, No. 1, in B flat; and, for the first time at these Concerts, Haydn in B flat (No. 4 of Salomon set); and Villiers Stanford, "Irish." Concertos: Beethoven (violin) and No. 5 in E flat (pianoforte); Bruch, No. 1, in G minor (violin); Mendelssohn, No. 1, in G minor (pianoforte); Wieniawski, No. 2, in D (violin), and, first time, Godard, "Romantique" in A minor (violin) and Raff in D, Op. 93 (violin-cello). Overtures: Beethoven, "Leonora," No. 2; Sterndale Bennett, "The Naiads"; Mendelssohn, "Ruy Blas"; Schubert, "Rosamunde"; Sullivan, "Overture di Ballo"; Weber, "Der Freischütz" and "Oberon"; Grieg, "In Autumn." Among the miscellaneous selections may be mentioned—Rhapsodie "España," Chabrier; Intermezzo for strings, "Loin de Bal," Gillet; Ballade for Orchestra, "The Ship o' the Fiend," MacCunn; Benedictus for violins and orchestra. Mackenzie; Symphonic Prelude to Byron's "Manfred," Praeger; and the Introduction to "Tristan and Isolde," all for the first time at the Glasgow Concerts. Beethoven, Cowen, Dvorák, Gounod, Mendelssohn, and others have been drawn from for some interesting music already performed here.

The Concerts for December are—13th, Orchestral; 18th, H. MacCunn's new Cantata "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," and selections; and 27th, Orchestral. The orchestra numbers about seventy-five performers, five-sevenths of the players, it may be mentioned, being British, about twenty-five of whom are permanently resident in the city, the latter circumstance due, no doubt, to the establishment of these Concerts, and to the increasing taste for music engendered thereby.

The Glasgow International Exhibition was closed to the public on Saturday, the 10th ult., and its doors were formally shut on the following Monday. Music had but an insignificant place in the final proceedings, a band performance of short duration, with some speeches, constituting the ceremony.

A fortnight's performance of Opera in English was begun by the Carl Rosa Company in the Theatre Royal, on the 19th ult. "Robert the Devil" was the opening opera, and "Mignon," "Carmen," and Halévy's "La Juive," the latter never before performed here, are included in the list of lyrical works to be presented.

The Heckmann Quartet party gave a Concert in the Queen's Rooms on the 20th ult.

Our Amateur Musical Associations have now, since the closing of our great World's Fair, settled down to their winter studies.

A series of Subscription Concerts of chamber music has been instituted at Helensburgh, and the first of them took place on the 12th ult.

A Concert was given on the 21st ult. by the Choir of Pollokshields Established Church, the programme including Macfarren's "May Day." Mr. Alfred Heap, Organist of the Church, conducted; Mr. Alfred Gurney assisted in the accompaniments.

The Glasgow Select Choir gave a Concert in St. Andrew's Hall on the 24th ult. The programme was of an exceedingly interesting and attractive nature. It contained a glee, "Place me where never summer breezes," stated to be by R. J. S. Stevens, and as yet unpublished. The choir maintains its reputation for artistic interpretation in all schools of choral writing.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Philharmonic Society revived Gluck's Opera "Iphigenia in Tauris" at the third Concert, on the 6th ult., when a very large audience assembled. The principals engaged were Madame Albani, who sang splendidly throughout; Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Henschel, Mr. Oswald, and the well-known local artists, Madame Laura Haworth, Madame Marie Andersen, and Mr. Grime, who, in the small parts allotted to them, acquitted themselves admirably. The experiment of performing Gluck's old-world music on the Concert platform cannot be described as wholly successful, for as few cuts were made, and those trifling, the continuous chain of recitative grew wearisome and monotonous, lacking as it did the appropriate scenery, costumes, and action of the opera stage. Mr. Lloyd, as Pylades, reaped unbounded applause for his refined singing in the congenial tenor airs, and Mr. Henschel was even more successful, dramatically considered, in the part of Orestes, which he has previously sustained in the opera itself.

The annual distribution of prizes and certificates awarded in connection with the local examinations of the Royal Academy of Music was held in St. George's Hall on October 27, the Mayor (Mr. Oakshott) presiding. In the course of his speech the Mayor referred to the recent attacks made on this city as a musical centre, and concisely stigmatised the term "Unmusical Liverpool" as a slander, adducing many plain facts and figures in support of his statements. Mr. Carl Rosa, who succeeded the Mayor as a speaker, did not know of the epithet which had recently been applied to Liverpool until he had heard Mr. Oakshott's speech. He certainly was not aware of it from personal experience and observation. Mr. Rosa said it was true that if anybody connected with music had a right to consider Liverpool very musical indeed, it was himself. He regarded the attacks in question as beneath serious notice.

In connection with the opening of the new organ in All Saints' Church, Princes Park, built by Forster and Andrews, special musical services have been held, and Recitals given by Mr. H. A. Branscombe (who opened the organ), Mr. W. A. Roberts, Mr. J. H. Stammers, and Mr. W. H. Statham, the latter three organists being accompanied by their respective choirs. The organ, which has cost over £800, has eleven stops on the great, ten on the swell (including the clarinet), and three on the pedal organ, having the pneumatic lever to the great, and the tubular pneumatic action to the pedals.

A Pianoforte Recital, by Mr. H. Steudner-Welsing, on the 10th ult., served to inaugurate the series of classical Matinées given fortnightly during the winter by the Messrs. Dreaper, at their rooms in Bold Street. Mr. Steudner-Welsing played the following selections in admirable style:—Toccata and Fugue in D minor (Bach); Sonata in A major (Op. 101), Beethoven; Suite (Op. 40), Grieg; Ballade in D (Brahms); Ballade in B minor (Liszt); Romance in E (Op. 11); three Etudes, and Scherzo in B minor (Chopin), concluding with Schumann's "Carnival."

The Cantata "Harlech," composed by the late Mr. Joseph Skeaf, who was well-known and highly respected in the neighbourhood of Liverpool, had a first hearing in St. George's Hall on Thursday, the 15th ult. The work, which contains some very melodious songs and choruses, was performed by the Birkenhead Cambrian Choral Society, under the bâton of Mr. D. O. Parry, the principals being Mrs. Mary Davies, Eos Morlais, and the Cambrian Quartet. Mr. Best was at the organ. It is to be regretted that the audience was small, a poor return for the labour of love, to say nothing of the outlay incurred by the composer's widow in the production of the work.

At the fourth Concert of the Philharmonic Society on Tuesday, the 20th ult., the programme was of a miscellaneous character, and included first hearings of Dvorák's Symphony, No. 3, in F major (Op. 76), Hiller's Concert-Overture "Ein Traum in der Christnacht," and Reinecke's Pianoforte Concerto in F sharp minor (Op. 72). This latter beautiful work was admirably played by Miss Fanny Davies, whose other solos were (a) Romance in D minor; (b) Canon in B flat, both by Schumann; and (c) Capriccio in E minor (Op. 16), by Mendelssohn. The vocalist was Madame Valleria, who sang "Elsa's Dream" and other solos. The chorus contributed two items to the programme, "To the hills and vales," from Purcell's "Dido and Æneas," and the beautiful chorus "At dawn of day," from Mr. Cowen's "Sleeping Beauty." This latter chorus was most unsteadily sung—owing to insufficient rehearsal. It is not fair to Mr. Cowen or to any composer to let his music trust to luck, which on this occasion proved so unpropitious. As usual Sir Charles Hallé conducted.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

We had a good deal of very agreeable music to enliven us during November, and to pass us safely through that dull and stormy month.

The company which introduced here Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Yeomen of the Guard" had scarcely rehearsed the opera sufficiently; and indeed had hardly become so consolidated as to understand its own qualifications and defects, so that the success of the short season was financial rather than artistic. But sufficient impression was made to leave a strong desire to hear a more complete performance of a very tuneful work.

The Carl Rosa Company also has essayed here the first performance of a work from which much is hoped. In addition to the repetition of Meyerbeer's "Robert the Devil"—with its melodramatic effects and somewhat artificially elaborated construction—and the usual representations of "Faust," "The Bohemian Girl," &c., the week was more happily marked by the production of Halévy's "La Juive," an opera admirably suited to the company, and rendered with great spirit and success. Except that the brief third act is tiresome—however necessary to the unfolding of the plot—and that the long soliloquy of the Jew in the prison scene needs to be considerably shortened, the whole of the music is interesting and surprisingly fresh. Beyond doubt Halévy's work will for some time form a very important item in the repertory of the company. In the part of Eleazar, Mr. Barton McGuckin displayed decided advance as an actor, although his voice gave evidence of strain. Miss Amanda Fabris as Eudocia (as well as in the part of Isabella in "Robert the Devil") was extremely welcome. With an agreeable presence, fresh clear voice, clever execution, and, above all, with a recognition that the first essential in a singer is a pure, smooth, and unforced tone, the young American is one of the most promising recruits the company has for a long time secured. But the most encouraging feature of the whole week was the very striking advance which Miss Fanny Moody has made since her last visit to Manchester. With expressive features, with largely augmented power and greatly enhanced vocal facility, Miss Moody enters into her part with an evident appreciation of its requirements. It is sincerely to be hoped that she may not be tempted by a false idea of stage demands, or by a mistaken estimate of the injudicious applause sometimes bestowed upon more violently demonstrative vocalists, to force her voice beyond its legitimate tone or to appeal to the less discriminating and noisier portion of her audience.

Sir Charles Hallé's orchestra has gained by the importation of its new leader—Mr. Willy Hess—whose bold bowing and vigorous style has already effected an improvement in the attack of the strings. Among the novelties of late have been Dvorák's Symphony in F, No. 3, which shares with so many modern works the monotony arising from the incessant repetition of brief and not very interesting themes; Liszt's Fourth Rhapsody, splendidly played and heartily enjoyed; and Bizet's orchestral Suite "Roma," in which the source of inspiration may easily be traced. The Suite is sure to be repeated ere long, if only for the sake of the Allegretto vivace, which consists of a triple-rhythmed Scherzo fugally opened by the strings, and developed with unflinching bustle and excitement. In the final Allegro the alternation of the Tarantella with an episode of choral and semi-ecclesiastic character seems to describe vividly the mad revelry of the carnival, interrupted by, and sometimes blended with some priestly procession. Altogether the work is a valuable addition to our orchestral library, and ennobles the "Prix de Rome," which probably led to its conception. But we have yet more to be thankful for. Not only has Sterndale Bennett's poetic, rather than powerful Overture "Parisina" found a place in our programmes, but at last Dr. Mackenzie's Ballad for orchestra, "La belle Dame sans Merci," has established its irresistible claim to a hearing. Of the large design, dramatic working out, and able scoring of the Ballad there could be no question, and the enthusiastic applause with which it was received must lead to a speedy repetition. Among the performers also we have had new experiences. Madame Essipoff, in Chopin's E minor Concerto and smaller pieces, displayed the highest executive powers, combined with admirable finesse. In strength of wrist, incisive grip in forte playing, nicely shaded gradations of tone, and certainty in the most dashing passages, she is unsurpassed by any player who has been here.

Mr. Max Heinrich somewhat reminds one or Mr. Henschel in his method of vocalisation, and in his sarcastic rendering of the part of Mephistopheles in Berlioz's "Faust"; but his voice is of limited range and insufficient power, and the exaggerated varieties of quality of tone common to the German method are very marked.

Mr. de Jong has had a prodigal array of vocalists, and not a few instrumentalists of high reputation. Among the latter I must specially mention Signor Risegari, who achieved a great success. With a pure liquid tone, faultless execution, and irreproachable taste, Signor Risegari does wisely in withdrawing from the orchestra and devoting himself to solo playing and to chamber music. At the Concert on the 24th ult. the popular Indian mezzo-soprano, Miss Alice Gomes, sang with clearness, distinctness of utterance, and simplicity of style. The Russian baritone, M. Winogradow, contrasted well. With an extremely powerful, but by no means luscious tone, and a mode of delivery more declamatory than musical, he seems hardly prepared to fill the important place on the Italian stage for which he is announced; but, with careful direction and the proper cultivation of his admirable natural gifts, he ought to attain a very high position. The chief attraction, however, to a very large and enthusiastic audience, was the first appearance of "the new tenor from Bolton," Mr. Edwin Houghton, who fully deserved the warm encouragement his friends assembled to give him. With a remarkably clear, and a sufficiently powerful voice, free from all effeminacy of tone or style and, with an exceedingly distinct enunciation, Mr. Houghton's future ought to be prosperous. But he is, as yet, only beginning a course beset with dangers. The world waits—it long has waited—for a tenor resolute in study, severe in self-discipline, determined to be not only a capable vocalist but a musician, and it will, when he comes, amply reward him.

At the Town Hall of Eccles—a suburb of Manchester—Mr. Sutcliffe, on the 6th ult., introduced a contralto new to this neighbourhood, but one who will always be welcome. Madame Oscar Pollack (of Birmingham) has been well trained, and sings with great intelligence, delicacy, and evident love of her art.

At the Concert Hall (Gentlemen's Concerts), Sir Charles Hallé's afternoon Recitals have continued the chief attraction, although at an evening Concert, in the interpretation of an excellent selection of chamber music (including Beethoven's String Quartet in E flat, No. 10, and Brahms's Pianoforte Quartet in G minor), he had the charming co-operation of Lady Hallé, as well as the ready and able assistance of Signor Risegari, Mr. Willy Hess, and Herr Zuchs. At the one orchestral Concert given during the month Mr. Hess appeared with great success as soloist as well as leader.

It was a happy thought which led Dr. Watson to include in the programme of the "Vocal Society" for the 21st ult., two such varied settings of the 114th Psalm as Mendelssohn's and S. Wesley's. That the former, in order to realise its full effect, requires the aid of an orchestra, does not (at any rate in Manchester) militate against the wisdom of its selection. If we are to have no choral works except in their complete state, we shall have but few. And even with a quiet pianoforte accompaniment the massive vocal scoring produced an effect strikingly contrasted with the somewhat straggling, although really masterly writing of the Englishman. But the great advantage to the listener was the opportunity of closely contrasting the life and expressiveness of the modern school with the cold formality of the strictly contrapuntal.

MUSIC AT OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE public performance which the rules of the University impose upon every successful candidate for the Degree of Mus. Doc. is usually a perfunctory business, entirely without general interest. But an important exception to the rule occurred on Friday, the 9th ult., when the Rev. John H. Mee directed his "Exercise," consisting of an elaborate Missa Solennis in B flat. The composer is an enthusiastic amateur, and his new work proves him to be a highly accomplished musician. Seldom, we should imagine, in the history of Oxford, have so much pains and expense been incurred for an occasion of this kind. A complete orchestra was engaged, and the chorus consisted of 160 members of Mr. Alfred Broughton's Leeds Choir. As we have said, the Missa Solennis is laid out on a large scale. An exercise for the doctor's degree must include eight part writing for the voices and a fully developed fugue. Mr. Mee has fulfilled these conditions in the most liberal manner. His double fugue at the close of the "Gloria in Excelsis" is long and ingenious; it is so clearly constructed, and the subjects are so well marked, that the most ordinary listener could follow it with ease. There is one passage near the close, where the solo voices enter, which bears an affinity to the corresponding place in the "Cum sancto Spiritu" of Beethoven's Mass in D, but the resemblance goes no further. Other features of the present work worthy of special mention are the majestic treatment of every clause in the "Credo," and the suave and flowing "Dona nobis," which brings the Mass to a most appropriate and effective conclusion. Speaking generally, a church-like dignity is the leading characteristic of the music, and the choral portions are superior to those for solo voices. The composer is somewhat singular in his avoidance of the minor key even in such passages as the "Qui tollis" and the "Crucifixus." He employs it only in the "Agnus Dei," and this movement ends in the relative major. But as a whole the work is not only scholarly but effective, and we do not suppose its first hearing will be its last. Mr. Mee had every cause to be satisfied with the rendering, and his conducting was marked by the utmost intelligence. It need scarcely be added that Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Watkin Mills were thoroughly efficient as the principal vocalists. There was an overflowing audience in the Sheldonian Theatre, including a considerable number of musicians who had come from London to be present at the performance.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE present musical season in Sheffield is far surpassing the records of past years, not only in interest to the music-lover, but in the public support, which is being accorded to all musical enterprises of a worthy character.

The prospectus of the Amateur Instrumental Society shows that the prestige, which the admirable performance of Beethoven's "Choral" Symphony at the Society's last Concert gained for this enterprising body of musicians, is to be maintained in the future. The following Symphonies are announced:—Beethoven's "C minor," Mendelssohn's "Scotch," Schubert's "Unfinished," Spohr's "Power of Sound," Cowen's "Scandinavian," and Mozart's E flat. Selections from "Dinorah," "Mignon," "Il Trovatore," and "Satanella" are promised, and there is also a list of standard overtures from which choice will be made. Three Concerts will, as usual, be given during the season. Mr. Henry Coward is the Conductor of the Society.

Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was given on the 2nd ult. by the Upperthorpe Musical Society. Mr. J. Beaumont conducted. At the same Concert, Mr. F. Beaumont played Hummel's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor.

On the 5th ult. the Choral Union made a new departure by a Concert performance of Wallace's "Maritana." Chorus, band, and principals did their work in the admirable manner always displayed at this Society's Concerts, but the enterprise was not entirely successful. The absence of scenery and dramatic action caused the interest to drag, and though Mr. Suckley, the Conductor, did his best to infuse some life into the performance, his efforts availed but little. Bottesini's "Garden of Olivet" will be given at the Society's next Concert.

Mr. George Preston gave a Ballad Concert on the 7th ult., at which Miss Maude Holland, Miss Gladys Knowles, Mr. Vaughan Edwardes, Mr. Frank Arnold (violin), and Mr. A. H. Fox (pianoforte) appeared.

The Barnsley St. Cecilia Society announces Handel's "Samson" for the 6th inst. (Conductor, Mr. R. S. Burton). This is the Society's fifteenth season, and it is exceedingly prosperous, both musically and financially.

At a meeting held in the Guildhall, Doncaster, on the 12th ult., it was resolved to form a representative Choral Society in the town. Mr. J. M. Kirk was appointed Conductor.

MUSIC IN THE WEST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Cheltenham Festival Society, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews, gave the first Concert of its nineteenth season at the Assembly Rooms, on the 13th ult., when the large audience testified to the interest felt in the Society. Dr. Bridge's Cantata "Callirhoë" was the chief work performed, and the manner in which both band and choir acquitted themselves showed steady improvement, and reflected credit both on them and on their able and painstaking Conductor. The band numbered upwards of fifty instrumentalists, and the choir was of the usual strength, about 150. Mr. E. G. Woodward was the leader, Mr. G. West was the organist, and Mr. E. Dicks had the by no means easy task of playing the gongs assigned to him, and these produced a very good effect in the second part of the Cantata where they are introduced. The principal vocalists were Miss Bertha Moore, Callirhoë; Madame Belle Cole, Priestess of Zeus; and Mr. Charles Banks, Coresos; the two last making their first appearance in Cheltenham on this occasion. The Cantata was conducted by the composer, who was loudly applauded at the conclusion. The second part of the programme included two scenes from Berlioz's "Faust," in which Mr. Charles Banks successfully sustained the part of Faust, while the orchestra acquitted themselves admirably. This selection was heard for the first time in Cheltenham, and the Hungarian March seemed to be greatly enjoyed. A few miscellaneous solos brought a very excellent Concert to a conclusion.

At Exeter Mr. Farley Sinkins's two Concerts, given on October 26, were well supported. The vocal music consisted to rather too large an extent of songs and ballads, some of which (such as "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Sally in our alley") we have heard before, but the instrumental music was excellent, the pianoforte playing of M. de Pachmann creating quite a furore. His principal solos were Chopin's Scherzo (No. 3) and Impromptu in A flat, Liszt's "Rigoletto" Fantasia, and some shorter pieces were admirably given, and it is needless to say that Miss Geraldine Morgan played the Romance from Joachim's Hungarian Concerto in excellent style, and she joined M. de Munck and Herr Volkner in Haydn's Trio in E flat (No. 8). Among the new songs, "Margarita," by Löhner, met with most success, being admirably sung by Mr. Henry Guy.

The Cheltenham Oratorio and Harmonic Society opened the third season in the Assembly Rooms, on the 19th ult., with a performance of "The Messiah," with Mozart's additional accompaniments; there was a full band and chorus, numbering 160 performers. The soloists were Miss Annie Lee, Miss Emilie Lloyd, Mr. Joseph Heald, and Mr. Frank May. The leader was Mr. J. E. Teague; the solo trumpet, Mr. A. H. Chapman; and the Conductor, Mr. S. R. Gorton.

The Madrigal Society, Exeter, which has been for some time in abeyance, will resume work after Christmas, Mr. Allan Allen, F.C.O., Organist of St. Sidwell's and Assistant-Organist of Exeter Cathedral, having accepted the post of Conductor.

Miss Mary Lock's second Concert for the season was given at the Victoria Rooms, Clifton, on the 20th ult., before a numerous audience. Two quartets were played, Beethoven's in E flat (Op. 16) and Prout's in C (Op. 2), both of which went well; but the last one aroused the greatest interest, being comparatively new to the audience, which seemed to understand and enjoy its many beauties.

The first of Mrs. Viner Pomeroy's Classical Chamber Concerts for the present season was given on October 31, when the smaller of the Victoria Rooms, Clifton, were well filled. The executants were Herr Josef Ludwig (first violin), Mr. M. Rice (second violin), Mr. E. Woodward (viola), and Mr. J. Pomeroy (violin). The most interesting piece stood first on the programme—Mendelssohn's Quartet for strings, in D major, which was well rendered and seemed to be greatly appreciated. Rubinstein's Trio in B flat, for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, was the next instrumental item, and in this Mrs. Pomeroy proved herself a capable pianist. Two violin solos by Herr Ludwig, who comes to these Concerts in place of Mr. Henry Holmes, were loudly applauded, and deservedly so as regards their execution, though perhaps the choice of compositions was not all one could wish. Madame Wilson-Osman, who was the vocalist, gave great pleasure by her tasteful rendering of four short songs, in which she was efficiently accompanied by Mr. Rice.

The Bristol Musical Association gave a good miscellaneous Concert at Colston Hall on the 3rd ult., when Handel's Organ Concerto in B flat was one of the selections. The third Concert of the season was given on the 24th ult.

Organ Recitals were given by Mr. George Riseley at Colston Hall on the 10th, 13th, and 17th ult.

The first two of a series of Matinées, under the direction of Mr. Theo. Carrington, were given in the Alexandra Hall, Bristol, on October 27 and the 10th ult., when well chosen programmes were performed. Mr. Carrington of course takes the violin, and Mr. Pomeroy is the violoncellist. At the first Concert Miss Carrington was the pianist, and at the second Miss Charlotte Davies, of Bath (pupil of Madame Schumann), a vocalist was engaged on each occasion.

A new Society has just been formed in Bristol called the Society of Instrumentalists. Its object is the practice of orchestral works, and rehearsals are held weekly, in which both amateurs and professionals take part. Mr. Carrington is the leader and Mr. Riseley the Conductor. Besides the study of symphonies, overtures, &c., it is proposed that eight pianoforte concertos should be taken in hand during the season, the solo parts of which will be sustained by lady amateurs who have become members of the Society for this purpose. The Society already numbers 130 members.

Mr. Liebich's first Chamber Concert of the season was given at the Victoria Rooms, Clifton, on the 22nd ult., before an exceedingly meagre audience. This was surprising, as the services of eminent artists had been engaged, and the programme was well chosen. The latter included Beethoven's Quartet in C, for strings; Brahms's Trio in E flat, for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello; and Raff's Quintet in A minor, for two violins, viola, and violoncello; besides various interesting solos for violin, pianoforte, and horn. The performers were Herr Straus (first violin), Mr. G. Collins (second violin), Mr. H. Channel (viola), Signor Pezze (violin), Mr. Liebich (pianoforte), and Mr. Probin (French horn).

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, November 14.

THE musical season in America may now be said to have begun. The Festivals are all ended; the stars of the vocal world have ceased to roam about like a lot of comets, and have returned to their accustomed orbits. The usual series of Orchestral Concerts in New York, Boston, Baltimore, and other cities where music flourishes, have begun, and the opera season is close at hand. The only opera in America which has any semblance of permanency is that at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. Its season is to open on the 28th inst. with Meyerbeer's "Huguenots." This will be followed in rapid order by "L'Africaine," "Don Giovanni," and "William Tell." Wagner's "Das Rheingold" will be produced for the first time in America during the third week of the season. The other three operas of the Nibelungen series were performed in their order last year, and made a profound impression. The production of the Prologue after the drama is not to be commended for logical consistency; but it is better to have a Prologue last than not at all. Mr. Edmund C. Stanton, the Director of the Opera House, has been faithful to his promise to give the patrons of the opera more variety this season. His announcements are fully in keeping with his promises, and it now remains to be seen whether the public is really sincere in its demands. Hitherto all attempts to extend the repertory of the house beyond the domain of German opera have not been pecuniarily successful. The Wagner operas have been, without exception, the most profitable. Anti-Wagner journals, and that large number of the fashionable attendants of the opera who dislike the presentation of serious art-works profess to doubt this, but the figures are against them.

The musical season in New York City opened on October 17, when Frank van der Stucken gave the first of a series of four classical Matinées at Chickering Hall. Miss Adeline Hibbard, a young American, who has been studying under Marchesi, sang a song by Handel. Michael Banner, the violinist, gave an excellent performance of Mozart's E flat major Concerto; Miss Marie Groebel, a contralto of small ability, sang Schubert's "Gretchen at the spinning wheel," "To the Lyre," and "Morning Serenade"; Richard Hoffman played a Bach Concerto on the pianoforte; the orchestra performed Haydn's D major Symphony ("Londini, 1795") and a Suite by Gluck. Mr. Van der Stucken's second Matinée was given on October 31, when the orchestra played Cherubini's dramatic Overture to "Lodoiska" and Mozart's always welcome "Jupiter" Symphony; Madame Herbert-Föster sang an aria from "Der Freischütz," and songs by Schumann. Madame Asher-Lucas, an English pianist, made her début on that occasion.

The first Concert of the Symphony Society was given at the Metropolitan Opera House, on the 3rd inst., preceded by the usual public rehearsal on the afternoon of the 2nd inst. The Conductor of this organisation, Walter Damrosch, has arranged his programmes this season on a historical basis and the first Concert was intended to illustrate the growth of the Symphonic form. The numbers chosen for this purpose were Bach's Concerto grosso in F, a Haydn Symphony (No. 8, Peters), and Beethoven's "Eroica." Between the second and third of these should have come a Mozart Symphony, but that would have made the Concert too long. Mr. Damrosch was forced, therefore, to confine his Mozart example to the Overture and Finale of Act II. from "Die Entführung aus dem Serail." The soloists in the Finale were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Toedt and Fräulein Traubmann and Herr Mittelhauser, of the opera. The only notable feature of the performance was Mr. Damrosch's excellent reading of the first movement of the "Eroica," which he gave with splendid vigour and an excellent diversity of intelligent light and shade.

Herr Anton Seidl, the Conductor at the Metropolitan, gave the first of a series of Orchestral Concerts at Steinway Hall, on the 10th inst. He had two soloists: Conrad Ausorge, pianist, who played Schubert's "Wanderer" Fantasia, and Master Fritz Kreisler, who essayed the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto. Mr. Ausorge is a pianist of fair abilities, and on this occasion he gave a performance considerably above his average level of attainment. His work was notable for earnestness and warmth, as well as for its delightful variety of tone-colour. Master Kreisler, a young Austrian of fourteen, who has already taken a first prize at the Paris Conservatoire, is and is now en tour with Rosenthal, the Roumanian pianist, shows considerable promise. His tone is small, but of good quality, and his technique shows the usual results of French training. Mr. Seidl's orchestral selections were Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, an entr'acte from Weber's "Three Pintos," Liszt's "Bird sermon of St. Francis of Assisi," orchestrated by Felix Mottl, and a Rhapsody by Edward Lalo. The Liszt legend, which was a novelty here, was disappointing, though it is cleverly and effectively scored. The best feature of Mr. Seidl's Concert was his admirable performance of the Sixth Symphony. The thunderstorm in particular was given with a graphic dramatic power which is uncommon in American Concerts.

In Boston the season is fairly under way, and some excellent entertainments have been given. Of course the most important work has been that of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the skilful leadership of Wilhelm Gericke. On Saturday evening, the 10th inst., the following programme was performed: Beethoven's "Coriolanus" Overture, aria from Boieldieu's "Jean de Paris," Herr Emil Fischer; Goldmark's "Ländliche Hochzeit" Symphony, Funeral March from "Die Götterdämmerung," Wotan's Farewell (Herr Fischer) and magic fire scene from "Die Walküre." Herr Fischer sang in Boston last season and won great popularity, so that he was warmly received on this occasion. The Seneschal's aria from "Jean de Paris" is a favourite medium of display for basses. A more satisfactory interpretation of its varying style could hardly be hoped for than that given by Herr Fischer; his roulades and trills were wonderfully clear and true for such a heavy voice, and he fairly carried the audience away. His majestic declamation of the Wagner music was not only a masterly achievement in itself, but served to show how completely he has conquered a style of singing diametrically opposed to that called for by the Boieldieu music. The Boston Symphony Orchestra gave admirable performances of the works set down for it. The Orchestra gives one Concert and one public rehearsal every week, and is in daily training under its scholarly Conductor, and thus obtains unity of movement and perfection of nuances which it would be well nigh impossible to excel. In the Concert just mentioned the orchestra did its best work in the fire music of "Die Walküre," which was given with superb finish.

On Friday evening, the 9th inst., at the Boston Music Hall, Herr Moritz Rosenthal, the Roumanian pianist, made his first appearance in America, and achieved a veritable triumph. The cold, critical mood of the Boston audience was completely upset, and at the end of his first number he was called out no less than five times with constantly increasing applause, which finally culminated in cheers. He played Liszt's E flat Concerto, Henselt's "Si oiseau j'étais," a Nocturne and the "Chants Polonais" by Chopin, and Liszt's "Don Giovanni" Fantasia. Herr Rosenthal is the best pianist, technically, who has visited America since Rubinstein. He has all the clean-cut delicacy of Joseffy, together with the power and breadth of style which Joseffy lacks. His octave playing is simply astounding in its strength and rapidity. His legato work is also delightful in its smoothness, warmth, and richness of tone-colour. It is rare to find a player who can hold an audience in strained silence by his playing of a Chopin Nocturne, and then almost take every one's breath away by his marvellous display of technique in a piece of musical fireworks like the Liszt Fantasia. Rosenthal will undoubtedly prove to be a financial success in America—a rare triumph for any pianist.

In Chicago the musical season has not yet fairly begun. The orchestra of the Symphony Society numbers seventy players, and is under the direction of Hans Balatka, a competent leader. The first Concert will be given on the 22nd inst., at the Central Music Hall.

In Cincinnati, the only musical event worthy of mention thus far is the first Concert of the Musikverein, which was given on Friday, the 9th inst. At this entertainment a young violoncello player named Willie Ebaun, fifteen years old, appeared, and aroused much enthusiasm by his beautiful tone and musical feeling.

Buffalo, which is one of the most sincerely musical cities in America, has not yet settled down in earnest for its winter work. Last night, however, the Buffalo orchestra, a competent body of musicians, from which large drafts have been made for the musical festivals in New York, gave its first Concert of this season at the Music Hall. The orchestra played Rietz's Overture in A major, Otto Floersheim's "Elevation," a composition of serious and sincere music; the Intermezzo from Hofmann's "Frithjof" Symphony, the Nocturne and March from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," a Serenade by Jensen, a Brahms Valse, arranged for string orchestra by John Lund; and the Farandole from Bizet's "Suite Arlesienne." Mrs. S. C. Ford, a Cleveland soprano, who has a strong and pure voice, sang the "Jewel song" from "Faust," and two songs by Rubinstein.

The various musical organisations of Baltimore are preparing for an earnest winter's work. The principal musical bodies of the city are the Oratorio Society, The Philharmonic Association, and the Peabody Symphony Orchestra. The Philharmonic will give four Concerts, at which excellent programmes are promised. The Symphony Orchestra, which is under the direction of Asger Hamerik, a competent musician, announces six Concerts and six public rehearsals. A series of Chamber Music Concerts is to be given at Lehmann's Hall, by Richard Burmeister, a pianist, who has written a really fine Concerto.

It may easily be seen from these various announcements that though the music of the American winter has not fairly begun, there will be a plentiful out-pouring before long. The growth of musical taste in America in the last ten years has been something remarkable. It would be absolutely impossible for some of the players and singers who set America wild a decade ago to get a second hearing now. And where music of a meretricious order was heard then, the public has now no desire for anything that is not of the highest artistic value and sincerity of purpose.

COMMUNICATIONS for the January number of THE MUSICAL TIMES should reach the Office not later than December 22, as in consequence of the Christmas Holidays it will be necessary to go to Press considerably earlier than usual.

At the Congregation held in the Senate House, Cambridge, on the 8th ult., the Professor of Music, C. V. Stanford, M.A., Trinity, was presented by the Public Orator (Dr. Sandys, Fellow and Tutor of St. John's) for the complete degree of Doctor in Music, honoris causa. He was introduced as a native of Ireland, who rejoiced in the maintenance of the Union, and who had won distinction at home and abroad for the land of his birth and for the University of Cambridge. On all the four recent occasions on which Greek plays had been revived in Cambridge he had lent his active and invaluable aid, and he had written admirable music for two of the plays, the "Eumenides" and the "Œdipus Tyrannus." The Orator further alluded to Professor Stanford's well-known contributions to sacred music, and also to his "Savonarola," his "Veiled Prophet of Khorassan," his "Canterbury Pilgrims," and his musical treatment of Tennyson's "Revenge" and "Queen Mary," and of Browning's "Cavalier Lays," and other poems. As Professor in the Royal College of Music, he had given an impetus to the development of a national school of opera, and had thus shown his sympathy with modern progress; while, as Conductor of the Bach Choir, he had proved his interest in the past by promoting the study of the earlier masters. The Orator also touched on Mr. Stanford's highly valued services as Conductor of the Cambridge University Musical Society, describing him in that capacity as "Apollinis Musagetæ minister, qui, Musarum et Gratiarum comitumque vocalium choro stipatus, majestate manus modo silentium imperat, modo admirabilem carminum concentum elicit." Critics had disputed whether Horace invoked Apollo as a ductor or as a doctor, argutæ Thaliæ. Professor Stanford might claim both titles, for he would henceforth add the Degree of Musices Doctor to his well-earned fame as tet chororum ductor.—Mr. A. C. Mackenzie, Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, was next presented for the honorary degree of Mus. Doc. The Orator alluded to the fact that Mr. Mackenzie, who was born in Edinburgh, went to Germany at an early age, and played the violin in the Sondershausen Orchestra when only fourteen. It was in Edinburgh that he taught music for fourteen years in order to be free to devote himself at last to the higher forms of musical composition alone.

Nam "vatem egregium, cui non sit publica vena,
Cui nihil expositum soleat deducere, nec qui
Communem feriat carmen triviale moneta, . . .
Anxiatæ carens animus facile."

In 1879 he began his residence in Florence, and while there wrote two Scotch Rhapsodies for orchestra, two Cantatas entitled "Jason" and "The Bride," the Opera of "Colomba," and the Oratorio of "The Rose of Sharon." The Orator also touched upon Mr. Mackenzie's Opera of "The Troubadour," his Cantata on "The Story of Sayid," and his Overture to Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night"; adding that, like Professor Stanford, he was a most worthy successor to Sir George Macfarren and one of the brightest ornaments of the British School of Music.

THE season of Novello's Oratorio Concerts will begin on the 6th inst., in St. James's Hall, with a performance of Dr. Parry's Oratorio "Judith," under the conductorship of Dr. Mackenzie. The soloists engaged are Miss Anna Williams, Madame Patey, Mr. E. Lloyd, Mr. Plunket Greene, and the two boys from Westminster Abbey who sang in the original performance of the work at Birmingham. At the following Concerts "The Messiah" will be given (the 18th inst.), "Elijah" (January 23). Dr. Mackenzie's new work "The dream of Jubal," written for Liverpool, with the setting of the Nineteenth Psalm by Saint-Saëns, and Weber's Hymn "In constant order," will form the programme for February 26. A special amount of artistic curiosity will accompany the performance of "The Light of Asia," by Dudley Buck, the well-known American composer, which is to be heard for the first time in England on March 19. Handel's Oratorio "Saul" will be revived for the last Concert on April 9. Apart from the interest of many of the novelties, the performances are likely to be most attractive because of the reasonable expectation of intelligent interpretations from the Conductor and his loyal and excellent choir.

MESSRS. HANN commenced their third season of Chamber Concerts at the Brixton Hall, on October 31. Schumann's Quartet in A minor (Op. 41, No. 1), and Schubert's Quartet, posthumous, were played with admirable finish by the clever family, the father and three sons, a fourth son, Mr. Sidney H. Hann, giving a most commendable reading of Chopin's Andante Spianato and Grand Polonaise for pianoforte, and joining with his brothers, Lewis and William, delighted the large and attentive audience by their sympathetic interpretation of Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor (Op. 49). Madame Marian McKenzie was the vocalist. An equally interesting programme was given at the second Concert, on the 21st ult. Especial praise is due for the careful and artistic reading of Dr. Mackenzie's fine Quartet in E flat and of Beethoven's No. 1 in F (Op. 59). Solos for violin and violoncello also charmed the audience, who thoroughly appreciated the good quality of the work done. Mrs. Trust was the vocalist. The third and last Concert of the series takes place on the 12th inst.

WE learn from the complete list of subscriptions to the Walter Bache Scholarship, which, together with the Hon. Treasurer's statement of accounts, has just been issued, that the Liszt Scholarship Fund, in aid of which the Walter Bache Scholarship was instituted, has been enriched by the sum of £511 5s. 9d. Of this sum £500 11s. 5d. has already been invested in the purchase of £389 Great Eastern Railway four per cent Debenture Stock. The entire fund is at present represented by £1,340 of this stock, and yields an income of about £54 per annum, less income tax. Though this is ample for defraying the educational fees of the Royal Academy of Music, it is not sufficient adequately to assist students during a subsequent residence abroad, when some still further subsidy towards maintenance would be desirable. With this end in view, further donations may be paid to the account of the Trustees (C. A. Barry, Alfred H. Littleton, and T. Threlfall) at the Union Bank of London, 14, Argyll Place, Regent Street, W.

MR. FREDERICK NIECKS has just completed his life of Chopin. It will be issued in a few days by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. in two handsomely printed volumes, with a portrait from an original pencil drawing, in the possession of the author, etched by Mr. H. R. Robertson, the artist who produced the successful portraits which adorn the "Short History of Cheap Music." Mr. Niecks, who has been occupied with this work for the last ten years, has brought together a number of new and valuable facts, artistic, social, personal, and political, which will make his book the most exhaustive record of the life and labours of the great artist now extant.

AN Organ and Vocal Recital was given on the 22nd ult., in the Wesleyan Church, West Kensington Park. The programme was almost entirely composed of selections from the Oratorios, interspersed with organ and harp solos. The instrumental part was entrusted to Mr. A. W. Blackmore and Mr. S. H. E. Jackson (Organists), the latter of whom played several solos. Miss Alice Mary Smith contributed two solos on the harp. The vocalists, Madame Minnie Gwynne, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Wilfred Jones, and Mr. Pughe Evans rendered good service. Mr. J. Barratt West was the director.

MISS MATHILDE WURM showed, perhaps, an excess of modesty in the programme of her Pianoforte Recital at the Princes' Hall, on the 10th ult. As a successful pupil of Madame Schumann she might have taken somewhat higher ground without being regarded as unduly ambitious. Beethoven's early Sonata in D (Op. 10, No. 3) was the only item of magnitude, the rest consisting of trifles by ten composers, the rendering of most of them being unimpeachable. Miss Lena Little contributed songs by Mozart, Massenet, and Volkmann.

ON October 31 the Kyrle Choir gave "The Messiah" at St. Peter's, Bethnal Green. The principals were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Annie Baker, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Frank Swinford. On the 14th ult. the same Choir gave a performance of Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" at the Institute, Mile End Road. The soloists were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Ellen Cooper, Mr. Edward Branscombe, and Mr. James Blackney. On both occasions Mr. E. H. Turpin presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker conducted.

AT the present moment there are several valuable musical Scholarships awaiting to reward gifted youth of both sexes. The Macfarren Scholarship and the Mendelssohn Scholarships at the Royal Academy of Music; while in the course of the next few months there will be vacant the Savage Club Exhibition, the Norfolk and Norwich Scholarships, the Gilstrap Scholarship, for natives of Suffolk, and some fifteen Scholarships for composition, singing, pianoforte, organ, stringed and wind instruments, at the Royal College of Music.

At the Church of St. Columba, Janson Road, Leytonstone, a Recital of Sacred Music was given by the Leytonstone Choral Society, in aid of the organ fund, on the 22nd ult. The programme contained pieces by Mendelssohn, Gounod, Handel, and Sir A. Sullivan; sung by Mrs. Tannahill, Miss Stark, Miss Dakin, Mrs. Richards, Messrs. Frank Fairfax, W. Cuttle, Gandar, and Coffin. The choir was accompanied by the orchestra attached to the church, the leader being Miss Adela Duckham, and the organist Mr. H. Riding.

The Concert given by Miss Emily Dones at Clapham, on October 30, was in every sense a decided success. The vocalists were Miss Anna Williams, Miss José Sherrington, Mr. Bernard Lane, Mr. Hilton, and Mr. H. Blower. Mr. Charles Fry's rendering of "The Charity Dinner" was enthusiastically received. Miss Dones had a most hearty and gratifying reception, and a crowded hall testified to her popularity. Miss Amy Hickling gave some violin solos; Mr. Frederic Cliffe and Mr. Turle Lee accompanied.

MR. CHAS. STEWART MACPHERSON gave a Pianoforte Recital at the Town Hall, Streatham, on October 25, when he was assisted by Miss Kate Norman (vocalist) and Mr. Herbert Lake (accompanist). His programme, divided into two parts, included pianoforte pieces by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Weber, Sterndale Bennett, C. S. Macpherson, Chopin, Liszt, Henselt, Walter Macfarren, and Godard. Miss Kate Norman's songs were by Purcell, Bennett, A. Goring Thomas, and Spohr.

A VERY good rendering of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was given at the Stratford Town Hall, on the 8th ult., the principal soloists being Miss Clara Leighton, Miss Lottie West, Mr. Herbert Clinch, and Mr. John Bridson, assisted by Master C. Steward, Miss Warner, Mr. J. P. Leech, and Mr. W. Nicholl. Harmonium, Mr. A. Miller; pianoforte, Miss Julia Allen and Mr. R. E. Strickland; Conductor, Mr. Spencer M. Wilson. The performance was in aid of the West Ham Hospital.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN'S Oratorio "The Prodigal Son" was excellently performed, on the 9th ult., at Christ Church, St. Marylebone. The soloists were Miss Redfern, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Alfred Greenwood, Mr. J. Campbell, and Mr. J. T. Hutchinson. There was a chorus of sixty voices. The accompaniments were assigned to Mr. E. H. Turpin (organ) and Mr. Wilfred Bendall (pianoforte). The Conductor was Mr. Harvey Löhr, Organist of the Church, who directed with great judgment and skill.

On Sunday afternoon, the 18th ult., a selection from Mendelssohn's Oratorio "St. Paul" was sung at the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, under the direction of Mr. Henry J. B. Dart, the Organist. The music was well performed by the choir of the church, and reflects much credit on Mr. Dart, who deserves great praise for his efforts to provide high-class music for the people. There was a very large attendance. Spohr's "Last Judgment" is to be sung on the 16th inst.

The Ilford Vocal Union gave the first Concert of their fourth season on the 18th ult., the work chosen being Handel's "Judas Maccabæus." The soloists were Madame Isabel George, Miss Rose Dafforne, Mr. George Micklewood, and Mr. James Blackney, all of whom sang well. The choral singing was the best the Vocal Union has yet done. The band of the Society, augmented for the occasion, took part in the performance. The Conductor was Mr. A. Storr.

MR. ALFRED KENNINGHAM and Mr. Thomas Kempton, Assistant Vicars-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, have been appointed to the offices of Vicars-Choral, vacant by the death of Mr. William Winn, and the resignation of Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc. Mr. Richard Edward Miles and Mr. Robert Grice, having served their probation, have been admitted Assistant Vicars-Choral of the Cathedral.

A SUCCESSFUL performance of "Elijah" was given by the Walworth Choral Society in the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road, on October 29. The principal performers were Miss Agnes Larkcom, Miss Rose Dafforne, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. W. G. Forington. Mr. A. L. Oliphant led the band, Mr. W. W. Crome officiated as accompanist, and Mr. W. E. Curtis conducted.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON gave an Organ Recital at Holy Trinity Church, Frogmore, St. Alban's, on the 3rd ult., the programme consisting of works of Bach, Mendelssohn, Merkel, Salomé, Lemmens, &c. Vocalists: Mr. Fred. Cundy and Master Warwick Major.

REVIEWS.

Novello's Collection of Words of Anthems. New and Enlarged Edition. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE History of the Anthem Book, or the compilation of words of anthems used in the service of the Anglican church, has yet to be written. There is little that need be said here concerning the words themselves, for as they are chiefly taken from the Scriptures they have already formed the subject of copious dissertations in many languages, during many ages. The antiquity of the anthem is more or less a doubtful matter, for it is not easy to reconcile our experience of what the anthem is with our speculations as to what the antiphon, from which it is said to be derived, might have been. The anthem is a product of the Anglican branch of the Catholic Church, and, like the glee, is peculiar to England. Whatever may have been its ancient prototype, or how far the proses, sequences, antiphons, motets, and the like have influenced its formation, would be the subject of inquiry in any detailed account concerning it. There is no doubt in some minds that all these things have been contributive; but taking all the examples of the anthems as they stand, from the time of the Reformation down to those of the present day, as exemplified in the collection now under notice, it would seem to be a perfectly independent thing, owing its peculiarities to the individualities of the composers who have selected this method for the expression of their musical thoughts. Practically speaking, the history of the anthem may be comprised within a period of three hundred years; the history of the Anthem Book some fifty years short of that time. The first known compilation was that of the Rev. James Clifford, of St. Paul's Cathedral; the first and rarest edition of which book was published in 1663. The better-known edition (the second) was issued in 1664. A curious fact has recently come to light with regard to this first edition—namely, that it was compiled forty years before it was published, if we may believe the date of the "Imprimatur," which is November 20, 1622, twenty years before the publication of Barnard's Collection of Anthems with Music. The list of authors whose works are mentioned in Clifford's book justifies the belief that either no alterations or additions were made to the list of anthems between the dates of the license and publication, or that Clifford had put forth a book which was old-fashioned from the outset. The appearance of the second edition so close upon the first, which contained a number of anthems by "young men then rising into fame," is in some sort explained.

It is not necessary to trace the progress of the history of the Anthem Book further than to say that the compilations of Carleton, Anselm, Bayly Mason, Marshall, Calvert, Joule, and others, with the immediate predecessor of the present work, the Book of Anthems by Rayson, Troutbeck, and Stainer, have each shown points of excellence which made them valuable in their day. The collection now before us is brought completely up to date, and possesses all the advantages in comprehensiveness and arrangement which were claimed in turn for each of the several above-quoted books. There are, however, one or two points which are peculiar to this present collection. In the first place, the chronological order of the arrangement admits of additions which may yet be made from time to time to the stores of anthem music. These could be appended as occasion served, though it would seem that, with a collection of 1,589 anthems, taken from nearly every book of the Old and New Testament including the Apocrypha, there was enough to obviate the necessity of seeking for fresh words.

The anthems are not only arranged in chronological sequence, but it is shown that where the same words have been set by more than one composer their names have been given at the end of the anthem in alphabetical order. The names of composers who have set part of the words only are subjoined under consecutive numbers. The table of contents gives the names of composers with lists of their anthems, not merely referring to the contents of the book by numbers, but quoting the first words; thus it utilises what in former anthem books was only a means of diversion. This is a gain. Lists of anthems suitable for certain days or seasons, for men's voices, and with Latin words, are most helpful and easy of reference. These, which may be considered as forming the first index, occupy some ninety pages. The indices, by the way, form one of the most notable features of the book. Then follow the 1,595 anthems in the order alluded to above. These contain not only the anthems in common use written by the ancient and modern composers who have devoted their talents to the service of the Church in this particular form, but there are also included no less than forty-two complete oratorios, cantatas, &c., and forty-seven parts of oratorios in sections, which make an addition of 183 separate anthems from those oratorios, &c.; and so the list of anthems contained in the book is increased to the number 1,778. Besides these, the Offertory Sentences and the whole of those portions of the Communion Service, the Kyrie, Credo, Sanctus, and Gloria, occasionally given as anthems, are included.

The difference between Clifford's modest compilation and this last collection of Words of Anthems is most striking and significant. Alike from the point of view of utility, of artistic enterprise as shown by modern composers in the desire "to sing and give praise with the best members that they have," and the increased and increasing interest in the portion of Divine Service which gives existence to the book, the work is most commendably done. The merit of effecting the many improvements noticeable in the present book is due to Mr. Henry King, Assistant Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral. It is true that he confesses his indebtedness to many eminent musicians who have aided him with advice and suggestions, but the main share of the painstaking labour was his, and the larger measure of honour due is undoubtedly his also. The part that the printers and publishers have done is in every way worthy. The printing is legible and beautiful, and the general appearance of the book is in keeping with the nature of its contents.

Benedictus. Arranged for Orchestra from Six Pieces for Violin, composed by A. C. Mackenzie. Full score.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

DR. MACKENZIE was well advised to score for orchestra the beautiful little piece which violinists made a note of as soon as it appeared in solo form. It would be too much to say that the composer had the orchestra in his mind when writing it, as Schubert had during the composition of his Grand Duo for four hands, but the "Benedictus" certainly suggested an orchestral arrangement, and here we have it, charmingly done. In addition to strings, Dr. Mackenzie uses only flutes, clarinets, bassoons, and horns. All the violins (first and second) have the theme, giving it special force and effect, while the accompanying instruments are employed with the nicest discrimination of colour and force. In this respect the score is a perfect little study, and shows what a real musician can do with means comparatively limited. Small orchestras throughout the kingdom will, doubtless, welcome the "Benedictus" in its new form, and confer upon their hearers as much pleasure as those received who heard the work played at the Crystal Palace a few weeks ago.

FOREIGN NOTES.

AN excellent and most successful performance of Berlioz's opera "Benvenuto Cellini" took place, on the 4th ult., at the Dresden Hof-Theater, under the direction of Capellmeister Schuch, the principal performers being Mesdames Dörner and Schuch and Herren Gudehus and Scheidemann. The enthusiasm bestowed upon a work of so advanced a type by an audience of the Saxon capital is justly looked upon by the German press as a significant sign of the times.

Between the dates of the 24th ult. to the 21st inst. the performance of a cyclus of Wagnerian operas has been, announced to take place at the Imperial Opera of Vienna extending from "Rienzi" to the "Nibelungen Tetralogy." In the course of the series the new tenor, M. Van Dyck, is to make his débüt here as Walther Stolzing in "Die Meistersinger."

Felix Weingartner, the composer of "Sakuntala," and successor of Herr Sucher in the principal conductorship at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, has initiated himself into the favour of the numerous opera-goers of the great Hansa town by a model performance of Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde."

A new comic opera, "Im Namen des Gesetzes" ("In the Name of the Law"), by Siegfried Ochs, met with a very favourable reception on its first performance last month at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater.

Spohr's operatic masterpiece "Jessonda" was revived last month at the Royal Opera of Munich. Although most worthily represented, the noble work met with but a lukewarm reception.

Herr Max Bruch has just completed a dramatic Cantata entitled "The fiery Cross," the text, by Dr. H. Bluthaupt, being founded upon Sir Walter Scott's poem "The Lady of the Lake."

Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "The Mikado" is to be produced, for the first time in the German language, at the Friedrich Wilhelmstadt Theater, of Berlin, during the present season.

Herr Levi, the well-known Munich Capellmeister, having completely recovered from his recent illness, has resumed his functions at the Munich Hof-Theater.

Herr Gudehus, the eminent Wagnerian tenor of the Dresden Hof-Theater, has entered into an engagement with the Royal Opera of Berlin, where he will give his services during four months of the year at a salary of £1,400.

An excellent first performance of Wagner's "Die Walküre" was given on the 13th ult., at Graz, under the direction of Capellmeister Seidl. The house was crowded.

Liszt's Oratorio "Saint Elizabeth" was produced, on the 6th ult., by the Singakademie of Rostock, under the direction of Dr. Thierfelder.

The "Philharmonic poem" entitled "Francesca da Rimini," by the Maestro Bazzini, was announced to be performed, for the first time in Germany, on the 26th ult., at Berlin, Dr. Hans von Bülow being the Conductor.

M. Tschaiakowsky, the gifted Russian composer, has just completed a new Symphony, as well as a Symphonic Poem entitled "Hamlet."

It is stated in Italian papers that Signor Sonzogo, the well-known music publisher and impresario, encouraged by the success obtained by his recent first representation in Italy of Gluck's "Orpheus" at Rome, intends to transfer his entire personnel to Milan, in order to repeat the performance here of Gluck's chef-d'œuvre.

According to the Neue Berliner Musik Zeitung, it has been definitely arranged that the first production of the entire Nibelungen Tetralogy at the Berlin Opera is to take place during the present month.

Dr. Josef Joachim will celebrate, next year, the fiftieth anniversary of his artistic activity, he having commenced his public career at the age of seven.

M. Massenet is actively engaged upon the composition of a new Opera, the action of which is based upon the legendary history of Persia, the great Zoroaster himself being the hero. The libretto (the title of which has not, as yet, been decided upon) is from the pen of M. Jean Richepin.

Italian theatres do not appear to be just now in a very flourishing condition. The Rossini Theatre, of Florence, has just been sold to a private capitalist, and is to be turned into a Reading-room; while the Teatro Balbo, of Turin, will shortly be pulled down to make room for building enterprises.

Italian papers are already discussing the question of how to celebrate in a worthy manner the fiftieth anniversary of Verdi's débüt as an operatic composer, which will take place in November of next year. It was on November 17, 1839, that the young Maestro, then twenty-six years of age, had the satisfaction of seeing his first opera, "Oberto die San Bonifacio," successfully brought out at the La Scala of Milan. It is proposed, amongst other projects, to commemorate the forthcoming event by a series of model performances of the great Italian master's most mature operatic works.

The choral society "Oefening baart Kunst," Amsterdam, is organising a grand international contest of choir-singing to be held in that town in August of next year.

The Wagner Society of Amsterdam is about to publish a monthly journal devoted to the interests of music and the modern music-drama, the editor being M. Henry Viotta, the eminent orchestral conductor at the Hague.

M. A. Jullien's new work "Hector Berlioz, sa vie et ses œuvres," the pendant to the same author's "Richard Wagner," has just been published by the Librairie de l'art, of Paris. The work is embellished by some 150 portraits, caricatures, scenic and other illustrations, and forms a very valuable as well as splendid addition to musico-historical literature.

M. Octave Maus has just published at Brussels an interesting volume, entitled "Le Théâtre de Bayreuth: Souvenirs d'un Wagneriste."

A monument is shortly to be erected, at his native town of Givet, to Méhul, the composer of "Joseph and his Brethren." M. Ambroise Thomas, the director of the Paris Conservatoire, has promised to conduct the musical performances in connection with the unveiling of the monument.

The mortal remains of Christoph Willibald Gluck, like those of Beethoven and Schubert, are to be shortly removed from their present resting place, at the churchyard of Matzleindorf, near Vienna, to the central cemetery of the Austrian capital. The obelisk erected over the grave of the great operatic reformer in 1846 is also to adorn the place of honour assigned to his ashes at the metropolitan cemetery.

Raymond Haertel, the senior of the eminent Leipzig music publishing firm of Breitkopf and Haertel, died on the 11th ult. at Leipzig, aged seventy-eight.

The death is announced, at Seville, of Isidoro Hernandez, the composer of a number of successful Zarzuelas, amongst them "Una Lección de Tores," and "El Lucero del Alba."

CORRESPONDENCE.

"THE WAGNER BUBBLE."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Since the controversy on my essay in October's Nineteenth Century, "The Wagner Bubble," is now closed by the discretion of the editor of that review, who is unwilling to devote more space to the subject than he has already so kindly allowed, I take, with your permission, advantage of your columns to say a few words of rejoinder.

If the Wagnerians, in the person of their acknowledged spokesman, Dr. C. Villiers Stanford, can make no better defence than they have done, their case is more hopeless than I supposed.

I have stated in my essay that Wagner in his music ignores all the past teachings of the art.

I have stated that he breaks every technical principle of musical composition, and loudly claims honour for so doing.

I have stated that in the excess of his vanity he declared that all music, except such as he wrote, was at an end; and henceforth might as well cease to be written, for there was nothing in it.

I have stated that Wagner's controversial writings, in which he attempts to justify himself, are dull, obscure, and rambling, and fail to convince in the slightest degree any intelligent man.

I have stated that the books which form the key to the whole Wagnerian system—that is to say, "Oper und Drama" and "Das Kunstwerk der Zukunft"—are full of the most monstrous misstatements, purposely introduced to mislead readers and to prove the writer's point; and I have given many of these misstatements in extenso.

I have stated that Wagner, in his vainglory, asserted that his music was beyond and above all criticism, and superior to the judgment of mortal man.

I have stated that he looked forward to a time when the whole of society should be re-organised agreeably to his ridiculous theories of art and life.

I have stated that, intoxicated with vanity, Wagner confidently predicted that his operas would take the place of religion in the world, that his theatres would supplant churches, and that Christianity would go down wholesale before the onslaught of triumphant Wagnerism.

To state these facts, and to submit them to the verdict of a thinking public, was the main object of my essay. Yet they are all allowed to pass completely unchallenged by my opponent. I need not insinuate the cause of his silence. He confesses himself that he is entirely unable to impugn these statements. He would prefer to leave the task to someone better able to do so. I congratulate my friend on a retreat effected in so masterly a manner.

With nothing before him but a few subordinate statements to contend about, which for the sake of tranquillity I would willingly yield him, since he so generously yields me all the main points in the discussion, he proceeds to argue the case on behalf of Wagner in a manner at once eccentric and inimitable.

His first argument is that I "have got a piece of soap in my eye." (This may be called the Argumentum ad saponem, and is obviously another form of the Argumentum ad baculum, which I also hear is freely used in the Wagnerian controversy). What he undertakes to prove by this argument I have been as yet unable to discover, but no doubt it has some very important connection with his defence of Wagner.

His next argument is to call me a vestal virgin—a compliment I warmly appreciate.

Thirdly, he argues that all contributors to magazines are literary jackals—for bringing which opprobrium upon so many excellent ladies and gentlemen, I here offer them my humblest apologies.

Having thus stated the case generally on behalf of Wagner, he fastens on a few particulars in my essay to the disregard of all else, acting on the principle that if he can only trip me up in some hole and corner he may yet cry a fall. But even if he succeeds in doing so, which I very much doubt, I must flatly tell him that the world will give him little credit for such ungenerous treatment.

The first point that troubles him is a remark of mine that some ten or fifteen years ago, in the height of the Wagner fever, we were asked to believe that Beethoven, Handel, Bach, and all the great musicians, his precursors, were nothing compared to Wagner. My critic's retort is charming in its simplicity. "I," he says, "was never asked to believe anything of the kind," and therefore, he adds, and almost in as many words, nobody else was. My statement is consequently dismissed as a pure fabrication on my part. And this is a fair specimen of his easy style of controversy.

I happened to remark on the same page—for I find that he is nearly always at one particular page or thereabouts, entirely forgetting that there are eleven pages more, urgently demanding his consideration—that after all the talk which inundated society some ten or fifteen years ago, on the same occasion as the preceding, after all the fulsome adulation bestowed on Wagner by his worshippers, after all the eloquence lavished on the man and the promise of something serious resulting in the immediate future, we waited patiently, and still wait, for some proof that all these fine things are true. Yet none has appeared.

"Hold!" cries my friend. "There I have you. He fills the German theatres."

So does Verdi, so does Meyerbeer, so does poor Rossini, so does the despised Donizetti, so does that miserable Frenchman, Gounod.

"If that is not enough, then," he exclaims in despair, "there is the performance at Bayreuth. He fills that theatre, at all events, when nobody else can—for the best of all reasons, that nobody's compositions but his own are allowed to be played there."

I will willingly grant that Wagner fills the theatre at Bayreuth when nobody else can; and if I had the space at my disposal I would discourse with my friend about this little place, where a few little people go once a year, and imagine that their little circle contains all the music in Europe.

My friend next tries to put a misconstruction on a statement of mine, to which piece of unfairness I here call attention. A few lines further down (we are always at the same place) I said that Wagner "made several attempts to hit the exact style of writing in vogue, before he took to his theories, but all alike resulted in deplorable failure." My friend admits the truth of this, and deplors that it was so. But to mend matters a little he calls my attention to the fifth page of my essay, where he would make out that I have contradicted myself. I am amazed at this—because the fifth is one of those pages at which he stubbornly refuses to look. But no doubt he has cast his eye down it to see if there was anything which could be of use to him. What he has found, however, I may frankly tell him will be of no use to him whatever, but will only bring upon him the imputation of unfairness, for trying to put a misconstruction on words which are entirely incapable of bearing it. The "deplorable failures" to which I alluded in the earlier page were "Die Feen" and "Das Liebesverbot," as my critic remorsefully acquiesces. On page 5 I allude to "Der fliegende Holländer" and "Rienzi," which I by no means describe as "deplorable failures," but simply say that they did not succeed sufficiently "to give Wagner that European position in music he was so greedy of acquiring"; and, what is more, I mention these two operas by name—but perhaps my critic, in skimming the page rapidly, since he knew that there was a great deal in it which he could never attempt to answer, overlooked the fact to which I now call his attention.

We may imagine the desperate straits to which my friend is driven in order to make a case, when his next argument is that singers ought to sing with their face downwards (!) Even if it were proved, I scarcely think it would invalidate my position in the controversy. This point, however, is elaborately discussed, with the view of upsetting a statement of mine in which I say that the proper attitude of a singer is with his chest out, his head up, and his arms thrown back. "Excuse me," replies my friend, "quite the contrary—face downwards; this point is already proved and is completely past discussion." I observe that his theory of singing, specially prepared for the defence of Wagner, who was an admirer of the method, is a most extraordinary one. The voice, it appears, is a mysterious something, which to rise must be first made to fall. It ought to be made first to impinge on the floor of the stage, whence with redoubled velocity it will rebound up to the boxes and thence to the gallery. I commend this novel idea to the consideration of all singers, managers, and musicians.

My friend's fifth position—he has but six in all, and I shall soon have done with him—takes the form of a good round assertion, which stands instead of an argument. He is very fond of oracular remarks throughout, all of which he expects me to take for granted; and to this head, I suppose, I must refer the present sweeping statement, which strikes at the roots of one part of the controversy. I have the pleasure to present the reader with a few of his oracular remarks—they are introduced here and there in the pauses of the argument, to the great delight of himself, and to the unspeakable satisfaction, no doubt, of his partisans. "Wagner," he says, in one place, "is an immortal." "Wagner's time is close at hand," he remarks in another. Elsewhere he declares, "Wagner is a great man"; and on page 729, "Wagner is a noble animal." But in the present instance he ought to have been a little more cautious, for I can by no means let him pass so lightly. "Not an opera has been written in any country," he asserts, "since Wagner's influence became extended" (an extension which only exists in the brain of my friend), "not an opera has been written which does not bear the traces of Wagner's reforms upon every page." Not an opera?—every page? What then does my friend say about Verdi's "Aida," Gounod's "Faust," Balfe's "Talismano," Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," Thomas's "Mignon," Boito's "Mefistofele," Bizet's "Carmen"—all written years after the eventful production of "Tannhäuser" and the "extension" (!)—if I may use such a misleading expression—of Wagner's influence? I would willingly not bring Lecocq and Offenbach into the question, but my friend compels me to. "Not an opera," he says, "in any country!"

See the danger of mere sweeping assertion! And let my friend take a lesson from the fall I have so signally given him, and abstain from its employment in the future. I am very sorry for him, for this is the only place where he ever came near the main issues of the controversy at all. I cannot deny, he says, that Wagner in his music ignores all the past teachings of the art. I cannot deny that Wagner breaks every technical principle of musical composition, and loudly claims honour for so doing. I cannot deny that in the excess of his vanity Wagner declared that all music, except such as he wrote, was at an end, and henceforth might as well cease to be written, for there was nothing in it. I cannot deny that Wagner's controversial writings, in which he attempts to justify himself, are dull, obscure, and rambling, and fail to convince, in the slightest degree, any intelligent man. I cannot deny that the books which form the key to the whole Wagnerian system—that is to say, "Oper und Drama" and "Das Kunstwerk der Zukunft"—are full of the most monstrous misstatements purposely introduced to mislead readers, and to prove Wagner's point. I cannot deny that Wagner, in his vainglory, asserted that his music was above and beyond all criticism, and superior to the judgment of mortal man. I cannot deny that Wagner looked forward to a time when the whole of society should be re-organised agreeably to his stupendous theories of art and life. I cannot deny that Wagner was so intoxicated with vanity* as to predict that his operas would take the place of religion in the world, that his theatres would supplant churches, and that Christianity would go down wholesale before the onslaught of triumphant Wagnerism. But when you tell me that Wagner's influence has been slight upon music, I can deny that; for not an opera has been written in any country for a considerable number of years past, which does not bear traces of Wagner's influence on every page. That is my argument; and make the best of it you can.

Sixthly and lastly, my friend comes to the question of Wagner's poetical powers. He has put it off to the very end, because he has grievous doubts on the subject; but yet he feels it necessary to champion the cause to his uttermost, for fear of losing the good opinion of all the Wagnerians, whose eyes are fixed on him in expectation, as their chosen spokesman in the controversy. Consequently, he is angry all round. He is angry with me for saying that Wagner was not a great poet. He is angry with me for saying that Mr. Corder is a good translator. He is angry with Mr. Corder for translating Wagner. He is angry with me for choosing such extracts as I have, as specimens of Wagner's poetical powers, and says they are the worst passages that could have been selected. On the contrary, they were the best and fairest selections that I could make. They were the flowers of Wagnerian poesy, and admitted to be such by the most ardent admirers of the bard. They were, the great soliloquy of Siegfried in the "Götterdämmerung," the great declamation of the Prince of Darkness in "Das Rheingold," the famous air d'entrée of Isolde, and finally the grand love duet between Tristan and Isolde, which forms the climax of the opera of that name. What more could I do than select such passages as this? I was always told by Wagnerians to look at these passages if I wanted to see genuine poetry; and I did so. Yet my friend says they are "the worst passages that could have been selected." They are the worst that could have been selected for Wagner's reputation, I fully admit; and I take some credit to myself in earning my friend's bad opinion in consequence. Finally, my friend, driven to extremities, speaks of "the immense difficulty of conveying an idea of such a complicated original by any translation." For my part, I do not find the complication of thoughts which my friend assumes.

Thou Isolde,
Tristan I.

sing the pair of lovers, in the last extract to which I have alluded. What could be more simple?

* I have received a protest from the members of the Swedenborgian Church against any comparison between Swedenborg and Wagner. They say, "In vain you will ransack the personal history of Swedenborg's family for a trace of insanity." They complain that a comparison, however slight, "is derogatory to Swedenborg's memory." They also call attention to "Wagner's early popularity and present neglect," and say how different it is to the case of Swedenborg, who began with a few converts only, but who has now enthusiastic disciples everywhere. I am in entire accord with their views, and I here publicly express my regret for having pained very many excellent people by comparing so saintly a man as Emmanuel Swedenborg for one moment with such a person as Wagner, who was an atheist and an enemy of Christianity.

No more Tristan,
No more Isolde.
they add. Their meaning is evident; things are at a terrible pass with them.

Never spoken,
Never broken.
Newly righted,
Newly lighted.

they continue—where, I grant, their meaning begins to get a little mixed.

But it is all cleared up in the next four lines.

Endless ever
All our dream.
In our bosoms gleam
Love delights supreme.

After all said and done, they are quite satisfied with their prospects.

All is as clear as day. And yet my friend talks about the complication of ideas, and the immense difficulty they occasion to any one who attempts to translate them.
Unless I had been positively assured by my friend to the contrary, I should have been inclined to take the exactly opposite view, and to characterise such effusions as the extreme of simplicity. The lines are short enough, in all conscience. And had I not known that the above was an extract from one of Wagner's operas, I might have imagined it a nursery rhyme, specially adapted for children of tender years.

I have now taken up every point in my opponent's case categorically; and on turning to his concluding paragraph I find him, to my surprise, attacking Wagner himself. He says that Wotan (a character in one of Wagner's greatest operas) "is a bore." King Mark (a famous hero of Wagner's) "is a trial to impatient pittites." The "Götterdämmerung" (a great opera of Wagner's) "ends in what may best be described as cacophony." The whole of "Lohengrin," "except the prayer and the bridal march, is in common time," which he admits is a little too much. He complains loudly of Wagner's habit "of making two lovers stand gazing at one another for a quarter of an hour, while a third person is singing." So do I. In fact, this is one of the points which I am sorry to say I omitted in my essay. I quite agree with my opponent. The practice is most reprehensible on the part of Wagner.

Finding him thus dissatisfied with his idol, I am not surprised to find him equally dissatisfied with the present condition and future prospects of Wagnerism. While can-dantly admitting that the whole thing is a bubble, he tells me I am wrong in saying it has burst yet, and grumbles that it still exists to his cost. "To say that the bubble has burst already," he says, "is to state what men's eyes, ears, and pockets know to be absolutely false." According to this, the keeping up of the bubble must be a very expensive affair; and I should strongly advise my opponent to have nothing more to do with it. Let it burst, and never mind.

J. F. ROWBOTHAM.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY BOYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Please allow me to state that the boys mentioned in your Leicester news of last number as of Westminster Abbey, are not Members of our Choir, and if they were so announced it was a misstatement on the part of the Concert-giver.—Yours very truly,

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Cloisters, Westminster Abbey, Nov. 23.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* * * Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.
Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

A. C., ROCHESTER.—Too late. Every effort is made to include the latest accounts up to the last hour before going to press.

A. X.—In one of the Monday Popular Concert programmes. Write to Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond Street, W.

H. D.—The choice of the music for the Service rests with the Minister, who may or may not consult the Organist or Conductor of the choir.

MATER.—(1) The Guildhall School of Music and the London Academy of Music. (2) No.

MISS ROSS.—Unfortunately there was no room, and this month will be too late.

MUSICUS.—There is a book called "The Opera Glass," by Louis
Alexander, which gives the plots of many of the most popular Operas.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this Summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ALFRETON, DERBYSHIRE.—Miss McKnight, F.C.O., Organist and Choir-trainer of the Parish Church, has been presented with a handsome metronome by the members of the Choir, as a token of their esteem.

BANGOR.—A highly successful miscellaneous Concert was given by Dr. Rowland Rogers, the Cathedral Organist, in the Penrhyn Hall, on Monday, the 12th ult. The principal vocalists were Miss Marianne Fenna and Mr. William Davies, and their selections gave unbounded satisfaction to the large audience assembled. The solo violinist was Mr. Theodore Lawson, whose finished technique and expressive playing secured him hearty recognition. Mendelssohn's Scotch Symphony, and Mozart's Overture to Figaro, with several smaller items, were capitally rendered by the orchestra, the members of which were mainly drawn from that of Sir Charles Hallé. Three graceful little orchestral movements from the pen of Dr. Rogers (the Conductor) are deserving of special mention; but the main attraction of the evening was the singing of the Arvonian Male Voice Choir. The voices were admirably balanced, the attack was vigorous, and the expression good, qualities which were specially noticeable in Sullivan's part-song
"The long day closes." Dr. J. C. Bridge's "Greek war song" gave so much pleasure that it was enthusiastically redemanded.

BLACKBURN.—The Golden Legend was given by the members of the Philharmonic Society on the 3rd ult. in the Exchange Hall, when the Cantata received an interpretation which was of unquestion-ably high musical value. Madame Georgina Burns sang the music allotted to Elsie; Miss Hilda Wilson, Ursula; Mr. Henry Piercy, Prince Henry; and Mr. Leslie Crotty, Lucifer. The chorus, excellently well balanced, attacked with precision, sang well together, and moreover understood perfectly the importance of light and shade. Mr.
Tattersall may be congratulated most heartily on the conspicuous success which was gained. The orchestra was led by Signor Risegari. The performance of The Golden Legend occupied the first half of the programme, and the second half was of a miscellaneous character.

BOSTON SPA, YORKSHIRE.—On the 9th ult. a Concert was given in the Trustees' Hall. The vocalists were Miss Greenwood, Miss Thompson, Miss Wilks, Mrs. Scatchard, and Mrs. Nelson. A pianoforte duet was given with notable success by Miss Smith and Miss L.
Smith, of Bramham Park, Tadcaster. The young violinists, Miss Cobb
(of Leeds) and Miss Ada Bell, played a duet which was highly appreciated.
Mr. Dan Billington, the well-known Leeds vocalist, gave several solos, and Mr. Wilson (of Harrogate) also delighted his hearers with his contributions. The accompaniments were played throughout by Mr. D. J. Jennings, the Organist of the Parish Church.

BURNLEY.—A Concert took place in St. Stephen's Schools on the 13th ult. Mrs. A. Townley-Parker contributed songs by Cowen, Cellier, and Parker, which were highly appreciated. Mrs. Horner sang "The three fishers" and "Needles and pins," for which she was encored.
The Rev. A. B. Edystone joined Mrs. Parker in Gounod's Barcarolle, and sang Watson's "Little Sue" with great success. Miss S.
Sutcliffe played Weber's "L'Invitation," and joined Miss Cranbrook in Schuloff's Grande Valse. Other duets and part-songs were successfully rendered.

CRAWSHAWBOOTH.—An Organ Recital was given at the Wesleyan Chapel by Mr. J. E. W. Lord, on the 14th ult. The programme was selected from the works of Gounod, Capocci, Dubois, Guilmant, Handel, Wely, Dudley Buck, and H. Smart.

CREWE.—The Philharmonic Society signalled the opening of the current season by a Ballad Concert in the Town Hall on the 22nd ult., when the entire programme was sustained by the following performers: Vocalists—Miss Conway, Miss Helen d'Alton, Mr. Kendal Thompson, and Mr. Fred. Gordon; solo violinist, Miss Lily Mitchinson; solo pianist and accompanist, Mr. S. Myerscough. The programme was most varied, and contained a choice selection of music, which was much appreciated by the large audience present.

CRICH.—On the 12th ult. a grand Concert was given in the British Schools, when Romberg's Toy Symphony was performed by Mr.
W. W. Windle and his pupils from Beiper. Miss Fisher, a rising soprano singer, and Miss Stone, of Wirksworth, were the principal vocalists, with Messrs. Bestwick and Mills and Masters Banks and Eley. Mr. W. W. Windle conducted throughout, and was assisted in the instrumental department by his pupils, Miss Lee, Miss Summers, Miss Golightly, and the Misses Lowry.

DEMERARA.—The eleventh Concert of the Musical Society was given in the Philharmonic Hall on October 31. The programme was miscellaneous but interesting; and as regards the instrumental items, it was perhaps more ambitious than usual. The opening Overture to Mendelssohn's Son and Stranger was fairly well rendered by the orchestra, who also did capably in the movement from Haydn's Surprise Symphony. Gounod's Psalm "By Babylon's wave" was very well given by the chorus. The same may be said of Auber's "Market Chorus" and Gounod's Faust Chorus. Mrs. Wight, Mrs. Proudlock, and Mr. Semple were the vocalists; Mr. Hemery, violoncello solo. The chief instrumental piece in the second part was a selection from Cellier's Dorothy, arranged by the Conductor, Mr. W. R. Colbeck. Mr. Smellie efficiently accompanied most of the music, while Mr. Barnard led the small orchestra. The Concert was fairly successful.

ENFIELD.—Miss May Smith's third Annual Concert took place at the Bycullah Athenæum on the 24th ult., before a large and appreciative audience. The programme was an excellent one, and very successfully carried out. Miss Smith played a Fantasia of Chopin's and Liszt's "Rhapsodie Hongroise" with such faultless precision and exquisite taste as to arrest the deepest attention of her audience. She was most ably supported by Miss Jeanie Ross, Miss Ethel Capel, Master Harold Dickson (violin), Mr. Iver McKay, Mr. James Blackney, and Mr. Routledge Smith, who all contributed to make the Concert a most successful one. An agreeable feature was some very good chorus singing by a choir of about forty boys and men from Christ Church, Enfield, under the direction of Mr. F. G. Fitch.

FROME.—On Tuesday evening, the 20th ult., a musical Service was given in Wesley Chapel by the choir of that place, assisted by several friends. The service embraced selections from the works of Handel, Mendelssohn, Haydn, and Rossini, while other items were taken from Batiste and Dr. Bridge. The principal singers were Miss Lea, Miss Grant, Mr. F. Deggan, Mr. W. H. Harvey, and Mr. F. C. Tucker. Mr. A. C. Chislett was Organist, and Mr. T. Grant Conductor.

HALIFAX.—Mendelssohn's Elijah was given in the Drill Hall, by the Choral Society, on the 15th ult. The principal vocalists were Madame Clara West, Miss Lottie West, Mr. Herbert Haigh, and Mr. Frederick King. Leader of the band, Mr. H. Sedgwick; Conductor, Mr. W. H. Garland, Mus. Bac.

HARROW-ON-THE-HILL.—Mr. Herbert W. Whatmoor gave the second of his series of Chamber Concerts on Friday evening, the 9th ult. The programme included Trios (Dvůřák, Op. 21, and Mendelssohn, Op. 49), Solos by Liszt, Chopin, Marcello, Mendelssohn, and Lachner, and Songs by Massenet and F. Whatmoor.

HAVELINE, SUFFOLK.—An Organ Recital was given in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 16th ult., by Mr. George Leake, F.C.O. The programme included pieces by Bach, Rheinberger, Smart, Mendelssohn, Niels Gade, Handel, Haydn, and Gounod.

HIGH WYCOMBE.—On the 12th ult. the Choral Association gave their first Concert. The programme included Overture "Rosamunde" (Schubert), Pianoforte Concerto in G minor (Mendelssohn), two movements from Delibes's Suite Sylvia, Hymn of Praise (Mendelssohn), and songs by Handel and Gounod. The principal vocalists were Miss Charlotte Hanlon and Mr. Lawrence Fryer. Solo violin and leader of orchestra, Mr. S. D. Grimson. Conductor and solo pianoforte, Mr. J. G. Wrigley.

JUNCTION.—The Junction Co-operative Society held their annual Party and Concert on Saturday, the 10th ult. The Huddersfield Arion Prize Party—Mr. Threapleton, Mr. Ackroyd, Mr. Burnley, and Mr. Stott—were engaged for the occasion. Their singing produced a very favourable impression upon the audience. Mr. Dickin Whitehead acted as accompanist.

LINCOLN.—Mr. Barraclough gave his forty-seventh Concert in the Masonic Hall on the 19th ult. The performers were Madame Clara Samuelli, Miss Florence Hoskins, Mr. Orlando Harley, and Mr. Santley; solo violin, Miss Anna Lang; solo pianoforte and accompanist, Mr. Sidney Naylor. The Concert was most successful.

MAIDENHEAD.—The Philharmonic Society gave their first Concert of the season in the Town Hall on the 13th ult., before a large audience. The chief work in the programme was Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise. The principal vocalists were Miss Hanlon and Mr. Freyer; leader of the orchestra, Mr. Grimson; Conductor, Mr. J. G. Wrigley, Mus. Bac., Oxon., who also played Mendelssohn's G minor Pianoforte Concerto.

MANCHESTER.—Mr. John Towers delivered an interesting Lecture on "Some Lancashire-born Musical Worthies," in the Association Hall, on the 9th ult. Sir Wm. Cunliffe Brooks, Bart., M.P., presided, and the vocal illustrations were sung by Madame du Pré, Miss Maude Yates, Mr. Thos. Allen, Mr. H. Warren, and Mr. J. W. Maltby. Mr. Herbert Yates presided at the pianoforte.

MARGATE.—A new choir organ has been added to the instrument in St. Paul's Church, by Messrs. Brindley and Foster, of Sheffield. It was opened at a special service on the 2nd ult., and on Tuesday, the 6th ult., two Recitals were given by Dr. J. F. Bridge, of Westminster Abbey.

PENKRIE.—On Thursday, the 8th ult., Mr. J. R. Walters gave an Organ Recital upon the new organ erected in the Parish Church by Bishop and Son. The programme consisted of works by Handel, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Batiste, Silas, Guilman, and Lemmens.

SYDNEY, N.S.W.—On October 11 a Concert given by the Y.M.C.A. Musical Society, in the hall of that institution, showed a distinct advance on their previous efforts, such as it cannot be other than a pleasure to record. The chorus is only about fifty strong, but the voices are clear and true, and the parts well balanced; and Mr. Noble, the honorary Conductor, is to be complimented on the fact that his band of singers perform their duties with intelligence and taste. Of the various glees, &c., heard during the evening, the best rendering was given of two old Madrigals—namely, "Since first I saw your face," by Ford, and Festa's "Down in a flowery vale." Barnby's "Silent night," Von Wartensee's "Wanderer's night song," Barnett's "It was Earl Haldan's daughter," Hatton's "Summer eve," Walter Macfarren's "You stole my love," and "The Vikings," by Eaton Fanning, were the other contributions of the Society, the performance generally being very creditable. The Society was assisted by Mrs. Innes and Mr. W. J. Rodd as vocalists, Miss Menina Paige as pianist, and Mr. Augustus Gebde as accompanist and organist.

TENBURY.—The Musical Society gave the second of its two annual Subscription Concerts, on Thursday, the 8th ult. The programme was of a miscellaneous description, selected with admirable taste, and was characterised by a happy variety. In the first part of the programme three numbers from Handel's Oratorio Solomon were chosen. The Overture was exceedingly well played. The first part of the programme was brought to a close by the performance of Dr. Bridge's setting of "The Song of St. Francis of Assisi." A special word of praise is due to Miss Willis for her excellent interpretation of the very important and difficult solo which runs through the work, and which, perhaps, is its most pleasant feature. The second part of the programme consisted of Weber's Three Seasons—soloists, Miss Matthews, Mrs. Claxton, Messrs. Fleming and Morris; Pissuti's song "Sleep on, dear love," sung by Mrs. Hunt; the part-song, "I lov'd her," by Hatton, performed by Messrs. Williams, Fleming, Miles, and Morris (encored); a flute solo, selections from Lucia, by Donizetti, Mr. Jones; two choruses by Mendelssohn, "The harvest field" and "Why listen to the carols?"; a song composed by Mr. W. J. Lancaster, "Shall I, wasting in despair" (first time), sung by Mr. Fleming; Schumann's part-song "The boat," very effectively rendered; Gluck's Ballet music from Iphigenia in Aulis; and an arrangement of the National Anthem by the Rev. W. Claxton. The Rev. J. Hampton conducted with energy and efficiency.

TREDEGAR.—The eleventh course of Lectures for the session 1888-89 was opened on Thursday, the 1st ult., at the Temperance Hall, by Mr. Sinclair Dunn and Miss Susetta Penn, Miss Golding presiding at the pianoforte with her usual skill and efficiency.

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—The last Concert of the ninth season of the Harmonic Club was given on September 29, when the programme included Lloyd's Song of Balder, Alice Mary Smith's Song of the Little Balmung, and Stanford's The Revenge. The latter work was admirably given notwithstanding its difficulty, and created such genuine enthusiasm that it is to be repeated at the next Concert of the Society. The Concert was, as usual, under the direction of Mr. Robert Parker, and Mr. McDuff Boyd led the orchestra.—A Musical Festival is to be held here before Christmas, being the first of the kind attempted in the Colony. Mendelssohn's Elijah, Handel's Israel, and Sullivan's The Golden Legend, together with a selection from Wagner, and several miscellaneous instrumental works will be included in the scheme. An excellent chorus of 160 voices has been formed, and good progress has already been made with the various works. The orchestra will number about forty-five performers. The whole will be under the direction of Mr. Robert Parker, Organist of the Cathedral and Conductor of the Harmonic Society.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—A Concert was given on the 6th ult. in the Armoury. The works performed were Mendelssohn's Motet, Hear my Prayer, and J. F. Barnett's Building of the Ship. Miss Arthur (Darlington), Miss Drews (Wolverhampton), Mr. Holberry Hagyard (Cambridge), and Mr. Lucas Williams (London) were the principals. The band and chorus of the Philharmonic Society, assisted by several members of Amer's Newcastle Exhibition Band, consisting altogether of some 100 performers, were under the baton of Mr. J. F. Hard, the Hon. Conductor of the Society. The choruses, "Thus with the rising of the sun" and "The prayer is said," were redemanded. The whole Concert was very successful.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Charles M. Taphouse, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary Magdalen Church, Oxford.—Mr. E. F. Barnes, to St. Paul's, Kilburn.—Mr. Frederick W. Doe, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's Church, Wimbledon Park, S.W.—Mr. Charles S. Craddock, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Clonmel.—Mr. W. J. Hutchins, Private Organist to the most noble the Marquis of Breadalbane, Taymouth Castle, Kenmore, Perthshire.—Mr. James Lilley, Organist and Choirmaster to Christ Church, Bermondsey.—Mr. T. Stancliffe, A.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster to Kelvingrove Church, Glasgow.—Mr. John Banning, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's, Redditch, near Manchester.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Warwick W. Bartlett (Alto), to Curzon Chapel, Mayfair, W.—Mr. J. Talbot (Bass), to Church of the Sacred Heart, Kilburn.—Mr. George T. Freeland (Tenor), to Curzon Chapel, Mayfair, W.—Mr. W. H. Stevenson (Bass), to St. Alban's, Holborn.—Mr. F. St. John Lacy, to Farm Street, Berkeley Square, W.—Mr. W. J. Westwood (Bass), to Curzon Chapel, Mayfair, W.

DEATHS.

On the 5th ult., at Brighton, EMMA JANE, widow of the late CHARLES LEWIS GRUNEISEN, F.R.G.S., sometime music critic of the Athenæum, in her 73rd year.

On the 8th ult., at Tooting, MARCELLUS HIGGS, Member of the Court of Assistants of the Royal Society of Musicians, aged 62.

On the 9th ult., at Margate, THOMAS THORPE PEDD, aged 63.

On the 10th ult., at Bologna, JOSEPH TAMPLINI, late Bandmaster of the Hon. Artillery and of the Commissionaires, aged 71.

On the 10th ult., at Chester, WILLIAM WAIT, aged 61, for 32 years a Lay Clerk in Chester Cathedral.

On the 12th ult., at 63, Tulse Hill, Brixton, HELEN, the beloved wife of FREDERICK LUCAS, aged 59, for some years a Professor and Associate of the Royal Academy of Music.

DURING THE LAST MONTH

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF WORDS OF ANTHEMS. New and Enlarged Edition (570 pages). Cloth, red edges, 4s. 6d.

MAC CUNN, HAMISH.—"The Lay of the Last Minstrel." A Dramatic Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Arranged and adapted in scenes from Sir Walter Scott's Poem, by JAMES MACCUNN. Op. 7. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.

HANDEL.—"Joshua." An Oratorio, with additional accompaniments by E. PROUT. String parts, 22s.; wind parts, 29s. 6d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDK., Mus. Doc.—"Callirhoë." A Dramatic Cantata. String parts, 13s. 6d.; wind parts, 32s. 6d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Benedictus. From "Six Pieces for Violin." With Pianoforte Accompaniment. 1s. 6d.

FORD, ERNEST CLAIR.—Six Two-Part Songs for Female Voices. 2s. 6d.

LURY, H. ELTON.—(in F). The Office for the Holy Communion. 6d.

PETTMAN, EDGAR.—(in C and E flat). Two easy settings of the Benedicite. 3d.

READ, F. J.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. For Men's Voices. 6d.

TOZER, FERRIS.—(in F). Cantate and Deus Misereatur. 4d.

DENNIS, HENRY.—"Do you hear a little bird?" Christmas Carol for Four Voices. The words written by Mrs. FOTHERBY. 4d.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—"At rest." Hymn. 2d.

MAUNDER, J. H.—"Once in Bethlehem of Judah." Christmas Carol. 2d.

KNIGHT, HENRY.—"O Saving Victim" (O Salutaris Hostia). Communion Hymn, with Latin and English Words. 3d.

ROBINS, REV. ARTHUR, M.A.—"Hymns for Soldiers." Suitable for use at all Military Services. Selected chiefly from "The Hymnary." 1d.

WITHERS, F. J.—"Ring out through every nation." Carol for Christmastide. 2d.

WRIGLEY, JOHN.—"Make a joyful noise." Festal Anthem. 1s.

WOODWARD, REV. H. H., M.A.—"Far from their home." Anthem for Advent, or general use. 3d.

ALLEN, ALFRED.—"Tom, Tom, the Piper's son." Humorous Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. 3d.

BRIDGE, JOSEPH C., M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.—Canadian Sleigh Song. For S.A.T.B. 6d.

BARRETT, WM. ALEX.—"On a mossy bank." Madrigal. For Eight Voices. 6d.

DENNIS, HENRY.—"My heavenly home." Sacred Part-Song. For Four Voices. 2d.

FANING, EATON.—"A gentleman's a-bowling." (Harrow School Songs, No. 6. New series.) 3d.

FAULL, ARTHUR C.—A Serenade. Part-Song. The words by Longfellow. 4d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Bonnie Bell." A four-part Song. The words written by ROBERT BURNS. (Novello's Part-Song Book, No. 545.) 2d.

NORRIS-ELYE, L. C. R.—"Oh! chase those thoughts away." Part-Song for S.A.T.B. 4d.

VINCENT, CHARLES, Mus. Doc., Oxon.—Songs and Part-Songs for Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. No. 10. "The Midnight Wind." 2d.

WOLSTENHOLME, W., Mus. Bac., Oxon.—"To take the air a bonny lass was walking." Madrigal. For Five Voices. 4d. Tonic Sol-fa edition. 2d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK, Mus. Doc.—Processional March from "Callirhoë." Arranged for the Organ by GEORGE C. MARTIN. 1s. 6d.

NEUKOMM, SIGISMOND.—Grand dramatic fantasia for the Organ. ("A Concert on a lake interrupted by a thunderstorm.") Adapted to the Modern Organ by A. L. PEACE. 2s. 6d.

WARRINER, JOHN, Mus. D.—Postlude in A (Alla Minuetto). For the Organ. 1s. 6d.

WOOD, W. G.—Toccata in D minor, for the Organ. (Original Compositions for the Organ. No. 108.) 1s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS IN THE TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT. No. 601. "Moonlight and Music." CIRO PINSUTI. 1d.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain ...	713
The Great Composers—Handel... ..	714
Les Folies d'Espagne	717
Christmas Music	721
Occasional Notes	723
Royal Choral Society	724
Crystal Palace	724
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	725
London Symphony Concerts	726
Herr Waldemar Meyer's Concerts	726
Guildhall School of Music	726
The Musical Association	727
Finsbury Choral Association	727
Borough of Hackney Choral Association	727
Mr. William Nicholl's Concert	727
Obituary	728
Music in America	741
Birmingham	728
Dublin	729
Edinburgh	729
Glasgow and West of Scotland	730
Liverpool	730
Manchester	731
Oxford	732
Sheffield	732
The West	732
General News (London)	742
Reviews	744
Foreign Notes	745
Correspondence—The Wagner Bubble, &c.	746
Answers to Correspondents	748
General News (Country)	748
List of Music Published during the last Month	750

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Advertisements for the January Number should reach the Office not later than December 22, as, in consequence of the Christmas Holidays, it will be necessary to go to Press considerably earlier than usual.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

To insure insertion in their proper places, Advertisements should reach the Office not later than the 24th of each month.

Now ready.

NEW AND REVISED EDITION, with various improvements and many additional Chants, of THE PSALTER, arranged for Chanting. With appropriate English Chants. Edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Edition I., in Post 8vo, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 2s.
Edition II., in Foolscap 4to, large type, with the Chants in short score. Cloth, 4s.

Edition III., in Imperial 32mo. Words only. Cloth, 9d. With Proper Psalms, 1s. The Proper Psalms separately, 3d.

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE CANTICLES, &c. First Series.

I. Post 8vo, chants in short score. 6d.

II. Foolscap 4to, chants in short score. 1s.

III. In 32mo. Words only. 1d.

When this new Edition is required, instead of the original Work (which is on sale in all its original forms), orders should be specific for "REVISED EDITION."

NEW, REVISED, AND ENLARGED EDITION of THE ANGLICAN CHANT-BOOK. A Collection of Single Chants, Ancient and Modern, appropriated to the Daily Psalms, Canticles, and Hymns in the Book of Common Prayer. The Chants correspond with those of the "Psalter," and are similarly numbered. Edited by EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 8vo, in paper cover, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d. Foolscap 4to, large type, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BATH PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—President, Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.—Musical Director and Conductor, Albert Visetti, Esq.—Fifth Season, 1888-9.
December 20, 1888.—"The Creation" (Haydn) and "Callirhoë" (Bridge).

February 21, 1889.—Choral Concert. On this occasion a new Cantata, by Mr. Albert Visetti, and Madrigals and Part-songs, specially written, will be performed.

April, 1889.—"The Golden Legend" (Sir Arthur Sullivan). Engagements have been made, or are pending, with the following artists: Miss Anna Williams, Miss Annie Marriott, Miss Emily Taylor, Miss May Hallam, Miss E. Walker, Miss F. Verey, and Miss L. Richardson; Miss Grace Damian, Miss Lily Ohren, Miss Emilie Waldeck Hall; Miss Egerton, Miss Emily Holt, and Miss Annie Morley; Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Charles Banks, Mr. T. W. Page, Mr. Evans, and Mr. Gostick; Mr. Watkin Mills, Mr. L. Pringle, Mr. Dan Price, Mr. Norris Croker, and Mr. Albert Reakes.

Chorus of 250 voices.
In connection with the Society there are:
(A.) An Orchestral Class, having for its object the establishment of a permanent orchestra in the West of England.
(B.) Ladies' Prize Competitions, with gold medals for proficiency.
(C.) Monthly Smoking Concerts.
Honorary Secretary, Mr. HAROLD E. LANSDOWN.
6, Darlington Place, Bath.

MISS NELLIE COPE (Soprano).
MR. T. HOLLINGSWORTH (Tenor).
For Oratorio, Ballad, and Miscellaneous Concerts, 17, Fassett Square, Dalston, N.E.

MISS MAY GOODE (Soprano).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Piercy Watson, Professor of Singing, St. Cecilia, Leamington Spa.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto).
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. BYRON DEWHURST (Bass),
Canterbury Cathedral. Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous, &c. For terms, vacant dates, address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. EADE MONTEFIORE (Bass),
MUSICAL ENTREPRENEUR,
41, Albert Gate, Hyde Park, S.W.

MISS AMY MARTIN
(Gold Medalist and Associate L.A.M.).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, The Retreat, Forest Hill, S.E.

MISS JESSIE GRIFFIN (Soprano). Engagements for December (others pending): 3, New Cross Hall; 4, Bury St. Edmunds ("Eli"); 6, Maze Hill (Oratorio Selections); 10, Greenwich; 11, Gravesend; 13, New Cross; 18, Chelmsford ("Judas Maccabæus"); 21, Blackheath ("Song of Miriam," &c.); 27, Luton. Address, 6, Hamilton Terrace, Hyde Vale, Blackheath, S.E.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Tenor), National Society of Musicians) Engaged: Newark, October 25; Market Rasen, 30; Chesterfield, 31; Leicester, November 9; Nottingham, 13; Louth, 22; Nottingham, 23; Leicester, 26; Retford, December 3; Leeds, 13; Uttoxeter, 14; Barnsley, 20; Grantham, 27; Rotherham, January 1, 1889. Other engagements pending. Address, Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. R. E. MILES (Bass), of St. Paul's Cathedral, Professor of Singing at the R.A. Music, &c., begs to announce that he has a few VACANT DATES in December, and requests that all applications be made to 10, Albion Road, Lewisham; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

N. F. BURT (Favourite Basso Cantante).
Concerts, Festivals, &c. Solo, Quartet, or Concert Combination. 11, North View, Mount Vernon; or, Cathedral, Liverpool.

THE LIVERPOOL CONCERT PARTY.
For Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, &c.
Madame LAURA HAWORTH (Soprano).
Miss ANNIE RICHARDSON (Contralto).
Mr. THOMAS BARLOW (Tenor).
Mr. EDWARD GRIME (Bass).
Masters C. and A. Ross (Solo Pianist and Violinist).
Mr. R. D. RODGERS (Humorist). Miss RICHARDSON (Accompanist).
For particulars, terms, &c., address, Miss Richardson, 6, Abercromby Terrace, Liverpool.

ORGAN AND TROMBONE RECITALS.—Mr. WALTER E. STARK and Mr. R. H. BOOTH, Members of the London Symphony, Richter, and E. Prout's Concerts, have arranged to accept ENGAGEMENTS for RECITALS in London or Provinces. Their extensive Répertoire includes the "David" Concerto (Carl Brauer); Fantaisie, "Ein feste Burg"; and many other works unknown in this country. Communications respecting Engagements should be addressed to Mr. Stark, 13, Wolfington Road, West Norwood, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS, with good voices, WANTED, for Allhallow's Barking Church, Great Tower Street, E.C. Remuneration according to ability. Apply, on Thursday evenings, 7.30 p.m.

ALTO WANTED, for St. James's Church, Piccadilly. Salary, £12 to £15. Apply to Mr. R. E. Miles, 10, Albion Road, Lewisham; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

TENOR WANTED, for Kentish Town Parish Church. Stipend, £10. Choral Evensong. Apply, by letter, to Mr. A. Walter, 85, Fortress Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

WANTED, BASS, for the Choir of St. Andrew's, Ashley Place, S.W. Stipend, £20. Address, W. Hatch, 251, Vauxhall Bridge Road, S.W.

BASSES and TENORS WANTED, for All Souls', South Hampstead. Salary, £5 per annum. Apply to Rev. J. Chugg, 46, Belsize Road.

ST. ALBAN'S, Holborn.—BASS (not Baritone) required; also two TENORS. Salary, £25 per annum. Good Readers indispensable. Apply, Rev. the Precentor, St. Alban's Clergy House, Brooke Street, Holborn, E.C.

SINGING.—Mr. A. E. HOWARD (Tenor), certificated Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq., gives lessons. 27, Fairholme Road, West Kensington, S.W.

TO PIANOFORTE MAKERS and TUNERS.—WANTED, to place a respectable Youth under a thorough practical man, to learn the Tuning and Repairing. Address, Premium, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A TUNER, ten years with one of the leading London firms, has two days a week disengaged. Town or country. W. L., 69, Warwick Street, Pimlico.

PARISH CHURCH, Aberystwyth.—ORGANIST and CHOIRTRAINER WANTED. Salary, £40. Good opening for Pupils. Apply, Rev. J. H. Protheroe, Vicarage, Aberystwyth.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. Mark's Church, St. Helen's, Lancashire. New three-manual Organ now in course of erection. Salary, £50. Services—two Sunday and one week evening. Apply, by letter, to S. W. Pilling, Esq., Mirfield, via Normanton.

AS ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER or ORGANIST only.—Required a RE-ENGAGEMENT as above. Plain or choral service. Sea-side town preferred. Address, Music, 152, Mount Pleasant Road, Hastings.

THE Organist of a large Parish Church is open to take a WEEK-DAY EVENING SERVICE, or to assist at Choir Practice at a Church where there is a good Organ, the use of which, in return, he could have for practice. Must be near the City or West-end of London. Address, G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

TRAVELLER or MANAGER.—WANTED, position as above by thoroughly practical Man. Good knowledge of all branches of the trade. S. L., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TRAVELLER for MUSIC TRADE (town and country).—REQUIRED, a respectable, steady, and persevering YOUNG MAN. Reply, in first instance, by letter, with references, &c., to Y. C. G., care of Metcalfe and Co., 244, Oxford Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (20) seeks SITUATION in any kind of MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good knowledge of catalogues and book-keeping. Can try over pianos. References sheet trade. Moderate salary. J., 76, Islip Street, N.W.

WANTED, 50 Second-hand Copies of Cantata THE GHOST. State price and particulars to Aird, 139, Buchanan Street, Glasgow.

ORGAN PEDALS TO PIANOS.—RUMMENS'S Original and only Mechanical Attachment. Easily applied to any Piano, without exception. Touch perfect. Every gradation of Tone obtainable up to a certain degree of loudness. Positively improves appearance of Pianos. Best value for money; cheaper than paying blowist, and always ready for use. Write for full particulars, price list, and testimonials, Henry J. Rummens, 47, Church Road, Brixton, S.W. The profession and trade invited to apply for list. Pedal Piano Practice, 6d. per hour.

ORGAN (Pipe); 9 ft. 3 in. high; Spanish mahogany case; Gothic design; gilt front; 5 stops; full compass pedals. Good full tone; perfect order. Suit residence or Village church seating about 350. Price £28 10s. K., 21, Walerton Road, Westbourne Park, London. (Photo. optional, 6 stamps.)

THE "UNRIVALLED" ITALIAN VIOLIN STRINGS. To be had only of C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W., on whose premises there is also a fine assortment of old Italian Violins. Price list on application.

MANDOLINES, by VINACCIA and other Neapolitan makers. Pans and Strings. C. Andreoli, 11, Soho Street (late Charles Street), Soho Square, W.

APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL. Hymn for Christmas. Set to music by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 13d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by W. H. BIRCH.—"O praise the Lord," 3d.; "Behold, I bring you," 3d.; "Te Deum in G—Morning and Evening, 6d. each; "Hurrah for merry old Xmas," 3d. W. H. BIRCH, 5, Jesse Terrace, Reading.

A YOUNG LADY, Professor of Music, residing near Baker Street, would like to meet with a Lady (Professional or otherwise) to share her home. Address, L. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHURCH ORGAN.—A fine-toned modern Instrument for SALE. Two manuals, 12 stops, 5 couplers, and 4 composition pedals. Address, A. B. G., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned instrument, built by FORSTER and ANDREWS, Hull. 8 stops on great; 8 on swell. Open diapason, 16 ft. on pedal organ. Full particulars of W. White, Music Warehouse, Grantham.

ORGAN, with three manuals (second-hand), by one of the best London makers. Six stops, full compass of pedals. Suitable for studio or practice. Price £70. Particulars of Henry Jones and Sons, Organ Factory, Fulham Road, South Kensington.

A FULL-SCALE CHURCH ORGAN, with two complete manuals, CC to G, 56 notes, 16 speaking stops all throughout, 3 couplers, 4 composition pedals, tremulant, &c., ready for immediate delivery. Particulars of Henry Jones and Sons, Fulham Road, South Kensington.

CHURCH ORGAN, with 2 manuals, 14 stops, and full-compass pedals, in perfectly sound condition, to be SOLD cheap, to make room for larger instrument. Particulars from Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

IMPERIAL CONNOISSEUR ORGAN, by the SMITH AMERICAN ORGAN COMPANY. New. Cost 150 guineas; will be sold for Half-price. Apply to Organ, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AMERICAN ORGAN.—Ten stops. Massive case. Grand tone. Suitable for home or school. Price £15. J. G. Young, 82, Victoria Park Road, E.

ORGAN (American) WANTED, cheap. Two manuals and pedals. Particulars to 227, High Road, Kilburn. Pedals must slide under.

GRAND PIANOS.—A BROADWOOD. Nearly new; scarcely used. Semi-grand, 55 guineas; cost 125 guineas. Also Boudoir Grand, by RÖNISCH of Dresden. Overstrung, walnut case. 42 guineas; cost 120 guineas. Both 7 octaves, full trichord, iron framed, and in beautiful condition. View at Organist, St. John's, Cromer House, Putney.

VIOLIN, by CHAPPUY, for SALE. In good preservation. Price 8 guineas. Apply, or address, to R. W. V., 5, Newcomen Street, London, S.E.

STORIONI VIOLIN. Belonged to the late Rev. W. Blow, who considered it equal in tone to his Strad. Address, Rev. J. Moore, Rector of Peshaw, Durham.

VIOLONCELLO for SALE. Labelled THOMAS CONSTANCE M. DEAN, 1823. In good condition. Price £6. Apply, A. E., Kingsford, Chepstow.

SET OF PEDALS, Full Scale; 30 notes, CC to F, with roller board and trackers for fixing to Pianoforte. Four guineas, cost eight. 83, Prince of Wales Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

TO VOCAL STUDENTS.—ORATORIOS and CANTATAS for SALE, in excellent condition. List and prices sent. Letters to D., 26, Winchester Road, South Hampstead, N.W.

ACCURATE METRONOMES, 1s., Post-free. Rudiments of Singing, 1s. per dozen. Singing-Class Tutor, 14th edition, 6d. each. D. Scholefield, Trinity Street, Huddersfield.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 113, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

THE "CARRODUS" VIOLINS (named by permission of J. T. Carrodus, Esq., the Eminent Violinist) are the very best modern fiddles. Remarkable beauty; exceptional workmanship; splendid tone; reasonable price. Through any Professor or Dealer. Testimonials and price lists from Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, London, E.C.

VIOLINS, &c. COLLIN-MÉZIN À PARIS.

GEORGE WITHERS AND CO.,
VIOLIN AND BOW MAKERS AND REPAIRERS,
51, ST. MARTIN'S LANE, LONDON,
Sole Agents.

"SINGERS' FRIEND" LOZENGES for Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and Cough.
"SINGERS' FRIEND" LOZENGES clear the Voice in a splendid manner.
Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 3d., post-free, of W. JAMES, Chemist, Highgate Road, London, N.W.; and of all Chemists.

The London Music Publishing Company (LIMITED).

The Directors have the honour to announce that they have purchased the Business lately carried on by the

WARD PIANOFORTE PATENT LAMP COMPANY (LIMITED), and the whole of the Works lately printed and published by MESSRS. AMBROSE AND CO., 16, ARGYLL ST., W. and thus have acquired a large number of important Copyrights, new and improved editions of which are in the Press.

Complete Catalogues, containing all the Company's Publications, will be ready in a few days. Gratis and post-free.

54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, W.

ARNENTERON VIOLIN STRINGS.—The best that can be made. True, durable, properly gauged, pure tone, thoroughly reliable. A sample free on application. Haynes and Co., 145, Holborn, E.C.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly's Organ Harmoniums are the "only instruments" of English manufacture that gained "any award" at the Dublin and Paris Exhibitions.

A liberal discount for Schools and Charitable Institutions.

Three hundred Second-hand Pianofortes by the leading makers, at all times very cheap. New Pianos (warranted), in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 47, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application. Parcels of music sent on "sale or return" on receipt of two London references or a deposit of £2.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications made out for Organs. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing, and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. Willis, 29, Minories, London.

JAMES CONACHER AND SONS, ORGAN BUILDERS,

BATH BUILDINGS, HUDDERSFIELD.

Gold Medal awarded, Bradford Technical School Exhibition, 1882.

Specifications and Estimates free of charge.

D'ALMAINE'S PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 102 years.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New Attachment by Pneumatics. Very simple, and perfect touch. Wonderfully cheap. Write for full particulars and price lists. Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

TO MUSICAL SOCIETIES AND THE PROFESSION.

SECOND-HAND STEINWAY FULL CONCERT GRANDS.—A limited number of these celebrated Instruments, which have been in Concert use, will shortly be offered on exceptional terms to the Profession. Full particulars may be obtained on application to Steinway and Sons, Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, London, W.; or of their various Provincial Agents.

BRASS, REED, STRING, and DRUM and FIFE BANDS, PIANOFORTES, and HARMONIUMS supplied at wholesale prices, at J. Moore's, Buxton Road, Huddersfield. Prices, with drawings of every instrument, Post-free. Music for any kind of band. Patronised by the Army, Navy, and Rifle Corps.

SCHREIBER PIANO & ORGAN COMPANY

3, NEWMAN STREET, OXFORD STREET, W.

THE SCHREIBER PIANOS.

FOR SALOON, BOUDOIR, STUDY, or SCHOOL-ROOM. HORIZONTALS AND UPRIGHTS.
SCIENTIFIC CONSTRUCTION. ALL MODERN IMPROVEMENTS. 10 YEARS' WARRANTY.

THE FAMOUS KARN AMERICAN ORGANS.

THE MOST CHARMING MUSIC EXPONENT FOR THE HOME. DOUBLE AND SINGLE MANUALS.
SUBERS' PATENT INDEPENDENT PEDAL ATTACHMENTS.

A sensational Invention. Most desirable adjunct for American Organs.

PRICES AND TERMS TO SUIT ALL REQUIREMENTS.

EXCHANGES. HIRINGS. REPAIRS.
TUNINGS, Single or by Contract, CAREFULLY ATTENDED.
SECOND-HAND PIANOS AND ORGANS ALWAYS IN STOCK.

MESSRS. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.,

Invite an inspection of their unrivalled Collection of

OVER THREE HUNDRED

OLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS,

AND DOUBLE-BASSES.

Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS's celebrated BOWS.
The only Makers of the

NEW QUEEN'S MODEL

PIANO AND AMERICAN ORGAN CHAIRS

From 25s.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC

for the Performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly
by experienced Workmen.

NEWLY REVISED AND ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY and CO., Music

Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, W., undertake the REVISING,
PRINTING, and PUBLISHING of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' Works included in Catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS,

Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers' despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

T. R. WILLIS (established 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Music Strings, Wire, &c., Violins, Concertinas, &c., 29, Minorities, London. List for stamp.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Dedicated, by permission, to the College of Organists.

2ND THOUSAND.—ON TUNING THE ORGAN:

Illustrated. Faults with remedies. Post-free, 2s. 6d. P.O.O. to
A. HEMSTOCK, Organist, Dies.

"Every page shows that Mr. Hemstock is master of his subject."— Musical Standard.

"Contains much useful information."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

HARMONY LESSONS. By C. A. TREW. Adapted for Self-Instruction, Classes, and Tuition by Correspondence.
Used at London Academy of Music. Price 1s. SCHOTT, 159, Regent Street, W., and AUTHOR, 57, Addison Mansions, West Kensington.

MR. ALEXANDER PHIPPS' LIVERPOOL
CONCERT PARTY. For Ballad, Oratorio, or Chamber Concerts. Vocalists: Madame Anderson (Soprano), Miss Blanche
Mansfield (Soprano), Madame Emilie Young (Contralto), Mr. Frank
Reid (Tenor), Mr. J. L. Collett (Baritone). Solo Violin, Mr. Tom
Shaw; Solo Violoncello, Mr. Frank Weston; Pianist and Conductor,
Mr. Alexander Phipps, Mus. Bac. This excellent Concert Party (all first-class artists) may be engaged on moderate terms, with or without a String Quartet or Band. Address, A. J. Phipps, 63, Canning Street, Liverpool.

LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY.

Established as a medium of communication between Concert Givers and Artists, and to facilitate business between them, in London, the Provinces, and America.

CONDUCTED BY

Mr. H. TUDDENHAM, Principal of the English College of Music.
Established 1879.

304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY is prepared to provide Artists for Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, Mixed Concerts, Ballads, Part-Songs, Glee, Morning and Evening Concerts, Garden Parties, At Homes, Dinners, Tours arranged, &c.
Mr. Tuddenham being personally acquainted with most of the leading Vocalists and Orchestral Players will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all projectors of Concerts favouring him with their requirements.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY can supply
First-class SOLO CHOIR BOYS, who are thoroughly trained in most of the Oratorios and Cantatas. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed.
Dates are now being booked for December and January.

THE LONDON MUSICAL AGENCY provides Choir, Full Orchestra (first-class performers), and the principal singers for Oratorios, Cantatas, Miscellaneous Concerts, &c. All letters, telegrams, &c., should be addressed to Mr. H. Tuddenham,
304, REGENT STREET, OXFORD CIRCUS, W.

Mr. Stedman's Musical Agency

(Established for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),
12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

TO CONCERT-GIVERS AND ENTREPRENEURS GENERALLY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform Projectors of Concerts, Managers of Operas, Operettas, and Entrepreneurs generally that he is prepared to arrange for large or small parties of artists of all positions in the profession, and for Concert Tours. All details of management undertaken without the slightest trouble to those favouring Mr. Stedman with their wishes. Terms upon application.

TO THE CLERGY.

MR. STEDMAN begs to inform the Clergy that he has established a REGISTRY of ORGANISTS, CHOIR-MEN, and CHORISTERS seeking APPOINTMENTS, which is open to their inspection, and they are invited either to call or to write stating their requirements. From his personal knowledge of the qualifications of Organists and Singers, Mr. Stedman is able to give the Clergy valuable information as a guide to selection.

CHURCH FESTIVALS arranged and carried out in all details.

CHOIR-BOYS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to supply good SOLO
CHOIR-BOYS for Church Festivals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c.

MUSIC FOR BANQUETS, &c.

MR. STEDMAN undertakes the music (and all the necessary details) for Banquets of City Companies, Masonic Lodges, &c., at the shortest notice.

ORCHESTRAS AND CHOIRS.

MR. STEDMAN is prepared to provide CHOIRS and ORCHESTRAS for the performance of Oratorios and Cantatas.

MR. STEDMAN will be happy to advise his clients upon all professional matters, confidential or otherwise, either by letter or personally by previous appointment at his Offices,
12, Berners Street, London, W.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MUSICAL AGENCY,

AND AT PARIS AND NEW YORK.

Principal, W. SEXTON, Vicar-Choral, Westminster Abbey, and Principal of the English and Italian College of Music.
447, WEST STRAND (opposite Charing Cross Station).

MR. SEXTON desires to inform his friends that his Agency is established for every requirement in the Musical Profession. For the sale or purchase of any Musical Business and Teaching connection, providing Vocal and Instrumental Masters in Colleges and Schools, and Musical Governesses; also Assistants and Tuners in Music Warehouses. He is personally acquainted with nearly all the Musical Profession in London, and is able to supply Artists at most moderate charges.

MR. SEXTON arranges CONCERTS of every description: Glee Parties; Miscellaneous, Ballad, Operatic, and Smoking Concerts; Music for Banquets; Garden Parties; Masonic Business. Tours arranged. Five Guinea Concerts in London, 20 items.

MR. SEXTON has an experienced BAND for Oratorios, Operas, Balls, and Dances; and supplies principal Vocalists for Oratorios, and Leaders in Chorus. Oratorios and Cantatas conducted. Choirs trained. Ladies' Choir of 12 voices.

MR. SEXTON provides CHOIRBOYS and
CHOIRMEN for Choirs, as Soloists, Assistants at Church Services and Festivals, or Appointments. A Choir of 12 boys for Concerts. Clergy and Organists invited to apply for all requirements.

MR. SEXTON'S SOLO BOYS for Christmas Performances, Concerts, and Oratorio, "Messiah," &c., anywhere in England. First-class voices.

MR. SEXTON revises and corrects Authors'
Manuscripts. Lithographic or printed copies supplied. Publishing completed at cheap rates. Music copied and transposed.
Ancient music obtained.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

MR. SEXTON'S MUSIC-LENDING LIBRARY.
Oratorios, Cantatas, Choruses, Part-songs, and all description of Vocal Music and Band Parts lent on hire. Send for Catalogue.

MR. SEXTON teaches LADIES and BOYS
SINGING and the PIANOFORTE. Class for Choir Boys, Solo Singing, and Rudiments, on Saturdays. Choristers to Westminster Abbey and Londonderry Cathedral. Boys wanted for several Cathedral Appointments.

MR. SEXTON gives FINISHING LESSONS to Young ARTISTS with good voices, and good Engagements when efficient. Letters and telegrams, as above.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S CONCERT COM- PANIES.—The following dates are already booked:—

1888.		December 13	Leeds.
November 1	Liverpool.	15	Leeds.
" 2	Carlisle.	17	Manchester.
" 3	Silsden, Yorks.	18	Oldham.
" 5	... Pudsey.	21	Liverpool.
" 7	... Ramsbottom.	22	Glasgow.
" 10	Bradford.	29	Bolton.
" 12	Liverpool.
" 15	Liverpool.	January 5	Bradford.
" 17	Manchester.	12	Manchester.
" 19	Morley.	26	Leeds.
" 20	Heywood.	29	Darwen.
" 22	Frodsham.	February 2	Bolton.
" 24	Armley.	5	Dewsbury.
" 26	Pemberton.	9	Preston.
" 27	Hereford.	12	Oldham.
" 28	Rawtenstall.	16	Bury.
" 29	... Bootle.	23	Manchester.
" 30	Liverpool.	March 1	Liverpool.
December 1	Preston.	2	Leeds.
" 3	Haslingden.	9	Bradford.
" 5	Liverpool.	16	Bolton.
" 6	Liverpool.	19	Oldham.
" 11	Ashton-under-Lyne.	23	Bury.
" 12	Radcliffe.	30	Preston.

Bookings in progress with Edinburgh, Dublin, Belfast, Newcastle,
&c., &c.

Telegrams: Cantor, Liverpool. Letters: Church Street, Liverpool.

MR. PERCY WHYTE'S CONCERT COMPANY.

Open to Engagements for Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, or Sacred and Secular Concerts. Artists:—

MISS FANNY BOUFFLEUR, SOPRANO
(Of the Liverpool, Manchester, Preston, and Southport Concerts).

MISS HARRIETTE RUTHERFORD, CONTRALTO
(Of the London, Liverpool, and Provincial Concerts).

MR. PERCY WHYTE, TENOR
(Of the Liverpool, Sheffield, Preston, and Southport Concerts).

MR. GEORGE PLATT, BARITONE
(Of the Preston, Southport, and Leicester Concerts).

MR. FRANK WESTON, SOLO VIOLONCELLO
(Of the Birmingham, Leeds, Newcastle, and Scarborough Concerts).

MR. H. J. NICHOLLS, BUFFO
(Of the Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Preston Concerts).

MR. HUBERT WHITTINGHAM
(Organist, Childwall Church, Liverpool), ACCOMPANIST.

Dates booked (Season 1888-9).—October 1, Smethwicke; 3, Leyland;
5, Droydsden; 16, Oldham; 22, Widnes; Nov. 5, Dalton; 9, Leyland;
10, Bolton; 15, Newton; 21, Liverpool; 24, Bolton; Dec. 3, Ulverston;
6, Barrow; 11, Failsforth; Jan. 12, Oldham; 22, Heywood; 23,
Loughboro'. Others pending.

Full particulars, press opinions, and specimen programmes sent upon application to Mr. Percy Whyte, Laburnum Villa, Church Road, Stanley, Liverpool.

JAMES RUSSELL AND CO.,

120, High Street, Oxford,

THE OXFORD CONCERT AGENTS,

Share, Commission, or Purchase. Vacant dates for December.

HANDEL FESTIVAL SELECTION, 1888.

A few Copies of the Selection remaining from this year's Handel Festival may still be had.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

ROLAND'S HORN

A CANTATA FOR SOLI, MALE VOICE CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

F. W. MARKULL

(OP. 136).

The English Version by the Rev. W. T. SOUTHWARD.

Vocal Score...	net	2 6
Vocal Parts...	4 0
Full Score (MS.)...	67 0
Orchestral Parts (MS.)...	38 0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT

MUS. D., CANTAB.

Complete, in Wrapper, One Shilling.

Or, in separate Numbers, One Penny each.

Also, by the same Composer,

TWO PIANOFORTE PIECES (ROMANCE AND MAZURKA)

Price Two Shillings net,

SONG, "THE STREAMLET"

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net,

AND

PART-SONG, "OVER HILL, OVER DALE"

Octavo, price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMAS.

WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN
(In Excelsis Gloria)
WHAT CHILD IS THIS?	J. T. FIELD 2d.
SLEEP! HOLY BABE
CAROL FOR CHRISTMAS DAY	J. T. FIELD 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS, &c., by VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

All my heart. Solo and Chorus	6d.
Christians, be thankful	3d.
While Shepherds (old Cornish Carol)	3d.
Offertory Sentences	6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THE BELL CAROL. Music by W. C. AINLEY,
Mus. B., Cantab. Price One Penny, from the COMPOSER, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

CHILD DIVINE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD. Music by J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc. 2d.
JOY, YE PEOPLE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD, M.A. 2d.
IN SORROW AND IN WANT. Words by Arch- deacon FARRAR. 3d.
CHRISTMAS BELLS. A Four-part Song. Words from "In Memoriam," by ALFRED TENNYSON. 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS and GLEES.

O let my mouth be filled with praise	H. Wilcock 3d.
Great is the Lord	3d.
Blessed be the Lord	3d.
Bless the Lord, O my soul (Tonic and Old Note)	Harper 2d.
Jehovah is my strength	Mayland 2d.
O love the Lord	2d.
Glees—The Village Choir	2d.
Old Christmas has arrived again	H. Wilcock 3d.
Minster Bells	Mayland 2d.

Specimen Copy, One Penny each.

London: WILCOCK BROS., Moorgate Station Arcade, E.C.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

J. MAUDE CRAMENT,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

No. 1. SOFTLY THE NIGHT IS SLEEPING.

No. 2. IN EXCELSIS GLORIA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"An able composition, well suited to the season for which it is written, and free from difficulties that may cause uncertainty in performance."—Church Times.

There were Shepherds

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-halfpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER,

Organist of St. Mary Magdalene, Worcester.

POPULAR, EASY, MELODIOUS, AND EFFECTIVE.

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL. New. 6th Ed. 4d.
Ditto. Tonic Sol-fa Edition	3d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM. 3rd 1,000 3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR IN THE EAST. 14th Edition 4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 8th 1,000	3d.
GLORY TO GOD. 8th Edition	3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN. 7th 1,000	3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 8th Edition	3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 22nd Edition	3d.
{ MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 9th 1,000	3d.
{ TE DEUM IN F. 8th Edition	3d.
{ MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. 15th Edition... 4d.

These have been sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. 4th Edition 4d.
COMMUNION SERVICE. 2nd Edition 6d.
BENEDICTE. 3rd 1,000 2d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM. Easy, bright, and effective. 5th 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.

FESTIVAL ANTHEM. Suitable for any Festival or Special Service. Melodious and effective. 3rd 1,000. Price 3d. Composed by EDWYN A. CLARE.

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

O LORD, THOU ART MY GOD. Four voices... ..	3d.
AND
IN THE BEGINNING. Four voices	3d.

COMPOSED BY

E. BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, SERVICES, &c.

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST C. WINCHESTER,

Organist and Choirmaster, Christ Church, Southwark, London.

ANTHEM. "There were shepherds" (No. 21 of Series)	s. d.
ANTHEM. "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem" (No. 38)	0 3
TE DEUM. Service in F (No. 25)	0 3
TE DEUM. Chant Form (No. 6), 3d.; also Nos. 32, 36, & 46, each	0 2
BENEDICTUS (Nos. 9 & 10), 14d. and 2d. each. JUBILATE	0 1½
COMMUNION SERVICE, complete (No. 44)	0 4
KYRIE ELISON, Doxologies and NICENE CREED	0 2
AGNUS DEI (No. 27), 14d. BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT	0 1½
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (No. 16)	0 3
OFFERTORY ANTHEM. "Be merciful" (No. 51)	0 1½
TALLIS'S FESTIVAL RESPONSES	0 1½
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in F (No. 34)	0 3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS, (Nos. 17 and 48) each	0 3
GRAND FESTIVAL MARCH for ORGAN	1 6
THREE SOFT VOLUNTARIES... ..	1 0

WINCHESTER'S

CHURCH MUSIC SERIES

consists of original

ANTHEMS, MORNING, EVENING, and COMMUNION SERVICES, HYMN TUNES, &c. (51 Nos. now issued).

Bound Vols. of WINCHESTER'S CHURCH-MUSIC SERIES,

Nos. 1 to 50, bound in cloth, gilt, red edges 4 0

Nos. 1 to 45, paper covers... .. 3 0

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

BY THE

BY

No. 1.

No. 2.

Now ready. 2nd Edition. Price 6d.

By H. HUDSON.

BY THE SAME COMPOSER,

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price Twopence; also,

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY

DAVID DAY.

Round us shines a glorious light. 2nd edition 2d.

By the same Composer.

Te Deum laudamus, Chantwise 2d.

Four original Kyrie Eleisons	...	...	...	...	...	3d
Six original Hymn Tunes to favourite Hymns	...	...	...	...	...	4d

Six original Hymn Tunes to favourite Hymns 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and CO.

THE CAROLLERS. Fourth edition. 2d.

TE DEUM IN E FLAT. 3d.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT. Second

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Newbury: Miss E. E. GODDING.

RY

WILLIAM J. YOUNG.

Hail! Merry Christmas 22nd thousand 2d.

Hail Merry Christmas	...	...	...	...	...	...	...
A Merry Christmas to you all	...	...	...	7th	"	3d	...

Songs of praise the angels sang	...	...	...	7th	"	3d
---------------------------------	-----	-----	-----	-----	---	----

A Happy New Year 4th " 3d

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and CO.
Manchester: HIME and ADDISON and WATSON and Co.

A COLLECTION OF SACRED AND MORAL SONGS

With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 46 Illustrations, cloth gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Written by C. F. ALEXANDER

MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.
SACRED CANTATA
SAMUEL

The Words selected from Holy Scripture and from Hymns Ancient and Modern (by permission). The Music composed by LANGDON COLBORNE.

This work takes one hour in performance, and contains several well-known Hymns, intended to be sung by the choir and congregation.

Price 3s., paper; bound, 4s. Chorus only, 1s. Book of Words, 1d. "The music of 'Samuel' is always thoughtful and graceful, and often a great deal more than either of these."—Musical World.

"If the plan of this Cantata can be followed (and Dr. Colborne's thoughtful and beautiful music may show that it is capable of being made artistic as well as didactic), the great question of Congregational music may find a solution in its frequent employment."—Morning Post.

"A fine piece of church music."—Standard.

"Choirs will be glad to have a work of this kind, as it is not by any means difficult."—Birmingham Post.

"Mr. Langdon Colborne has done well to produce a Cantata of the calibre of his 'Samuel'; and while a more ambitious work might have obtained for him praise among the few, this simple composition will do a great work in cultivating the love of good music among the many."—Musical Standard.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

ELINORE
A PASTORAL OPERETTA
Words by EDWARD OXENFORD
MUSIC BY
EDMUND ROGERS.

"One of the most popular composers, in his own particular line, of the day."—The Yorkshire Musician.

"One of the happiest essays of this composer, whose productions are charmingly fresh and tuneful. Choral societies will find this operetta a particularly welcome addition to their repertoires."—News of the World.

"There is much to recommend this operetta. The music is not difficult, and is very melodious. The principal parts require but one soprano, one tenor, two basses, and a baritone; whilst the chorus of vassals, attendants, &c., is quite unlimited, and has some very pretty music to sing."—The Graphic.

"Admirably adapted to the capacities of small choral societies and singing classes. The music is throughout pretty and sparkling, the various numbers being treated in an essentially popular and tuneful manner, Nos. 7 and 14 being conspicuous examples. The instrumental portion of the work is by no means neglected, and altogether the operetta deserves and should achieve no inconsiderable success."—Leeds Mercury.

Vocal Score, 3s. Chorus Parts only, 1s. 6d.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—In order to meet the increasing demand for EDMUND ROGERS'S Popular HUMOROUS CANTATAS, a Cheap Edition, with the Choruses only, is now issued of the following:—

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK.
BLUE BEARD. JOHN GILPIN.
BEAUTY AND THE BEAST.

Prices as above.

"Mr. Rogers has evidently a special talent for the composition of humorous cantatas."—Musical Times.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

Just published, price 3s.
THE BEAUTY OF HOLINESS

An Oratorio, by Dr. STATHAM. Ellesmere-Port, Chester.
Liverpool: JAMES SMITH and SON, 76 and 74, Lord Street.
London: CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond Street, W.

HADASSAH,
QUEEN OF PERSIA

NEW SACRED CANTATA

By the Composer of "A Daughter of Moab."

Price One Shilling, Post-free.

Manchester: DARWEN and Co., 3, Spear Street.

HAROLD.—DRAMATIC CANTATA for SOLO VOICES and ORCHESTRA. Founded on Lord Lytton's Historical Novel. The Poetry by the Rev. F. W. VERNHAM; the Music by J. F. H. READ. Performed at the Walthamstow Musical Festival for 1887. Price 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.
FOR COLLEGES, HIGH SCHOOLS, &c.—SELECTIONS from Wallace's MARITANA and Balfe's BOHEMIAN GIRL. Arranged for three Performers on one Piano-forte by BOYTON SMITH. London: W. WHITTINGHAM (from Cramer and Co.), 36, Lillieshall Road, Clapham, S.W.; and all Music-sellers.

Just published.
HYMNS FOR SOLDIERS

SUITABLE FOR USE AT ALL

MILITARY SERVICES

SELECTED CHIEFLY FROM "THE HYMNARY"

BY THE

REV. ARTHUR ROBINS, M.A.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.
THE GOOD SHEPHERD. A Sacred Cantata, by T. MEE PATTISON. Staff Notation, with Accompaniments, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. NOW THE GOLDEN MORN ALOFT. A Choral Glee, composed by WM. HUME. Staff Notation, 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. ST. PATRICK WAS A GENTLEMAN. A humorous Four-part Song, arranged by ALEXANDER PATTERSON for the Glasgow Select Choir. Staff Notation, 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. LAND OF OUR FATHERS. A Four-part National Song, composed by WM. HUME. Staff Notation, 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. THE WEDDING OF SHON McLEAN. A humorous Four-part Song for Male Voices, composed by ALEXANDER PATTERSON. Staff Notation, 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.
Glasgow: BAYLEY and FERGUSON, 54, Queen Street.

NEW ANTHEM. SUITABLE FOR GENERAL USE.

Written for Alto Solo and Chorus.

I WILL LAY ME DOWN IN PEACE.

Composed by WILLIAM HURST.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FESTIVAL ANTHEM, "Make a joyful noise," Solo (Soprano), Quartet and Chorus, By JOHN WRIGLEY, R.A.M. Price 1s. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW SACRED CANTATA. 42 PAGES.

OUR FATHER'S LOVE

By ERNEST NICHOL, Mus. BAC., OXON.

Post-free, Sevenpence.

Hull: TAYLOR and RAYWARD, Prospect Street.

THE FLOOD. A Reading in Church Recitation and Chorus, with Organ Accompaniment. The words selected by J. POWELL METCALFE, M.A. The music by CORNELIUS GURLITT. Complete, net 2s. 6d. Part I. The Ark. Part II. The Raven and the Dove. Part III. The Rainbow. Each part complete in itself. Price 1s. net.

London: AUGENER & Co., 86, Newgate St., and 1, Foubert's Place.

COMPOSITIONS by H. KEETON, Mus. Doc., Organist of Peterborough Cathedral: Benedicite, price 2d.; Anthems, "The eyes of all," "From the rising of the sun" (for Epiphany), and Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. Price 4d. each. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEM, "Unto him that loveth us." Price 3d.

London: WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street, W.

THE LITANY, to the full and complete form of its Chant, as sung at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, November 13, 1883 (see Church Times and Church Review, November 16), may be found (with Harmonies by W. Ardley) in DORAN and NOTTINGHAM'S "CHOIR DIRECTORY," 4s.; or, Versicles, &c., 9d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------|
| 1. The Robin. | 4. The Skylark. |
| 2. The Nightingale. | 5. The Owl. |
| 3. The Dove. | 6. The Swallows. |

Complete, paper cover 1s.
scarlet cloth 2s.
Or, in Six Numbers... .. each 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR COMPOSITIONS by GABRIEL DAVIS.

SONGS.		Net.
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? (New Patriotic Song.)		s. d.
The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	...	2 0
(Sung by Mr. THURLEY BEALE.)
KING CARNIVAL. The Words written by F. E. Weatherly	...	2 0
BY THE RIVER. The Words written by Herbert Gardner...	...	2 0
ELSIE (The Flower Girl's Song) ...	...	2 0
(Sung by Miss ADA TOLKIEN.)
THE ZINGARA ...	...	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON.)
THE COMING YEAR. The Words written by Dean Alford	...	2 0
THE OLD MEADOW GATE. The Words written by R. Richardson, Esq. ...	...	2 0
NELLIE OF THE LEA. The words written by R. Richardson, Esq. ...	...	2 0
THE LITTLE LASS O' BRAY. The Words written by Edward Oxenford ...	...	2 0
(Sung by Miss JOSÉ SHERRINGTON and Miss JEANIE ROSSE.)

PIANOFORTE, &c.

ALBANY. Grande Marche Triomphale (Composed in honour of the Marriage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold). 2nd Edition	...	2 0
Transcription for the Organ, by Dr. W. J. Westbrook ...	...	2 0
MY LADY BARBARA'S GAVOTTE ...	...	2 0

PART-SONGS, S.A.T.B.

THE THREE STARS. 2nd Edition ...	...	0 2
THE KNIGHT'S RETURN. 8th Edition ...	...	0 2
GOD SAVE THE PRINCE. 19th Edition ...	...	0 2
THE DISTANT SEA. 6th Edition ...	...	0 2
TO THE WOODS. 13th Edition ...	...	0 2
HARK! 'TIS MUSIC. 8th Edition ...	...	0 2
THE HOUR OF REST. 5th Edition ...	...	0 2
DAME WIGGINS OF LEE. (Humorous.) 10th Edition ...	...	0 2
DAME TROT. (Humorous.) 7th Edition ...	...	0 2
WHO'S FOR THE QUEEN? 4th Edition. (Patriotic Part-Song. For T.T.B.B.) ...	...	0 3

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS by A. J. CALDICOTT.

Poor Little Tom-ee (just published)...	...	6d.
Where are you going to, my pretty maid? (just published) ...	...	6d.
Humpty Dumpty ...	...	6d.
Little Jack Horner (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) ...	...	6d.
Jack and Jill ...	...	4d.
The House that Jack built (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) ...	...	6d.
Sobbing Quartet ...	...	3d.
The Haymakers. Part-song ...	...	4d.
Out on the Waters. Part-song ...	...	4d.
Yule. Part-song ...	...	4d.
The Boy and the Bee ...	...	6d.

London: METZLER and Co., 42, Great Marlborough Street, W.

New Humorous Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

BY

W. W. PEARSON.

THE CARRION CROW

AND

BEN BOWLEGS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DICKORY, DICKORY, DOCK. Humorous Glee.

By ALFRED ALLEN. "The composer evinces considerable humour."—Saturday Review. Price 4d. NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS SONG BY FREEMAN WHATMOOR.

THE HOLLY

FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR.

Two Shillings net.

Excellent words: charming music.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

F. ST. JOHN LACY.

ANNABEL LEE. (Second Edition.) Ballad for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 4d. net.

"Mr. F. St. John Lacy has written some very effective music to the words of Edgar Poe's 'Annabel Lee.' It is arranged as a solo for Tenor, with a chorus which is very cleverly handled by the Composer."—Saturday Review.

THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING Co. (Limited), Great Marlboro' St.

Complete Edition, Fourth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Composer of the "Holy City," "Ruth," &c.)

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. No. 4, 'April,' and No. 5, 'May,' are our special favourites, the one being delightfully playful, the other tenderly melodious. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices. The pianoforte accompaniments are well written, and such as an ordinary pianist may successfully undertake."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Parts I. and II. ...	...	each	1 0
Complete, paper cover ...	...	...	1 6
Ditto, paper boards ...	...	...	2 0
Ditto, scarlet cloth ...	...	...	3 0
Or, in Twelve Numbers ...	...	each	0 2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

'Tis Morn ...	...	3d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)...	...	3d.
The River ...	...	3d.
Over the mountain side ...	...	3d.
Soul of living music ...	...	3d.
The Jäger Chorus ...	...	3d.
The Stormy Petrel... ..	...	3d.
The Coral Gorge ...	...	3d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ...	...	3d.
The Oyster Dredgers ...	...	2d.
*Sweet to live (26th thou.)...	...	2d.
Welcome, young Spring...	...	2d.
*The Anglers...	...	2d.
The Dream of Home ...	...	2d.
Summer and Winter ...	...	2d.
Departed Joys ...	...	2d.
There's beauty in the deep	...	1d.
Soldier, rest!	...	1d.
Woods in Winter ...	...	1d.
Autumn ...	...	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (30th thousand) ...	...	3d.
Three Children sliding. (6th thousand) ...	...	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste... ..	...	4d.
The Snow-white Doe ...	...	4d.
Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD) ...	...	3d.
The Carrion Crow ...	...	3d.

PART-SONGS.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse ...	...	4d.
Off to Sea ...	...	4d.
*The Ocean ...	...	3d.
*The Ironfounders (24th thou.)	...	3d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmhurst, Dereham.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked.*

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by ALBERT HAM, F.C.O.

Part-Song—"The sun has gone down" (S.A.T.B.) ... 2d.

—"Little Jack Horner" ... 4d.

(Sung with great success in London and provinces.)

Two-part Songs (s.c.)—"The Robin" ... 2d.

—"The Skylark" ... 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

PART-SONGS FOR MALE VOICES

(A.T.B.B.)

GOOD MORROW

THE BRITISH GRENADIERS (ARRANGED)

By J. F. H. READ. Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED GILBERT'S SINGING-BOOK for PUBLIC SCHOOLS and CHOIRBOYS is equally adapted for Ladies' and other Schools. Price 6d. Appendix of Practical Exercises. 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SINGING BOOK Series of Two-Part Songs,

For Treble Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Suitable for Classes. 8vo, 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE KING OF THE NIGHT (for Bass or Baritone), by ALFRED J. DYE. Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CHILDREN

FOUR-PART SONG

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Threepence.

The poem "The Children" is singularly beautiful and touching.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE-BOOK

SUPPLEMENT 1881, CONTAINING 37 TUNES, 6d.

TO MATCH EITHER EDITION.

No.	The complete work, containing 751 Tunes and Chants.	s.	d.
9.	Limp cloth	...	4 0
10.	Cloth boards	...	5 0
11.	Small edition	...	3 0
12.	Tonic Sol-fa	...	3 0

First and Second Series can still be had separate.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS (BIBLE VERSION),

With Canticles and Anthems.

Pointed for Chanting for Congregational use ... I 3
(Offered in quantity at reduced price per dozen.)

The pointing is of the simplest plan, easily understood, and without multiplication of marks and accents, which tend to confuse rather than help.

Communications and inquiries as to copyrights, and also as to supplies of these works at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Compilers, at Clare Street, Bristol.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN; and all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

THE ANGLICAN HYMN-BOOK.

SECOND EDITION. REDUCED PRICES.

Words and Music, 4to, cloth, price 4s. 6d.; 18mo, 1s. 9d.; Treble, 16mo, 1s. Words only, 9d. and 6d.; paper, 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

And SIMPKIN and MARSHALL.

THE HOME HYMN-BOOK.

Second Edition, with Music, 3s. 6d. Words only, 6d. and upwards.

Dr. G. C. MARTIN: "It is one of the very best collections existing."

Dr. F. R. BATES: "I have gone carefully through the book, and like it exceedingly."

Dr. J. C. BRIDGE: "An excellent collection, and the number of hymns suitable for children is a strong feature."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

SIMPKIN, MARSHALL and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN; containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tunes; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE HYMNARY

A BOOK OF CHURCH SONG.

No.				s.	d.
1.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Bourgeois Antique.	Cloth, red edges	1 0
2.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 6
3.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 4
4.	Hymns only.	Royal 24mo.	Nonpareil Antique.	Double Columns.	0 3
5.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	...	4 0
6.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	5 0
7.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth	...	3 0
8.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	4 0
9.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	4 0
10.	Hymns with Tunes.	Demy 8vo.	Cloth, bevelled boards, gilt lettered, red edges	...	4 0

Selections of Hymns with Tunes for Advent, Christmas, Easter, and Harvest, price One Penny each.

A Discount of 20 per Cent. will be allowed to the Clergy, for Cash, when not less than six copies of one edition are taken.

Applications for permission to print the Hymns and Tunes for Choral Festivals should be addressed to the Publishers.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES for the ORGAN or HARMONIUM. Composed by G. H. SWIFT. Six Books, 1s. each; 10 pieces in each Book. "This work should be in the hands of every lover of well-written Organ Music, being without doubt the finest collection of tuneful and effective Voluntaries ever published." ALPHONSE CARY, 47 and 48, Northbrook Street, Newbury; London Branch: 87, Oxford Street, W.

Fifth Edition, enlarged. Small 4to. Price 2s., paper cover; 3s., cloth lettered.

ANGLICAN PSALTER CHANTS, Single and Double, edited by the Rev. Sir F. A. GORE OUSELEY, Bart., &c., and EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This work contains nearly 400 Chants; which are appropriated to "Venite exultemus Domino," the Daily and Proper Psalms, &c.; those for each Service occupying a separate page, and affording several Series suitable to each daily portion of the Psalter from which choice may be made. The Chants have been selected with especial reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANGLICAN CHORAL SERVICE BOOK.

Edited by E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper, 9d.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Oxford: PARKER.

Eighth Edition.

THE ANGLICAN CHANT BOOK. Edited by

E. G. MONK, Mus. Doc., Oxon. In paper cover, 1s. 6d.; cloth, 2s. 6d. Large edition, cloth, 3s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OUSELEY AND MONK'S PSALTER AND

CANTICLES, pointed for Chanting. Second Edition. Authorised by His Grace the Archbishop of York. 32mo, without Chants, 9d., with Proper Psalms, 1s.; Proper Psalms, separately, 3d.; small 4to, with Chants, 4s.; each voice part, separately, 1s. 6d. Canticles, score, small 4to, 9d.; separate parts, 3d.; words only, 24mo, 13d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;

And PARKER and Co.

Twentieth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS,

and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers. N.B.—A small edition is in preparation.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. Quarto, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition, Revised.

IMMANUEL. A Sacred Cantata, composed by

Dr. WILLIAM SPARK. Suitable for small Choral Societies, School Festivals, &c. Occupies in performance about one hour. Vocal Score, 2s.; Chorus Parts, 6d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.: Orchestral Parts for a small Band. For price and use of Full Score, &c., apply to the Publisher, JOHN HEYWOOD, Deansgate, Manchester.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"Altogether this composition of the Leeds borough organist reflects the greatest credit on his skill as a musician, and I doubt not, as it is tolerably easy of execution, that it will become extremely popular."—Musical Standard."The work is simple in so far as its execution lies within the power of those of modest vocal accomplishment; while at the same time it has a refinement and a dignity which can only be the result of careful elaboration, exhibiting as it does great artistic charm and sound musical scholarship."—Scotsman.

THE SECOND PART OF IMMANUEL is now in the press, and will probably be issued about Christmas by the publisher, JOHN HEYWOOD, Deansgate, Manchester; and 11, Paternoster Buildings, London.

Tenth Thousand. Dr. SPARK's popular Anthem, suitable for loyal and festive occasions, BEHOLD, O GOD OUR DEFENDER. Royal 8vo. Price Threepence, Post-free.

MUSICIANS KNIGHTED and SLIGHTED, including particulars of English and Foreign Degrees and Universities; and the attack on a foreign Graduate, with all correspondence thereon, opinions, and testimonial. 2s. 9d. (Parcel Post). from Dr. FOWLE, Walcot Villa, Ryde, I.W. Numerous writers are thanked for kind letters.

RULES IN RHYMES AND ROUNDS, or

Precept and Example combined in Easy Progressive Rounds. By J. POWELL METCALFE. Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.

An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts
for Pianoforte and Harmonium

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT

PRICE SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Fourth Edition. Seventh and Eighth Thousand.

AS PERFORMED BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL
CHORAL SOCIETY.

JOAN OF ARC

AN HISTORICAL AND DRAMATIC CANTATA

WORDS BY

FREDERICK ENOCH

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The particularly tuneful music to which Mr. Gaul has set the words drew forth enthusiastic plaudits. . . . Of the Cantata, as interpreted last evening (in the Town Hall, Leeds, with a band and chorus of 250 performers), it is impossible to speak in terms of anything but praise. Solos, part-songs, and choruses alike are full of melody, while the orchestration is descriptive to a degree. The opening chorus, illustrative of a May-day festival, is both bright and sparkling; while the music to 'The Voices' is full of passion. For each of the principal vocalists there is one song that singles itself out, and each received an encore. Joan's song—a retrospect—brimming over with pathos, was sung by Miss Leighton with an intensity of feeling that awoke all the enthusiasm of her hearers. The orchestra accompanied most efficiently, and a word of praise is due to Dr. Spark, who presided at the organ. Mr. Godson is to be congratulated upon having scored another great success."—Leeds Mercury, Nov. 7, 1888.

"The theme is one of the most romantic in the pages of history. In the earlier and poetic passages there is something of the charm of Sir Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen.' The last chorus is set to music which would be not unworthy of the great masters."—Herts and Cambridge Reporter.

"An advance on the earlier work, 'The Holy City.' . . . The choruses are written with much knowledge of effect, and an 'Ave Maria,' and the final chorus of the 'Spirit Voices' may be named as really charming."—Athenæum.

"Joan of Arc' is a work which is bound to be widely taken up, doubtless to attain which end the composer has employed but three soloists, and has given a more than usually large degree of importance to the choral work. . . . The 'Ave Maria' is singularly beautiful."—London Figaro.

"Obviously written with a special view to the requirements of choral societies, and likely to become highly popular."—Daily News.

"Calculated to delight performers and listeners, being full of melody and taking effects."—Referee.

"Must enhance the high reputation of its composer."—Liverpool Courier.

"The inspiration of a highly-refined musician. . . . The Cantata is even a more masterly and beautiful work than 'The Holy City.'"—Huddersfield Examiner.

"No more charming Cantata than 'Joan of Arc' could have been chosen. It abounds in delicious music. There is not a tedious note in it."—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Chronicle.

"Gives the listener a vivid and realistic impression, its attractiveness being continuous instead of spasmodic."—Bradford Observer.

"The choruses are always effectively written—the solos are extremely melodious; deserves, and will probably achieve, great popularity."—Newcastle-on-Tyne Daily Journal.

"It would not be surprising if it attained to even the almost phenomenal popularity of 'The Holy City'; contains a similar wealth of melody and effective part-writing."—Birmingham Daily Times.

"Reading the score convinces us that it is our townsman's greatest production. . . . Could have been originated by none but a born melodist."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"A distinct advance upon Mr. Gaul's previous work in cantata form. . . . A constant flow of exquisite melodies and effective choral writing."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"Now with matured experience and ripened scholarship he gives to the town which has received and welcomed his first triumphs his magnum opus, 'Joan of Arc.'"—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"The Cantata, from the first bar to the last, is rich in melody, beautiful harmonic combinations, and clever orchestration. The beautiful 'Ave Maria' is a splendid example of pure and fervent church music, but there are so many exquisite points of merit in Mr. Gaul's latest work that they hardly need detailing. Taking the work as a whole, it bids fair to become a great favourite with all choral societies."—Birmingham Weekly Post.

"A thoroughly melodious work, and should find favour with choral societies. It is not difficult to sing, and contains sufficient variety to keep up the interest to the end."—Manchester Guardian.

Price, paper covers, 2s. 6d.; ditto, boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100. (Ent. Sta. Hall.)

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

CALLIRHOË

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

THE WORDS BY W. BARCLAY SQUIRE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 2s. 6d.; Paper Boards, 3s.; Cloth, 4s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. 6d. Vocal Parts, each 1s.

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 32s. 6d. Full Score, MS.

(Wind parts arranged for the Harmonium, in the Press.)

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The success of Dr. Bridge's Cantata is beyond dispute, and we shall probably hear much of it during the approaching season.

THE DAILY NEWS.

It ought to take very high rank among the popular cantatas of the modern repertory. In the provinces and among ordinary choral societies there is little doubt that "Callirhoë" will be in immediate demand, not only because the choral work is so sympathetic and effective, but also because it really needs the engagement of only two artists out of the usual quartet, the contralto having very little and the baritone nothing to do.

MORNING POST.

Will doubtless find a speedy welcome among choral societies.

THE STANDARD.

Dr. Bridge is anything 'but a Wagnerite; but he has escaped the shadow of the cloisters in all this exciting music which is perfectly modern in its free development and display of passion.

THE ATHENÆUM.

May be strongly recommended to the notice of choral societies, as certain to interest them and their audiences.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"Callirhoë" brings to light a native composer who has fancy and originality in addition to thorough knowledge of the technical means by which these inestimable gifts are calculated to yield artistic benefit.

THE GLOBE.

There can be little doubt that his new Cantata will, ere long, become popular in all parts of the country.

THE GUARDIAN.

Dr. Bridge's new composition will take high rank among his works, for he has written it with much knowledge of vocal and instrumental effect, and no small power of graphic delineation.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

I think "Callirhoë" should win success with choral societies, for it is fresh and fanciful, and it only needs two leading singers, a soprano and a tenor. Local talent might be utilised for the small contralto part.

SUNDAY TIMES.

"Callirhoë" was received with every sign of delight. The composer, who conducted, had a rapturous recall, and the choir, after singing his music con amore, cheered him with frantic warmth. It was a first-rate performance.

FIGARO.

The work is one of which the Westminster Abbey Organist should be proud.

MUSICAL WORLD.

Melodic charm and modern harmonic effects. The solos for the soprano are exceptionally pleasing.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE MESSIAH

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 1 of NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD ORATORIOS & CANTATAS

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR GEORGE A. MACFARREN.

THE ONLY EDITION AS PERFORMED.

THE CREATION

THE PERFORMING EDITION, 2s.

No. 2 of NEW EDITION of STANDARD ORATORIOS and CANTATAS.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged, and the whole Edited and Revised, with Historical and Analytical Preface, by

SIR G. A. MACFARREN.

*Prospectuses of Series gratis and Post-free.TWELVE TWO-PART SONGS

FOR LADIES' AND BOYS' VOICES,

with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Written, composed, and dedicated to Sir GEORGE A. MACFARREN by his Pupil, SINCLAIR DUNN.

Price 2d. each.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| No. 1. Come to the woodlands. | No. 7. Lovely Spring. |
| " 2. O come, let us sing. | " 8. Baby dear. |
| " 3. Where bluebells grow. | " 9. Marching along. |
| " 4. The Lily of the Valley. | " 10. Evening's Starlight. |
| " 5. The Snowdrop. | " 11. Rest in Thee. |
| " 6. Merry Maidens. | " 12. Where the roses bloom. |

Just published, 1s.

THE MUSIC CLASS; OR, SIGHT SINGER.FOR THE USE OF SINGING CLASSES, CHOIRMASTERS, &c., BY SINCLAIR DUNN.

An easy, systematic course of instruction for teaching to read Music at Sight in a few lessons.

A large reduction for quantities.

SECOND EDITION. NOW READY.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat

BY

HAYDN GROVER

OF THE TEMPLE CHOIR, LONDON.

Sung in Westminster Abbey; the Temple Church; St. Stephen's, Westbourne Park; Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly, W.; also in several Provincial Cathedrals and Collegiate Choirs.

The Musical Review, May 30, 1885, says:—"Mr. Haydn Grover has written a good Service, and has succeeded in his evident intention to give due effect to the varying expression of the words. The Gloria to the Magnificat is in unison with free organ accompaniment, the melody being bold and coming in with fine effect after the 'verse' preceding. Mr. Grover has evidently profited by the traditions of the Temple Church, and has given us an Evening Service of sterling merit."

PRICE FOURPENCE.

JUST PUBLISHED. Price 3d.

THE ANGEL'S SONG

SACRED PART-SONG, WITH SOPRANO SOLO,

FOR CHRISTMAS,

COMPOSED BY

RICHARD HARVEY.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Price Threepence.

UP, UP, AWAKE!

FOUR-PART HUNTING SONG

COMPOSED BY

RICHARD HARVEY.

PERFORMING EDITION.

THE MESSIAH

AN ORATORIO

COMPOSED BY

HANDEL.THE BAND PARTS from the Original Score, with the additions by MOZART.

The Bowing and Fingering marked by

ALFRED BURNETT.

The Instrumentation slightly amplified, and the whole Edited by

G. A. MACFARREN.

First Violin	3 0	Horns	...
Second Violin	3 0	Trumpets	...
Viola	3 0	Trombones, A.T.B. ...	...
Violoncello and Bass ...	3 0	Drums	...
Flutes	...	Treble	...
Oboes	...	Alto	...
Clarinets	...	Tenor	...
Bassoons	...	Bass	...

VOCAL SCORE, EDITED BY G. A. MACFARREN.

Octavo, paper covers, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth gilt, 4s.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ORGAN

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

This work has been designed to meet the wants of those Organists who have to play organs more or less incomplete. The whole of the pieces may be played, therefore, upon organs with two keyboards; many of them, by a little management, upon organs with only one. The pedal is, of course, indispensable. It has been the aim to make all the pieces thoroughly playable, and as easy as was consistent with their due effect.

Nos. 1 to 16 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

*Lists gratis and Post-free.THE ORGAN JOURNAL

By W. J. WESTBROOK, MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

The pieces here provided are of moderate difficulty, may be played upon organs with two keyboards and pedals, and appear for the first time in any publication for the organ, almost without exception.

Nos. 1 to 8 now ready. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

*Lists gratis and Post-free.SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The book of the season."—Vienna News.SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The famous tenor's book is full of interest."—Dramatic Review."Mr. Sims Reeves is an admirable narrator."—Morning Advertiser."His name is familiar to the lips as household words."—Observer.SIMS REEVES: his Life. By Himself."The gifted artist can scarcely fail to interest the many legions of his admirers."—Sunday Times."The anecdotes are highly dramatic."—Entr'acte.EASY CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

Just published. NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEM.

FOR UNTO YOU IS BORN THIS DAY. By
SINCLAIR DUNN. Melodious and easy. Price 3d.

Just published. Price 3d.

CHRISTMAS COMES BUT ONCE A YEAR.—
Canon for Three Voices. By REV. CHARLES R. WARD.

Just published. Price 3d. New Anthem for Christmas.

THIS DAY IS BORN. Composed by Sir GEORGE
MACFARREN.

New Christmas Anthem, now ready.

GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST. By
S. C. COOKE. For Parish Choirs. Full, easy, and effective.
Price 3d.

Just published. Price 4d. New Anthem for Christmas.

AND IT CAME TO PASS. By ARTHUR SIMMS.
Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Just published. New Anthem for Christmas.

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.
Composed by HARRY DANCEY. Price 3d.SERVICES.—Te Deum in D, for the use of Parish
Choirs W. H. Draycott 3d.

Te Deum, Jubilate, and Kyrie. Chant Form F. Austin 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 1, in D S. C. Cooke 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 2, in E flat S. C. Cooke 4d.

Te Deum, in Chant Form, No. 3, in D S. C. Cooke 4d.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G S. C. Ridley 4d.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, in Unison Harry Dancey 3d.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D Matthew Kingston 3d.

THE CHOIRBOY'S MANUAL, for rapidly
acquiring Sight Singing. By SINCLAIR DUNN. Price 2d.

THE CHRISTIAN PILGRIM

A SACRED CANTATA

COMPOSED BY

J. E. NEWELL.

PREFACE.

The growing custom of performing complete works in places of public worship has led the composer of "The Christian Pilgrim" to hope that his Cantata may be found acceptable in choirs, where the larger and more difficult works of the great masters are often inadmissible; it contains twenty-four numbers of solo and concerted pieces, and can be effectively rendered, with either Pianoforte or Organ accompaniment.

The words are selected passages of Holy Writ and well-known hymns, and are intended to portray the life of the Christian Pilgrim, through the many trials and temptations that beset him on his Heavenly way, to the final triumph of eternal life.

No.	PART I.	No.	PART II.
1.	Prelude.	13.	Fight the good fight (Chorus).
2.	Pilgrim's here and strangers we (Chorus & Soprano Solo).	14.	I'm but a stranger here (Soprano Solo & Chorus).
3.	Grant that in the stranger's land (Chorale).	15.	Strangers and Pilgrims (Chorus).
4.	As when the weary traveller (Contralto Solo).	16.	Prepared the trumpet's call to greet (March Chorus).
5.	I was wandering and weary (Tenor & Contralto Solo & Chorus).	17.	The Lord my pasture shall prepare (Tenor Solo).
6.	Love not the world (Quartet).	18.	Yea, tho' I walk (Quartet).
7.	Beset with snares (Chorus).	19.	It is near, it is near (Chorus).
8.	Of as I look upon the road (Bass Solo).	20.	Dear Lord, I see my home (Soprano Solo).
9.	Lead us not into temptation (Chorus).	21.	Blessed are the pure in heart (Chorus—Female Voices).
10.	Blessed is the man (Duet—Tenor and Bass).	22.	I have fought a good fight (Bass Solo).
11.	Flee from evil (Chorus)	23.	Thine for ever (Duet—Soprano & Contralto).
12.	The Pilgrims' March.	24.	The gates, the gates are open (Chorus).

FINIS.

MAY BE PERFORMED FREELY EVERYWHERE.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s. ; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d. ; ditto, scarlet cloth, 3s. 6d. ; choruses only, 1s.
Orchestral parts in the Press.

LONDON: ORSBORN AND TUCKWOOD, 64, BERNERS STREET, W.

WORKS BY

JOHN FARMER,

ORGANIST AT BALLIOL COLLEGE, OXFORD, AND DIRECTOR OF THE HARROW MUSIC SCHOOL.

	s.	d.
HARROW SCHOOL SONGS complete	3	0
HARROW GLEE BOOK	3	0
NURSERY RHYMES. 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Sets each	1	0
CINDERELLA. Fairy Opera	3	0
CHRIST AND HIS SOLDIERS. Oratorio	3	0
Chorus parts	1	0
REQUIEM	2	0

JUST OUT.

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO 3 0

For Men's Voices, with Solos—for The Mouse (Alto), The Frog (Tenor), The Rat (Bass), with an Accompaniment for String Instruments and Piano or for Piano alone.

Chorus parts	1	0
String parts	0	6
The same for Mixed Voices	3	0

(With Accompaniment for String Instruments.)

And also for Female Voices, ditto 3 0

AND ALL OTHER WORKS ARE PUBLISHED BY

JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, BERNERS STREET, W.

Now Ready. Small 4to, price 1s. Vocal Parts, 12mo, price 6d. each. 1st and 2nd Series, bound together, cloth, 2s. 9d. Vocal Parts, 1st and 2nd Series, bound together in limp cloth, 1s. 4d. each.

SECOND SERIES.

THE

CANTICLES AND HYMNS OF THE CHURCH,

POINTED FOR CHANTING, AND SET TO APPROPRIATE ANGLICAN CHANTS, SINGLE AND DOUBLE

TOGETHER WITH

RESPONSES TO THE COMMANDMENTS

EDITED BY THE

REV. SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY, BART., M.A.,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK.

This Work contains a Selection of Double (besides additional Single) Chants; together with special settings of "Benedicite," and a collection of Kyrie Eleisons, old and new.

This pointing of the Canticles is authorised by his Grace the Archbishop of York.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORGAN SOLOS by IRVINE DEARNALEY.

INTRODUCTION, VARIATIONS, AND FUGUE ON "JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN."

3s. net.

VARIATIONS, FUGHETTA, AND CANON ON "AURELIA."
2s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

INSCRIBED, BY PERMISSION, TO MADAME SCHUMANN.

THE CELEBRATED

LARGHETTO

FROM SCHUMANN'S B FLAT SYMPHONY

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY

W. LYLE BIGGS,

Organist of St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford.

Price 1s. 6d. net. Post-free from the ARRANGER, 8, Queen St., Oxford.

OFFERTOIRE

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DR. SPARK begs to announce the commencement in January, with important Original Compositions, a New Volume (Eleventh) of THE ORGANIST'S QUARTERLY JOURNAL. Subscribers, 2s. 6d.; Non, 5s. Names may be sent to Novello, Ewer and Co., or the EDITOR, Newton Park, Leeds.

W. T. BEST'S ORGAN PIECES. Each net 1s. Christmas Pastorale (Cecilia, 37); Concert Fantasy on Old English Airs (39); A Christmas Fantasy on Old English Carols. London: AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street, E.C., and 1, Foubert's Place, W.

Just published.

PROCESSIONAL MARCH

FROM

CALLIRHOË

COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc.

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THEORY OF MUSIC

Specially prepared for Candidates for the various Local Examinations

BY LOUISA GIBSON.

To meet the daily increasing demand for cheap TEXT BOOKS each part is now sold at the reduced price: paper, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

First Book (with Addenda), Elements of Music;

Second Book, Triads, &c.;

Third Book, Chords of 7th to Counterpoint.

"It may safely be accepted as an authority."—The late Sir G. Macfarren.

"Real marvels of brevity and practical utility."—E. Aguilar, Esq.

London: WEEKES and Co.; NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUVENILE ALBUM

EIGHT CHARACTERISTIC PIECES

(FOUR HANDS)

The Primo Part being generally within the Compass of Five Notes

BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

(NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS, No. 26.)

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE
BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1888.

JUDITH

OR, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH

AN ORATORIO

BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, 5s; Paper Boards, 6s.;
Cloth, 7s. 6d.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. 6d.

	s.	d.
First Violin...	...	7 0
Second Violin ...	...	6 6
Viola ...	...	6 6
Violoncello and Double Bass ...	...	9 6

IN THE PRESS.

Flutes.	Trumpets, 1 and 2.
Oboes.	" 3 and 4.
Clarinets.	Trombones, A. and T.
Bass Clarinet.	" Bass.
Bassoons.	Tuba.
Double Bassoons.	Drums.
Horns, 1 and 2.	Harp.
" 3 and 4.	Organ.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Staff Notation Edition. Fifteenth Thousand.

RUTH

A PASTORAL CANTATA

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM,
ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. The gratuitous loan of Band Parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform this Cantata and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE TRAINING OF BOYS' VOICES

BY

STOCKS HAMMOND, F.S.A.

(A Lecture recently given before the Guild of Organists, London).

"The best work on the subject we have yet seen."—Daily News.

"Should be in the hands of every choirmaster."—Yorkshireman.

Price Threepence, from Messrs. A. HAMMOND and Co., 5, Vigo Street, London, W.; or the AUTHOR, Frizinghall, Bradford.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE SATURDAY CONCERTS.

BENEDICTUS

ARRANGED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA BY THE COMPOSER FROM

SIX PIECES FOR VIOLIN

With Pianoforte Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 37.)

Full Score, 5s.; Orchestral Parts, 3s. 6d.;

Also, as originally written for Violin Solo with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 1s. 6d.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TROIS MORÇEAUX

POUR

PIANOFORTE

PAR

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

1. Petite Scène de Ballet. 2. Romance. 3. Scherzo.

Price Three Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO TEACHERS, SCHOOLS, &c.

Price, complete, 2s. net; or, singly, each 6d. net.

SIX SHORT AND EASY PIECES, in Two Parts, for the Pianoforte, composed expressly for the use of Young Children, the compass for the right hand being within the octave, by

E. A. SYDENHAM.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"These charming little pieces . . . will insensibly lead forth the musical capabilities of young players."—Musical Times.

"Sufficiently excellent in scope and character to deserve warm approbation and achieve considerable success."—Leeds Mercury.

"Very graceful melodies."—Glasgow Herald.

"Little gems for little learners."—Northampton Mercury.

"Well calculated to advance the pupil by separate stages."—Dundee Advertiser.

"The melodies are graceful and delicate."—The Schoolmaster.

 A special reduction made to Teachers and Schools for quantities.

Address, COMPOSER, Florence Villa, Whittington Road,
Bowes Park, N.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just published.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST CLAIR FORD.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SHIPWRECK

(BIRMINGHAM PRIZE GLEE)

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Fourpence.

The gratuitous loan of Orchestral Parts, as also the same arranged as Pianoforte Duet, may be had on application to the Composer.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW LEGITIMATE TEACHING METHOD.

GILHAM'S KEYBOARD INSTRUCTOR.

PATENTED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

Price 2s. 6d.; Post-free, 2s. 9d.

HOW TO PLAY THE PIANO, ORGAN, OR HARMONIUM in the shortest time and easiest and simplest manner.

WALTER SCOTT, 24, Warwick Lane, London; and FELLING, Newcastle-on-Tyne, England.

NEW ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

CONCERT EDITION—Haydn's Symphony, No. 7 in Saloman's set, will be ready December 1.

CONCERT AND ENTR'ACTE PIECES.

	Full Orch.	Oct. s. d.	Piano Solo.	Extra Parts. s. d.
LANGLEY, O.—Chant Pathétique. Violin Solo. A sequel to Raff's Cavatina ...	2 0 ... 1 4 ...	—	... 0 3
DODSWELL, S.—La Fée. Pizzicato ...	2 0 ... 1 4 ...	2 0 ... 0 3
WALLACE, V.—Maritana. Overture ...	3 4 ... 2 8 ...	0 8 ... 0 4
—Grand Selection on Maritana, arr. by E. W. Ritter ...	5 0 ... —	2 0 ... 0 6
—Special Conductor Part, 1s. extra.
LECOCO—Selection from the popular Opera "Pepita," arr. by J. Pougher ...	3 4 ... 2 8 ...	0 8 ... 0 4
LE THIÈRE, C.—The Maypole Dance. A bright, characteristic English Dance	2 0 ... 1 4 ...	2 0 ... 0 3
—Sunrise in Summer. Pastoral Fantasy, introducing bird effects, and Xylophone Solo ...	2 0 ... 1 4 ...	2 0 ... 0 3
—Our Regiment. March ...	1 4 ... 1 0 ...	2 0 ... 0 2
—Libua. March ...	1 4 ... 1 0 ...	2 0 ... 0 2

Two fine common time marches by this popular composer; spirited, melodious, and not difficult.

SUPPÉ, F.—The Devil's March. From the comic Opera, "The Devil on Earth" ...

BINDING, E.—The Spanish Review. Military Fantasia ...

Contents: The first band is heard gradually approaching—They arrive on Parade followed by a Drum and Fife Band—"Las Sevillanas" is then performed, with castanet acc.—Another military band is then heard coming, and on their arrival (after two rolls with the drums) the troops march past, the combined bands playing the Spanish national march "El Bilboa," after which, headed by the Fifes and Drums, they march away, and gradually disappear.

ZELLER, CARL.—Alwina. Intermezzo. A taking entr'acte piece ...

LANGLEY, OTTO.—Melody Romanticque. An exceptionally fine composition, in this composer's best style.

PETERS, WILHELM.—Whisperings by the Sea Shore (Strandmarchen). Fantasia ...

Contents: Evening by the Sea Shore—Nocturne, Cello Solo—Song of the Water Nymphs—The Castle in the Sea, Ballad for Violin Solo—Mermaids' Dance—Storm—Thanksgiving Hymn for safe return.

MARTINI.—Les Moutons. Celebrated Gavotte, arr. by O. Langey. Very quaint and old-fashioned ...

VIOLINS.

The PROFESSOR VIOLINS, two and three guineas each.

The CONCERT VIOLINS, four and six guineas each.

The above are specially made for Artists and Soloists, and are strongly recommended.

LADY'S VIOLINS, 21s., 28s., 42s., to six guineas.

STUDENT'S VIOLINS, in all sizes, 21s., 16s., and 12s.

VIOLIN BOWS,

French and German make, 2s., 3s., 4s., 6s., 12s., and 16s.

Violin Bows for Concert use, selected Pernambuco sticks, mounted in sterling silver, carefully copied from original Bows of the following celebrated makers: Vuillaume model, 21s.; Tourte model, 21s.; Lupot model, 21s.

HAWKES AND SONS' ARTIST'S VIOLIN BOW, specially made on the celebrated Dodd model, leather-lapped, silver-mounted, £1 11s. 6d.; gold-mounted, £3 3s.

VIOLIN CASES.

Wooden, 5s., 6s., 8s., 12s., 16s., 21s. to 84s.; leather, 32s. and 40s.; patent lock, 4s. extra.

VIOLIN STRINGS.

Real Italian: The "Sonority," E, 16s., A, 16s., D, 18s. per bundle.

E silk strings: The "Excelsior" silk string, specially manufactured for moist hands and hot climates, four full lengths, 82 in. long, 10s. per bundle.

French and German strings: E, 4s., 5s., 6s., 8s. and 10s. per bundle; A, 5s., 8s. and 12s. per bundle; D, 6s., 10s. and 15s. per bundle; G, 1s. 6d., 3s. and 4s. per dozen.

IMPROVED VIOLIN TAILPIECE.

Tailpiece and button in one—no gut. Produces increase of tone; greater vibration. Is not affected by the weather. Is light and durable. Keeps the bridge and post in perfect position. Five shillings each, complete.

RIVIERE AND HAWKES, 28, LEICESTER SQUARE, W.C.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s. d.
BACHMANN, G.—"La Tunisienne." Grand March for Piano-forte ...	5 0
BUNGER, A.—Songs by Carmen Sylva. For one Voice and Piano-forte. Op. 35. Two books ...	3 0
CARMAN, M.—"Petit péché Mignon." Bluettes for Piano-forte ...	3 0
—The same. For Hautboy or Violin and Piano-forte ...	3 0
—The same. For small Orchestra ...	2 0
—Caprice Gavotte. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—Marche militaire. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—Arranged for Piano-forte Duet ...	5 0
—Military Band ...	3 0
CHOPIN, F.—Funeral March. Arranged for Piano-forte and Harmonium by J. Doeber ...	4 0
FABRICIUS, J.—Serenade. For Violin and Piano-forte ...	3 0
FRIMMEL, TH.—"Neue Beethoveniana." Bound in cloth, net ...	14 0
GERNSHEIM, F.—"The Grave in the Buesento." For Male Chorus and Orchestra. Op. 52. English and German words:—
Full score ...	net 12 0
Vocal score ...	8 0
Vocal parts (one set) ...	4 0
GIGOUT, E.—Hundred Short Pieces. In plain chant tonalité. For Organ or Harmonium ...	3 0
HEGNER, A.—Romance. For Violin and Piano-forte. Op. 2 ...	3 0
HENRIQUES, F.—Six Piano-forte Pieces. Op. 1 ...	3 0
JULLIEN, A.—"Hector Berlioz: sa Vie et ses Œuvres." Containing 14 original lithographs, 12 portraits, and 122 engravings. One vol. Large 8vo ...	32 0
KLEIN, B. O.—Eight German Volkslieder. Composed for Voice and Piano-forte. Op. 9. English and German words net ...	4 0
—"Jodeler's Greeting." Op. 399. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"Les Hirondelles." Idylle. Op. 400. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"La Châtelaine." Menuet. Op. 401. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"La Savoyarde." Op. 402. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"When two have met." Op. 403. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"Heimathsglocken." Réverie. Op. 404. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"Farewell, ye mountains." Op. 405. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
—"Waldreigen." Op. 406. For Piano-forte ...	3 0
LASSEN, E.—Concerto for Violin and Orchestra. Op. 87. Full score, 30s.; Orchestral parts, 24s.; for Violin and Piano-forte ...	18 0
MARKULL, F. W.—"Roland's Horn." Cantata. For Male Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Op. 136. Vocal Score, with English words ...	2 6
MATTHISON-HANSEN, G.—Scherzo and Minuetto Grazioso. For Piano-forte. Op. 20 ...	4 0
MERCY, ARGENTEAU DE.—"César Cui." Esquisse critique ...	8 0
MICHIELS, G.—"Divertissement Russe." Ballet. For Piano-forte ...	4 0
MOHR, H.—"The Thunderstorm." Cantata. For Male Chorus, Baritone Solo, and Piano-forte. English and German words ...	8 0
MOOR, E.—Sixteen Songs. For one Voice and Piano-forte. Op. 13. English and German words ...	5 0 —Serenade. For String Orchestra (two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello). Op. 16:—
Score ...	net 2 0
Parts ...	3 0
NÉRUDA, F.—Five Piano-forte Pieces. Op. 26 ...	5 0
—Hungarian Rhapsody. For Violin or Violoncello and Piano-forte. Op. 44 ...	5 0
RAVNKILDE, N.—Romance. For Violin and Piano-forte ...	2 0
REINHARD, A.—Three Sonatinas. For Harmonium. Op. 38 each ...	3 0
REINECKE, C.—"From the Cradle to the Grave." Sixteen Characteristic Pieces. For Piano-forte Solo or Duet. Op. 202:—

No.	Solo.	Duet.	No.	Solo.	Duet.
1. Child's Dreams ...	2 0 ... 3 0		9. The House Warm-ing ...	2 0 ... 3 0
2. Play and Dance ...	2 0 ... 3 0		10. Silent happiness ...	2 0 ... 2 0
3. In Granny's Chamber ...	2 0 ... 3 0		11. Dreary days ...	2 0 ... 2 0
4. Vigorous work ...	2 0 ... 3 0		12. Consolation ...	2 0 ... 2 0
5. In church ...	2 0 ... 3 0		13. Birthday March ...	2 0 ... 2 0
6. Out in the world ...	2 0 ... 3 0		14. Silver crowned ...	2 0 ... 2 0
7. O, lovely May ...	2 0 ... 3 0		15. Setting sun ...	2 0 ... 2 0
8. Bridal procession ...	2 0 ... 3 0		16. Ad Astra ...	2 0 ... 2 0
SCHULTZ, E.—Easter Morning. Chorus for Male Voices, with Piano-forte. English and German Words ...				8 0
SCHYTTÉ, L.—Danish Jubilee March. For Piano-forte ...				4 0
—Jubilee Gavotte. For Piano-forte ...				4 0
SJÖGREN, E.—Novellettes. Six Piano-forte Pieces. Op. 14. Two Books ...				each 4 0
—"Wanderbilder." Op. 15. For Piano-forte ...				6 0
SPINDLER, F.—Quintet for Piano-forte, Hautboy, Clarinet, Horn, and Bassoon. Op. 360 ...				21 0
STURM, WILH.—"A Legend of the Rhine." Cantata for Chorus (Male Voices) and Orchestra. Op. 65. English and German Words:—
Full Score, with Vocal Score ...				net 10 0
Vocal Parts (one set) ...				4 0
WAGNER.—"Gesammelte Schrifter und Dichtungen." Ten Vols., bound in cloth ...				each net 3 6
WALDMANN, L.—"The Little Fishermen." Song, with Piano-forte Accompaniment, for high or medium voice. English words ...				3 0
—The same for Piano-forte Solo ...				3 0
—The same for Piano-forte Duet ...				3 0
—The same for Piano-forte and Violin or Flute ...				3 0
—The same for Orchestra ...				net 4 6

Sold at half-price if not marked net.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, LEWIS AND CO.

CHAPPELL AND CO.'S WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NEW NUMBERS OF
VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

112. The Torpedo and the Whale. ("Olivette"). S. Solo. S.A.T.B. Audran 4d.	106. Cupid swallowed. Madrigal. A.T.B.B. Ch. Santley 4d.
111. Love will find out the way. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 2d.	105. Chorus of Maidens (from "Isaias"). S.S.C.C. Mancinelli 4d.
110. Victoria—our Queen. S.A.T.B. J. Barnby 3d.	104. Prelude and Chorus of Maidens (from "Isaias"). S.S.C.C. Mancinelli 4d.
109. Praise ye the Father (Marche Romaine adapted for Chorus). S.A.T.B. Ch. Gounod 2d.	103. Sailor's Grave. S.A.T.B. John H. Gower 3d.
108. Hunting Chorus (from "Fridolin"). C.T.T.B.B. A. Randegger 4d.

POPULAR NUMBERS.

4. British Grenadiers. S.A.T.B. G. A. Macfarren 2d.	72. Hearts of oak G. A. Macfarren 1d.
8. Soldiers' Chorus. T.T.B.B. Gounod 4d.	80. Christ is risen (Easter Anthem). S.A.T.B. Berlioz 3d.
9. The Kermesse (Scene from "Faust") 6d.	81. When the sun sets o'er the mountains ("Il Demonio") A. Rubinstein 3d.
10. Up, quit thy bower. S.A.T.B. Brinley Richards 4d.	82. Hymn of Nature Beethoven 3d.
14. The Gipsy Chorus Balfe 4d.	83. Michaelmas Day (Humorous Part-Songs, No. 1) Walter Maynard 4d.
21. An old Church Song. S.A.T.B. 2d.	84. Sporting Notes (Humorous Part-Songs, No. 2) .. 4d.
22. Sabbath Bells. S.A.T.B. 2d.	91. The Star of Bethlehem (Christmas Carol) T. L. Clemens 2d.
23. Serenade. S.A.T.B. 2d.	92. Busy, curious, thirsty Fly. T.A.T.B. 3d.
28. March of the Men of Harlech. S.A.T.B. Dr. Rimbault 1d.	93. Love wakes and weeps. A.T.B.B. Felix W. Morley 2d.
29. God save the Queen. S.A.T.B. 1d.	94. Brother, thou art gone before us Arthur Sullivan 6d.
30. Rule, Britannia! S.A.T.B. 1d.	95. Come away with willing feet... .. 6d.
34. Market Chorus ("Masaniello"). S.A.T.B. Auber 4d.	96. Madrigal (from "Mikado") 6d.
35. The Prayer ("Masaniello"). S.A.T.B. 1d.	97. Three little maids (ditto) 6d.
51. Charity (La Carità). S.S.S. Rossini 4d.	98. Climbing over rocky mountains (from "The Pirates of Penzance") .. 6d.
57. The Chough and Crow Sir H. R. Bishop 3d.	100. Hunting Chorus Alfred Cellier 2d.
58. The "Carnovale" Rossini 2d.	101. Songs from Orval Isidore de Lara 6d.
65. Dame Durden 1d.	102. Madrigal (from "Ruddigore") Arthur Sullivan 6d.
66. A little Farm well tilled Hook 1d.
67. There was a simple maiden G. A. Macfarren 1d.
69. Once I loved a maiden fair 1d.
71. The oak and the ash 1d.

COMPLETE LIST ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

The present Collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small Classes.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE,

LECTURER ON VOCAL PHYSIOLOGY AND TEACHER OF VOICE-PRODUCTION,

AND

CHARLES W. PEARCE,

MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

IN SEPARATE BOOKS, FOR SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO, TENOR, BARITONE, & BASS.
Price Eighteenpence. In Cloth Boards, Three Shillings.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.

ISAIAS. Oratorio. Words by ALBINI (Translation by J. BENNETT). The Music composed by MANCINELLI. Written expressly for the Norwich Festival of 1887. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s.

FAUST. A Dramatic Legend. By HECTOR BERLIOZ. A new Edition of this celebrated Work at a greatly reduced price. Paper, 3s. 6d.; cloth, 5s. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY. A Cantata. By ALFRED CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama. Words selected from MILMAN'S Poems. The Music composed by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Price, in paper cover, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

GOD IS LOVE. A new Edition of this popular Cantata. Words selected from the Sacred Poets. Music composed by Mrs. J. ROBINSON. Price 3s. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net; Harmonium Part, 1s. 6d. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS. Cantata. Written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY. Music composed by GEO. FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net; separate Voice Parts, 6d. net.

ORCHESTRAL AND CHORUS PARTS OF THE ABOVE MAY BE HAD ON HIRE OF CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND STREET, W., AND 15, POULTRY, E.C.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, December 1, 1888.

MOST RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

PIANOFORTE SOLOS.

COULES, R. FROUDE.				s.	d.	KERBUSCH, LEO.				s.	d.
La Rose Céleste. Gavotte	...	...	...	3	0	Canzonetta in G minor	...	...	...	2	6
The Elfyn Ring. Gavotte	...	...	...	3	0	LICHNER, HEINRICH.
GURLITT, CORNELIUS.
Klänge aus Norden. Salon-Walzer. Op. 167	...	...	...	3	0	Elftanz	...	...	...	3	0
Knospen. Zwei Salonstücke. Op. 166	...	each	2	0	Frühlingstraum. Impromptu	...	...	...	...	3	0
HARDING, J. P.
The Philharmonic March	...	...	...	3	0	Im Schönen Mai. Idylle	...	...	...	3	0
HELLER, STEPHEN.						La Capricieuse. Rondo brillant	...	...	...	3	0
						Liebes-Lust und Lied. Charakterstück	...	...	...	3	0
SMITH, SYDNEY.
Capriccietto. Op. 156...	...	...	...	4	0	Au Cirque. Morceau caractéristique	...	...	...	4	0
Pavliau. Op. 155	...	...	...	4	0	Chanson de Noël. Berceuse	...	...	...	4	0
Mazurka in B minor. Op. 158	...	...	...	4	0	Idylle	...	...	...	4	0
Prelude de Chopin	...	...	...	2	6	Minuet in D	...	...	...	4	0
Trois Feuilletts d'Album. Op. 157	...	...	...	4	0	Nordisa. Transcription	...	...	...	4	0
HOLST, EDWARD.
Vera. Grand Valse de Concert	...	...	...	4	0	SONDERMANN, OTTO.
					Gavotte in G

PIANOFORTE DUETS.

BENDALL, WILFRED.					MAYER, MAX.
Fontainebleau. Court Dance	...	...	4	0	Miniatures. Op. 10:—
Polonaise in C	...	...	4	0	1. Lullaby	...	1	0	6. Spanish Dance	1	0
ERKEL.					2. March	...	2	0	7. Hunting Song	2	0
Hungarian March	...	...	4	0	3. Sicilienne	...	1	0	8. Hungarian Song	1	0
HELLER, STEPHEN.					4. Melody	...	1	0	9. Ballad	...	1	0
Six Valses. Op. 152	...	...	6	0	5. Pastoral	...	1	0	10. Minuet	...	1	0
KOWALSKI, H.					NERUDA, FRANZ.
Salut à Pesth. Marche Hongroise	...	...	5	0	Six Sketches. Op. 17. Book 1, 5s. Book 2	...	4	0
					PERRING, E.
					Fascination. Galop brillant	...	...	6	0

ALBUM FOR THE YOUNG. Forty Short Pieces for the Pianoforte. By ERNST PAUER. In two Books, price 1s. each net.

TWELVE ORIGINAL PIECES FOR THE ORGAN OR HARMONIUM. Composed by ARTHUR PAGE, F.C.O. Price 1s. net.

SONGS OF THE SEASONS. Little Songs for Little Singers. By ATHERLEY RUSH. Illustrated. Price 1s. net.

SONG FANCIES FOR CHILDREN. Words by GERTRUDE HARRADEN. Music by ETHEL HARRADEN. Illustrated Cover. Price 1s. net.

CANTATAS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

(THE CHORUSES IN TWO PARTS ONLY.)

FAIRY MUSIC. Words by G. CLIFTON BINGHAM. Music by F. N. LÖHR.

THE BELLS OF ELSINORE. Words by EDWARD OXENFORD. Music by EDMUND ROGERS. Price 1s. 6d. each net.

NEW WORKS FOR THE VIOLIN.

TUTOR. By SIEGFRIED JACOBY. Consisting of the Elementary Scales and Examples, and Exercises for Pupil and Master. Price 2s. 6d. net.

DYE, ALFRED J.					JACOBY, SIEGFRIED.
Canzonetta	...	...	...	3 0	Violin Student:—	1. Scales and Arpeggi	...	...	3 0
						2. Kreutzer. Forty Studies or Caprices	...	...	5 0
						3. Rode. Violin Concerto, No. 7	...	...	4 0
						4. Schubert. Sonatine in D	...	...	4 0
						5. Beethoven. Romance in F	...	...	3 0
GRIMSON, S. DEAN.
Technical Studies	...	...	...	3 0
HARRADEN, ETHEL.					MAYER, MAX.
Légende	...	...	...	3 0	Miniatures	...	...	...	each 1 6
Moto perpetuo	...	...	...	3 0		1. Lullaby.		4. Pastoral.
						2. Sicilienne.		5. Spanish Dance.
						3. Melody.		6. Ballad.
								7. Hungarian Song.

FORSYTH BROTHERS,

272a, Regent Circus, Oxford Street, London; and 122 & 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

METZLER & CO.,

40, 41, 42, & 43, Great Marlborough Street,

AND

33, 35, 37, & 39, Foubert's Place, Regent Street, London, W.

MANUFACTURERS AND IMPORTERS

OF

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

MUSIC PUBLISHERS, &c.

ESTABLISHED OVER A HUNDRED YEARS.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Mason & Hamlin's American Organs.

Supplied to

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN,
H.I.M. THE EMPRESS EUGENIE, and Many of the Nobility.

Used in Westminster Abbey.

Used by Dr. Stainer, &c., &c.

Mason & Hamlin's Pianos.

New System of Stringing for Extreme Climates.

Mustel's Orchestral Harmoniums.

Imitating the Tone of the different Orchestral Instruments. The most finished Harmoniums made.

Roenisch Pianos.

Musical Tone, Perfect Touch, Very Durable.

The Organo-Piano.

New Invention. Effect of Organ and Piano on the same Keyboard.

VIOLINS, VIOLONCELLOS, GUITARS, BANJOS,
ZITHERS, MANDOLINES, &c. CORNETS,
SAXOPHONES, TROMBONES, &c. DRUMS,
CYMBALS, TRIANGLES, &c. ACCORDEONS, CONCERTINAS, &c. MUSICAL BOXES.

MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Operas, Oratorios, and Cantatas.

By Gounod, Arthur Sullivan, Bizet, Caldicott,
Hatton, Clay, Cellier, Cowen, &c.

Songs and Ballads.

By Arthur Sullivan, Cellier, Blumenthal, Pinsur, Goring Thomas, Virginia Gairiel, Lawren,
Kellie, Molloy, Cowen, Barnby, &c.

Pianoforte Pieces.

By Sydney Smith, Sir J. Benedict, Sir W. Sterndale, Bennett, Cowen, Cotsford Dick, Edouard Dor,
Fontaine, Raff, Smallwood, Michael Watson, &c.

Dance Music.

By A. G. Crowe, Waldteufel, Bucalossi, May Ostler, Caroline Lowthian, Ch. Godfrey, Andrew Levy,
E. H. Prout, Warwick Williams, Mrs. Brunn, Maddison.

Tutors and Instruction Books.

For all Kinds of Instruments.

Hemy's Royal Modern Pianoforte Tutor

Dr. Stainer's American Organ Tutor

Metzler's Cheap Books of Songs,

Dance Music, &c.—The Red Album, The Mustel,
Bijou, Vocal Gems.

Part-Songs, Carols, Glee, Anthems, &c.

By Alfred Cellier, Hatton, Sullivan, Caldicott, &c.

Catalogues Gratis and Post-free on Application.

1. MASON & HAMLIN'S AMERICAN ORGANS. Illustrated throughout, and with full explanation of the different capabilities of each style.
2. HARMONIUMS. Fully illustrated, and all the Models clearly described.
3. PIANOFORTES. With illustrations and explanatory letterpress to guide in selection.
4. STRINGED, WIND, and BRASS INSTRUMENTS, FITTINGS, and SUN DRIES. Illustrated.
5. MUSIC. A Thematic Catalogue, showing the compass and character of each composition.

Liberal Discount for Cash. Shippers and the Trade supplied.

METZLER & CO.,

42, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MAY 9 1888

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 9999 08818 978 0

(Dec., 1888, 20,000)

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

One volume allowed at a time, and obtained only by card; to be kept 14 days (or seven days in the case of fiction and juvenile books published within one year) without fine; not to be renewed; to be reclaimed by messenger after 21 days, who will collect 20 cents besides fine of 2 cents a day, including Sundays and holidays; not to be lent out of the borrower's household, and not to be transferred; to be returned at this Hall.

Borrowers finding this book mutilated or unwarrantably defaced, are expected to report it; and also any undue delay in the delivery of books.

. No claim can be established because of the failure of any notice, to or from the Library, through the mail.

The record below must not be made or altered by borrower.

6/18

